Kinglake was all for war. "He used to say," says Mme. Novikoff, "that peace would emasculate the world. 'Besides,' he continued, 'population when too dense is not at its best.'" He did not like Bright. Mme. Novikoff told Kinglake one day that Bright had made a curious remark about the Crimean statue in Pall Mall. "The inscription," he had said, "should be altered. The 'a' should be put before the world 'crime' and not at the end."—London Standard.

Grief That Kills.

"My poor boy," said the beneficent old clergyman, who had encountered a young waif sobbing in the streets, "what ails you? Some case of dire distress has touched your heart chords no doubt."
"No," sniffed the lad; "you're clear off your base, old hanscocks. Me an' Snippy an' de rest of de fellies tincanned the mangy old yellow cur up at Schwartz's grocery, an' while old Schwartz an' de gang followed de dog I sneaked back to de grocery to swipe dried apples. De Fido chased into Schmitt's orchard, an' de gang cribbed de sweetest peaches you ever seen, an' den dey smoked grapevine cigarettes and set the barn afire. I made a snahay into de apple barrel at de grocery, an' de delivery boy pasted me with a bed slat, an' it hurts yet, an' I didn't get to see de fire an' didn't get nothin' to eat, an' I wisht I was dead—doggone it all!"—Bohemian Magazine.

His Advice.

A young genius named McCarthy went to Commodore Vanderbilt and gave him a suggestion which led the commodore to organize all the little railroads between New York and Chicago into one. Before McCarthy went to Vanderbilt he went to a friend for advice. Here is what his friend told him about the commodore:

"Don't let him scare ye. He's as full of power as a turbine. Has a good deal o' whir in him. Likes resistance; so does every great force. He's fought a thousand difficulties. He'll take you for another an' pitch into ye, like as not. Don't let him scare ye. If he jumps on ye, jump on him. He'll enjoy it an' begin to respect ye. It's like puttin' a belt on the turbine—you'll take off a bit of his power and ease him down."—Denver News.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Appetite Gone--Nerves Badly Run Down

A Strong Moral Well Exemplified in Mrs. Wilson's Case.

Like thousands of other people at this season of the year Mrs. E. P. Wilson was tired and worn out—winter sorely tired her health and vigor. But now she is robust and well, eats well, sleeps well, feels invigorated and braced. "For some years," writes Mrs. Wilson of Watmere, P.O., "I suffered from systematic weakness, biliousness and depressing headache. I could take little nourishment and grew thin and pale. If I ate a hearty meal the result was dreadful. Pains started at my chest, and spread all through my body going across my stomach, back and right side. I was discouraged till a friend insisted on me taking Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They made a new woman of me, and for the past eight months my health has been perfected. For a good cleaning, rejuvenating medicine I urge every one to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

There is extraordinary and magic power in Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they bring vigor, tone, health and spirits—are compounded from the most wonderful and healing juices and essence in vegetable life—are safe for young and old and guaranteed to kindle renewed activity and strength of every system that is weak, sickly or run down from kidney, liver, stomach or bladder trouble. OBITUARY

The death occurred about 11 o'clock Saturday morning of Rev. Michael Lynch, at his late residence, Reid street, The late Rev. Father Lynch, although he has been in feeble health for some time owing to his advances age passed away rather suddenly, it being only last Thursday that he was down town. His demise will be greatly regretted by a large number of persons of Peterborough. He was beloved and esteemed by all and his faithfulness to his duties as priest in his church never abated until ill health prevented him from further continuing his good work.

The late Father Lynch was in his eighty-sixty year. He was born in County Cavan, Ireland, in 1827, and came to this country when quite young. He began his education at Ste. Therese, where he spent four years. He then went to Ottawa and remained there until he completed his studies. Shortly afterwards he was ordained at Ottawa by the late Bishop Guignes, and received his first appointment at the Island of Allumettes, where he spent two years as curate to Rev. James Lynch. His first parish was that of Killey, in Leeds County. He later came to Smith's Falls, here he remained six years. He then came to the Parish of Douro, afterwards going to Cornwall, where he stayed five years. At the conclusion of his pastorate there he came to this city and remained here until the arrival of Bishop Francis Janiot, D.D. in 1882, when he retired for for a short while.

BUSY DOCTOR

Sometimes Overlooks a point.

The physician is such a busy man that he sometimes overlooks a valuable point to which his attention may be called by an intelligent patient who is a thinker.

"About a year ago my attention was called to Grape-Nuts by one of my patients," says a physician of Cincinnati.

"At the time my own health was bad and I was pretty well run down but I saw at once that the theories behind Grape-Nuts were sound and that if the food was all that was claimed, it was a perfect food.

"So I commenced to use Grape-Nuts with cream twice a day and in a short time I began to improve in every way and I am now much stronger, feel better and weigh more than ever before in my life.

"I know that all of this good is due to Grape-Nuts and I am firmly convinced that the claims made for the food are true.

"I have recommended, and still recommend, Grape-Nuts to a great many of my patients with splendid results, and in some cases the improvement of patients on this fine food has been wonderful.

"As a brain and nerve food, in fact, as a general food, Grape-Nuts stands alone."

Letter to The Editor

Sunday Dust.

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Dear Sir,—If you could explain the object the aldermen had in view when they passed that resolution to have the main streets watered on Sunday you would oblige a great many people. It is several weeks since the Board of Works was instructed to have this work done but still the dust flies in clouds thick enough to smother one. What is the use of passing resolutions if the committee does not carry them into effect.

Yours truly,
CITIZEN.

Local Option.

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Dear Sir,—I notice that the local option campaign press agents have decided to discontinue the publication of their anti-booze articles while the warm weather lasts. I do not blame the editors either. On a boiling hot day a long glass of lagar is indeed refreshing and the great majority of people appreciate it. On these grounds, if no other, it would be most difficult to get the people to believe that they could and should do without it. The winter is the better time for local option campaigns. Men forget then what they suffer from heat in the summer, and are more easily led to do that, which in their hearts they hate to do.

A great many people of the city also go up the lakes for the summer and local option is in force there. Still ice, etc., will be found in nearly all the cottages, which is just as good or even better.

Yours truly,
TEMPERANCE.

CASE OF BRONCHIAL CATARRH PROMPTLY RELIEVED BY PE-RU-NA.

MR. J. C. HERVUS PELLETIER

Bronchial Catarrh Unless Stopped Often Spreads To The Lungs, Causing Catarrh of Lungs.

J. C. Hervus Pelletier, Dep't de l'Agriculture, Ottawa, Ont., writes: "The Peruna is particularly efficacious in the cure of catarrhal affections of the lungs and bronchial tubes, and it is in consequence the remedy most appreciated here in Ottawa. Six bottles cured me this winter of bronchitis. I am completely restored and I owe thanks to the Peruna. I have recommended this remedy to a large number of my friends afflicted with the same trouble, and they have verified my good opinion of this valuable remedy."

CATARRH of the bronchial tubes often very quickly becomes catarrh of the lungs. Catarrh of the lungs makes the patient an easy victim to the germs that cause tuberculosis. Sound lungs protect themselves against disease germs.

Peruna has acquired a lasting reputation in relieving catarrh of the throat, bronchial tubes and lungs. This should prevent the tubercular bacilli from gaining any foothold in the lungs, and saves the patient from the inevitable result.

Mr. Wickliffe R. Smith, Editor of The Potlatch Herald, formerly Principal of the Schools at Cameron, Idaho, writes: "For some time I suffered with catarrh of the throat and bronchial tubes. I tried many remedies, but could find nothing that would give me relief.

"Finally I tried Peruna. Three bottles cured me, made me sound and well. I believe it will do as much for others as it did for me. I shall be glad to recommend it to those suffering with catarrh."

DR. PELKEY

Consumption Cured

And all other Lung and Kidney Troubles

By the Wonderful Discovery made by a Canadian Doctor

Dr. Pelkey, a Canadian Physician, holding medical certificates in France, United States and Mexico, has made a discovery that promises to be the greatest boon yet given to humanity.

His great Consumption Cure is applied by means of an inhaler, the ingredients for which are contained in a tank, and the very first use made of it by the patient brings immediate relief, followed quickly by permanent cure. These inhalers are not sold to the people, but are placed in the home until they are not further needed, and then taken away.

Dr. Pelkey is exhibiting the invention, which is called the Peltier Inhaler, throughout the country. The inhaler is first a platinum tank, divided into 38 compartments, into which various chemicals and drugs are placed. Outside these compartments cold water is placed. The action of the cold water causes a vaporous gas to rise into an eight-part evaporator at the top, where it is purified and forced through tubes for inhalation. The gas forms pure oxygen, tasteless and odorless, and the patient inhales this. So healing is its effect that it will almost immediately stop a tuberculosis cough

Most wonderful of all is the fact that Dr. Pelkey offers to treat his patients with the inhaler free of charge. The only thing for which he charges is a blood-purifier and building-up tonic, which he insists upon the patient's taking. He will even allow the person undergoing the treatment to take home the tank with him and be treated there.

Dr. Pelkey has been for 17 years in Mexico and Central and South America. He has Government certificates from Mexico, Brazil, New Mexico and Canada and many Latin-American republics, testifying to cures wrought by him with the inhaler. One certificate states that nearly half a troop of Mexican soldiers and American soldiers and Government officials of Montreal were cured under his treatment. Another is signed by President Diaz, of Mexico, himself, whom Dr. Pelkey cured. Dr. Pelkey can show hundreds of other testimonials of permanent people of Ottawa, who were cured of lung troubles and kidney troubles after suffering for five years.

England's New Woman--A Woman of War

England's Nursing Yeomanry Corps in the Field

(Special Correspondence.)

London, Eng., June 30—In the regular English army maneuvers this year, women—fashionable, well to do women—will play a conspicuous part. Not as casual visitors giving teas for the officers, but as actual members of the army going through the hard work and discipline of camp life.

"The first Aid Nursing Yeomanry corps" is the name of the women's organization. Its members have taken medical and nursing training during the winter. The summer maneuvers will see them in the field.

A sham battle is on. A scout on horseback dashes to the headquarters of the Nursing Yeomanry corps. "Desperate engagement over the hill' he pants. "Our forces cut to pieces, need help at once."

The colonel salutes and gives a dozen quick orders. The bugle rings out. Women in natty khakiskirts and leggings and brilliant scarlet blouses dash from the tents. Horses are saddled and mounted. Others hitch up the hospital wagon and throw in lint bandages, medicine cases.

"Forward!" and the women fighters dash away in a cloud of dust.

No part of the maneuvers will attract as much attention as these women of war.

The corps was organized last winter during the German invasion scare. A play, "An Englishman's Home", which aroused the nation to the inefficiency of the home guards—called the territorial army—showed in side lights the unpreparedness of the medical and nursing corps.

Shamed by the disclosures, patriotic women all over England took up the work of recruiting a nursery corps. Many prominent women—society leaders, rich, leisure-loving—enlisted.

The women will live in tents like the rest of the army. Being women, however, as well as soldiers, they have smuggled in some comforts. There are carpets on the wooden floors, and easy chairs. Some of the tents have cottage size pianos. The mess tent serves salad and pie, and other dainties.

Vote on By-Laws for Street Extensions and the Smith Street Bridge July 29th

On Thursday, July 29th, the ratepayers will be called upon to vote on two bylaws, the street extension bylaw, and the Smith street bridge bylaw. Both of these bylaws were defeated at the municipal election last January, mostly for lack of information. This time the aldermen will do their utmost to place the full details before the people as they are most anxious that the two bylaws should carry. As a matter of fact it will be a serious matter if they are defeated again. There is however no reason to believe that such will be the case, as a great many who voted against them last time see their mistake and will support the bylaws this time.

The street extension bylaw is for $21,500. This is for the extension of several streets, and for the filling in of the waterfront. Most of the money was spent a year or two ago and now needs to be raised by debentures to wipe off the debt at the bank.

The Smith street bridge will cost $32,500. Nearly everyone knows the particulars of this bridge. Still The Times will give full details in a latter issue of both bylaws.

The council last night read the two bylaws a first and second time, and arranged the details for the vote on July 29th.

Contract Awarded to Rutherford Bros

Rutherford Bros. were awarded the contract for erecting the new public library. Their tender was the lowest and they will start operations at once. The contract price is $21,887.

Tenders were advertised for and the Property Committee met yesterday afternoon and opened the several tenders and prepared their report as follows;

The Property Committee reported that they had advertised far tenders for the new public library, and that they recommended the tender of Rutherford Bros., for $21,887, be accepted.—Carried.

Routine Business at the Council Meeting

There was a lengthy session of the Committee of the Whole Council and of the council last night, in which a lot of business was put through. The committee met first upstairs, and heard several deputations so that when they met in council there was only routine business to transact. The communication reports from committees and bylaws took up practically all the time.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From the rector and warden of All Saints' church inviting the mayor and aldermen to attend the ceremonies of laying the corner stone for their new church on Friday evening.

From F. Bartlett, asking to be relieved of business tax.

From James Williamson, 83 Aylmer street, claiming from the city a sum of money sufficient to pay for the keep of himself and family from June 12 to July 26, as they were quarantined by the medical health officer for that time. There are eight in the family and all were kept at home.

A petition from five ratepayers on the north side of Robinson street asked for the sidewalk to be built outside the tree line.

From Mrs. E. A. McKee asking the council to reimburse her for financial loss while in quarantine from scarlet fever. She keeps a boarding house, and had to send the boarders away.

From Mrs. Dean and family thanking the council for the kind resolutions sent to them.

From the secretary of the Board of Health enclosing copies of resolutions which recommended the council to build a sewer on Reid street, from McDonnell to a point 350 feet south for sanitary purposes; also that the council pass a bylaw to compel every residence, factory, and store fronting or abutting on a street on which there is a common sewer to be connected with the sewer.

From the secretary of the Water Commissioners asking for authority to place a hydrant on Aylmer St., between Manning avenue and Aberdeen avenue, also for one on Ware street.

From ratepayers on Concession street and neighborhood asking that the ditch north of Douro street and south of Clifton street, be filled in as it is a constant menace to traffic, several accidents having occurred there.

From H. L. Beal asking for the annual grant to the Peterborough and Ashburnham Horticulturi Society.

From Sophia street residents asking that the walks be constructed outside the tree line.

From Messrs. Dennistoun, Peck & Kerr, on behalf of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Roberts, requesting that the creek adjoining their premises to be properly fenced as at present it is very dangerous.

COMMITTEE REPORTS.

Reports of committees included reports from the Property, Fire, Water & Light, Finance, Legal, Board of Works, and the committee of the whole.

THE FIRE HALL AGAIN.

Aldermen Metheral and Duncan moved that the council do not pay $100 to the chairman and the fire chief to go to the fire chiefs' convention in August next.

Ald. Duncan said that he would not object to the fire chief being sent.

The motion was defeated by a vote of 7 to 5, and the report of the committee was adopted.

Ald. Duncan asked for the yeas and nays.

Yeas—Aldermen Metheral, Bradburn, Morgan, Duffus.

Ald. Metheral also objected to the four men having holidays being paid for their holidays by the city. He claimed that there were only three men who were at all entitled to the holidays.

It turned out, however, that the chief was the fourth man, so the report was allowed to go through.

Semi-Annual Report of Fire Department

CHIEF HOWARD,
Of Peterborough Fire Department.

Fire Chief Howard Submits His Semi-Annual Report to Council

Peterborough, July 1st. 1909
To His Worship the Mayor,
And Alderman of the City of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN:—

I have the honor to submitt herewith my half-yearly Report of the Fire Department. During the last six months the Department responded to eighty one (81) alarms of fires, six more than the preceeding half year.

We have had some very serious fires to handle during the last six months, and no doubt some of them would have been attended with enormous property loss, were it not for the fact that the employment of permanent firemen permits the Department to respond more quickly than a volunteer brigade could.

And it will be gratifying to you to learn that the total damage by fire only amounted to $5,518.70, $1,300.00 of the above amount was caused by Auburn fire as there were no fire hydrant available. Although the damage is some Two Thousand Dollars in excess of the previous six months; I consider we have been very fortunate in preventing disasterous conflagrations.

We have not met with any serious accidents or loss of life. The excellent sanitary conditions at the Fire Station have no doubt assisted very materially, in the good health of your Firemen, something very essential to an efficient Fire Department.

After several months of friction at the beginning of the new Department, I am pleased to be able to inform you that the Department is down to a good working basis. I attribdte this to the determined effort of Alderman William Buller, Chairman of your Fire Committee, who has been eminently successful in banishing political and other interference on the part of persons ill

The Stomach also has its hidden, or inside nerve. it was wrong to drug a weak it was wrong to drug a weak of failing Stomach, Heart or Kidneys. His prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these weak and faltering inside nerves. This, no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Municipalities to Wait on Sir James Whitney Re Cameron Septic Tank

The following is a copy of a letter from Mr. Willis chipman of Toronto in reference to the Cameron Septic Tank Company which has made a claim against the city for using their patents. Several municipalities are in the same boat with Peterborough and these met in Toronto recently to discuss the claims. The following letter explains the results of the conference.

Mayor,
Peterborough, Ont.

Dear Sir:—The second meeting of the representatives of the municipalities interested in the claims of the Cameron Septic Tank Co. will be held in this city on June 24th.

After a lengthy discussion, a resolution was moved by Mr. T. G. Meredith, of Toronto, seconded by Mr. Wegmard of Brampton, a copy of which I herewith enclose. After the meeting the chairman secured an appointment with the premier of the Province, Sir James Whitney, for an interview, and he agreed to receive a deputation from the municipalities at noon on Wednesday, July 7th.

You are therefore requested to attend an important meetig which is to be held at the Engineers Club Rooms, 96 King St. West, Toronto, at 10.30 a.m., on Wednesday, July 7th. At the conclusion of this meeting the delegates will go in a body and wait on the premier. It is most important that every municipality at all interested in this matter should have representatives at this meeting and then you will advise me at once if your municipality will be represented.

Secretary,

Moonlight Trip.

A large crowd of young people took in the Belmont Club's moonlight excursion down the river last night. A detachment of the 57th Regiment Band furnished the music, and all had a thoroughly enjoyable time.

Almost Anything You Want

The Prizes will go to Someone, Why Not to You?—The Time is Short, Don't Waste It

Sunshine after storm puts new life into all the active candidates in The Morning Times Great Contest. Many good gains have been made. The contest is full of life, and there is no doubt that those who are fortunate enough to win the prizes offered will feel the satisfaction of well earned reward, as well as joy in the possession of a coveted prize.

AUTOMOBILE MUCH SOUGHT AFTER.

The most ambitious have set their minds on winning the Oldmobile Touring Car and it is going to be a merry race. There is great consolation in the thought that if you miss the car, there are still other prizes that you can work for.

The trip of Seattle seems, in the eyes of some, to outweigh even the touring car. A number openly avow that this is the prize that they have set their hearts on, and will have this wish gratified. A few of the young ladies themselves have shown a worthy ambition in fixing their hopes on that object, but it must be confessed that to the youthful minds of most of the contestants themselves, there is great allurements in the glitter of the diamond ring, and a fascination of romance about foreign travel.

The happiest girl we saw this summer was the one who went to Seattle, taking with her as her guest her dearest friend, thus more than doubling her own pleasure and the money for the trip was earned by herself.

FRIENDS WISH YOU TO WIN.

Every contestant has a host of friends who are anxious for her to win and who are willing to help provided they are asked for their subscriptions. The contest manager says: "I wish there were some way in which I could induce every candidate not to overlook a single personal friend of neighbour. There have been reported case where friends of contestants were much hurt because they were not approached for subscriptions by those in whom they were interested. This is no way to conduct a campaign. Each candidate should have a list on which is the name of every person who could perhaps be induced to give them a subscription."

THE RIGHT WAY.

Those who set out with the firm determination to see a certain number of prospective subscribers daily, and live up to it, have a far better chance of coming out ahead than those who sit around expecting their friends to do it all. Every contestant in the race entered with the hope of winning a prize. Anything worth doing is worth doing well. Therefore get in and show your spirit before it is too late. Think of the friend who nominated you. They did it because they counted on your ability to get ahead. They would not have sent in your name unless they thought you had the pluck and energy necessary to

Tenants Complain of Dirt in Market Arcade

Several times complaints have been made about the condition of the market building and grounds, now the tenants are writing to the council and asking that action be taken at once. A letter from Mr. Russ, of the Peterborough Music Co. to the Mayor and Alderman is as follows:—

Peterborough, June 24th, 1909.
To His Worship the Mayor,
and Aldermen of the City,

DEARS SIRS:—

I desire to call your attention to filthy condition of the market arcade and suggest that some permanent arrangements be made for having it flushed and at least once a week and also to be kept well swept every day during the warm weather and as often as is necessary throughout the year. In its present condition, and which has prevailed during seven months, it is certainly a bad bed for propagating diseases, and at this period when contageous diseases are prevalent it appears to the man up a tree that it would be economy to clean out such nuisances rather than allow them to exist.

Trusting that you will give this your attention at once.

Yours respectfully,
W. H. RUSS,
One of the Sufferers.

GRAVEYARD COUGHS AND COLDS

Cured Quickly by Catarrhozone.

A cough or cold this season of the year paves the way for pneumonia or consumption. The best remedy is "Catarrhozone". It eases a cough in five minutes, and colds cannot exist but a few hours where it is used. Mrs. H L. Chenowith, residing at Glendive, Montana, was worried by a "graveyard" cough. In the following letter she tells how Catarrhozone cured her in one week:

"I had a bad cough for several months last fall that settled on my lungs. I was worried very much to think that nothing I used could shake it off, but reading in the Halifax "Presbyterian Witness" of the wonderful cures Catarrhozone was effecting I decided to try it. The irritability and soreness was taken out of my throat in a few days, and in less than one week it entirely cured my cough.

"It is with great gratitude and pleasure that I recommend Catarrhozone. I am sure it will benefit and cure all who use it."

(Signed) Mrs. H. L. Chenowith.

The reason Catarrhozone always cures is that it goes right to the sore spot, which it heals and makes well quickly. It is antiseptic and destroys disease germs in every part of the system. For Coughs, Colds and Bronchitis, nothing compares with Catarrhozone. It is very pleasant and simple to use, contains no injurious drugs, and is warranted perfectly safe to use. Catarrhozone Inhaler is suitable to use in a street car, theatre, church, any place, at any time. Complete outfit costs but $1.00 and is guaranteed to cure or your money back. Trial size 50c., sold by druggists, or by mail, from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

CANADA'S POPULATION.

The officials of the Census Bureau at Ottawa estimate that the population of the three prairie provinces, which in 1906 was placed at 800,000, now is about 1,100,000, an increase of 300,000 in three years. This is a very considerable growth, and as the influx of population still continues, it is probable that the next Census will show a further addition of at least two hundred thousand souls, making the population of the three provinces not less than 1,500,000.

Although the great movement of population has been to the North-West, Eastern Canada has received additions to its population from the immigration from Europe. The Bureau states that 233,000 of the overseas immigrants have settled in the older provinces. This we regard as not only of benefit to these propinces but also a course likely to be advantageous to the immigrants themselves, since their surroundings in these older provinces would not be so greatly different from those they have been accustomed to in their former homes.

THE BRITISH BUDGET.

The protest made at a meeting of the leading brokers and merchants of the City of London against the proposals of the Budget is unique in its character. The high standing of the persons making the protest will give it an influence both in Parliament and the country that may have very important effects not merely on the Budget proposals, but on the stability of the Government itself. Strong and consistent Liberals like Lord Avebury and Sir Felix Schuster must indeed consider the situation serious when they feel themselves compelled in the public interest to condemn in such terms as were used at the meeting in the City of London on Wednesday last the financial proposals of an administration of which they have been strong supporters.

FISH AND GAME LAWS.

The Ontario Fisheries Department is alarmed at the destruction of deer and the permit to kill two is likely to be changed to only one.

The number of carcasses of deer carried by express companies during the open season of 1908 was 4,387 as against 3,886 in 1907, an increase of 501. This number, large as it is, is not one-third of the total actually killed, when taken into consideration that 11,353 deer hunters' licenses and settlers' permits were issued holders of each being allowed to kill two deer. In addition to the above, Indians and settlers in unorganized territory were allowed to kill two each without licenses or permits, for their own use, but not for sale or barter.

In view of the large increase of hunters and the number of deer killed," says the Superintendent, Mr. Finsley, "it may be necessary in the near future to limit the number to one that may be legally killed on each license. It seems incredible that our northern districts should continue to supply these immense numbers year after year with no apparent diminution, except in older settled portions of the Province, where the deer are disappearing with the woods."

PUBLIC UTILITIES.

Guelph, with its low tax rate of fourteen and a half mills in the dollar—lower than any other municipality of the same size in Ontario— is an object lesson of what may be accomplished by public ownership, under wise and careful administration. It is now considering the advisability of adopting the Galveston system of Government by Commission by turning over the civic government to a small commission of highly-paid officials who shall be experts in the departments over which they are placed.

Twenty years ago the municipality took the radical step of building a fifteen mile steam railway. This line, leased to the Canadian Pacific Railway, now yields the civic treasury a dividend of thirteen per cent, on the investment, and the rate of profit is expected to double within the next few years.

Mr. W. J. Bell, in a public address, stated that the Guelph gas and electric light plants, which they took over in 1903, last yegr yielded a net profit of $25,000, out of which debentures to the amount of $18,000 have been paid off. The old companies charged $1.80 per thousand feet for gas, and twelve cents and fourteen cents per thousand watts for electric lighting. The city sells gas at one dollar, and electricity at a flat ten-cent rate. The Light and Heat Commissionners pay the same taxes on their plant as were paid by the private companies, and they furnish street illumination at five dollars less per are light than their predecessors. In less than six years, after allowing for depreciation, the city claims a profit of a round hundred thousand xollars, which has been applied to the retirement of debentures, and to the creation of a sinking fund. In time the existence of this fund means a further reduction in the tax rate.

Last year the civic Street Railway Commissioners reported a respectable profit from the operation of the system. The service is regarded as excellent, and the workingman may purchase one hundred tickets for three dollars. He thus enjoys the cheapest transportation in the country. At the same time he pays the lowest tax rate on the lowest assessment to be found in any city in Canada. The statistics thus furnished require to be met and explained away before municipal ownership can fairly be condemned.

The experience of our sister city is worthy of the earnest consideration of Peterboro's civic legislators.

LION HUNTERS IN BALLOON.

Shooting, However, Will Be Done With Big Cameras Instead of Guns

Chicago, July 6.—To hunt wild animals in East Africa with immense cameras suspended from balloons is the object of the W D Boyce African Balloonograph Expedition, which is now being organized. George R. Lawrence, chief photographer of the expedition, and Charles A. Hughes, who is attending to the business details of the trip, are now in New York buying supplies and making arrangements. Mr. Boyce, who is financing the expedition, is a wealthy publisher. Mr. Lawrence, is accustomed to novel feats in photography. He has been taking pictures from balloons for many years and his inventions in perfecting this art are numerous. He has now perfected a controlling device which, he says, will hold a camera steady for a time exposure almost indefinitly, although suspended from a balloon hundreds of feet above the earth.

Six or seven cameras are to be taken, the largest of which will be an aerial machine holding plates 22 by 55 inches. Sixty plates of this size are to be taken.

"With telescopic lenses fitted to this camera I expect to get larger pictures than have ever before been taken," said Mr Lawrence. "The lenses for aerial work must necessarily be of much greater focal length than those of ordinary cameras; that is, that they will photograph objects very large at a great distance. One of my cameras will have an equivalent to an ordinary camera with a bellows forty feet long. This, in a way, is similar to using a long range rifle with a telescope sight.

"I shall take two or three balloons each holding 30,000 cubic feet of hydrogen gas and capable of supporting three men as well as the camera. I have great hopes of being able to photograph the lions, elephants and other animals in their native haunts, just as Mr. Roosevelt now is shooting them."

Mr. Boyce and Mr. Hughes will leave New York on August 4 for London, where they will buy most of the equipment. The party will be gone nearly a year.

Get Well First

Don't risk even a penny—until health first returns.

And I mean just exactly that. I am the one physician who says to the sick "I will, out of my own pocket, pay for your medicine if it fails to bring you help!" And for 20 years Dr Shoop's medicines have been used and recommended in every city and hamlet in America. They are positively standard in every community—and everywhere. Then why pay the cash, and at your risk, for other untarrented and uncertain medicines? Thousands upon thousands have in the past successfully used Dr. Shoop's Restorative. When the stomach nerves, or the Heart or Kidney nerves fail, these sick ones know how quickly Dr. Shoop's Restorative will bring them back to health again. But best of all, they positively take no money risk whatever. They know that when health fails to return, Dr. Shoop will himself gladly pay the drug gist for that test. And for that test a full 30 day treatment is freely granted. But write me first for an order. This will save delay and disappointment. All druggists sell Dr. Shoop's Restorative and Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy, but all are not authorized to give the 30 day test. So drop me a line please—for I have appointed an honest and responsible druggist in almost every community, in every town in which I have no regular druggist. Tell me who which book you need. The books below will surely open up new and helpful ideas to those who are not well. Besides you are perfectly free to consult me just as you would your home physician. My advice and the book below are yours—and without cost.

Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some serious ailment. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescription or advice plan. My best efforts to surely worth your simple request, to write me, while you have it fresh in mind, for tomorrow never comes. Dr. Shoop, Box 33, Racine, Wis.

ONE HUNDRED YEARS.

Spohr's Violin Lost for Centuries, Now Discovered.

London, July 6—Mr. Louis Blumenberglof New York, claims to have found the famous Spohr violin in London. The story of this renowned fiddle and its loss is one of the romances of music.

Louis Spohr, the greatest artist of his day, was travelling through Germany in 1803 with a friend, Herr Eck. Spohr had his trunk, containing all his personal effects, with his beloved violin, carefully lashed to the back of the coach on the way to Gottinben. There were numerous highway robbers in those districts in those days and a certain variety of "luggage lifter" bearing some resemblance to the modern gentleman who operates so successfully on English and Continental railways.

When Spohr reached Gottingen he found his trunk gone, and from that day to this there has been no trace of the famous violin. But good records have been kept of its peculiar design and markings, and when it came before Mr Blumenberg's eye he identified it.

At present the violin is in the possession of Miss Elsie Playfair, a young English artist or marked ability now appearing in London.

A friend of Miss Playfair's recently bought the instrument from a German violinist for a small sum. Neither had any idea of its real value but Miss Playfair recognized its beautiful tone and it was presented to her.

If full proof of the instrument's identity, which Mr. Blumenberg is now seeking in Germany, is secured it will be worth at least $15,000 to $20,000.

Memphis, Tenn., July 1.—More than a thousand saloons in this city are closed today as a result of the enforcement of the statewide prohibition law. Nashville and Chattanooga are also "dry."

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

Western Canada Wood Pulp & Paper Co. Ltd.

HEAD OFFICE, 638 VIEW ST. VICTORIA, B. C.

Asset.

The company have acquired 65,000 acres of Pulp Land on Quatsino Sound, Vancouver Island.

Water Power

In addition to the vast Pulp Limits acquired, the company have also secured a 30,000 inch water record on Marble Creek, at Quatsino Sound, capable of developing from 10,000 to 15,000 h.p. This creek derives its source from three lakes 25 miles in length and is thus permanent the year round.

Capacity of Plant

The plant when fully complete will have a capacity of 600 tons of news and wrapping per week, we are rushing the work along and feel confident that we will have the pulp plant with a weekly capacity of 100 tons in operation by December 1st of this year.

Cost of Manufacture

With our tremendous pulp limits, which enable us to secure our pulp wood at a nominal figure, and splendid water power, the cost of manufacture of news and wrapping paper should not exceed $3.000 per ton. At present news is jobbing in British Columbia at $60.00 per ton. The freight rate in carload lots from Ontario and Quebec being $17.00 per ton.

Local Markets

The local market of the company extends east a thousand miles to Moose Jaw and tributary region. Within the above territory the annual consumption of paper is estimated at a thousand tons exclusive of that used by printers and newspapers. The five daily papers at Victoria and Vancouver alone consume over 100 carloads of paper per year.

Foreign Markets

The foreign markets of the company consist of China, Japan, New Zealand, Australia, Hawaii and the Philippines. In 1908 the above countries imported over $40,000,000 worth of wood pulp and paper, principally from Norway, Sweden ,Germany ,Eastern United States and Eastern Canada.

Freight Rates to Orient

A freight rate of from $2.00 to $5.00 per ton can be secured from British Columbia to China, Japan, New Zealand and Australia ,on wood pulp and paper as against a rate of $7.00 to $15.00 per ton on the same commodities from Eastern Canada and Europe. Being from 3,000 to 5,000 miles nearer the Oriental market than Eastern Canada or European mills we are not only able to secure a much lower freight rate, but also a lower insurance rate.

Natural Advantages of British [illegible]

News and wrapping paper are manufactured principally from Spruce, Hemlock, Balsam and Larch wood, one ton of chemical wood pulp requires approximately two cords of four foot wood. At present Spruce and Hemlock wood is worth from $6.00 to $9.00 per cord. In Eastern Canada: our facilities enable us to secure it at less than $3.00 per cord. In 1908 the American mills were obliged to pay from $9.00 to $15.00 per cord.

Progress of Work

We are proceeding as fast as possible with the work. The erection of the plant has been placed under the exclusive supervision of Mr. Charles B. Pride, of Appleton, Wis., one of the most distinguished authorities on the erection of pulp and paper mills in the United States,having built more than fifty of the leading mills of the country and he is confident at being able to have the pulp mill in operation by December 1st of this year.

Sale of Stock

In offering the preferred stock of this corporation, we do so with a feeling that it is the best industrial stock ever offered for subscription in Western Canada. At present it is impossible to buy stock in the majority of the operating mills of Canada and there is no question but that bonds of 12 months the stock of this corporation will be selling at a handsome premium; remember the time to buy stock in any corporation is six months before a wheel has been turned, not after it is in operation.

Profits in Pulp and Paper Manufacture

No industry, not even mining itself, has yielded as large and permanent dividends as the manufacture of Wood Pulp and Paper, and there is no reason why the mill which we are now erecting should not pay at least 25 per cent. annual dividends. Under much less favorable conditions, the Eastern Canadian and English mills are paying from 10 to 25 per cent. With our natural advantages, we should be able to make a profit of approximately $25.00 per ton on news paper, $20.00 per ton on Wrapping paper, and $15.00 per ton on best board and pulp board. The Pacific Coast mills of the United States are now making a net profit, after deducting depreciation, operating expenses, bonds, & etc., of approximately $20.00 per ton on wrapping and $15.00 per ton on best and pulp boards, and this after paying from $5.00 to $8.00 per cord for wood. In 1908 the Lowestoffe Paper Co. showed a profit of $251,488. The Kellner-Partington Pulp and Paper Co. showed a gross profit last year of $1,382,305. The official United States Government Report, issued at Washington, D. C., July 25th, 1907, Bulletin 68, showed that the mills of the State of Oregon made a profit of 29 2-3 per cent. of the value of goods over all expenses, of 19 per cent. The gross profits of the International PaPer Co., for the year ending June 30th, 1908, amounted to $1,658,982.

Under date of February 19th, 1908, Mr. Herman Ridder, President of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, filed charges against the Paper Trust of the United States, and in his disposition to Hon. Chas. J. Bonaparte, Attorney-General of the United States, said:

"News print paper mills that are not entirely modern are now making paper at figures that show a profit of more than $20.00 per ton on the paper prices just announced by the International Paper Co., $32.50 per ton. In other words, for paper delivered, say, in New York, up-to-date mills are making a profit of more than 60 per cent. on the cost of manufacture, delivery and storage, and they are making a profit of more than 40 per cent. upon a reasonable allowance for the capital required for a modern plant."

With our close proximity to the Oriental market, there is no reason why we should not make, conservatively, 10 per cent. more dividends than the Eastern Canadian or American Mills. In 1908, Australia imported over 60,000 tons of News principally from Eastern Canada and Europe. Why should we let this great volume of paper go to Eastern Canada, Eastern United States, and Europe, when we are in a position to control it ourselves? Every dollar of paper used in this Orient should be furnished from Western Canada. With subsidiary mills to produce the goods, what country is in a better position to control the trade of the Orient than British Columbia. Not only are we able to manufacture News and Wrapping Paper from $2.00 to $3.00 per ton lower than Eastern Canada and American mills, but we are from 2,000 to 3,000 miles nearer the great Oriental markets. The demand for News and Wrapping Paper is gradually increasing, and, within ten years, China, Japan, Australia and New Zealand will be absolutely dependent upon this Providence for its supply of pulp and paper. By using the big dividends that the paper mills of the world are paying, and with our immense timber limits, covering 25 square miles, which contains a permanent supply of wood at a nominal cost, there is no reason why we should not pay much larger dividends than the present operating mills.

The preferred stock is entitled to a cumulative dividend of 7 per cent., payable before any dividend is paid on the ordinary stock, after which dividends have been paid upon both the preferred and ordinary shares, both shares thereafter participate equally.

Metropolitan Life Insurance Company

JOHN R. HEGEMAN, President.

Great Reduction of Expenses--Increased Benefits-
LOWER RATES

(INDUSTRIAL DEPARTMENT.)

In January, 1907, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company largely increased the benefits in its Industrial policies by reason of a heavy Reduction in expenses and improvement in mortality experience.

During the past three years the company has steadily reduced its expenses, so that it is enabled to make a further increase in the benefits. Industrial insurance policies have a unit of weekly premium—three cents, five cents and multiples thereof - and the amount of insurance varies with the age.

All Industrial Life policies (premiums cease after age 74), Endowment policies at 80 and Adult Twenty-year Endowment

Policies issued since Jan. 1, 1907, will be increased in benefits about 10 PER CENT

according to a new table of benefits adopted for policies issued after July 1, 1909. In other words, not only does the Company issue a new table for policies hereafter issued, but it makes the increase retroactive since the present form of Limited Payment and Endowment at age 80 policies were adopted.

Upon the OLD INDUSTRIAL POLICIES the Company is paying out TWO AND A HALF MILLIONS OF DOLLARS IN BONUSES THIS YEAR, bringing up the total Bonuses and Concessions upon Industrial policies to EIGHTEEN MILLIONS OF DOLLARS IN SIXTEEN YEARS. This is OVER AND ABOVE ANY AND ALL OBLIGATIONS expressed or implied in the policies.

The Metropolitan in its Industrial Department has the lowest Ratio of Expense of all the Industrial Insurance Companies in the world which pay immediate benefits. In FIVE YEARS its Ratio of

Expense to Premium Income has been Reduced

8 per cent representing an Annual

Saving of Three and a Half Millions of Dollars

The new Covertible policy issued by the Company is a novel form of insurance which becomes fully paid-up life insurance in a few years and is then automatically converted into endowment insurance, the maturity of which is periodically shortened as payment of premiums continues.

The Company is abreast of the public demand for combination of term insurance and annuities, and serves the public better than any other agency.

INDUSTRIAL POLICIES IN FORCE: NEARLY 9,500,000, INSURANCE NEARLY $1,500,000,000.

"ORDINARY DEPARTMENT"

The Company has reduced expenses six per cent. in this Department in the last FIVE years—representing an ANNUAL SAVING OF OVER A MILLION AND A QUARTER OF DOLLARS IN THE ORDINARY DEPARTMENT.

The Company issues policies in the Ordinary Department in amounts from $500 to $1,000,000 upon all approved plans at the lowest rates. IN 1908 IT WROTE MORE PAID-FOR BUSINESS IN ITS ORDINARY OLD LINE INSURANCE (exclusive of Industrial,) in the United States and Canada, THAN ANY OTHER COMPANY.

All of its policies in the Ordinary as well as the Industrial Department are written on the non-participating plan. The Metropolitan pays its dividends at the start—that is to say, it cuts down the premiums. It believes the plain, common-sense man who make up bulk of policy hol-ders look for a plain business contract. By plain business contracts we mean those which tell their whole story upon their face; which leave nothing to the imagination, borrow nothing from hope, require definite conditions and make definite promises in dollars and cents.

In both Departments combined the Company has, in each of the past fifteen years, written more paid-for insurance than any other company in the world."

The Company upon its Total Business Has in the Last Ten Years Reduced its Ratio of Expenses FIFTEEN PER CENT.

win. They paid you a compliment in choosing you to represent them; now you must not mortify them by showing that their est.mate of you was mistaken.

BE ONE OF THE TWENTY

If you are in the race, or intend to enter now is the time, do not put off until tomorrow what you can do today. Make up your mind that you are going to become one of the Twenty who will win the prizes, and strive for that end It does not seem very hard to stand among the successful Twenty. Indeed, in some districts, the task of winning a district prize is very simple, for outside of the grand prizes for which all may complete, there are prizes for each district. All you have to do is to get busy and keep on striving until you have reached the place that you have in mind. You have just as good a chance as any one else. Do not wait until the last minute, but now, while there is yet time make the best of it.

LIKE A RACE ALL THROUGH.

Runners all know that after almost losing their breath and feeling that their forces are about to give out, there comes to them what is called the "second wind." This second wind is really more enddring than the first, and the trained runner can prolong his race indefinitely without losing it.

It is much the same in the contest race. You candidates started out with a rush, and of course, while you could skim the cream of your acquaintances and friends the subscriptions came easily. Then you began to notice that it was more difficult to secure them, and you had to cast about in your mind where to turn next.

PLUCKY CONTESTANTS PERSIST.

Right here is where you were losing your breath and wondering if you could hold out much longer. But if you were a plucky contestant, and your being still in the race proves that you are, you would not entertain this thought, and presently you became aware that your "second wind" was coming.

Made doubly strong by experience, you saw opportunities which as a novice never suggested themselves to you. Taking advantage of every one of these your votes again began to pile up, and realizing that your chances were daily growing better you took the resolve never to give up until the end.

This is as it should be. We congratulate you, and urge you to go on in the way which will lead you to success.

Semi-Annual Report

disposed. This has had the effect of strengthening my hand, and allowing me to maintain the proper discipline, without outside interference.

We still continue the regular Fire Drill, which is of great benefit to the Firemen in the performance of their duties. You will observe the necessity of this, from the fact that fires occur at irregular intervals, thus leaving weeks at a time with little practise for the men.

The present conditions have been reported to the Canadian Board of Fire Underwriters, and the Gentlemen of that Board assured me on my recent visit to Toronto that they are highly pleased with what has been done in the way of establishing, and maintaining an efficient Fire Department. Within a month or six weeks, circulars will be sent out notifying the Insurance for Peterborough, and if the reduction promised by the Underwriters is as substantial as I anticipate, your Fire Department will undoubtedly be a profitable public utility, in addition to giving first class protection to life and property.

In conclusion I desire to express my sincere thanks to His Worship the Mayor, and the Alderman of the Council for a continuance of their courtesy, and kindness extended to the Firemen and myself, and also to the Public Press for the many kind references to the efficient work of the Fire Department.

The Chief of Police, and his staff of constables have rendered very valuable assistance on many occasions, and have at all times shown a disposition to be friendly, and give a helping hand.

You will please find attached a summary of the workings of the Department.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

I have the honor to be, sirs,
Your obedient servant.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. LAID AT REST.

The funeral of the late Alfred Davies took place yesterday afternoon from his late residence, 166 Macdonnell street, to Little Lake cemetery for interment. The services were conducted at the house by Rev Canon Davidson. The bearers were Messrs. John Crane, R. W. Grubbe Robt. Fair, W. H. Robertson, T. E. Elliott, J. J. Lundy. A large number of beautiful floral tributes were sent by friends in memory of the departed.

BAND CONCERTS.

At the opening of the council last night the aldermen had a little scrap over the Friday night band concerts which resembled in a small way the fire works let off in the early part of the year.

It was caused by Ald. Bradburn stating that one of the officers of All Saints' church requested that the band concert next Friday night be discontinued on account of the laying of the corner stone of their church.

Moved by Ald. Hicks and Ald. Duncan that the band be requested to play near All Saints' church on Friday night instead of in the Victoria Park.

Moved by Aldermen Turner and Bradburn that the band concert be not interfered with carried by a vote of 6 to 5

Ald. Duncan said that the Master Painters would be here for three days and he would like to have the band play on Wednesday night as a sort of entertainment for the painters. This to be the concert that was to have been given last Friday night.

The matter was left in the hands of the Property Committee.

The mayor will als read an address of welcome to the painters

Cavan Swamp Drain and Road to Peterborough

The Cavan swamp drain and the direct road from Mount Pleasant to Peterborough was presented to the council last night again. The drain through the swamp has been completed at a cost of $18000 A first-class job has been done, and all the water has been carried off in the spring. The road is yet to be built, and that will cost a couple of thousand more. The city was asked to pay $1,000, as they practically agreed to do some years ago.

A deputation was present from Cavan, and were heard by the Committee of the Whole Council. Those on the deputation were, Messrs. C. McNeill, ex warden of Northumberland and Durham, R. Vance, A. Kelly, reeve of Capan, G. Berry, deputy reeve, and R. Hooten, ex-reeve.

Mr. McNeil opened by stating that they had been here on three occasions before. Six years ago the people of Mount Pleasant wanted the road opened up coming to this city which would save them about four miles. To do this work meant a big expense. They took the matter up however, and got assurance from the Ontario Government, the counties and the city of Peterborough. At that time the mayor was G. M. Roger, and the council told the people to go ahead and the city would help them. The City Council even passed a resolution endorsing the work which mhich meant that the city would grant the same as given by South Monaghan for the Bensfort btidge, viz., $1.000. The estimate was $9000, and the actual cost was $18,000. Now the township wants the city to make its grant of $1,000.

The ditch, which is seven feet wide at the bottom and which is large enough to carry off all the the water in the spring, and the road is ready to put in shape, at an additonal cost of some $2,000 The township has worked hard and done all they could.

Mr. Kelly said that the township were building a road not only for themselves, but for Manvers and Emily, and it is a direct road to Peterborough. There is not a rod of road completed. The foundation is ready but it needs a lot more money. They have always depended upon Peterborough standing by them and always have felt sure of getting at least $1,000. They all wanted to come too Peterborough, and he hoped that the 14th concession road will be one of the city's suburban streets.

Mr. Berry said that the sooner the road was completed the better for Peterborough. They wanted the city's help as they have not the money themselves.

Mr. Hooten endorsed what the had no money this year, but he ould refer it to the Finance Committee to take up.

CHANDLER— ELSEY.

Miss Florence Elsey of Beccles, Suffolk, England, arrived in the city at 5.30 a.m., on Sunday morning from Montreal, having landed from the steamer Virginian, of the Allan Line on Saturday. Canon Davidson performed the ceremony Some of the choir boys were present and sang the choral parts of the service, the wedding marches being played by Mr. R. J. Devey. The bride wore a cream Jaleena and orange blossoms, and was given away by Mr Nat Greenhalgh. The bridal party were entertained to luncheon by Mrs. R. J. Devey, afterwardsl eaving the city for a trip by the 4.30 p.m. train. Mr. and Mrs. Chandler will reside on John street on their return to the city.

AN OLD TIMER.

Has Had Experience.

A woman who has used Postum since it came upon the market knows from experience the wisdom of using Postum in place of coffee if one values health and a clear brain. She says:

"At the time Postum was first put on the market I was suffering from nervous dyspepsia, and my physician had repeatedly told me not to use tea or coffee. Finally I decided to take his advice and try Postum. I got a package and had it carefully prepared, finding it delicious to the taste. So I continued its use and very soon its beneficial effects convinced me of its value, for I got well of my nervousness and dyspepsia.

"My husband had been drinking coffee all his life until it had affected his nerves terribly, and I persuaded him to shift to Postum. It was easy to get him to make the change for the Postum is so delicious. It certainly worked wonders for him.

"We soon learned that Postum does not exhilarate or depress and does not stimulate, but steadily and honestly strengthens the nerves and the stomach.

"To make a long story short, our entire family continued to use Postum with satisfying results as shown in our fine condition of health and we have noticed a rather unexpected improvement in brain and nerve power."

Increased brain and nerve power always follows the use of Postum in place of coffee, sometimes in a very marked manner. "There's a Reason."

Appetite Gone---Nerves Badly Run Down

Like thousands of other people at this season of the year Mrs. E. P. Wilson was tired and worn out—winter sorely tired her health and vigor. But now she is robust and well, eats well, sleeps well, feels invigorated and braced. "For some years," writes Mrs. Wilson of Watmere, P.O., "I suffered from systematic weakness, billiousness and depressing headache. I could take little nourishment and grew thin and pale. If I ate a hearty meal the result was dreadful. Pains started at my chest, and spread all through my body going across my stomach, back and right side. I was discouraged till a friend insisted on me taking Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They made a new woman of me, and for the past eight months my health has been perfected. For a good cleaning, rejuvenating medicine I urge every one to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

There is extraordinary and magic power in Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they bring vigor, tone, health and spirits—are compounded from the most wonderful and healing juices and essence in vegetable life—are safe for young and old and guaranteed to kindle renewed activity and strength of every system that is weak, sicky or run down from Kidney, liver, stomach or bowlder trouble. TRENT CANAL.

Was Inspected by Visitors from Belgian Government.

The party of Belgian officials who are touring the canals of Canada and the United States, and who spent Saturday night and Sunday in this city left yesterday morning on the Bessie Butler for a trip over the completed portion of the Trent canal. The most important features as far as they are concerned are the two lift locks here and at Kirkfield. The trip over the Trent waterway will take about two days and then the party will proceed to inspect the Welland canal, and then go to the United States.

Before coming here the Belgians visited the Erie, Cornwall, Rideau and Soulanges canals. Upon their return to their native land they will present a report to the government, and no doubt, Peterborough will come in for prominent reference as the only only concrete lift lock in America is located here.

Mr. J. H. McClellan, superintendent of the Trent canal, took the visitors in charge here and supplied them with all the necessary information and did his utmost to make their stay here a pleasant as well as a profitable one.

7,000 MINERS TO GO ON STRIKE.

Dominion Coal Company Will Fight —Swear In 300 Constables.

Sydney, N.S., July 5.—The Dominion Coal Company did not send a representative to the conference called by the United Mine Workers of America to discuss the labor question at issue and as a result a strike has been called for tomorrow which will involve 7,000 coal miners.

G. H. Duggan, second vice-president and general manager of the coal company, speaking with a press representative, said the Dominion Coal Company is determined it will not recognize the U.W.M. of A. and will not accede to any of their demands.

The coal company collieries have been fenced in and houses erected inside for the men who will remain loyal to the company. About half the six hundred and twenty special officers appointed by the municipal government last spring for this emergency have been sworn in and the remainder of the force will be on duty tonight. Every man who does not turn out to work tomorrow will be ejected from the company's houses and to meet this move, the U.M.W. have on the ground some 2000 tents which will be used by the men as living quarters.

The coal company has nearly all its contracts filled, and has also 100,000 to 150,000 tons in the bins.

RES. ADVERTISING MEDIUM IN EASTERN ONTARIO

VOL. XXXII NO. 157 PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY JULY 7, 1909 PRICE TWO CENTS

Rumors are Not Reliable

Subscribers Should Notify The Morning Times If Their Paper is Not Delivered Regularly—Others Fear You as Much as You Fear Them

Those of you who saw how busy we were on Saturday night can readily appreciate that there is much to do to get every one of the subscriptions which were turned in, properly routed and sent to the subscribers. The Morning Times particularly wishes that every one who has helped out a candidate on this great contest should be promptly and regularly served with their paper.

Should your paper not appear until a day or two later than you expect show us the consideration of new business, you will receive credit for the full time of your subscription from the date the paper is started to you. If after a day or two your paper does not come regularly we shall esteem it a favor if you will notify us at once.

It is impossible to accompany each carrier on his route daily, and therefore the only possible way for us to tell whether your carrier is doing his duty is to let us know whether you are getting your paper as you should. We are running this contest to make permanent friends of our subscribers, not simply to help candidates secure the handsome prizes offered, and we appreciate that the only way to hold your good will is to give you satisfactory service.

DAY OF RUMORS AT HAND.

In every contest that was ever conducted there develops a season of rumors to which the contestants are all too ready to lend an ear.

Utterly unfounded reports of the great number of subscriptions which one candidate and another have secured, strike terror to the hearts of the timid. No such reports have as yet reached us on this contest, but in the nature of things they are due to crop up about this time and we want to get ahead of them with a piece of sound advice to those whose ears they may reach. This advice is, "Don't Be Bluffed."

Often a candidate will think this is rather a smart trick to play on someone whom they wish to discourage. The really on someone whom they wish to discourage. The really strong and wise candidate never away to the public what their strength is.

Even supposing that someone has some thousands of votes more than you have, what of it. How did they get them? Just exactly the same way that you can. The remedy lies in your own hands. Go out among your friends and try for subscriptions until you no longer feel afraid of anyone. Talk is nothing but words, but subscriptions mean votes, and votes mean prizes. Less talk and more votes make a better showing.

It is amusing to those who are in a position to hear both sides to observe the fear in which candidates hold each other. Often a contestant will hold in dread the very rival who is afraid of them. This nervous feeling comes from listening to rumors. If all you hear were true The Morning Times would have to send about five papers to every house in and around Peterboro. It is our ambition to have the Morning Times go into each family, and this is what we hope to accomplish, but we really cannot expect to have all those we are at present supposed to have secured. There is room for many more before we have even approached our more modest aim.

If the candidates want to raise their vote there is still a big field of effort unworked. Into this we would commend them to go and reap the harvest that is awaiting them.

Left $10,000 to Girl who Scorned His Love

Young Man's Father Has Filed Contest for Possession of Property, Alleging that Son Was Insane From Unrequetted Love and Over-Indulgence in Cigarettes.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 7.—Being of sound mind and body, I give and bequeath all my property, real and personal, to Elizabeth Croskey, 3326 Powelton avenue, Philadelphia, Pa., with a life interest of $3,000 a year to my father.—William N. Howard."

Such is the brief will which William Nixon Howard wrote, in a fairly firm hand, before he committed suicide in his home, 1601 Master St. June 4, last.

The chief beneficiary Howard named in his will is a young woman with whom he was deeply infatuated daughter of Dr. John Welsh Crosky. She denied, when Howard killed himself, that she had engaged herself to marry him and a few days after his death she married. The value of his bequest to her is $10,000.

Howard's father, Daniel W. Howard, has begun a contest of the will, filing a caveat against probating it, alleging that his son was of unsound mind.

Howard's friends say that he was erratic, unquited love for the then Miss Croskey having unbalanced his mind. His relatives insist that excessive smoking of cigarettes was one of the causes of his mental vagary.

The night before he killed himself young Howard called Miss Croskey on the telephone and said:

"I hear you have said I gave you headaches and made you sick. I'm going to do something now that will give you good cause to feel bad."

FIVE IN FAMILY DROWNED.

One Member After Another Tries to Rescue the Other.

Wellington, Colo., July 7.— Five members of the Fuller family of eight were drowned in reservoir No. 5, one member of the family after the other attempting to rescue the other until the death list numbered five. The dead are:

FULLER, GEORGE, aged 45.
FULLER, MRS. GEORGE, wife of George Fuller, aged 44.
FULLER, ELLA, aged 14.
FULLER, GLADYS, aged 12.
DULLER, JOHN, aged 10.

Five of the Fullers were fishing on the bank of the reservoir this afternoon and the father was working in a field a quarter of a mile away. Gladys, the younger girl, fell into the reservoir when the bank caved in. Ella jumped into the water to rescue her sister; then Mrs. Fuller jumped into the water to get both of them, and John the 10 year-old boy, followed to help those already in the water. The father in the field, hearing the shrieks of those in the water ran to the bank and jumped in to save his family and was drowned with the rest. Everett Fuller, an 8 year-old boy, also jumped into the water, but in some manner he was able to extricate himself and carried the news of the drowning to neighbors four miles away.

How Hiawatha Laid the Foundation of British Supremacy Before Columbus Crossed the Atlantic—Aboriginal Gifts to Civilization.

Learned Cruelties from the Whites

White people in America have more to thank the Indian than for merely preserving the great territories now under Anglo-Saxon away for the dominant white family of the human race.

The Indian has contributed very materially to the social, the artistic the commercial, the economic, the athletic anh physical and even to the spiritual development of white Americans. How these influences have reacted throughout the civilized world it is not necessary to more than mention for it is obvious that those factors which modify American civilization must have a world-wide effect.

It would be of interest to trace the influence for evil that the Indian has exerted upon white society, and to realize that where it has been responsible for any debasing, demoralizing tendencies the Redman has introduced into the popular consciousness.

Take, for example, the horrible tradition of Indian cruelty and torture, with which our crime novels are filled, books read by millions among the youth of Canada and America and Europe.

LEARNED CRUELTIES FROM WHITES

The "painted varmints" of this literature, which does so much to create conceptions of cruelty and hard-heartedness in the minds of the young, were themselves, so far as they had any existence the product of the heartless cruel Spaniards and others who first explored and settled the continent. The Indian for the most part in Pre-Columbian times was no more bloodthirsty nor savage than his first white tutors, upon whom he looked as gods, and who taught him the most relentless barbarism. Now, reflected in the literature of the street, it sheds its malignity on the minds of our school children. In this the sins of the white race come home to roost.

It is much more profoundly in desirable and beneficient ways that the red man has exerted his influence over his white neighbors and conquerors. In the wide spaces of woodland and prairie, of lake and river and mountain, where the Indian made his home he learned a love eternal as the hills, deep as the skies, pure as the wind and the stars; a lore that the European in his crowded cities had practically forgotten.

The white settler in America imbibed of necessity the India's knowledge. It meant life to him in wildernesses of desolation and death, and in a few generations it entered into his thought and habits, became a part of his character and contributed to his maintenance. Nor was it only in physical matters that this benign influence radiated.

In such literary work as Longfellow's "Hiawatha," founded tho it be on the Finnish epic of the Kale Vala, the Indian, akin in his outdoor ancient Europe, reawakes echoes of life and philosophy to the men of the past and stirs ancestral chords which, reasserting themselves, bid fair to modify in radical ways the American type of character.

Such spiritual influences as insensibility are borne into the American consciousness by the poem of Hiawatha grow out of a profound religious instinct, which, however, mingled with superstition it may be, arises out of a piety, earnest and sincere, fostered in the natural atmosphere of the temple whose foundation is the lonely earth and whose canopy the changing sky. The prayers and devotion of the so-called Pagan Indian are not less real and fervent than the communications of European saints.

It was not spiritual but material gain for which the white man first looked in his relations with the Indian. In Canada, at least, on the sound ethical basis of consistent honesty was won the confidence of the great trade which has distinguished the Hudson Bay Company.

It was the Indians knowledge of the arts of the hunter and trapper that made the servants of the great company capable of their service. It was the Indian snowshoe and moccasin to penetrate the trackless wilds of the north when the rich booty of the fur-trader was available. It was the birchbark canoe, a marvel of ingenious adaptation, which made it possible for the white man to thread every jewel in the extraordinary chain of Canada's waterways. His woodcraft, his knowledge of the fish of the lake and stream, the lires of the forest and prairie, the animals everywhere made the life of the hunter possible, and in two centuries of experience the white man has devised no substitute for the moccasin, the snowshoe or the canoe. The lasso is another Indian device of the first importance to the plainsman.

INFLUENCE ON CITY DWELLER

Upon this comes the wonderful influence which the red man has unconsciously had upon the city dweller of our modern days. The exodus to the backwoods, the camping out, the island homes in the lakes, all the diversified summer wandering of the present generation is modelled upon if not derived from the habits and instincts of the Indian. This out door life is the sanest and wholesomest thing that has entered into the heart of the modern white man to conceive, and the Indian has shown him the trait to follow.

No aboriginal people at all compare with the red race of North America in dignity, in intelligence, or

Board of Education Wound Up Business for First Six Months

Finances are Getting Low—Chairman to Make Report—Repairs to Schools

For the next two months the Board of Education will have a holiday. There will be no more meetings until September, unless the chairman finds it necessary to call an emergency meeting.

During the holiday, however, all the members will be busy. The repairs to the different schools to look after. These are not extensive this year, consisting mostly of painting, kalsomining, repairing fences, and walks and making a few small changes in some of the rooms.

The Financial Committee will be busy hunting up money with which to carry on the business for the next six months. Chairman R. Fair reported to the board last night that as matters now stood the appropriations in some of the departments had disappeared, owing to accounts being paid that were contracted last year. The appropriations will have to be readjusted, and the board will likely find it necessary to do as in some other years, carry an overdraft. About $1500 have been spent on domestic science and manual training. Of this amount $900 will be paid back by the Provincial Government in five yearly payments and $600 will have to be charged up to capital account. In the meantime the money has to be found and the chairman was instructed to look into the finances of the board and report at the next meeting.

The Property Committee made a report upon the necessary repairs to the various schools in the city to be made during the summer months. The repairs are not very extensive this year. The Property Committee will call for tenders for the painting required.

The King Edward school sewer system was once more brought up by Mr Fair and discussed at some length by him, Mr Dumble, Mr. Hall and others. The result was the secretary was instructed to write the City Council asking what was being done to provide sewerage for the school and at the same time drawing the council's attention to the unsanitary condition of the school and urging the necessity for immediate action. Property Committee will have the

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education was held last night in the Toronto Savings and Loan Co.'s offices. Those present were Messrs. L. M. Rivers, K.C., W. H. Hill, R. Fair, J. Crane, Dr. Morrison, E. F. Mason, B. F. Ackerman and D. W. Dumble.

COMMITTEE REPORTS

The committee on appointments of the Board of Education have prepared their report for June and recommend the appointment of the teaching staff for the public schools. Their report was as follows:—

Gentlemen,—Your Committee on Appointments beg leave to report as follows:

WATER LILY.

The government inspector, Mr. Thompson, was in the city yesterday and inspected the boilers and machinery of the steamers Water Lily and Monarch, and found them to be in first-class shape. Everything was satisfactory. The Otonabee Navigation Company make it a point to keep all their steamers in the best of condition and the public can travel on their boats with a feeling of perfect safety.

Bronchitis Cured

The remarkable recovery of Mr. Pearson, who for years was principal of Melvern Square High School, is convincing evidence of the exceptional curative powers possessed by Catarrhozone.

"For fifteen years," writes Mr. Pearson, "I constantly suffered from Bronchitis and Throat Irritation. Until quite recently I was able to keep up my teaching, but my bronchial trouble became so annoying that I was forced to resign.

"For months I doctored with different physicians and was not benefited. My trouble grew more severe and extended to the lungs, and I feared I would end in decline.

"Providentially I was advised to use Catarrhozone, and I believe it really saved my life. Its immediate effect was to relieve the throat trouble sufficiently to give me perfect ease in speaking. Within one short week all symptoms of Bronchitis had disappeared. I can fervently recommend Catarrhozone. I know it has no equal as a cure and speedy cure for throat trouble and bronchitis."

Every air cell and air passage, all parts of the breathing organs are reached and breathed by the antiseptic vapor of Catarrhozone. It soothes and heals the inflamed mucous surfaces, stops the cough, clears the nose and throat, and drives every symptom of bronchitis right out of the system.

To purify the blood of all poisons, and to build up the system, Ferrozone Tablets, which are included in every Catarrhozone outfit, are very highly recommended. This local and constitutional treatment in Bronchitis, Catarrh and Consumption cannot be equalled.

Catarrhozone is endorsed by physicians and ministers and thousands it has cured. Two months' treatment costs $1. Small size, 25c. Sold by all Druggists, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

GUELPH'S LOW TAX RATE.

Guelph, with its low tax rate of ity of the same size in Ontario— is an object lesson of what may be accomplished by public ownership, under wise and careful administration. It is now considering the advisability of adopting the Galveston system of Government by Commission by turning over the civic government to a small commission of highly-paid officials who shall be experts in the departments over which they are placed.

Twenty years ago the municipality took the radical step of building a fifteen-mile steam railway. This line, leased to the Canadian Pacific Railway, now yields the civic treasury a dividend of thirteen per cent, on the investment, and the rate of profit is expected to double within the next few years.

Mr. W. J. Bell, in a public address, stated that the Guelph gas and electric light plants, which they took over in 1903, last year yielded a net profit of $25,000, out of which debentures to the amount of $18,000 have been paid off. The old companies charged $1.00 per thousand feet for gas, and twelve cents and fourteen cents per thousand watts for electric lighting. The city sells gas at one dollar, and electricity at a flat ten-cent rate. The Light and Heat Commissioners pay the same taxes on their plant as were paid by the private companies, and they furnish street illumination at five dollars less per are light than their predecessors. In less than six years, after allowing for depreciation, the city claims a profit of a round hundred thousand dollars, which has been applied to the retirement of debentures, and to the creation of a sinking fund. In time the existence of this fund means a further reduction in the tax rate.

Last year the civic Street Railway Commissioners reported a respectable profit from the operation of the system. The service is regarded as excellent, and the workingman may purchase one hundred tickets for three dollars. He thus enjoys the cheapest transportation in the country. At the same time he pays the lowest tax rate on the lowest assessment to be found in any city in Canada. The statistics thus furnished require to be met and explained away before municipal ownership can fairly be condemned.

The experience of our sister city is worthy of the earnest consideration of Peterboro's civic legislators.

LAWYERS' TAXES.

One of Three That are Still Unpaid to the Collector.

Tax Collector Greene reported to the council that he had completed the collection of taxes for 1908, except three items, and these he asked to be allowed another week to get. He also asked that the roll for 1909 be given to him at once so he could get to work on it.

Of the three items two will be settled in the morning, and the third is a lawer and is in the bailiff's hands. One of the others was Mr. Ba(

Mr. Bart,ett's request to be allowed his business tax. This was not allowed.

It was moved by Ald. Buller that the collector collect those three items at once, and return his roll. When the roll is returned then the mayor has authority to give him the roll for 1909 when the 1908 is returned.

This was seconded by Ald. Phelan and it carried.

LION HUNTERS IN BALLOON.

Shooting, However, Will Be Done With Big Cameras Instead of Guns

Chicago, July 6.—To hunt wild animals in East Africa with immense cameras suspended from balloons is the object of the W D Boyce African Balloonograph Expedition, which is now being organized. George R. Lawrence, chief photographer of the expedition, and Charles A. Hughes, who is attending to the business details of the trip, are now in New York buying supplies and making arrangements. Mr. Boyce, who is financing the expedition, is a wealthy publisher. Mr. Lawrence, is accustomed to novel feats in photography. He has been taking pictures from balloons for many years and his inventions in perfecting this art are numerous. He has now perfected a controlling device which, he says, will hold a camera steady for a time exposure almost indefinitly, although suspended from a balloon hundreds of feet above the earth.

Six or seven cameras are to be taken, the largest of which will be an aerial machine holding plates 22 by 55 inches. Sixty plates of this size are to be taken.

"With telescopic lenses fitted to this camera I expect to get larger pictures than have ever before been taken," said Mr Lawrence. "The lenses for aerial work must necessarily be of much greater focal length than those of ordinary cameras; that is, that they will photograph objects very large at a great distance. One of my cameras will have an equivalent to an ordinary camera with a bellows forty feet long. This, in a way, is similar to using a long range rifle with a telescope sight.

"I shall take two or three balloons each holding 30,000 cubic feet of hydrogen gas and capable of supporting three men as well as the camera. I have great hopes of being able to photograph the lions, elephants and other animals in their native haunts, just as Mr. Roosevelt now is shooting them."

Mr. Boyce and Mr. Hughes will leave New York on August 4 for London, where they will buy most of the equipment. The party will be gone nearly a year.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Western Canada Wood Pulp & Paper Co. Ltd.

Plant Now Under Course of Erection at Quatsina Sound, Vancouver Island.

Asse t.

The company have acquired 25,000 acres of Pulp Land on Quatsino Sound, Vancouver Island.

Water Power

In addition to the vast Pulp Limits acquired, the company have also secured a 25,000 h.p. water record on Marble Creek, at Quatsino Sound, capable of developing from 15,000 to 25,000 h.p. This creek drains its reserve from three lakes 20 miles in length and is thus permanent the year round.

Capacity of Plant

The plant when fully complete will have a capacity of 600 tons of news and wrapping per week, we are rushing the work along and feel confident that we will have the pulp plant with a weekly capacity of 300 tons in operation by December 1st of this year.

Cost of Manufacture

With our tremendous pulp limits, which enable us to secure our pulp wood at a nominal figure, and splendid water power, the cost of manufacture of news and wrapping paper should not exceed $5.00 per ton. At present news is jobbing in British Columbia at $20.00 per ton. The freight rate in carload lots from Ontario and Quebec being $17.00 per ton.

Local Markets

The local market of the company extends east a thousand miles to Moose Jaw and tributary region. Within the above territory the annual consumption of paper is estimated at a thousand tons exclusive of that used by printers and newspapers. The five daily papers at Victoria and Vancouver alone consume over 300 carloads of paper per year.

Foreign Markets

The foreign markets of the company consist of China, Japan, New Zealand, Australia, Hawaii and the Philippines. In 1906 the above countries imported over $20,000,000 worth of wood pulp and paper, principally from Norway, Sweden ,Germany ,Eastern United States and Eastern Canada.

Freight Rates to Orient

A freight rate of from $5.00 to $6.00 per ton can be secured from British Columbia to China, Japan, New Zealand and Australia ,on wood pulp and paper as against a rate of $7.00 to $10.00 per ton on the same commodities from Eastern Canada and Europe. Being from 2,000 to 4,000 miles nearer the Oriental market than Eastern Canada or European mills we are not only able to secure a much lower freight rate, but also a lower insurance rate.

Natural Advantages of British : :

News and wrapping paper are manufactured principally from Spruce, Hemlock, Balsam and Larch wood, one ton of chemical wood pulp requires approximately two cords of four foot wood. At present Spruce and Hemlock wood is worth from $5.00 to $6.00 per cord, in Eastern Canada; our facilities enable us to secure it at less than $2.00 per cord. In 1906 the American mills were obliged to pay from $5.00 to $15.00 per cord.

Progress of Work

We are proceeding as fast as possible with the work. The erection of the plant has been placed under the exclusive supervision of Mr. Charles B. Brids, of Appleton, Wis., one of the most distinguished authorities on the erection of pulp and paper mills in the United States,having built more than fifty of the leading mills of the country and he is confident of being able to have the pulp mill in operation by December 1st of this year.

Sale of Stock

In offering the prefered stock of this corporation, we do so with a feeling that it is the best industrial stock ever offered for subscription in Western Canada. At present it is impossible to buy stock in the majority of the operating mills of Canada and there is no question but that inside of 18 months the stock of this corporation will be selling at a handsome premium; remember the time to buy stock in any corporation is six months before a wheel has been turned, not after it is in operation.

Profits in Pulp and Paper Manufacture

No industry, not even mining itself, has yielded as large and permanent dividends as the manufacture of Wood Pulp and Paper, and there is no reason why the mill which we are now erecting should not pay at least 25 per cent. annual dividends. Under much less favorable conditions, the Eastern Canadian and English mills are paying from 10 to 25 per cent. With our natural advantages, we should be able to make a profit of approximately $15.00 per ton on news paper, $20.00 per ton on Wrapping paper, and $18.00 per ton on box board and pulp board. The Pacific Coast mills of the United States are now making a net profit, after deducting depreciation, operating expenses, bonds, & etc., of approximately $25.00 per ton on wrapping and $15.00 per ton on box and pulp boards, and this after paying from $4.00 to $8.00 per cord for wood. In 1906 the Lauzentide Paper Co. showed a profit of $325,655. The Kellner-Partington Pulp and Paper Co. showed a gross profit last year of $1,282,365. The official United States Government Report, issued at Washington, D. C., July 25th, 1907, Bulletin 68, showed that the mills of the State of Oregon made a profit of 39 3-5 per cent, of the value of goods over all expenses, of 19 per cent. The gross profits of the International PaPer Co., for the year ending June 30th, 1905, amounted to $4,625,958.

Under date of February 16th, 1906, Mr. Herman Ridder, President of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, filed charges against the Paper Trust of the United States, and in his disposition to Hon. Chas. J. Bonaparte, Attorney-General of the United States, said:

"News print paper mills that are not entirely modern are now making paper at figures that show a profit of more than $20.00 per ton on the paper prices just announced by the International Paper Co., $32.50 per ton. In other words, for paper delivered, say, in New York, up-to-date mills are making a profit of more than 60 per cent, on the cost of manufacture, delivery and storage, and they are making a profit of more than 40 per cent, upon a reasonable allowance for the capital required for a modern plant."

With our close proximity to the Oriental market, there is no reason why we should not make, conservatively, 10 per cent, more dividends than the Eastern Canadian or American Mills. In 1906, Australia imported over 60,000 tons of News principally from Eastern Canada and Europe. Why should we let this grand volume of paper go to Eastern Canada. Eastern United States, and Europe, when we are in a position to control it ourselves? Every dollar of paper used in the Orient should be furnished from Western Canada. With sufficient mills to produce the goods, what country is in a better position to control the trade of the Orient than British Columbia. Not only are we able to manufacture News and Wrapping Paper from $3.00 to $5.00 per ton lower than Eastern Canada and American mills, but we are from 1,000 to 3,000 miles nearer the great Oriental markets. The demand for News and Wrapping Paper is gradually increasing, and, within ten years, China, Japan, Australia and New Zealand will be absolutely dependent upon this Providence for its supply of pulp and paper. We know the big dividends that the paper mills of the world are paying, and with our immense timber limits, covering 25 square miles, which insures a permanent supply of wood at a nominal cost, there is no reason why we should not pay even larger dividends than the present operating mills.

The preferred stock is entitled to a cumulative dividend of 7 per cent., payable before any dividend is paid on the ordinary stock. After 7 per cent. has been paid upon both the preferred and ordinary shares, both stocks thereafter participate equally.

Metropolitan Life Insurance Company

JOHN R. HEGEMAN, President.

(INDUSTRIAL DEPARTMENT.)

In January, 1907, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company largely increased the benefits in its Industrial policies by reason of a heavy Reduction in expenses and Improvement in mortality experience.

During the past three years the company has steadily reduced its expenses, so that it is enabled to make a further increase in the benefits. Industrial insurance policies have a unit of weekly premium—three cents, five cents and multiples thereof - and the amount of insurance varies with the age.

All Industrial Life policies (premiums cease after age 74), Endowment policies at 80 and Adult Twenty year Endowment

Policies issued since Jan. 1, 1907, will be increased in benefits about 10 PER CENT

according to a new table of benefits adopted for policies issued after July 1, 1909. In other words, not only does the Company issue a new table for policies hereafter issued, but it makes the increase retroactive since the present form of Limited Payment and Endowment at age 80 policies were adopted.

Upon the OLD INDUSTRIAL POLICIES the Company is paying out TWO AND A HALF MILLIONS OF DOLLARS IN BONUSES THIS YEAR, bringing up the total Bonuses and Concessions upon Industrial policies to EIGHTEEN MILLIONS OF DOLLARS IN SIXTEEN YEARS. This is OVER AND ABOVE ANY AND ALL OBLIGATIONS expressed or implied in the policies.

The Metropolitan in its Industrial Department has the lowest Ratio of Expense of all the Industrial Insurance Companies in the world which pay immediate benefits. In FIVE YEARS its Ratio of

Expense to Premium Income has been Reduced

6 per cent representing an Annual

Saving of Three and a Half Millions of Dollars

The new Convertible policy issued by the Company is a novel form of insurance which becomes fully paid-up life insurance in a few years and is then automatically converted into endowment insurance, the maturity of which is periodically shortened as payment of premiums continues.

The Company is abreast of the public demand for combination of term insurance and annuities, and serves the public better than any other agency.

INDUSTRIAL POLICIES IN FORCE: NEARLY 9,500,000, INSURANCE NEARLY $1,500,000,000.

"ORDINARY DEPARTMENT"

The Company has reduced expenses six per cent. in this Department in the last FIVE years—representing an ANNUAL SAVING EXCEEDING OVER A MILLION AND A QUARTER OF DOLLARS IN THE ORDINARY DEPARTMENT.

The Company issues policies in the Ordinary Department in amounts from $500 to $1,000,000 upon all approved plans at the lowest rates. IN 1906 IT WROTE MORE PAID-FOR BUSINESS IN ITS ORDINARY OLD LINE INSURANCE (exclusive of Industrial,) in the United States and Canada, THAN ANY OTHER COMPANY.

All of its policies in the Ordinary as well as the Industrial Department are written on the non-participating plan. The Metropolitan pays the dividends at the start—that is to say, it cuts down the premiums. It believes the plain, common-sense man who sizes up both of policy and dollar, look for a plain business contract. By plain business contracts we mean those which tell their whole story upon their face; which leave nothing to the imagination, borrow nothing from hope, require definite conditions and make definite promises in dollars and cents.

In both Departments combined the Company has, in each of the past fifteen years, written more paid-for insurance than any other company in the world."

The Company upon its Total Business Has in the Last Ten Years Reduced its Ratio of Expenses FIFTEEN PER CENT.

Expert Information on How to Rescue the Drowning

A Budget of Useful Advice that Every Swimmer Should Know

The annual advice to those who go near the water either with or without knowing how to swim is now in order. Some expert information on how to deal with the drowning is afforded by Recreation, which cautions would be savers against attempting a rescue fully dressed.

"It takes but an instant to remove your outer clothing and shoes" says the writer, "and this will more than be made up by your being able to swim faster in getting to him and freer in carrying him ashore. Proceed immediately to undress and while so doing think fast.

"Of course, my advice to be deliberate is not intended to mean that you should lose any time. I have known men to wait after the person in danger had disappeared from sight under the impression that a drowning person comes to the surface three times. That condition is senseless and has been responsible for many fatalities.

"A drowning man may rise a dozen times or go under once and never be seen again; there is no telling. Make up your mind, therefore, that when a head sinks the situation is critical and not a second should be lost. If the body is visible under the water there is no difficulty in securing it, but if the water is muddy, more especially if a tide or a current is running use judgment for you will need all your faculties to be successful.

"Take your first dive from a point above where the body has last been seen, or bubbles have indicated its location, and work down stream. Thus you will not tire bucking the current, nor will you miss the body if it has caught some submerged obstacle; while if it is free you will soon overtake it by swimming.

"On reaching it if under water try to seize the clothing at the back of the neck in the absence of these lift by the armpits, the chin or the hair. If the bottom is rocky or sandy and you are near it, take a good pushoff, but if the water is too deep or the bottom soft and muddy swim to the surface, using legs and free arm.

"Now before describing how to carry a victim ashore it will be well to touch on the most dangerous phase of life-saving, the rescue of persons made frantic by fear.

"Water polo players have recently developed a system of breaks and holds that has been adopted by scientific life-savers and has been of invaluable assistance to them. Its most simple features are within reach of any one and will enable you to handle even the worst cases with comparative safety.

"In approaching a struggling person do so warily, and if possible from the back. If he shows any intention of grabbing widely keep him off with your foot until you can seize one of his wrists. In doing this use the right hand for the right wrist and the left for the left.

"On securing a hold swing him quickly around and throw your free arm around his neck, This places him in your power, and no matter how he struggles you will be able to carry him in safety.

"Another good way advocated by water polo players is to approach the man boldly, and as soon as he lifts his arm to clutch you to plant your open hand squarely under his armpit, allow yourself to sink, turning your body outwardly, and then shoving him over you come to the surface. If this is done correctly you will find yourself behind him, looking at the back of his head, when it will be an easy matter to place on him any hold you want.

"Professional life-savers often recommend splashing water in the face of a struggling person on the ground that it makes him turn from you. My experience has been that it only increases his terror and excitement.

"Leg holds are the great fear of life-savers. Let a powerful man encircle you with his legs and nine times out of ten you are a goner. To be caught either by legs or arms from the rear is also generally fatal, for back holds are almost impossible to break. Against these two dangers you should guard carefully.

"There are several ways of carrying the victim of a drowning accident ashore. If he is only exhausted let him place both hands on your shoulders and then swim either the breast or back stroke.

"If he is unconscious turn him on his back and use the back stroke yourself, sustaining him by placing your arms around him and your hands on his chest, or seize him under his chin, or hold him by the clothes at the back of the neck, or by the hair. A struggling person is made helpless by the first hold mentioned.

"Upon reaching terra firma the first object should be to expel from the lungs of the victim any water that may have been taken in. Do not stand him on his head, as do so many well meaning but ignorant people.

"Begin by loosening or removing clothing from waist, chest and neck, then if there is anything round to be had—like a barrel or a log—place him face down on it and roll it gently back and forth so that it will press on abdomen and stomach and force the water out. If nothing round is at hand make a small bundle of clothes or use a chair or stool and press the water out with your hands.

"When the lungs are free it is necessary to apply artificial respiration until they have been restored to natural breathing. First, care should be taken to clean mouth and throat thoroughly with a handkerchief, towel or cloth. Next seize the tongue and either tie it just beyond the lips or hold it there, so that it will not be drawn in with the intake of air and obstruct the passage.

"In many cases the application of smelling salts or pungent herbs to the patient's nostrils or the tickling of his throat with a feather will at this stage be sufficient to start respiration. If not, you should use either the universally taught Sylvester method or tongue traction."

ROSEBERRY TO GREET LIBERAL

Wants a Free Hand on Further Discussion of the Lloyd-George Budget.

London, July 6.—Lord Rosebery has at last decided to break the ties that still bind him to the Liberal party, and will pronounce his reasons for doing so in a letter which is to be read at the next meeting of the Liberal League.

This will mean his complete and formal severance from the party with which he has been associated through out his political career. He has had this step in consideration for some time and he came to the decision before his recently issued manifesto on the budget, which was intended to be the first hint of his approaching defection.

Strenuous efforts are being made to make him change his mind and induce him to still keep up the attitude of benevolent neutrality toward his old party. It is not expected, however, that these efforts will succeed as it is chiefly his desire to have a perfectly free hand in discussion on the budget that has impelled him to cut off all his Liberal connection.

In an effort to induce the local merchants to advertise a territorial newspaper furnishes the following: "Mary had a little lamb, its fleece was white as snow; it strayed away one day and went where lambs should never go. And Mary sat her quickly down and tears streamed from her eyes; she never found the lamb because she did not advertise in The Times."

Nothing in the way of a Cough is quite so annoying as a tickling teasing, wheezing, bronchial Cough. The quickest relief comes perhaps from a prescription known to Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And besides, it is so thoroughly harmless that mothers give it with perfect safety even to the youngest babies. The tender leaves of a simple mountain shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its remarkable curative effect. It is truly a most certain and trustworthy prescription. Sold by All Druggists.

Bronchitis Cured

The remarkable recovery of Mr. Pearson, who for years was principal of Melvern Square High School, is convincing evidence of the exceptional curative powers possessed by Catarrhozone.

"For fifteen years," writes Mr. Pearson, "I constantly suffered from Bronchitis and Throat Irritation. Until quite recently I was able to keep up my teaching, but my bronchial trouble became so annoying that I was forced to resign.

"For months I doctored with different physicians and was not benefited. My trouble grew more severe and extended to the lungs, and I feared I would end in decline.

"Providentially I was advised to use Catarrhozone, and I believe it really saved my life. Its immediate effect was to relieve the throat trouble sufficiently to give me perfect ease in speaking. Within one short week all symptoms of Bronchitis had disappeared. I can fervently recommend Catarrhozone. I know it has no equal as a cure and speedy cure for throat trouble and bronchitis."

Every air cell and air passage, all parts of the breathing organs are reached and breathed by the antiseptic vapor of Catarrhozone. It soothes and heals the inflamed mucous surfaces, stops the cough, clears the nose and throat, and drives every symptom of Bronchitis right out of the system.

To purify the blood of all poisons, and to build up the system, Ferrozone Tablets, which are included in every Catarrhozone outfit, are very highly recommended. This local and constitutional treatment in Bronchitis, Catarrh and Consumption cannot be equalled.

Catarrhozone is endorsed by physicians and ministers and thousands it has cured. Two months' treatment costs $1. Small size, 25c. Sold by all Druggists, or N. C. Polson & Co.,

OBJECT LESSON IN CIVIC GOVERNMENT.

Guelph has its own "steam road" leased for 99 years to the C. P.R. which pays 13 per cent upon an investment of $193,000, the dividends increasing constantly. It purchased the gas works, and the electric light and power plants at a cost, including betterments, of $210,000. "Prior to these works being taken over our citizens had to pay $1.80 per 1,000 feet, for illuminating gas, and 14c. per 1,000 watts for commercial, and 12c. for private electric current. We are now charged but $1.00 per 1,000 for gas, and 10c. all around for electric lighting, and on the amounts of these two commodities consumed by our people last year a net saving of over $15,500 was made by the public, in addition to which the commissioners of these departments cleared a gross profit of $34,179 for the 12 months, or after paying interest on debentures a handsome clear net profit of $25,218. Considering that out of profits alone debentures to the extent of $17,945 had already been paid off at the end of 1908, this net profit was equal to a dividend at the rate of about 18 per cent on the net investment of $192,054, which the city then had in these utilities." Taxes are paid on the plants, and are lights in streets cost $5 per annum less than under previous arrangements. Next year, with the Niagara electric power, gas is to cost 90c. per 1,000 feet, and electric light at 6c. per 1,000 watts. The street railway is owned by the city, and with a 3c. workmen fare, paid last year $5,005 on an investment of $198,000. The waterworks also the property of the city, paid profits last year of $21,139 on $173,-948 invested. The tax rate is 14½ mills, which works out at $22.11, the total including light upon a 6-roomed house with bathroom etc., valued at $1,500, or at $23.05 on a workman's cottage valued at $1,000. We suspect the valuation is not excessive, since the total assessed taxable property only amounts to $6,-991,000. The annual profits on utilities amount to $95,000, and are increasing, and the civic "assets exceed its total liabilities by the handsome figure of $227,462."

The Government of this model little city is by a Mayor and aldermen, with independent commissions managing its various utilities. It is being suggested now that all these commissions should be combined under competent business men, who should form a paid governing commission for the city.

Peterboro's experience in Municipal government is not regarded as a brilliant success, and it might be well for us to watch Guelph's progress.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. IMPERIAL NAVY.

Lord Charles Beresford was one of the last speakers at the British Imperial Press Conference, and also one of the most important. Indeed, if his hearers of the colonial press take up his suggestion and push it to completion, as they seem not unlikely to do, his address may surpass in practical importance all the other proceedings of the conference, for it will in that case mark a new epoch in the history of the British Empire, and also in the naval history of the world. This, briefly stated, is his logic: The maintenance of the two-power—or twice one-power—standard in the navy is essential. But it is impossible for the United Kingdom alone to maintain it, while it is possible for the empire as a whole to do so. Therefore, all the five nations of the empire must join in the work. There must be one homogeneous navy, with all its parts interchangeable, but it must be of quintuple origin. The United Kingdom will continue to provide the major part of it, but the Dominion of Canada, the Commonwealth of Australia, the Dominion of New Zealand and the Union of South Africa must each provide a proportionate part.

This reasoning is apparently sound. We suppose that there are few if any thoughtful observers who imagine that the United Kingdom can single-handed maintain the two-power standard. We pointed out the other day the fact that a few years hence, according to the programme now adopted, the second naval power of Europe will have about sixty first-class battleships. Are we to suppose that the United Kingdom can by that time provide itself with one hundred and twenty? Germany is now spending about 11 per cent more for naval construction than Great Britain is. At that rate, how can the latter country hope to make and to keep her navy twice as powerful as the former's? Lord Charles Beresford is right. The thing cannot be done. Yet all seem to be agreed that the two-power standard must be secured and maintained if the empire is to be safeguarded. Then the conclusion is inevitable that the empire itself, in all its chief constituent parts, must assume the responsibility of self protection and no longer leave the whole burden to the home country.

Why not? Here is Canada, with a population of 6,000,000, with a treasury revenue of $80,000,000 a year, with a foreign commerce of $650,000,000 a year, with manufactures of a value of $1,500,000,000 a year, and with shipping of 700,000 tons. Those are figures worthy of a very considerable nation. But under the head of "Defence" what do the year books tell us? Merely that Canada has permanent garrison of 3,-068 men and an organized militia of 54,000. Suppose, however, that she had a navy proportioned to her size, wealth and commerce. Her tonnage is almost as great as that of Australia-Hungary, and her foreign trade is two-thirds as powerful as Austria-Hungary's. Australia has a population of about 4,250,000, commerce of $375,000,000 and shipping of nearly 400,000 tons. But for defence? Well, there is a naval militia of about 1,-800 men, using vessels provided by the United Kingdom. New Zealand has only about 1,000,000 population, commerce of $135,000 tons. The Union of South Africa, now forming, has a population of 6,250,000 and commerce valued at $715,000,000 a year. Suppose that these four nations, with 17,500,000 inhabitants, should contribute to an imperial navy in the same ratio that the United Kingdom does.

A GREAT CHANCE.

To Make a Safe and Exceedingly Profitable Investment.

Conservative people of sound business sense know of the large fortunes which have been made in mining, often as the result of comparatively small investments made during the development period of mines when capital is required to bring the mines to the dividend paying period.

A mining proposition in accessible parts of the United States is not difficult to investigate and if any man of ordinary intelligence will simply take the trouble he can ascertain before investing whether or not a company is engaged in a serious mining enterprise and whether the directors of its affairs are substantial men of good character who have established a good record, or whether they are professional stock sellers, working one section and then jitting to another.

The Copper Belt Mines Company is well along on the road to dividends, has made remarkable progress in a comparatively short time. A careful, cold-blooded business investigation of both mines and management, which should be made before investing, should convince any fair-minded person that the chance of making a "big thing" out of a reasonable investment in Copper Belt stock at the present price is better than on any investment in which a few hundred or few thousand dollars can be placed anywhere at this time.

A total of over 2500 feet of underground work has been done on the Copper Belt property which, with the showing made, is sufficient to take the Copper Belt mine entirely out of the prospect or gambling stage and classify it as a large but not completely developed mine, even with able management to bring large returns to those interested in a reasonably short time. A comparatively small amount of additional capital for new development, additional machinery and smelter should assure handsome dividends even for a successful mine, and no other legitimate enterprise yields such enormous returns on the capital invested.

These mines are located in the Rawhide Buttes, Wyoming, twelve miles south of Lusk on the main line of the C & N. W. Ry., and consists of 35 claims, four large proven veins, 2500 feet of actual development. Main shaft, the Lucky Henry, now down to a depth of 620 feet, interested by the Paine tunnel at the 400 foot level—520 feet long. Four other shafts 65, 50, 40 and 20 feet, and have all the attributes for successful mining on the property—water, timber and fuel.

The President and active manager of this Company is Edwin Hall, a mining engineer of nations, reputation, who directs the work at the mines—he is also a prominent member of the American Mining Congress and recently appointed State Geologist of Wyoming. Pale Faces' Debt to the Red Man those social qualities which finally make for civilization. Dr David Boyle, of the Provincial Museum, states his belief that the Indian would have eventually attained civilization had he been left alone, tho the process might have been slow. Other views are held by some writers in this respect. It is not long since an eminent scientist declared in a public address that the trend of scientific opinion was in the direction of affirming that the savages of the present day are not primitive men, but the last link in a long chain of degeneration.

In the case of the red man such an idea would point to a vast depth of unrecorded history reaching into what to the modern mind is an unbounded past.

There are hints and suggestions in classical literature to ancient lands and wonderful peoples that have the myth and legend of the red man long since sunk beneath the ocean, and there still remain such traces on the present continent of cyclopean ruins, traces of mound-builders, cliff-dwellers, relics of cities, remains like the Temple of Casa Grande in Arizona, which indicate the existence of races in a condition far superior to the nomadic ways in which the red man usually dwelt.

ORGIN OF RED MAN.

Over the origin of the Indian himself many controversies have been waged. He has been deduced from an overland migration from China and Japan, and, indeed, many Canadian tribes indicate such a kinship in their physiognomy. He has been brought from the south and reared in the north when a tropical climate covered Greenland with palms and flowers. But the weight of opinion accepts the Autochthonic theory as most in accord with the facts. Had he come from Asia with the same blood and traditions that developed the high states of civilization on that continent, he must have been expected to make some progress in the favorable situation in which he found himself in America towards a similar refinement. The Indian's own legend's go back to creation, and Prof. Winchell has concluded that the continent was inhabited by the same race during the great ice age. The diversity of language spoken by the different tribes estimated variously from 400 to 1100 with several thousand dialects, indicate a remote history and widely distributed habitat.

At the time of the discovery of the continent by Columbus and his successors the Indian appears to have been chiefly confined to the country east of the Mississippi. It is true that the west was not without inhabitants, but very sparsely, compared with aftertimes, when the influx of the whites drove the tribes across the great river.

Three great families are recognized as having existed east of the Mississippi about the 11th or 12th century The Algonquins occupied the land east of the great lakes and north to Hudson Bay, reaching as far as Labrador. About the 13th century a branch of the great Dakota people, known afterwards as the Huron-Iroquois family, came eastwards and crowded the Algonquins, who were superior in numbers, out of their territory. The Hurons settled in the lake peninsula. The central nation settled near Lake Erie! The Susquehannocks went further south, and the Tuscaroras still further south to North Carolina, whence they returned long subsequently to rejoin their kindred and form a sixth with the Five Nations.

FOUNDING OF THE FIVE NATIONS

It was out of this Iroquois' migration that the great confederacy of the Five Nations arose. The group that had pushed eastwards on the St-Lawrence found the Algonquins too much for them and moving across the river south they settled near Oswego, in Northern New York Here, with the Senecas, Mohawks and Onondagas, to which were added the Cayugas and Oneidas, by division, was founded the alliance which proves to be a chief factor in making America Anglo-Saxon.

The consolidation of the five tribes into a close alliance thru the influence and wisdom of Hiawatha is one of any people. The supernatural character of Hiawatha's intervention is never questioned by the Indians themselves, and the devout Pagans regarded him as a sacred teacher as truly as any race regards a similar Saviour.

Hiawatha means "the very wise man" and he is declared to be an incarnation on earth of "the Holder of the Heavens," who is the son and vicegerent of the Great Spirit. It was Hiawatha who led them to the Mohawk Valley, and afterwards, when pressed hard by their enemies, came and gave them the great confederacy.

The council of the Five Nations, at which Hiawatha gave his advice, to the people, was held on June 28, 1451. The date is fixes by the eclipse which occurred at the time.

CHAMPLAIN'S MISTAKE

Those who believe in special providence have much to consider in the part that the Five Nations have played in the historical development of Aorth America. Samuel de Champlain, great explorer as he was, made the mistake of antagonizing the Iroquois, with the result that the influence of these tribes was devoted to the English when critical periods arrived, and the French forces lost the lands for which they had long strives.

The Dutch made an alliance with the Delawares on their arrival under Henry, Hudson in 1609, and the Treaty of Tawasentha, signed at that time, lasted while the Dutch held the country. The contrast between Champlain's methods and those of the Dutch, still further consolidated the interests of the Five Nations against the French. In 1664, when the English acquired the rights of the Dutch, they did their best to preserved the friendship of the Five Nations, with the result that the Indians formed a bulwark against the encroachments of the French on the the north. Schoolcraft asks—"Who can read the details of an hundred years' sanguinary contests, without perceiving that it was the undying vigilance, the unerring accuracy of their geographical knowledge of the wilderness, and the manly bravery of the Iroquois, which, up to the year 1775, preserved Western New York to the English Crown?"

The destiny of North America was therefore determined by the counsel of Hiawatha, "the very wise man," who founded the confederacy of the Five Nations.

Tell Some Sick One

It Is Free If It Fails.

Will you do an act of Humanity?

Will you tell some sick friend of this, my remarkable offer?

Tell him or her, that you have learned of a medicine so certain that its maker dare say to the sick, "It is absolutely and unconditionally free if it fails."

And you, no doubt, already know of Dr. Shoop's Restorative and its popularity.

For 20 years it has been the standard remedy for Stomach, Kidney and Heart ailments everywhere in America.

When the "inside" or controlling nerves of these vital organs begin to fail, it is Dr. Shoop's Restorative that has quickly vitalized, and strengthened, and brought these nerves and organs back to health again.

I do not dose the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys—for that is all wrong.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes direct to the center of these ailments—the failing, faltering, inside or controlling nerves. And herein lies the keynote to my success.

When these nerves are again made well and strong, then that is the certain end of all sick sickness.

To me it is a great satisfaction that I can say to any physician able to say to the suffering sick, "Take my prescription for full 30 days, and if it fails to help you, the entire expense is mine—not yours."

Then why should the sick take any chance on any other medicine, when maker dare not back it just as I do by this remarkable offer?

I also have a Rheumatic Remedy—and that remedy is endorsed by the same identical "Dr. Shoop, no pay" proposition plan.

Besides, you are free to consult me just as you would your home physician. My advice and the book below are yours—and without cost.

Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some serious ailment. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescription or personal advice plan. My best effort is ready to-day, your simple request.

So let me send you an order on some, take the necessary to some sick friend.

A postal will bring the opportunity.

I will then at once send you the order, for all druggist to whom you can conveniently go for the Dr Shoop remedies you need.

So write me now and save all delays. Remember that tomorrow never comes. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 18, Racine, Wis.

Write that postal I have You!

Wives Oppose Big Dinners.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 7.—Wives of central Indiana farmers have rebelled against the practice of preparing big dinners for threshing hands and the owners of machines that go from farm to farm threshing wheat will have to provide dinner for their men.

When the owners came around this year to make contracts for the threshing and were informed of the women's edict, many of them refused to sign, saying they had no way to provide dinners for their men. With the organization spreading to other sections, the big harvest dinners seems to be a thing of the past.

Do you feel languid and tired this spring?

Are you pale, somewhat nervous, finding it hard to do your housework?

Thousands feel just the same,—feel the enervating influence of spring, whether that brings out latent symptoms of disease and weakness. You should do like Mrs. Flanagan of Essex Junction—here is her experience. "I will never again suffer the torture of deadening spring illness—never will I have headaches, such sleepless nights, such pale cheeks and lack of appetite. I lived through it all several times, but now I know the medicine that cures. I urge every person, young and old, to try the invigorating effect of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. When I was so played out, listless,— Dr. Hamilton's Pills gave me appetite—I relished my meals and grew strong. Rosy color came to my cheeks. Every day I felt brighter and better. All my old strength has been restored and the great tonics, blood purifying powers of Dr. Hamilton's Pills did it all."

Women who are continually pale-blind and sick headaches, faint and dizzy spells, aching muscles, bearing down pains, lack of sleep and loss of appetite—they are the poor women that sorely need Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. 25c at all dealers.

Fall Inspection.

Now that the drills of the 57th Regiment have been called off during the hot months and owing to the fact that the inspections are over, the question of importance with the members of the regiment is the annual outing. The camp will be held on Labor Day and a committee of three officers has been appointed to make arrangements in connection with it. The place where the regiment would go had not been named. This fall in September full inspection of the regiment will take place. It will be the first fall inspection to be held for some time.

A very successful garden party was held under the auspices of the Park Street Athletic Association last night on the grounds opposite the Park Street Baptist church. As a result the athletic association has a good sum to place in their treasury.

REMARKABLE SHOWING.

Of Entrance Classes in the Peterborough Schools.

In another column will be found the results of the entrance examinations for the Peterborough schools. There were 153 successful candidates. At the Board of Education meeting last night Mr. A. Mowatt, public school inspector referred to the results, remarking that they were most gratifying. He stated that there were only eight unsuccessful pupils in the city, a showing which he doubted if any school in the Province could beat. It reflected great credit upon the teaching staff and showed the wisdom of the board in appointing the principals of the different schools.

The members of the Board of Education were greatly pleased with the results and applauded the inspector's remarks.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

THREE EXCURSIONS.

Will Bring Large Crowds to the City Today.

Peterborough will have between 3000 and 4000 visitors today from various parts of the province. One excursion is coming from Barrie when the employees of the Barrie Carriage Works with their families and friends will come down about 600 strong. The Peel County Sunday School Association about 1200 strong will come down by special train starting from Orangeville. Another big crowd will come from Lindsay.

All the excursions will go to Jackson Park for dinner, and in the afternoon will take the Water Lily over the lift lock.

The Sawdust Pile Fire Discussed

Ald. Buller made reference in the council meeting to the fires at the saw dust pile on the Quaker Oats property, which is proving a great nuisance. nuisance. It requires the fire department to lay 1,500 feet of hose to reach from the hydrant to the fire. To pick up this hose takes an hour or more and the department is therefore badly crippled. The committee decided to have Mr. Larmouth to appear before the council and see what could be done.

Mr. Larmouth said that he could not say what could be done except to let it burn out or put it out, or else cart the saw dust away which is impracticable. But thought if there was any danger to other property the city should look after it, as the company pays $2000 a year taxes on that property and it is not good to them. The company has a man on watch there and he puts out small fires. He suggested that a three-inch main be laid over the bridge. It would be only used in the summer months and could therefore be laid on the surface.

The chief suggested that the entire sawdust be covered with earth and this would put it out of the reach of the small boys.

Mr. Larmouth said 3-inch main would cost 60c per 100 feet and it would take about 1000 feet of pipe.

Ald. Brethours suggested that the city send an equal number of men with the Hydraulic Co. to fight the fire.

Ald. Morrow moved that the city send a letter to the Hydraulic Co., and notify them that the sawdust pile was a nuisance and that they get rid of it. Ald. Phelan seconded it.

Mr. Larmouth said that if the company had to look after that fire they would close up their business to traffic and take other means to keep all people off the property. They now allow the public to use their bridge at the request of the council and it is a big convenience to the city.

To Mr. Morrow's motion was added Ald. Bradburn's suggestion re the city and company sending an equal number of men to put out any fires that occur in the meantime.

A Little Advice to Candidates

If You Read Our Writeups Every Day It will Help You to Win—Your Efforts will Not be Wasted if they Are Judiciously Applied at This Time

The Morning Times has been talking pretty straight to you about this contest, and while some of you have become interested, others seem not to recognize this as the opportunity of a lifetime to secure "something for nothing," so to speak. Be assured that we expect to profit more or less by this contest, and the beauty of it is that we have so arranged it that you, too, may profit. And why not? Is it not better so? We are glad to be able to do this, as it will not only increase the circulation of the Morning Times but will work to the benefit of all parties concerned. But we do advise those who expect to be among the winners at the close to be a little more likely about getting the subscriptions which are necessary to securing votes, which are in turn necessary to the winning of these prizes. We do not want you to be disappointed when the final vote is counted, and for that reason we are continually advising you to do your very best. Don't let one single friend escape. Approach them with your story. Don't let one refusal discourage you. Go immediately to the next friend. Keep after them. You will never have cause to regret your work. And besides, you'll have something to remember The Peterboro Morning Times by. That is just what we are after.

You no doubt have many friends who are not regular subscribers to the Morning Times. Get them to join our permanent list and to pay their subscriptions in advance. It may be that some of them do not take any paper at all. Show them the many advantages of The Morning Times, and it will not take them long to decide that they need it in their home. Remember that organization is a great help. Call a meeting of half a dozen of your friends. Tell them that you have made up your mind to secure one of these valuable awards, and that you need their assistance! Get each one to promise to devote a few minutes of his time daily to that end. Get each one to promise to see at least three of his friends in your behalf daily, and secure their subscriptions. In other words secure an endless friendship chain for the purpose of securing subscription.

The West Peterboro' Election Protest Case

The proceedings in the election petition taken by Mr. J. H. Burnham against the Hon. J. R. Stratton, took a new turn Tuesday afternoon, Mr. Burnham declining to submit to further examination for discovery upon the technical grounds that his examination could not take place in long vacation.

Mr. Burnham was first examined for discovery on June 29th. Owing to the fact that certain documents were not produced by him as called for by the subpoena the examination could not be satisfactorily proceeded with. Mr. Moore, solicitor for Mr. Burnham, suggested that the examination be adjourned until after the long vacation. To this Mr. R. R. Hall objected upon the ground that the trial is to take place on the 7th of September, and the examination was accordingly adjourned until Tuesday, July 6th, practically by consent, or at least without any objection on the part of either Mr. Burnham or Mr. Moore.

Mr. Hall pointed out on Tuesday to Mr. W. F. Johnston, the examiner, that the controverted Elections Act made express provision for the examination taking place at any time, and that the provisions of the Judicature Act respecting long vacation had no application whatever. The examiner gave his ruling and ruled that there was no reason why the examination should not be proceeded with in accordance with the order for Mr. Burnham's examination. A motion will accordingly be made to the High Court at Osgoode Hall, to compel Mr. Burnham to attend for examination at his own expense, and to produce the books, papers and documents that he failed to produce on the occasion of his first examination, as required by the subpoena, served upon him

ONE HUNDRED YEARS.

Spher's Violin Lost for Centuries, Now Discovered.

London, July 6—Mr. Louis Blumenberg of New York, claims to have found the famous Spohr violin in London. The story of this renowned fiddle and its loss is one of the romances of music.

Louis Spohr, the greatest artist of his day, was travelling through Germany in 1804 with a friend, Herr Eck. Spohr had his trunk, containing all his personal effects, with his beloved violin, carefully lashed to the back of the coach on the way to Gottinben. There were numerous highway robbers in those districts in those days and a certain variety of "luggage litter" bearing some resemblance to the modern gentleman who operates so successfully on English and Continental railways.

When Spohr reached Gottingen he found his trunk gone, and from that day to this there has been no trace of the famous violin. But good records have been kept of its peculiar design and markings, and when it came before Mr Blumenberg's eye he identified it.

At present the violin is in the possession of Miss Elsie Playfair, a young English artist or marked ability now appearing in London.

A friend of Miss Playfair's recently bought the instrument from a German violinist for a small sum. Neither had any idea of its real value but Miss Playfair recognized its beautiful tone and it was presented to her.

If full proof of the instrument's identity, which Mr. Blumenberg is now seeking in Germany, is secured it will be worth at least $15,000 to $20,000.

GREAT DIAMOND FIND.

Berlin, July 7.—Colonial Secretary Dernburg today informed a deputation of members of the Reichstag who called on him to inquire regarding the newly discovered diamond fields in Southwest Africa, that the mines were valued at $50,000 000.

Continuing, he explained that the significance of his recently formed coalition of the diamond interests in German Southwest Africa was indicated by the fact that a representative of the De Beers company, which controls the diamond market, had offered to make a reciprocal selling prices on diamonds. This was rejected agreement in order to keep up the prices on diamonds. This was rejected by the Colonial Secretary.

A GREAT CHANCE.

To Make a Safe and Exceedingly Profitable Investment.

Conservative people of sound business sense know of the large fortunes which have been made in mining, often as the result of comparatively small investments made during the development period of mines when capital is required to bring the mines to the dividend paying period.

A mining proposition in accessible parts of the United States is not difficult to investigate and if any man of ordinary intelligence will simply take the trouble he can ascertain before investing whether or not a company is engaged in a serious mining enterprise and whether the directors of its affairs are substantial men of good character who have established a good record, or whether they are professional stock sellers, working one section and then fitting to another.

The Copper Belt Mines Company is well along on the road to dividends, has made remarkable progress in a comparatively short time. A careful, cold-blooded business investigation of both mines and management, which should be made before investing, should convince any fair-minded person that the chance of making a "big thing" out of a reasonable investment in Copper Belt stock at the present price is better than on any investment in which a few hundred or few thousand dollars can be placed anywhere at this time.

A total of over 2500 feet of underground work has been done on the Copper Belt property which, with the showing made, is sufficient to take the Copper Belt mine entirely out of the prospect or gambling stage and classify it as a large but not completely developed mine, sure with able management to bring large returns to those interested in a reasonably short time. A comparatively small amount of additional capital for new development, additional machinery and smelter should assure handsome devidends even for a successful mine, and no other legitimate enterprise yields such enormous returns on the capital invested.

These mines are located in the Rawhide Buttes, Wyoming, twelve miles south of Lusk on the main line of the C & N. W. Ry., and consists of 35 claims, four large proven veins, 2500 feet of actual development. Main shaft, the Lucky Henry, now down to a depth of 620 feet, interested by the Paine tunnel at the 400 foot level—520 feet long. Four other shafts 65, 50, 40 and 20 feet, and have all the attributes for successful mining on the property—water, timber and fuel.

The President and active manager of this Company is Edwin Hall, a mining engineer of nationa, reputation, who directs the work at the mines—he is also a prominent member of the American Mining Congress and recently appointed State Geologist of Wyoming. We call the attention of our readers to their advertisement on another page.

Rugby Boys Anxious to Get Started This Season

The time is drawing near for the Rugby clubs to get busy. It is only about six weeks until practice will start and it is the desire of those who are most interested in the game that the various clubs should make a start now.

It will be remembered that last fall after the season closed the annual meeting was held and an organization was completed to handle the game this year. A very strong lot of officers and executive committee was elected and they were given large powers. In short they will control the whole Rugby business in the city. The president is Mr. Duncan Walker. The executive has the authority to form city league or leagues, and to enter clubs or a club in the O.R.F.U. Behind these officers are representatives of the city team, of the T.A.S., Y.M.C.A., Collegiate Institute and West Ends, the teams which composed last year's city league.

The Times has been informed on the best of authority that there will be doings in the rugby circles here this fall, and that if the game is not greatly advanced in public favor and from a scientific stand point it will not be the fault of the Rugby executive.

Big Crowd Saw the Lift Lock for First Time

Peterborough was busily ye-terday when nearly 1200 people came in on three excursions from Peel County, Barrie and Lindsay. To enable the visitors to spend a pleasant day the Ottonabee Navigation Company ran the steamer Water Lily four trips over the lift lock. Between 500 and 600 excursionists took in the trips and not only throughly enjoyed the outing, but were greatly interested in the workings of the lift lock.

Barrie Defeated Locals Game Went 11 Innings

Fans well Pleased with Sample of Ball Served Up by the Local Nine---Flaherty Did the Twirling

In a great eleven innings game at Riverside Park yesterday afternoon the Barrie nine defeated the Peterborough team by three runs to two. It was a pitchers' battle between Burton and Flaherty, and the scores were about even. At the end of the ninth the score stood one all. Nagle crossed the plate in the tenth, but in their half of the eleventh the visitors annexed two counters and the locals were unable to get on an even footing with them.

Ab. Quinlan was to have done the box work for the Peterborough team, but he was unable to get away from work, and Yeboue—Flaherty, who has done no pitching for two years, was sent in to hold the heavy hitting Barrie bunch. He twirled a great game, in fatt one of the best games ever seen here. McFadden did the receiving and caught a very creditable game. Burton, the noted mound artist of the visitors, was in fine form and put on an assortment of curves that the locals could do very little with. The Peterborough team were poised entirely from the senior city league and delighted the fans with the way they pergormed. About four hundred were the exhibition, Barrie having a big crowd of backers.

The teams were as follows:

Smallpox Scare is Over No New Cases for Weeks

The public generally will be interested to learn that the smallpox outbreak in the city has been practically wiped out, and that there is very little danger of any new cases. The outbreak originally was very mild and none of the cases taken to the hospital tent were serious. All were of a mild form. Still Dr. MacPherson, the new Medical Health Officer, deserves great credit for the successful way in which he has handled his department. In cases of this kind it requires prompt and firm action, and the doctor possesses both, although at times he regrets to be forced to be as strict as necessary. Every patient suffering from this dread disease is now at the hospital tent and all are getting along fine. It is only a matter of time when they will all be allowed to return home. There have been no new cases developed for two weeks and only one house remains in quarantine, and that house will be allowed to be opened in a day or two. So far as the general public is concerned there is no danger whatever and visitors to the city are just as safe as if there had never been a case of smallpox. This condition of affairs is largely due to Dr. MacPherson, who has previously had a wide experience with the disease, and who at this time brought all his skill into action. To him the citizens owe a great deal.

YELLOW FEVER IN CUBA.

Gulf Coast of United States Is Menaced by Epidemic.

New York, July 7.—Yellow fever is again prevalent in Cuba, according to the Medical Record, which censures the island authorities for its recurrence, saying they have concealed the fact, by declaring that the fever is pernicious malaria or malignant jaundice.

The publication says further that the gulf coast of the United States is menaced, that politicians on the island have monopolized the appropriations to fight the disease and that the proper step would be for the United States Marine Hospital service to take charge of affairs.

The article sounds a warning that the same conditions which prevailed in Cuba before the United States took affairs in hand several years ago exist now and that drastic action by the government is imperative.

BRIGADIER ADLY.

Brigadier Adly of the Salvation Army last night began a series of special services in the Army Citadel Simcoe street. He has one of the richest baritone voices that has ever been heard in the city, and his singing was a great feature. He will be here for the next two weeks, and will conduct services every week evening at eight o'clock, and on Sundays at 11 a.m., 3 p.m., and 7 p.m.

THE BRITISH BUDGET.

The protest made at a meeting of the leading brokers and merchants of the City of London against the proposals of the Budget is unique in its character. The high standing of the persons making the protest will give it an influence both in Parliament and the country that may have very important effects not merely on the Budget proposals, but on the stability of the Government itself. Strong and consistent Liberals like Lord Avebury and Sir Edgar Schuster must indeed consider the situation serious when they feel themselves compelled in the public interest to condemn in such terms as were used at the meeting in the City of London on Wednesday last the financial proposals of an administration of which they have been strong supporters.

Medical Society will Hold Annual Meeting

Tonight in the Bank of Montreal Chambers, the annual meeting for election of officers of the Medical Society will be held. The past year has been a most successful one in every respect, and to the enthusiastic and energetic efforts of the president, Dr. Morgan, and the secretary, Dr. Frederick, is due great credit. At the sessions many papers of the different sessions many papers of value and benefit have been prepared and read and much pleasure has been afforded to the members as well. At tonight's meeting after the general business it is expected that Dr. Halliday and Dr. McClelland will give papers on their recent trip to Rochester, Minn., where they gained considerable information in regards to surgery. Dr. Frederick is also expected to give a paper on "Spinal anaesthesia."

The meeting promises to be a most profitable one and all the doctors are requested to be present.

SIR JAMES WATSON

This eminent English physician is one of the greatest authorities on diseases of the respiratory organs.

In a recent address, Sir James Watson stated that the commonest of all disorders is Catarrh, and that not one person in ten thousand passes the winter without an attack of some sort.

Sir James advocates local treatment very strongly, and says that it is all nonsense trying to treat Catarrhal diseases by stomach medicines, atomizers, douches and snuffs.

Local treatment is applied most scientifically by Catarrhozone, which is inhaled into the nose, throat and lungs, and drives the disease completely out of the system.

Catarrhozone is a rational common-sense treatment; it clears the air passages, makes breathing easy, and relieves at once. Physicians prescribe Catarrhozone with great flying results, and pronounce it a specific for Catarrh in any part of the system.

Mr. Thos. Cox, one of the most prominent citizens of Minden, Ont., says: "I want to recommend Catarrhozone. It is a nice, clean cure for Catarrh. Cured me perfectly, and is well deserving of a trial from everyone at all affected by Catarrh or throat trouble."

Mr G. F. Fadden, of Royan, Que., writes, "In my opinion Catarrhozone is the only cure for Catarrh. I had the disease in its worst form but only got relief from Catarrhozone. It cured me quickly and permanently, and I have no fear of the Catarrh ever returning."

The foregoing brief extracts, like thousands of others that the proprietors of Catarrhozone have received, prove that the proper remedy to use is Catarrhozone. It is quite different from the ordinary Catarrh preparation, and is warranted to prove entirely satisfactory. If it fails your money will be refunded, so if not benefited you won't be out of pocket.

All druggists sell Catarrhozone. Complete outfit, hard rubber inhaler, liquid for recharging, etc., costs $1.00; trial size, 50 cents. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

IMPERIAL CONFERENCE.

Lord Charles Beresford was one of the last speakers at the British Imperial Press Conference, and also one of the most important. Indeed, if his hearers of the colonial press take up his suggestion and push it to adoption, as they seem not unlikely to do, his address may surpass in practical importance all the other proceedings of the conference, for it will in that case mark a new epoch in the history of the British Empire, and also in the naval history of the world. This, briefly stated, is his logic: The maintenance of the two-power—or twice one-power—standard in the navy is essential. But it is impossible for the United Kingdom alone to maintain it, while it is possible for the empire as a whole to do so. Therefore, all the five nations of the empire must join in the work. There must be one homogeneous navy, with all its parts interchangeable, but it must be of quintuple origin. The United Kingdom will continue to provide the major part of it, but the Dominion of Canada, the Commonwealth of Australia, the Dominion of New Zealand and the Union of South Africa must each provide a proportionate part.

This reasoning is apparently sound. We suppose that there are few if any thoughtful observers who imagine that the United Kingdom can single handed maintain the two-power standard. We pointed out the other day the fact that a few years hence, according to the programme now adopted, the second naval power of Europe will have about sixty first-class battleships. Are we to suppose that the United Kingdom can by that time provide itself with one hundred and twenty? Germany is now spending about 11 per cent more for naval construction than Great Britain is. At that rate, how can the latter country hope to make and to keep her navy twice as powerful as the former's? Lord Charles Beresford is right. The thing cannot be done. Yet all seem to be agreed that the two-power standard must be secured and maintained if the empire is to be safeguarded. Then the conclusion is inevitable that the empire itself, in all its chief constituent parts, must assume the responsibility of self-protection and no longer leave the whole burden to the home country.

Why not? Here is Canada, with a population of 6,000,000, with a treasury revenue of $80,000,000 a year, with a foreign commerce of $650,000,000 a year, with manufactures of a value of $1,500,000,000 a year, and with shipping of 700,000 tons. Those are figures worthy of a very considerable nation. But under the head of "Defence" what do the year books tell us? Merely that Canada has permanent garrison of 3,-668 men and an organized militia of 54,000. Suppose, however, that she had a navy proportioned to her size, wealth and commerce. Her tonnage is almost as great as that of Australia-Hungary, and her foreign trade is two-thirds as powerful as Australia-Hungary, and her foreign trade is two-thirds as powerful as Austria-$375,000,000 and shipping of nearly 400,000 tons. But for defence? Well, there is a naval militia of about 1,-800 men, using vessels provided by commerce of $200,000,000 and ship the United Kingdom. New Zealand has only about 1,000,000 population, ping of 135,000 tons. The Union of South Africa, new forming, has a population of 6,250,000 and commerce valued at $715,000,000 a year. Suppose that these four nations, with 17,500,000 inhabitants, should contribute to an imperial navy in the same ratio that the United Kingdom does. Hungary's. Australia has a population of about 4,250,000, commerce of

SERGEANTS' INN SOLD.

At $16,000 a year rent Old Sergeants' Inn was sold at the Mart recently.

There are two Sergeants' Inns. The one sold the other day faces Chancery lane, and backs on to the charming quietude and greenery of Clifford's Inn. The other, which is entered by a gateway on the south side of Fleet street, was entirely rebuilt a good many years ago, and is chiefly notable because Mr. Delane, the famous editor of The Times, lived there.

The sergeants-at-law were a very ancient body of dignitaries. They wore a special dress, with a peculiar cap, or coif, which caused them to be known as the "Order of the Coif." No one could be made a judge who was not already a sergeant.

The Judicature Act abolished the old sergeants, and in 1877 "the Order of the Coif" wound up its affairs and liquidated its assets, amounting to $285,000, among its members. The relics of the inn became the property of Sergeant Cox (at the instance of whose executors the sale took place), whilst the portraits of the famous lawyers which graced the walls, went to the National Portrait Gallery. When the order was abolished and the sergeants decided to sell the property Lord Chief Justice Cockburn presided at the final gathering, whilst the last treasurer was Sergeant Ballantine.

The property submitted was a building lease for ninety-nine years, the lessee having the option of acquiring the freehold at any time within the first three years at the rate of twenty-six years' purchase of the ground rent. The minimum sum to be expended by the lessees in the erection of new buildings is $200,000 over a period of five years, providing half the sum is spent during the first three years. There is a rent charge of $900 per annum to the Bishop of Ely. The property has an area of 16,600 feet.

The purchase price, at four per cent., represents $400,000, and this was regarded as a poor price to get for it. How surprised some of the old sergeants would be to learn how valuable their property had become!

"Who Are Sea Lords?"

Just now the Sea Lords are the best abused of all Britain's public servants; but, frequently as we hear them spoken of, we know very little who these Sea Lords are, and what they really do.

First comes "Jacky" Fisher, as he is familiarly called in the service, who holds the post of Senior Naval Lord. His duty it is to look after the "war efficiency" of the navy, and he is the chief naval adviser of the First Lord—the Right Hon. Reginald McKenna.

Admiral Sir Francis Bridgeman is Second Naval Lord. In three years he will be celebrating his jubilee as a naval officer. His special function in the Admiralty is to look after the "personnel" of the fleet.

Next comes the Third Naval Lord and Controller, Rear-Admiral Sir John Jellicoe, far-famed for his gunnery reforms. The construction, the equipment, the upkeep of every ship in the service are under his supervision. He is also responsible for the administration of our dockyards.

The Junior Naval Lord, Vice-Admiral Winsloe, may be termed the "odd job" Sea Lord, and deals with matters of transport, coaling, pay, pensions, medals, naval prisons, etc.; while last comes the Civil Lord, Mr. George Lambert, the M.P., with whose decision rests the fate of Jack Tar's bill of fare.

Mr. McKenna himself, the First Lord, is the Minister immediately responsible to the country for the general efficiency of the navy.

Battle Between Trout.

"Gadfly," of Graigellachie, writing to The Field, says: "I was walking towards the pond when I saw a tremendous scrimmage going on—now a fin, now a tail out of water, and on a nearer approach found that it was two large rainbows fighting. They kept swimming round and making violent dashes at each other with wide-open mouths, and now and then I saw mouthfuls of scales flying in the water. They were so busy fighting that they simply took no notice of me, and as they got within reach I put in my stick and tried to separate them, and then I realized what big, strong fish they were; but my pushing at them had no effect at all, and the fight went on. Of course, they soon got out of reach and deeper in the water, and the last I saw of them was merely a continuous boil, which showed that the fight was still going on."

Fine People in 1789.

My lady was as reckless as my lord and rattled the dice box and shuffled the cards from dusk until morning, going home with ruined fortunes in her sedan chair when workmen were going home from latine and loom to breakfast. Family diamonds and jewels and plate were staked when the guineas were exhausted, and when these possessions had gone farms and estates were sacrificed. The amusements too, of wealthy people were of a coarse and cruel description. Rat worrying, cock-fighting and badger baiting were favorite diversions. Prize-fighting was regarded as essential to keep up the courage of Englishmen.—Chambers' Journal.

Strange Nesting Places.

A pair of robins who have built their nest in the cover of a meter at the Market Drayton (Eng.) Electric Light Works have many precedents in the choice of unconventional nesting-places. A year or two ago a robin's nest was built on a bookshelf in a night nursery at Chiselhurst which was occupied without interruption by a nurse and child. Four eggs were laid, and two young birds were hatched out. Two other robins built their nest on the axle of a colliery wagon in daily use at Seghill, in Northumberland. Among other curious recent nesting-places have been the breast-pocket of a scarecrow at Ashbourne, a nail-box in a village forge, the skeleton of a crow and the rifle-range butts at Tipshurst, Sussex.

WAHSATCH MINING COMPANY

Capital Stock 300,000 Shares; Par $5; 20,000 10 per cent. Cumulative Preferred; 280,000 Common Stock.

Property at Bingham City, Utah, on the main line of the Oregon Short Line Railroad.

This property is the result of twenty years of labor and the expenditure of $150,000 by its President, H. C. Baker, director of the Commercial National Bank of Ogden. It is opened in fourteen places; there is a complete equipment and full line of supplies on hand. The preferred stock, which has been up to this time in the treasury, is being sold to provide for the working capital which O. A. Palmer, Engineer of the Ontario Silver Company, with a record of $15,000,000 in dividends, says is necessary to make a dividend payer. Enough stock has been placed to assure the running of the property. President Baker reports that within three months from the date of starting the mill the mine can net $11,000 a month. This means 10 per cent. on the preferred and 7 per cent. on the common.

Wahsatch will be listed at once on the Boston Curb Market and later application will be made to the Boston Stock Exchange. After Listing on the Boston Curb, all offers will be withdrawn. Not a share of the preferred will be sold for less than par and not a share of common for less than $1.00. Further, I stand ready to take any or all offers of stock at these prices.

Now you can buy this stock before listing and sell within two months at an advance. Your preferred stock will positively sell at $7.00 and the common at par within a short while. Furthermore, to each purchaser of a round lot I will agree to transport him or his representative to the mine. I have hold of a winner and shall use it as a clientele increaser.

O. A. Palmer, M.E., says, "To insure proper development and to get the best results in the shortest time, there should be a reserve fund created to draw on of at least $35,000 or $40,000 for the purpose, and from my examination of this particular section and long familiarity and experience with the mining districts and the largest producers of ore in the Wahsatch Range, there is no doubt that the Gold Hill Group of mines will, with this expenditure, be placed on a paying basis.

Summary of Natural Advantages.

This property gives assurance that dividends will be paid steadily, based on the following natural advantages:

Climate—Allowing work throughout the year.

True Fissure Vein—Large quantities of ore.

Creation of Land For Practical Purposes

Will be the Result of Filling in the Water Lots on the Otonabee River

On July 20th, next, the property owners will be given an opportunity to grant the city Council authority to raise funds for the purpose of extending certain streets in the city and for filling in the water lots on the River front. Most of this money has already been expended by past councils who deemed it wise to take advantage of the opportunity when offered and thus saved the city a large sum of money. The full text of the by-law appeared in yesterday morning's Times and will appear at least twice more. But for the benefit of the public generally, it has been deemed advisable to take up the different phases of the by-law and give in brief form their history.

THE WATER LOTS

This article will be devoted to the water lots which lie along the west bank of the Otonabee river from King St. north to the Peterborough cereal works, or nearly to Simcoe Street.

These lots, which were under water until a couple of years ago, extended from the west bank and into the river to a point east of the C. P. R. spur line. At that time they were of very little value being under water. Still, the members of the Council in the latter part of last century saw that the lots would be valuable if filled in and a movement was started to secure a patent of them from the Crown Lands Department at Toronto. For several years, the council was blocked by several parties who were themselves interested in the property.

It was a long fight but in 1902 on the first of February when Mr T. H. O. Donne was mayor, the city was successful in overcoming all the obstacles and received the patents from the Crown Lands Department. In these negotiations Mr. J. R. Stratton M. P., who was then Provincial Secretary, assisted the city materially.

From that time on nothing was done on the property except to dump road scrapings and refuse upon it. About three years ago, however, the Dominion Government, set aside an appropriation for the dredging of a channel in the river from the C. P. R. bridge to the Hunter St. bridge, intending, by the way, to dump the material so taken out in Little Lake.

Then the city thought it a good opportunity to get its property filled in very cheaply. A meeting of the council was held to discuss the matter and it was decided to make an effort to secure the material. Mr. Henry Best was mayor at the time and Ald R. Hicks was chairman of the Board of Works, and it was left to his department to handle the business.

It just happened that at this time that Mr. Geo. Elliott who was one of the council, and the city clerk were going to Ottawa on some other business. While there, however, they looked up Mr. R. R. Hall, the city's representative, and through him secured an interview with the Minister of Public Works. The city's plans were placed before the minister who at once saw the advisability of the scheme and wrote to Mr. Sing, the superintending engineer.

At this point the Board of Works took the matter up with Mr. Sing and an arrangement was made where by the Government was to deliver the material dredged from the river across the C. P. R tracks into the dump cars provided by the city. All the city had to do then was to run it down upon the lots and dump it. In this way a large part of the land lying between the C. P. R. spur to the Quaker Oats Mills and the next bank of the river has been filled in.

At the time the council did not know how much material would be obtained or what the cost would be. Yet they did not wish to delay matters or to loose the opportunity entirely to make cheap land, and therefore proceeded to make use of the material.

In this way, the bulk of the money asked for this purpose in the By-law has been expended, and further authority is asked to raise a small sum in addition to what has been spent so that if the government does more dredging, as it is likely to do, there will be authority and money to again take advantage of the opportunity to get cheap material to fill up more of the land.

Walter J. Francis, Consulting Engineer in Montreal, Offers Practical Advice on This Project

To those interested in the well fare of the city and who are anxious to see Peterborough the most advanced city in the province, it will be good to read what Mr. Walter J Francis, formerly a highly respected citizen of the Electric city, and now a consulting engineer in Montreal, has to say of the proposed concrete arch bridge over the Otonabee river at Smith Street. The plans for this bridge were prepared by Mr. T. A. S. Hay, city engineer. That gentleman spent a great deal of time on the plans. He read and studied the most modern methods of bridge construction. He hunted for material that would be the most permanent and most economical and also with an artistic idea in view. If Mr Hay has anything he does is done in the way which will add beauty. In the case of the Smith street bridge he selected reinforced concrete, and although his first plans were rejected by the people after a most strenuous fight put up by certain citizens, the new plans call for the same material and they have been endorsed by one of the most eminent engineers in the country and one who is known and whose opinions are respected by every citizen of Peterborough.

Mr. Francis in his report of the chairman of the Board of Works writes as follows:—

Harry Phelan Esq.,
Chairman Board of Works,
Peterborough, Ont.

DEAR SIR:—

In accordance with your instructions of the 15th ultime I beg to report the result of my examination of the plans for the purposed reinforced concrete bridge over the Otonabee River at Smith Street.

In view of your expressed desire to have my opinion at the earliest date possible and of the fact, that your city engineer had been unable to complete the drawings and specifications as early as was expected, to expedite matters I conferred with Mr. Hay at his office on several occasions in your city while working on the plans. As a result he was able to incorporate a number of features arising from our discussion of the subject.

I consider that the plans and specifications for the Smith street bridge dated June 19, 1909, will provide a reinforced concrete structure eminently well suited for the site and first class in every respect. The structure will be permanent in character and will require practically no maintenance. It will be economical in cost. The general arrangement and appearance will be very pleasing.

There is no question as to the strength of the design. It will safely sustain your heaviest traffic. According to the present accepted rules of the art the sections of the steel and concrete are liberal, but this can only be criticalized as being on the safe side.

As compared with steel under your conditions I consider the reinforced concrete arches to be preferable. In either case, the foundations and substructure would be practically the same, resolving the question into a comparison of the superstructure. I believe bids would be in favor of the concrete to say nothing of permanency, durability and appearance of the latter material.

A concrete railing on either side of the bridge is preferable to a steel one being more fitting, more permanent and practically no more costly.

The design of the foundation I find to be ample, judging from Mr. Hay's statement that he finds rock at one end of the bridge and coulders firmly embedded in clay at the other. This can only be determined absolutely from the earth at the time of excavation, and the tender provides for actual quantities in footings so no question can arise as to change of footings.

I would strongly recommend the application of a proper coat of asphalt to the extrados of the arch before the gravel filling is placed.

I believe it to be my duty in submitting my opinion on a subject of this character to add that co-operation on the part of all directly interested in the construction is necessary to insure success.

Reinforced concrete is one of the highest types of construction today, but it is one of the newest systems. It differs from the older types in this important feature, namely, that it is really manufactured at the site. Consequently it is at the site that care and skill must be exercised. I do not wish to be misunderstood as saying that it requires more care than other types for it does not. The material for a steel bridge, for instance, is carefully handled by skilled persons in the smelters, rolling mills and bridge shops. It is made up by skilled mechanics under the most favorable conditions and the oversight of competent inspectors. The reinforced concrete requires only a corresponding amount of care.

This leads me to the matter of construction, consider only the proposals of competent, reliable persons skilled in the art.

I trust you may have the best of success and satisfaction in your undertaking and I wish to thank you for the hooor of reporting on this matter.

Yours truly
WALTER J. FRANCIS.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

A failing tiny nerve—no larger than the finest silken thread—takes from the Heart its impulse, its power, its regularity. The Stomach also has its hidden, or inside nerve, it was wrong to drug a weak it was wrong to drug a weak of failing Stomach, Heart or Kidneys. His prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these weak and faltering inside nerves. This, no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even for a few days soon become fully convinced of its wonderful merit. Any way, don't drug the organ. Treating the cause of sickness is the only sensible and successful way. Sold by All Druggists.

Mrs. Holligan on Our Schools

"Do ye think our b'ys will be fairly dacint in their 'xaminashuns this term?" asked Mr. Hooligan as he watched Tim gather up his books and disappear by the kitchen door one rainy June morning.

"Will, they'll not be doin' anny too good this toi me," answered Mrs Hooligan with just the suspicion of a pride that belied her words. "Be sure, Dinnis, as they be your b'ys, they'll be near the top uv th' class, but it's not possibiel to do w'at they did last year. The season is too backward."

"An' w'at has that to do with th' 'xaminashuns, Dora?"

"Iverything, nowadays, Dinnis. Be sure, ye wuddn't say that cold weather kapes back th' crop uv books but th' books have verra little to do with it. Bugs are th' great consarn uv th' High Schools now, an' this shpring, bugs hav' been harrd to git. Last year, Cornelius had wan ub th' foinist collection uv bugs in our school, an' got a hundred fer it, but he'll not git over nivinty this time, he says. 'Twill pull down his avvridge, an' p'raps iffect uther subjec's, fer a good collection uv flies an' beetles 'rouses th' pewpil's anthusyasum fer French an' algebray. Th' day Tim tok th' Luna moth along to school, he was so elated that he said th' full conjugashun uv th' Latin word 'To love' without wan mishtake, which in my day was hild to be a great thing fer anny pewpil to do."

"An' since whin has bugs been so important?" asked Mr Hooligan

"Iver since Masther Hughes made his last trip to New York an' Boston. Since this, Bug-ology has hild first place. Howiver, th' intire currikylum has been in a sh'tate ovvylooshun fr years, as th' scientists say. The famous three R's have been s'planted by th' three B's. Now it's Bug-ology, Bialogy an' Botany. But Bug-ology is by far th' most important. Without a knollidge uv th' seyince uv bugs, no wan need try to be a star pewpil.

"An' it's purfictly proppur too. Manny people hav' much to do wid bugs all their lives, an' that's not sayin' annything against them. Th' term 'bug' is verra inclousive. No, no, it has no rifference to what ye've got in ye'er mind, Dinnis, Bugs means beetles, butterflies, san'flies, miskeetays, moths, ants, snake-charmers,, an' all insec's as has wings, deviloped or latint. To find a new variety is to be head uv th' class fer th' week. It's wanderful to see th' principul uv a school rejice whin a pewpil brings in a new kind uv moth. From from to form he walks with th' pride uv a victhorius baseball player, explosion' th' pricious relic as if it had been in a shrine since th' middle ages. Fifty marks bonus money fer this wanderful achievemint, sez th' principul, an' with that, th' lucky scholar is carrit aff on th' shoulders uv his comrades.

"Times is changin.' 'Tis no longer so wanderful to shpell an' cipher. Whin I was in high school, orthography was important. We were verra proud Rhin we could say ph-t-h-i-s-e, an' the wan that cud say it th' fastest wint to th' top iv th' class. Next to that was logrithums. Some b'ys cud say twenty yards uv thim widout takin' breath. Thin came readin' th' 'Battle uv Waterloo,' an' 'Th' Charge at Ballyklavy.' Now they don't do so much readin'. They draw pictures durin' th' readin' hour Composishun an' lit'rityure is taught largely by absint treatmint. Th' most importhant thin' is to apoid colloquilisms an' provinshullisms. The Canadyanism are bound to crape in, an' must be smuthered out early in life. So is th' pernishus habbitt uv writin' l-a-b-o-r fer l-a-b-o-u-r. 'Tis a mortal sin to leave out a surplus "l" or a "u". I think it's likely that the evil w ill soon be shtamped out. A shrict quarrintine fer a cintury or two will do it. A higher tariff on languidge cross' the lines from th' States wud do much fer th' cause. Meanwhile, Composishun will take care av itself.

"I see by th' papurs that th' Riv' rind Crummy says that the schools are nervous places, an' th' pewpils are too hard worked. 'Tis a pint well taken, Cornelius shows that his nerves is all gone. It takes him fr'm three to four minutes to git to sleep nights. He tosses over onto Timothy an' never lies with his head to th' north pole as he shud. With head, feet an' hands, he stretches out to th' four points uv th' compass That is where th' harm uv th' new Canadyan geography cums in. 'Tother midnight I heard him say, 'I must put th' potaty bug in th' prison bottle, an paste th' spec'min uv th' dandeline in me book.' Overwurked he was, poor lad. The eight minutes' home wurk shattered his nerves. He's not used to it. All winter the b'ys in his form had plinty uv time to go to th' rink an th' hockey matches, an' now the homw wurk comes hard

"They're talkin' uv doin' away wid 'xaminashuns altogether. They say they make nervous wrecks. Missus Clancy, next dure, was tellin' me she wud write a memor'yal fer to Marmydkke Rawlinson uv th' school board, askin' to abolish all tests. She says her Mikey has a headache iv'ry 'xaminashun day an' that's why he is always th' lowest in th' room. She asked me if we'd sign her papur. I told her it wud all depind on how Tim an' Cornelius shtood in th' finals. If th' Bug-ology has helped thim up near th' top uv th' list I'm fer havin 'xaminashuns, but if not, I'm forninst thim.—B. H. S!

Don't Risk even a penny—until health returns. And I mean just exactly that.
I am the one physician who says to the sick, "I will, out of my own pocket, pay for your medicine if it fails to bring you help."
And for 20 years Dr. Shoop's medicines have been used and recommended in every city and hamlet in America. They are positively standard in every community—and everywhere.

Get Health

Then why pay the cash, and at your risk, for other unwarranted and uncertain medicines? Thousands upon thousands have in the past successfully used Dr. Shoop's Restorative.
When the stomach, the heart, the kidneys or the liver fail, it is now known that Dr. Shoop's Restorative will bring them back to health again. But best of all, they positively take no money risk whatever.
They know that when health fails to return Dr. Shoop will himself gladly pay the druggist for that test. And for that test a full 30 day treatment is freely granted.
But write me first for an order.
This will save delay and disappointment.
All druggists sell Dr Shoop's Restorative and Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy, but all are not recommended to cure. That is why I, the pioneer—the first and only honest and responsible druggist in almost every community, everywhere, to issue my "no cure, no pay," medicines to the sick.
Tell me also which book you need.
The books below will surely open up new and helpful ideas to those who are not well. Besides you are perfectly free to consult me just as you would your home physician, My advice and the book before are yours—and without cost.

First Then Pay Afterwards

Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some serious ailment. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescription or personal advice plan. My best effort is surely worth your simple request. So write now while you have it fresh in mind, for tomorrow never comes. Dr. Shoop, Box 12, Racine, Wis.

AGITATION IN BENGAL.

Calcutta, July 7.—There is a recrudescence of political excitement in Eastern Bengal, and meetings to express sympathy with natives who have been deported are of almost daily occurrence. Arabindo Ghose, one of the most prominent of the Indian agitators, is travelling through the country in the interests of an antigovernment campaign. He is preaching that the "flat of God has gone out to the Indian nation to unite, to be free, and to be breat."

"FROM INKLETS"

Some time ago we heard a number of expert uses of INK discussing the relative merits of the various Brands of WRITING INKS, especially for Commercial and Mercantile use, and the unanimous conclusion was that there was not a better INK for this purpose than KEARNS'. We suppose the KEARNS INK COMPANY could sell two or three times its present output; provided they would permit the amount of their sales to take precedence over the quality of their INK, which they guard with the most zealous care. CLEAN Up INSIDE

Blood and System Cleansing in the Spring Makes Good Health all Summer.

In spite of all your careful bathing it is safe to say that in the spring you feel poorly—have a throbbing sensation in the head—skin a pale or yellow, with dark rings under the eyes. If not decidedly bilious the system is so full of bile that you feel heavy and tired all day long.

Clean up, work off the winter's accumulation of waste, purify your blood. Do this and you'll feel fine as a prize-fighter. "Ten years ago," says W. B. Sawyer of Concord, "I suffered great pain from impure blood which made me so debilitated I was unfit for work. I had no appetite, suffered from indigestion and pain. I had some pain in the back, caused by poor kidney action. Spring was the hardest time of all, and many a time I felt despondent and ungrateful enough to throw up the sponge. I was impressed by the marvelous work done by Dr. Hamilton's Pills and tried them. They suited me exactly. In one week I felt like new. I was braced up, got rid of blood weakness, gained in flesh, got back my old time appearance and spirits. Dr. Hamilton's Pills will clean all the sickness out of a man in short order and I urge young and old to use this grand tonic medicine."

Double Banana

A double banana is something of an oddity. It is in fact a rarity and who ever gets this will get double value for their money. At Crawford Grove a young man bought bananas at the booth, and among them was one of exceptional length and girth. On removing the skin two bananas of ordinary size were found. The bunch was examined but no other doubles were found.

To Niagara Falls

Niagara Falls is the objective point of the Brinton Carpet Company's excursion on Saturday, July 24th. They will leave the city at 5.30 a.m. via G. T. R., and will spend the day in and around Niagara Falls, leaving Toronto at 11.30 the same evening to return home. The fare is $2.20 for the trip. Many have already expressed their intention of making the trip, and it is expected that a large number will accompany the Britons.

Go to South Beach

The annual excursion of the Quaker Oats Co., will be held on Saturday to South Beach, Clear Lake. The steamer Otonabee will sail from the Wolf street wharf and go up the canal to the picnic grounds. The arrangements made by the committee justifies the opinion that an enjoyable outing will be the result. There will be a long list of aquatic sports, more prominence being given to this than the usual land events. Full particulars may be had by reading the posters which are found throughout the city.

Nothing in the way of a Cough is quite so annoying as a tickling teasing, wheezing, bronchial Cough. The quickest relief comes perhaps from a prescription known to Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And besides, it is so thoroughly harmless that mothers give it with perfect safety even to the youngest babies. The tender leaves of a simple mountain shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its remarkable curative effect. It is truly a most certain and trustworthy prescription. Sold by All Druggists.

WILL FIGHT.

Premier Says Cameron Septic Tank Co., Has No Claim.

Toronto, July 7.—Mayor Rush of Peterborough, and a deputation of officials from other towns and cities saw the premier today regarding the use of the septic tanks, as to whether the system sanctioned by the Ontario Board of Health is an infringement on the patent of the Cameron Company of Chicago. Sir James said he thought not, and the corporations will combine to fight any action which may ensue. An attorney and Dr. Amyott will look into the possibility of an infringement.

CORNER STONE.

Of All Saints' Church Will Be Laid on Friday Next.

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Sir,—May I use the columns of your paper to extend to the member and adherents of the various Christian congregations of the city a most cordial invitation to the laying of the corner stone of All Saints' church on Rubidge street. Only a very limited number of invitations, by letter (chiefly clerical) has been issued, and I wish to take this means to invite the Christian people of the city more generally. The building of this church means a decided strengthening of the spiritual and moral forces of the city: it will be also an addition to the community in so far as it will add materially to the attractiveness of the city. I trust therefore that this invitation will receive a cordial acceptance on the part of the public, and the ceremony receive a most sympathetic support.

The corner stone will be laid with Masonic ritual by His Honor Judge Harding on Friday evening, at 7.15 p.m.

Yours truly,
H. R. TRUMPUOR,
Rector of All Saints' Parish.
Peterborough, July, 1909.

CHEMONG PARK.

News of Guests at This Popular Summer Resort.

There is the usual large number of Americans at the Park. Many of them are tourists who are staying at the hotel. They have come over to enjoy the fishing and are having rare sport, for lunge and bass in Chemong Lake are biting in a manner to bring joy to even the most pronounced pessimist. Many fine catches have been made, and of course the big ones is going around, both on the land and in the lake. Mr. M. Kondolf and Mr. Chas. B. Bechtold, of Rochester, were among the lucky ones with spoon and line. When they returned home a day or two ago they took back with them their full allowance of lunge. Mr. R. McGill Hood of Peterborough, and Mr. F. Seymour, of Peterborough, had great sport one day this week, getting four lunge in two hours. The four fish totalled thirty pounds.

A party of seven from Rochester N. Y., arrived Monday evening. They are staying at the hotel and have been attended with good luck in their piscatorial operations. The party consists of Dr. and Mrs. A. Killop, and son and daughter, Mr. C. E. Stranchon, Mr. Frank Cassard, Mr. B. L. Gardiner.

Last night there was some excitement around the hotel when an auto belonging to a Peterborough gentleman took a wrong turn in starting and bumped into the fence with considerable damage.

Lady Scraggs, of London, England, and Herr Guarantied Stockle, of Friedburg, Germany, are the guests of Dr. and Mrs. Peake at their summer cottage. Lady Scraggs and Herr Stockle are on a tour of the world, and will leave in a few days for Vancouver, from where they will proceed to Japan.

FRUIT, FRUIT

Now is the time to secure your fruit for preserving. See our cherries. We select nothing but the best and their flavor delicious. S. A. Oke, successor to Kennedy, 340 George Street. Bell Phone 275.

CHIMNEY FIRES

In Peterborough, and their Causes.

According to Chief Howard's report to the council, 37 of the 81 fires during the past six months were due to defective chimneys. In speaking to the chief yesterday, regarding this fact he stated that carelessness upon the part of the residents was the primary cause. They allowed soot to accumulate in the flues, and under that condition a fire was possible at any time. In the larger cities, Toronto, Hamilton, London, etc., a bylaw is enforced by which chimneys must be cleaned twice every year. There is no chimney sweep here and the bylaw of a similar nature is not enforced. Other chimneys are constructed in an improper manner. They rest on a piece of scantling, and the mortar gradually crumbled. When a hot fire is in the stove the wood is ignited. Chief Howard stated that he had not seen many cases of this kind but he felt that they existed. The main cause of fires in chimneys was the accumulated soot catching fire in the cold weather.

ALL WAS OVER.

"Darling, I have something to tell you."

As she spoke the young and beautiful girl looked searchingly at her lover.

"Are you prepared," she murmured, "for the worst?"

He stirred uneasily.

"Yes, dear."

"Before we can be married it will be necessary for you to submit to a test. Next week there will be in our house a family reunion. You must be there."

Suppressing an involuntary shudder the young man, as is usual with all heroes, controlled himself by a supreme effort.

"Must it be?" he asked

"It must. It is the only way."

He mused, and then, his voice quivering with emotion, said

"Your grandfather and grandmother will be present, I suppose?"

"Oh, yes, indeed. As you must know, no family reunion is complete without them."

"There will be an orthadox aunt—one who will question me closely about my religion, my habits, and my prospects?"

"There will."

"Also an uncle—one of the familiar curious kind, who will wish to know about the cost of my clothes, what my salary is, and how many cigarettes I smoke a day?"

"Certainly."

"A cousin or so? The kind who will test my sense of humor and make side remarks to your mother and father?"

"Naturally."

"Will I be asked to read aloud?"

"Probably."

"And romp with the children."

"Of course."

"And possibly to carve—just to see whether I know?"

"Very likely."

The young man rose.

"Darling," he muttered, "we have had many happy hours together. I loved you—I still love you, but this is too much.

To morrow I will return your letters. Farewell, forever."

And as he went thru the front gate he marked it with a double cross, saying to himself with a glad smile:

"Give me liberty or give me death!"

BURIED BROTHER ALIVE.

Horrible Crime of a Twelve-Year-Old Boy.

Modesto, Cal., July 7.—Twelve-year-old Cecil Hopkins, self-confessed slayer of his 6 year old brother, Theodore, made a statement to the coroner that strengthens that official's belief that the victim was buried alive on the hill where his body was found. As he told of the shooting and subsequent burial of his brother, Cecil ate candy and apparently failed to realize the gravity of his crime. According to his story, he killed Theodore while the parents were absent from home. The two quarreled over their luncheon and Cecil drove his brother from the house and shot him. Fearing the consequence of his deed when the parents should return, he dug a grave in the sand. While the grave was being dug Cecil said Theodore moaned and stretched his arms. The cramped position of the arms and the fact that the victim's mouth was filled with sand strengthens the theory that the child was buried alive.

Western Canada Wood Pulp & Paper Co. Ltd.

HEAD OFFICE, 638 VIEW ST. VICTORIA, B. C.

Plant Now Under Course of Erection at Quatsina Sound, Vancouver Island.

Assets

The company have acquired 56,000 acres of Pulp Land on Quatsino Sound, Vancouver Island.

Water Power

In addition to the vast Pulp Limits acquired, the company have also secured a 20,000 inch water record on Marble Creek, at Quatsino Sound, capable of developing from 10,000 to 15,000 h.p. This creek derives its source from three lakes 20 miles in length and is thus permanent the year round.

Capacity of Plant

The plant when fully complete will have a capacity of 600 tons of news and wrapping per week, we are rushing the work along and feel confident that we will have the pulp plant with a weekly capacity of 100 tons in operation by December 1st of this year.

Cost of Manufacture

With our tremendous pulp limits, which enable us to secure our pulp wood at a nominal figure, and splendid water power, the cost of manufacture of news and wrapping paper should not exceed $3,000 per ton. At present news is selling in British Columbia at $60.00 per ton. The freight rate in carload lots from Ontario and Quebec being $17.00 per ton.

Local Markets

The local market of the company extends east a thousand miles to Moose Jaw and tributary region. Within the above territory the annual consumption of paper is estimated at a thousand tons exclusive of that used by printers and newspapers. The five daily papers at Victoria and Vancouver alone consume over 100 carloads of paper per year.

Foreign Markets

The foreign markets of the company consist of China, Japan, New Zealand, Australia, Hawaii and the Philippines. In 1908 the above countries imported over $10,000,000 worth of wood pulp and paper, principally from Norway, Sweden, Germany, Eastern United States and Eastern Canada.

Freight Rates to Orient

A freight rate of from $3.00 to $5.00 per ton can be secured from British Columbia to China, Japan, New Zealand and Australia, on wood pulp and paper as against a rate of $7.00 to $15.00 per ton on the same commodities from Eastern Canada and Europe. Being from 3,000 to 8,000 miles nearer the Oriental market than Eastern Canada or European mills we are not only able to secure a much lower freight rate, but also a lower insurance rate.

Natural Advantages of British

News and wrapping paper are manufactured principally from Spruce, Hemlock, Balsam and Larch wood, one ton of chemical wood pulp requires approximately two cords of four foot wood. At present Spruce and Hemlock wood is worth from $6.00 to $8.00 per cord, in Eastern Canada; our facilities enable us to secure it at less than $3.00 per cord. In 1908 the American mills were obliged to pay from $9.00 to $15.00 per cord.

Progress of Work

We are proceeding as fast as possible with the work. The erection of the plant has been placed under the executive supervision of Mr. Charles B. Pride, of Appleton, Wis., one of the most distinguished authorities on the erection of pulp and paper mills in the United States, having built more than fifty of the leading mills of the country and he is confident at being able to have the pulp mill in operation by December 1st of this year.

Sale of Stock

In offering the preferred stock of this corporation, we do so with a feeling that it is the best industrial stock ever offered for subscription in Western Canada. At present it is impossible to buy stock in the majority of the operating mills of Canada and there is no question but that inside of 18 months the stock of this corporation will be selling at a handsome premium; remember the time to buy stock is any corporation is six months before a wheel has been turned, not after it is in operation.

Profits in Pulp and Paper Manufacture

No industry, not even mining itself, has yielded as large and permanent dividends as the manufacture of Wood Pulp and Paper, and there is no reason why the mill which we are now erecting should not pay at least 25 per cent. annual dividends. Under much less favorable conditions, the Eastern Canadian and English mills are paying from 10 to 25 per cent. With our natural advantages, we should be able to make a profit of approximately $15.00 per ton on news paper, $20.00 per ton on Wrapping paper, and $15.00 per ton on box board and pulp board. The Pacific Coast mills of the United States are now making a net profit, after deducting depreciation, operating expenses, bonds, & etc., of approximately $15.00 per ton on wrapping and $15.00 per ton on box and pulp boards, and this after paying from $6.00 to $8.00 per cord for wood. In 1908 the Laurentide Paper Co. showed a profit of $734,658. The Kellner-Partington Pulp and Paper Co. showed a gross profit last year of $1,252,326. The official United States Government Report, issued at Washington, D. C., July 25th, 1907, Bulletin 80, showed that the mills of the State of Oregon made a profit of 30 3-3 per cent, of the value of goods over all expenses, of 19 per cent. The gross profits of the International PaPer Co., for the year ending June 30th, 1908, amounted to $1,636,912.

Under date of February 19th, 1908, Mr. Herman Ridder, President of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, filed charges against the Paper Trust of the United States, and in his disposition to Hon. Chas. J. Bonaparte, Attorney General of the United States, said:

"News print paper mills that are not entirely modern are now making paper at figures that show a profit of more than $20.00 per ton on the paper prices just announced by the International Paper Co., $57.50 per ton. In other words, for paper delivered, say, in New York, up-to-date mills are making a profit of more than 60 per cent. on the cost of manufacture, delivery and storage, and they are making a profit of more than 40 per cent. upon a reasonable allowance for the capital required for a modern plant."

With our close proximity to the Oriental market, there is no reason why we should not make, conservatively, 10 per cent. more dividends than the Eastern Canadian or American Mills. In 1908, Australia imported over 60,000 tons of News principally from Eastern Canada and Europe. Why should we let this great volume of paper go to Eastern Canada, Eastern United States, and Europe, when we are in a position to control it ourselves? Every dollar of paper used in the Orient should be furnished from Western Canada. With sufficient mills to produce the goods, what country is in a better position to control the trade of the Orient than British Columbia. Not only are we able to manufacture News and Wrapping Paper from $2.00 to $3.00 per ton lower than Eastern Canada and American mills, but we are from 2,000 to 3,000 miles nearer the great Oriental markets. The demand for News and Wrapping Paper is gradually increasing, and, within ten years, China, Japan, Australia and New Zealand will be absolutely dependent upon this Providence for its supply of pulp and paper. We know the big dividends that the paper mills of the world are paying, and with our immense timber limits, covering 56 square miles, which assures a permanent supply of wood at a nominal cost, there is no reason why we should not pay even larger dividends than the present operating mills.

The preferred stock is entitled to a cumulative dividend of 7 per cent., payable before any dividend is paid on the ordinary stock. After 7 per cent. has been paid upon both the preferred and ordinary shares, both stocks thereafter participate equally.

If You Read Our Writeups Every Day It will Help You to Win---Your Efforts will Not be Wasted if they Are Judiciously Applied at This Time

The Morning Times has been talking pretty straight to you about this contest, and while some of you have become interested, others seem not to recognize this as the opportunity of a lifetime to secure "something for nothing," so to speak. Be assured that we expect to profit more or less by this contest, and the beauty of it is that we have so arranged it that you, too, may profit. And why not? Is it not better so? We are glad to be able to do this, as it will not only increase the circulation of the Morning Times but will work to the benefit of all parties concerned. But we do advise those who expect to be among the winners at the close to be a little more likely about getting the subscriptions which are necessary to securing votes, which are in turn necessary to the winning of these prizes. We do not want you to be disappointed when the final vote is counted, and for that reason we are continually advising you to do your very best. Don't let one single friend escape. Approach them with your story. Don't let one refusal discourage you. Go immediately to the next friend. Keep after them. You will never have cause to regret your work. And besides, you'll have something to remember The Peterboro Morning Times by. That is just what we are after.

You no doubt have many friends who are not regular subscribers to the Morning Times. Get them to join our permanent list and to pay their subscriptions in advance. It may be that some of them do not take any paper at all. Show them the many advantages of The Morning Times, and it will not take them long to decide that they need it in their home. Remember that organization is a great help. Call a meeting of half a dozen of your friends. Tell them that you have made up your mind to secure one of these valuable awards, and that you need their assistance! Get each one to promise to devote a few minutes of his time daily to that end. Get each one to promise to see at least three of his friends in your behalf daily, and secure their subscriptions. In other words secure an endless friendship chain for the purpose of securing subscription.

Second Annual Outing of A. W. Cressman & Co's. Employees

The employes of Messrs. A. W. Cressman & Co., had a thoroughly enjoyable time yesterday afternoon and evening. It was the occasion of their second annual picnic, and also the celebration of the first half holiday this summer. The firm charted the steamer Monarch, and about 65 employes along with Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Cressman were on board. The boat left the city about two o'clock, and went down below Hale's bridge where they landed and spent several very pleasant hours. The day was an ideal one, and the park was in excellent condition. Supper was served on the ground and an excellent program of sports was run off. These were participated in by all, and were thus made the more enjoyable.

The return trip was very pleasant. The night was beautiful, and not too cool, while the boat made splendid time, and landed the party at home about ten o'clock in the evening, all feeling much better for the outing.

Burglar Kills Woman After Fierce Fight

New York, July 8.—Mrs. Sophie Staber, wife of George Staber, an importer on Duane street, this city, was shot and instantly killed in her home in Flatbush, Long Island, while aiding her son in a struggle with a burglar early today.

George Staber was awakened before daylight by the entrance of the burglar, and fought with the intruder on the stairs. Mrs. Staber rushed to her son's assistance with a cry of warning.

As she reached the head of the stairs the burglar called out to her: "Stop, or I'll kill you."

Mrs. Staber ignored the warning and the burglar fired, the bullet striking her in the breast. She fell to the full bottom of the stairs and expired.

The burglar shaking off the son, dove through a window and escaped. Two hats found in the yard indicated that the murderer had an assistant on guard outside the house.

In 1904, after the Youngstown strike and the "cratting" of all the American steel hoop mills, there were	36,000	70,000
In 1905, after the National Bridge Co. had banished the Amalgamated, the structural iron workers and union machinists, there were	24,000	84,000

Today, with 8000 Amalgamated association men on strike, and every union mill shut down, the trust is putting on extra forces at its nonunion plants, with the probable results	NONE	120,000

The figures given are all of skilled workmen.

Pittsburg, July 8.—Nine years ago this coming fall J. P. Morgan faced Theo. Shaffer, then president of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, in the Morgan offices in New-York. They were settling the great steel strike of 1901 Morgan, white with rage, turned to Shaffer and said:

"I'll smash your union for this. It will take me just four years. At the end of that time you'll not have a union man at work in the mills of my combine."

Thatwas in October of 1901, Thursday, July 1, Morgan made good his word. But it had taken him nearly nine years, instead of four.

There isn't a union man at work today in the mills of the steel trust, which employs 120,000 to 180,000 skilled workers in making iron and steel and tin, and turning out bridges

Central Ontario Medical Society Urge Building Isolation Hospital

Annual Meeting Held Last Night---Officers were Elected---Scarlet Fever was Discussed

An enthusiastic gathering of the members of the Central Ontario Medical Society was held in the Bank of Montreal chambers last night. There was a large turnout, and the City Council came in for a share of just criticism. It was in the year 1903 that the medical society recommended the council to build an isolation hospital for infectious diseases. Nothing but a little talk was done by the city fathers. Just three years later the council was again reminded of the necessity of the isolation hospital. Yet all that has been done is to have a set of perpetual plans and specifications drawn. Whether the council has any more intention now of doing anything it is hard to say. Still the doctors once more urged upon the council the necessity for this building.

At the meeting of the Medical Society the chief topic of discussion was the presence of scarlet fever and the demands for an isolation hospital. There is a lot of scarlet fever in this city and there have been more or less patients suffering from contagious diseases in the city for several years. One of the safest and surest way of stamping out these troubles is by isolation. Here such action is impossible as there is no place to put a patient. The city needs an isolation hospital and the sooner it gets here the better.

In this connection the society passed the following resolution:—

"That in the opinion of this society there is an urgent demand for the immediate establishment of an isolation hospital for the city of Peterborough, the infectious diseases being constantly in our midst for several years, and as rigid isolation is the most essential means to stamp out cases of this kind and suitable means and equipment should be provided to further this end.

The society also decided that it was in the public interest that the medical health officer should see every quarantined case before the quarantine is raised.

The doctors also discussed that dread disease tuberculosis. There should be ab hospital or two provided for the special treatment of tuberculosis, but as the council has no money this year the matter was allowed to stand over. A hospital and pathological labratory should be provided.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

Officers were elected for the ensuing year as follows:—

President—J. M. McCullough.
1st Vice—G. S. Cameron.
2nd Vice—E. V. Frederick.
Secretary—C. H. Amys.
Treasurer—W. D. Scott.
Executive Committee—W. Caldwell, A. Hammond, A. W. MacPherson.
Auditors—Doctors Amys, Caldwell, McCullough and Cameron.

Saved Baby from Being Ground to Death

London, Ont., July 8.—Rare presence of mind and magnificent pluck was all that prevented Mrs. Oscar Wanton and her two-year-old baby from being ground to death beneath the wheels of the merry-go-round at Springbank Park.

Mrs. Wanton was standing on the platform holding the baby on a horse when a section of the merry-go-round gave way and she and the baby were thrown between the wheel. She managed to grab the flooring with one hand and held on to the child with the other, and was dragged around twice before the machine was stopped. When passing through the part where the cables run she was almost torn from her hold and her clothing was ripped to shreds. As the machine was stopped the two were extricated, and the crowd of picnickers who saw the accident cheered the woman heartily. It is likely she will be presented with a medal for her bravery.

Peterborough Oddfellows Decorate Graves of Their Departed Brethern

About 100 members of Otonabee and Peterborough lodges of Oddfellows, made up the procession which formed at Central Park yesterday afternoon and headed by the 57th Regiment Band proceeded to Little Lake cemetery to commemorate Decoration Day. This occasion in Oddfellowship is one of the most important, and the one which creates the most interest among the public at large. Decoratibn Day is looked forward to by all classes from year to year as on that day all meet as one greatfamily at the cemetery and there in loving memory of the departed friends and relatives place floral monuments upon the graves. It is a solemn occasion, and at the same time it is a joyous one, for while the living mourned the loss of those gone, they rejoice in the belief that they are at peace with God. From the dead, too, comes the message, earnest and sincere, for the living to live in great faith and in closer communion with God.

The Oddfellows' procession formed at Central Park. Each member of the society carried in his hand a beautiful bouquet, and with the 57th Band ahead playing appropriate music they presented a most impressive spectacle as they proceeded to Little Lake cemetery, or the "City of the Dead. Lieut-Col. Miller marshalled the parade and at the cemetery they were met by Mr. Frank Wise, who had the lists of the graves to be decorated.

The clergy was represented by Rev. Mr. Trumpour of All Saints, Rev. Mr. Keith of Knox, Rev. Mr. Potter of St. Andrew's, Rev. Mr. Coon of Mark street, and Rev. Mr. Webb of Murray street.

THE CEREMONY.

When the procession entered the cemetery the Oddfellows gathered in front of the chapel, where the band accompanied the singing of "Nearer My God to Thee." Then Mr. Keith led in prayer, and the Oddfellows were divided in four sections and proceeded to decorate the graves of the following departed brethren:

Sheriff Hall, S. Albio, W. Gilbert, Richard Kingdon, W. H. Wrighton, Wmf Hall, Robt. Rowe, John H. Cameron, D. Baillie, Jas. Hamilton, Dr. Wm. Bell, Arthur Rutherford, G Rubidge, A. Baptie, W. C. Downer, D. Breeze, John Fraser, Nanthan Nicholls, Steve Roadhouse, W. H. J. Vizard, C. Beauchere, W. S. Conger, John Reid, Dr. McNab, Jas. McKim, S. White, A. Wilson, J. W. Doxsee, Dr. Allen, Andrew Tully, J. Eastland, Dr. H. Bennett, C. A. White, F. Foote, A. McCallum, F. Logan, J. A. McDonald, A. Sawers, D. Carlisle, W. Beale, Jas. Bird, J. Swanton, John E. Parsons, John W. Armstrong, Jas. W. Crossley, W. Mogge, L. E. Gillespie, Robt. Smyth, John Fanning, Jos. Phillips, Chevelier W. Smith, Jas. McWilliams, Walter J. Roberts, John Frances, Thos. Goonal, Col. McDonald, Fred Rubidge, Geo. Jenkins, F. Ferguson, Jas. Ferguson, Geo. McBurney, W. H. Scott, Jas. Foley, D. Sim, Wm. Galley, J. Martin, T. H. J. Buckett, A. Mooney, T. H. Forster, Geo. Milne, John Milne, J. Robinson, J. L. Hughes, Judge G. B. Hall, T. Fortye, C. Perry, W. J. Robough, E. Chamberlain, Jas. Harvey.

THE SPEECHES.

After the graves were decorated the Oddfellows and the immense crowd of friends, with the band and the representatives of the ministers gathered upon the sward just below and south of the chapel. Here the band rendered several sacred selections, and the chair was taken by D.D.G.M. A. A. Fowler, who, after a few preliminary remarks called upon the Orpheus quartette for a selection. During the afternoon the quartette sang several times and made a good impression.

Rev. Mr. Keith was the first speaker. He stated the ceremonies of yesterday were in the language of flowers. Flowers at all times carry a message of love and they wield a powerful influence. The gift of flowers is an emblem of self sacrifice and are emblematic of benevolence and they speak to us of immortality. This simple ceremony of placing a bunch of flowers upon the graves is wonderful in its influence. The flowers themselves convey a message of love and memory distinctly their own.

Rev. Mr. Trumpour said that one could only say on occasions of this kind, which calls forth the greatest oratory in literature, that it is hard

TWO GRASS FIRES.

In Ashburnham late Yesterday Afternoon.

The local fire department had business in bunches yesterday afternoon about six o'clock. An alarm was sent in from box 52, and it was discovered that a grass fire at the rear of St. Luke's driving sheds had spread to the fences and sheds. The firemen soon had it out and no damage was done.

Just as they were picking up the hose a second alarm was sounded from box 57. It was another grass fire along the railway track. No damage was done there either.

500 Soldiers at Halifax Leave for Glace Bay

Ottawa, July 8.—It is officially announced that the Halifax regiment has gone to the scene of the miners strike at Glace Bay, N.S. This was done at the request of County Judge Finlayson, of Sydney, who, upon the refusal of the mayor of Glace Bay to act in the matter, called upon the district officer commanding to send troops. The mayor of Glace Bay telegraphed the militia department against the coming out of the troops, but the department had no power to act in the matter, the procedure being absolutely within legality.

Halifax, N.S., July 8.—The military train for Cape Breton, with 510 men and 24 officers, left here at 3.47 o'clock this morning and is not expected to arrive at Sydney until about 5 o'clock this evening, as the train is a heavy one.

The force, which is under command of Col. Wadmore, Royal Canadian Regiment, with Major MacDonnell as staff officer, consists of 250 men from the R.C.R., 200 from the Cameron Highlanders, and 50 men from the Army Medical and Army Service Corps.

The force took along two machine guns and a complete equipment, with two days' rations.

The requisition for troops was received at 10.30 o'clock last night, and inside of six hours the force was on its way.

The ammunition to be used will be served out in Cape Breton.

Catarrh Is an Insidious Disease, scarcely Noticeable at First, but Horribly Relentless if not Checked.

No disease makes such inroads into weak constitutions as Catarrh. It spreads from the place of beginning to the lungs, bronchial tubes, stomach, intestines, and before long all the organs of the body are affected.

A splendid remedy, attended with remarkable success in curing Catarrh, has lately come prominently to the front. Its name is Catarrhozone, and no case is recorded where it failed to quickly relieve and cure.

The strong points about Catarrhozone are that it is both a local and constitutional treatment. It not only affords quick relief to the local symptoms, but also purifies the blood of all internal poisons, builds up and strengthens the system.

Catarrhozone Inhaler supplies in abundance of medicated air which is breathed in at the mouth, and after passing through every air cell and passage of the breathing organs, is slowly exhaled through the nostrils.

This penetrating, volatile antiseptic at once kill the germs that cause Catarrh and prevents the disease spreading when once established. It is so healing and soothing that the inflamed membranes and sore spots are restored to normal and healthy condition in a few days.

Catarrhozone cleanses the nose and throat and keeps them entirely free of mucous discharge. It prevents dropping in the throat, cures headache and makes breathing easy and the breath pure an sweet.

To build up and invigorate the system, a blood purifier and tonic called Ferrozone should be taken after each meal. In conjunction with Catarrhozone it is a valuable aid in establishing such a healthy condition of the body that Catarrh cannot exist.

Other medicines have been known to give relief, but to permanently eradicate every trace of Catarrh you must use Catarrhozone. It is a common-sense, convenient, clean method of cure that is endorsed by the profession and all intelligent pharmacists

You are sure to be benefitted quickly and positively cured by Catarrhozone. The complete outfit costs only $1.00, Trial Size, 25c. Sold by Druggists and N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

THE NATIONAL IDEAL.

Earl Grey declares that provided Canada keeps her judiciary pure, her politics clean, her administration honest, remarks the Brantford Expositor, nothing can prevent her becoming the most populous, wealthy and if she lives right, the most influential portion of the empire,—the controlling factor of the empire of self-governing nations.

This declaration, made at a Dominion Day dinner in England, should prove an inspiration to Canadians in attaining to the high ideals of nationhood which the Governor-General entertains for the Dominion.

There is no reason why the prophesy should not be fulfilled. Certain it is, at any rate. Canadians should experience little difficulty in meeting the conditions which are thus laid down as a means to that end. The Canadian judiciary is above reproach and will undoubtedly maintain its reputation unimpeached. The responsibility for clean politics rests with the citizenship of the country and should be borne readily if the press, the pulpit and the universities are true to their mission in creating and fostering a spirit of independence and righteousness with moral fibre in it. Administrative honestly will speedily follow a revival in public life to the enthronement of truth honor and integrity.

Canadians should steadily press towards the mark in order that the national ideal may be attained and the national mission fulfilled.

GREETING SPRING.

An Old and Picturesque Custom in Switzerland.

The first of March is a day of joyful festivity among the school children in most of the Engadine communes in Switzerland. At 4 o'clock in the morning a party of schoolboys march through the village clanging cowbells, big and little, with all their might to proclaim the dawn of a boisterous day to their slumbering schoolmates still abed.

As the day grows bright the boys gather, each one with a huge bell hung around his neck, on the village square, where they form in ranks, according to their size. When the preparations, always conducted amid great excitement and juvenile jubilation, have been completed the procession starts on a tour through the streets to the accompaniment of furious bell ringing and noisy yodeling.

One of the eldest of the demonstrators, with a milk pail on his shoulder and dressed in the costume of a dairyman, with yellow breeches, white stockings, low shoes, finely embroidered braces over a shirt of spotless white, turned up sleeves, displaying a brawny arm, the dairyman's hat perched jauntily on the back of his head, marches proudly at the head of the herd. At the end of the procession is another big boy with a big staff in his hand like a herdsman.

All this reminds us of the way the cows go to the Alps to the sound of bells. The whole festival is nothing but a spring celebration to herald the return of the milder season, which has been looked forward to with longing for months.

The custom is said to be of Roman origin; hence its name, "Chalanda Marz" (from Kalendare), which justifies the assumption that, from the period of the year chosen for the observance of this festival, it must have originated in the mild climate of Italy and not in the cold clime of the Engadine.

In the way described the troop marches on from house to house and is presented by the matrons with rice, chestnuts, sausages, bread and even money. The hotels are all visited, and the guests always contribute some small change. Out of the proceeds a general jollification is provided, in which the girls of the neighborhood take part.

How intense is the youngsters' enjoyment of the Chalanda Mars festivities can scarcely be imagined by any one who has not looked on at these annual junkettings.

In the Days of Sir Allan MacNab.

A Hamilton paper says the remains of Sir Allan MacNab will be removed from Dundurn Park to Holy Sepulchre cemetery, after resting in the former place for nearly seventy-five years.

Hardly so long. Sir Allan was still very much alive when The Toronto Examiner of June 16, 1847, said of him:

"Sir Allan MacNab is a great man. Speaker of the House of Assembly, juggling director of the Great Western Railroad Co., the representative of Hamilton, president of the Gore District Turf Club, and the pious defender of the rights and wrongs of mother church. The races are coming on. Pity Sir Allan cannot be in two places at once—cannot attend to the important business of the turf and the petty business of the Legislature at the same time."

How courteous were these old-time papers in their references to public men, and how full of news! One looks in vain for a report of said races, but finds instead an editorial jeremiad. The races and the circus, said The Examiner, filled the police court, and it called upon the Government for their abolition.—Toronto Saturday Night.

Rubinstein's Free Seat.

A pianist who was pre-eminently successful in his day was Rubenstein, who traveled nearly the whole world over delighting people with his genius. He was very much annoyed by requests for complimentary tickets, but most of the time he maintained his composure, even though justly irritated. It is told of him that just before one of his recitals in London he was accosted by an old lady in the entrance hall and thus addressed:

"Oh, Mr. Rubenstein, I am so glad to see you! I have tried in vain to purchase a ticket. Have you a seat you could let me have?"

"Madam," said the great pianist, "there is but one seat at my disposal, and that you are welcome to if you think fit to take it."

"Oh, yes, and a thousand thanks! Where is it?" was the excited reply.

"At the piano," smilingly replied Rubinstein.

Toasted Bread.

Bread that has been toasted until it becomes brown has had the starch in it largely converted into dextrin, and hence, so far as the brown portion is concerned, one of the processes of digestion is gone through before the bread is taken into the stomach. It will be found that the thinner the slices of bread and the more thoroughly toasted—not burned, but changed to a deep brown color—it will be found still more easily digested.—London Standard.

Courteous Cabby.

A pompous looking lawyer once chartered a hansom cab, and on reaching his destination he only gave his driver the shilling required by law.

The driver looked at the coin and bit his lip. Then in the most courteous manner he motioned to his fare to get in again.

"Do step in again, sir," he said. "I could ha' drive ye a yard or two further for this 'ere."

Looking Forward.

"Johnny," said Mr. Bliggens, "I want you to study hard and learn all you possibly can."

"Did you do that?"

"No, my son, I did not. But I want you to escape the trouble my inattention has caused me. When you grow up and have a son I don't want you to be humiliated by being unable to answer your boy's questions."

At the Box Office.

"Give me two seats, center orchestra, fifth row, for Oct. 20, 1912."

"Are you crazy?"

"Very likely, but I thought I might get ahead of your speculators on the sidewalk."

The Irrelevance of Prue.

He came at eight; he stayed till nine;
At ten he still was there,
And he was talking fit and fine
When midnight chilled the air.

Nor comprehend today
What Prue referred to when she said,
"We move the first of May."

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

WABASH MINING COMPANY
Capital Stock 300,000 Shares; Par $5; 20,000 10 per cent. Cumulative Preferred; 280,000 Common Stock.

Property at Bingham City, Utah, on the main line of the Oregon Short Line Railroad.

This property is the result of twenty years of labor and the expenditure of $150,000 by its President, H. C. Baker, director of the Commercial National Bank of Ogden. It is opened in fourteen places; there is a complete equipment and full line of supplies on hand. The preferred stock, which has been up to the time in the treasury, is being sold to provide for the working capital which O. A. Palmer, Engineer of the Ontario Silver Company, with a record of $15,000,000 in dividends, says is necessary to make a dividend payer. Enough stock has been placed to assure the running of the property. President Baker reports that within three months from the date of starting the mill the mine can net $11,000 a month. This means 10 per cent. on the preferred and 7 per cent. on the common.

Wabasatch will be listed at once on the Boston Curb Market and later application will be made to the Boston Stock Exchange. After listing on the Boston Curb, all offers will be withdrawn. Not a share of the preferred will be sold for less than par and not a share of common for less than $1.00. Further, I stand ready to take any or all offers of stock at these prices.

Now you can buy this stock before listing and sell within two months at an advance. Your preferred stock will positively sell at $7.00 and the common at par within a short while. Furthermore, to each purchaser of a round lot I will agree to transport him or his representative to the mine. I have hold of a winner and shall use it as a clientele increaser.

O. A. Palmer, M.E., says, "To insure proper development and to get the best results in the shortest time, there should be a reserve fund created to draw on of at least $35,000 or $40,000 for the purpose, and from my examination of this particular section and long familiarity and experience with the mining districts and the largest producers of ore in the Wabasatch Range, there is no doubt that the Gold Hill Group of mines will, with this expenditure, be placed on a paying basis.

Summary of Natural Advantages.

This property gives assurance that dividends will be paid steadily, based on the following natural advantages:

Climate—Allowing work throughout the year.
True Fissure Vein—Large quantities of ore.

Western Canada Wood Pulp & Paper Co. Ltd.

HEAD OFFICE, 638 VIEW ST. VICTORIA, B. C.

Plant Now Under Course of Erection at Quatsina Sound, Vancouver Island.

Asset.

The company have acquired 15,000 acres of Pulp Land on Quatsino Sound, Vancouver Island.

Water Power

In addition to the vast Pulp Limits acquired, the company have also secured a 30,000 inch water record on Marble Creek, at Quatsino Sound, capable of developing from 10,000 to 15,000 h.p. This creek derives its source from three lakes 20 miles in length and is thus permanent the year round

Capacity of Plant

The plant when fully complete will have a capacity of 500 tons of news and wrapping per week. We are rushing the work along and feel confident that we will have the pulp plant with a weekly capacity of 100 tons in operation by December 1st of this year.

Cost of Manufacture

With our tremendous pulp limits, which enable us to secure our pulp wood at a nominal figure, and splendid water power, the cost of manufacture of news and wrapping paper should not exceed $5,000 per ton. At present news is jobbing in British Columbia at $60.00 per ton. The freight rate in carload lots from Ontario and Quebec being $17.00 per ton.

Local Markets

The local market of the company extends east a thousand miles to Moose Jaw and tributary region. Within the above territory the annual consumption of paper is estimated at a thousand tons exclusive of that used by printers and newspapers. The five daily papers at Victoria and Vancouver alone consume over 500 carloads of paper per year.

Foreign Markets

The foreign markets of the company consist of China, Japan, New Zealand, Australia, Hawaii and the Philippines. In 1906 the above countries imported over $50,000,000 worth of wood pulp and paper, principally from Norway, Sweden ,Germany ,Eastern United States and Eastern Canada.

Freight Rates to Orient

A freight rate of from $3.00 to $5.00 per ton can be secured from British Columbia to China, Japan, New Zealand and Australia ,on wood pulp and paper as against a rate of $7.00 to $15.00 per ton on the same commodities from Eastern Canada and Europe. Being from 3,000 to 5,000 miles nearer the Oriental market than Eastern Canada or European mills we are not only able to secure a much lower freight rate, but also a lower insurance rate.

Natural Advantages of British C

News and wrapping paper are manufactured principally from Spruce, Hemlock, Balsam and Larch wood, one ton of chemical wood pulp requires approximately two cords of four foot wood. At present Spruce and Hemlock wood is worth from $6.00 to $9.00 per cord, in Eastern Canada; our facilities enable us to secure it at less than $3.00 per cord. In 1906 the American mills were obliged to pay from $8.00 to $22.00 per cord.

Progress of Work

We are proceeding as fast as possible with the work. The erection of the plant has been placed under the exclusive supervision of Mr. Charles B. Pride, of Appleton, Wis., one of the most distinguished authorities on the erection of pulp and paper mills in the United States,having built more than fifty of the leading mills of the country and he is confident of being able to have the pulp mill in operation by December 1st of this year.

Sale of Stock

In offering the preferred stock of this corporation, we do so with a feeling that it is the best industrial stock ever offered for subscription in Western Canada. At present it is impossible to buy stock in the majority of the operating mills of Canada and there is no question but that inside of 18 months the stock of this corporation will be selling at a handsome premium; remember the time to buy stock in any corporation is six months before a wheel has been turned, not after it is in operation.

Profits in Pulp and Paper Manufacture

No industry, not even mining itself, has yielded as large and permanent dividends as the manufacture of Wood Pulp and Paper, and there is no reason why the mill which we are now erecting should not pay at least 25 per cent, annual dividends. Under much less favorable conditions, the Eastern Canadian and English mills are paying from 10 to 25 per cent. With our natural advantages, we should be able to make a profit of approximately $15.00 per ton on news paper, $20.00 per ton on Wrapping paper, and $15.00 per ton on box board and pulp board. The Pacific Coast mills of the United States are now making a net profit, after deducting depreciation, operating expenses, bonds, & etc., of approximately $15.00 per ton on wrapping and $15.00 per ton on box and pulp boards, and this after paying from $6.00 to $8.00 per cord for wood. In 1906 the Laurentide Paper Co. showed a profit of $251,464. The Kellner-Partington Pulp and Paper Co. showed a gross profit last year of $1,252,395. The official United States Government Report, issued at Washington, D. C., July 25th, 1907, Bulletin 88, showed that the mills of the State of Oregon made a profit of 36 3-3 per cent. of the value of goods over all expenses, of 19 per cent. The gross profits of the International PaPer Co., for the year ending June 30th, 1905, amounted to $1,436,918.

Under date of February 19th, 1906, Mr. Herman Ridder, President of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, filed charges against the Paper Trust of the United States, and in his disposition to Hon. Chas. J. Bonaparte, Attorney-General of the United States, said:

"News print paper mills that are not entirely modern are now making paper at figures that show a profit of more than $36.00 per ton on the paper prices just announced by the International Paper Co., $53.50 per ton. In other words, for paper delivered, say, in New York, up-to-date mills are making a profit of more than 60 per cent. on the cost of manufacture, delivery and storage, and they are making a profit of more than 40 per cent. upon a reasonable allowance for the capital required for a modern plant."

With our close proximity to the Oriental market, there is no reason why we should not make, conservatively, 10 per cent. more dividends than the Eastern Canadian or American Mills. In 1905, Australia imported over 60,000 tons of News principally from Eastern Canada and Europe. Why should we let this great volume of paper go to Eastern Canada, Eastern United States, and Europe, when we are in a position to control it ourselves? Every dollar of paper used in the Orient should be furnished from Western Canada. With sufficient mills to produce the goods, what country is in a better position to control the trade of the Orient than British Columbia. Not only are we able to manufacture News and Wrapping Paper from $2.00 to $3.00 per ton lower than Eastern Canada and American mills, but we are from 2,000 to 3,000 miles nearer the great Oriental market. The demand for News and Wrapping Paper is gradually increasing, and, within ten years, China, Japan, Australia and New Zealand will be absolutely dependent upon this Providence for the supply of pulp and paper. We know the big dividends that the paper mills of the world are paying, and with our immense timber limits, covering 36 square miles, which assures a permanent supply of wood at a nominal cost, there is no reason why we should not pay even larger dividends than the present operating mills.

The preferred stock is entitled to a cumulative dividend of 7 per cent., payable before any dividend is paid on the ordinary stock. After 7 per cent. has been paid upon both the preferred and ordinary shares, both stocks thereafter participate equally.

Metropolitan Life Insurance Company

JOHN R. HEGEMAN, President.

(INDUSTRIAL DEPARTMENT.)

In January, 1907, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company largely increased the benefits in its industrial policies by reason of a heavy reduction in expenses and improvement in mortality experience.

During the past three years the company has steadily reduced its expenses, so that it is enabled to make a further increase in the benefits. Industrial insurance policies have a unit of weekly premium—three cents, five cents and multiples thereof - and the amount of insurance varies with the age.

All Industrial Life policies (premiums cease after age 71), Endowment policies at 80 and Adult Twenty year Endowment

Policies issued since Jan. 1, 1907, will be increased in benefits about 10 PER CENT

according to a new table of benefits adopted for policies issued after July 1, 1909. In other words, not only does the Company issue a new table for policies hereafter issued, but it makes the increase retroactive since the present form of Limited Payment and Endowment at age 80 policies were adopted.

Upon the OLD INDUSTRIAL POLICIES the Company is paying out TWO AND A HALF MILLIONS OF DOLLARS IN BONUSES THIS YEAR, bringing up the total Bonuses and Concessions upon Industrial policies to EIGHTEEN MILLIONS OF DOLLARS IN SIXTEEN YEARS. This is OVER AND ABOVE ANY AND ALL OBLIGATIONS expressed or implied in the policies.

The Metropolitan in its Industrial Department has the lowest Ratio of Expense of all the Industrial Insurance Companies in the world which pay immediate benefits. In FIVE YEARS its Ratio of

Expense to Premium Income has been Reduced

8 per cent representing an Annual

Saving of Three and a Half Millions of Dollars

The new Covertible policy issued by the Company is a novel form of insurance which becomes fully paid-up life insurance in a few years and is then automatically converted into endowment insurance, the maturity of which is periodically shortened as payment of premiums continues.

The Company is abreast of the public demand for combination of term insurance and annuities, and serves the public better than any other agency.

INDUSTRIAL POLICIES IN FORCE: NEARLY 9,500,000, INSURANCE NEARLY $1,500,000,000.

"ORDINARY DEPARTMENT"

The Company has reduced expenses six per cent. in this Department in the last FIVE years—representing an ANNUAL SAVING ING OF OVER A MILLION AND A QUARTER OF DOLLARS IN THE ORDINARY DEPARTMENT.

The Company issues policies in the Ordinary Department in amounts from $500 to $1,000,000 upon all approved plans at the lowest rates. IN 1906 IT WROTE MORE PAID-FOR BUSINESS IN ITS ORDINARY OLD LINE INSURANCE (exclusive of Industrial,) in the United States and Canada, THAN ANY OTHER COMPANY.

All of its policies in the Ordinary as well as the Industrial Department are written on the non-participating plan. The Metropolitan pays its dividends at the start—that is to say, it cuts down the premiums. It believes the plain, common-sense man who makes up bulk of money lol-ders look for a plain business contract. By plain business contracts we mean those which tell their whole story upon their face; which leave nothing to the imagination, borrow nothing from hope, require definite conditions and make definite promises in dollars and cents.

In both Departments combined the Company has, in each of the past fifteen years, written more paid-for insurance than any other company in the world."

The Company upon its Total Business Has in the Last Ten Years Reduced its Ratio of Expenses FIFTEEN PER CENT.

FATE OF THE WORLD.

Four Ways in Which Our Planet May Come to an End.

The earth and all its inhabitants are doomed inevitably to destruction, according to Professor Percival Lowell, who declared that one of four possible fates awaits this planet and everything on it. A tramp star might strike the earth, he said, and grind it and its people to powder or ride full tilt into the sun, when the earth's living creatures would be scorched to death. Tidal friction, by its gradually retarding force, might paralyse the earth's motion so that one side of the globe would be eternally baked by the sun and the other side forever frapped. This has already happened to Mercury and Venus.

By the loss of all water and air through depletion or absorption the earth might become a dry, desiccated mummy of a planet, wandering lifelessly through space. Mercury, again, is an example of this, and so is the moon. The most sure death of all however, as depicted by Professor Lowell, is the decay and freezing of the sun, which is certain to occur some time. When the last flicker is extinct that gigantic ball, bereft of all radiance and warmth, and its retinue of inert, dark tramps, among them the earth, will drift about awaiting collision with some other planetary derelict, which would mean at once destruction and a new birth.—Boston Journal.

VIGOROUS OLD AGE.

Men Who Did Good Work in the Evening of Life.

Enrico Dandolo was not elected doge of Venice until he was eighty-two years old, and he still retained the fire and vigor of his youth. He assaulted and took the city of Constantinople when he was ninety-two years old, himself displaying the gonfalon of St. Mark and animating his followers to the charge. Villars, the French general, in his eighty-fourth year, when crippled with wounds and disease, led a cavalry charge with the same light hearted contempt for danger displayed by him in his youth. The men who won distinction in high command during the mutiny against the English in India in 1857-8 were all of them well advanced in years. Sir Colin Campbell, the commander in chief, was sixty-five; Havelock was sixty-two, Sir Hugh Rose fifty-seven and Sir James Outram fifty-four. They stood the fatigue of field service in a tropical climate, with the thermometer at from 110 degrees to 119 degrees in the shade, as well as younger men.—English Magazine.

"Fourteenth" Louis.

It is a singular fact that if you want to recollect the prominent events of the life of Louis XIV. all you have to do is to resolve the dates at which they took place into the figure 14. Thus Louis XIV. became king in 1643 under a regency when five years old; add 1-6-4-3—14. Again, he was born on the fourteenth day of September; count the words "day of September," and you will find them to be fourteen. Again, he became of age at fourteen, the legal age for kings of France. Again, he began his personal government at the death of Mazarin in 1661; add 1-6-6-1—14. Again, he reigned seventy-two years; multiply 7 by 2—14. Again, he died at seventy-seven—add 7-7—14. Again, his father, Louis XIII., died May 14, 1643; add 1-6-4-3—14. His grandfather, Henry IV., died May 14. Louis XIV. died in 1715 and so kept the 14 up even to his death, for add 1-7-1-5—14.

Freezing Flowers Keeps Them Fresh.

Freezing flowers to keep them fresh is a modern idea. They are picked in the bud and preserved by refrigeration while being transported. When unpacked they are found free of damage and when placed in water and left alone they slowly awaken and come into full bloom. It appears that experiments are being made in South Africa with a view to dispatching them in this way in bulk at the season when they are scarce elsewhere. The flowers undergo no deterioration from the treatment either in the beauty of their color or in their longevity after immersion in water. Curiously enough growth suspended by refrigeration appears to resume so slowly that the blossoms thrive in a room for a considerably longer period than if placed there immediately after being cut in the garden. The process would also serve to introduce to our notice many beautiful members of the horticultural family with which at present we are unfamiliar; such plants as the gorgeous iris, which grows wild in luxurious profusion in South Africa, or those which abound on the slopes of the Andes in South America.

A Dinner in Mexico.

The dinner began with soup, followed by an array of courses, mostly compounds of things I did not recognise and nearly all very hot with chili peppers, but on the whole palatable. Frijoles (beans) were served just before the dulces. That is a warning that you have had all you are going to get and to satisfy yourself upon them if you have not had enough of the other things. They were well cooked and good. The bread was in the form of rolls, sweetened and of poor quality—"pan blanco" it is called. It is the characteristic bread, however, of Mexico—when bread is to be had at all. The coffee was of good quality, but, like all Mexican coffee, muddy and very strong. It is burned black in roasting, ground to a powder, boiled and served, grounds and all. You are supposed to drink the grounds.—Outing.

THE DOGS' CEMETERY.

Little-Known London Burial Ground For Canine Pets.

In an obscure corner of Hyde Park, in the Bayswater road and near the site of old Tyburn, there is a tiny spot of ground known as "The Dogs' Cemetery." Sheltered from observation by tall trees its presence is never suspected by the public, and yet it is one of the strangest and most pathetic sights in London. Here may be seen hundreds of handsome miniature monuments, inscribed with epitaphs. The cemetery is now fully occupied, and has been closed against more burials.

For the most part the owners of the "late lamented" seem to have been ladies, and the inscriptions placed upon the tombstones testify to their devotion to their departed pets. Two of the epitaphs suggest that the owners of the dead dogs believe that there is a hereafter for animals. The first is:

In loving memory of Jessie.
Born at Lintlaw, in Berwickshire, November, 1895;
Died at Ovington Gardens, London, on 13th July, 1907.
"Not one of them is forgotten before God."—Luke xii., 6.

The other is in these terms:

There are men both good and wise,
Who hold that in some future state
Dumb creatures we have cherished here below
Shall give us joyous greeting when we pass the golden gate.
June 11, 1907.

There is a double inscription on this tombstone, the second being:

Also my love Ruby, went asleep
Jan 29th, 1908,
In her 13th year. So much missed.

Another inscription records a canine tragedy. It is in these terms:

To darling Monty, who was drowned in Old Windsor Lock, Sunday, June 24th, 1900

Poor little fellow,
Gone but not forgotten.

Some of the inscriptions are in a sentimental vein that seems absurdly exaggerated, as for instance:

My sweet Lady Nell,
Dim, dumb, speck of humanity.
I laid down my heart beside her.
March 24, 1906.

Another, which shows a deep, mutual affection between owner and dog, reads:

Thy memory lasts,
And thou shalt live as long as we,
And after that thou dost not care,
In us was all the world to thee.

It may be doubted if any dog ever received such a glowing testimonial of character as this:

Darling Victor.
Died May 26th, 1900.
Gracious to all, but where his love was due
So just, so faithful, loyal and true.
Ever missed and deeply mourned,
Sleep on, darling, sleep on.

Of the following it might be said that no loved relative could have expected greater devotion after death than the dog to which it is dedicated:

Never can thy memory fade,
Sweetest thoughts will ever linger
Round the spot where thou art laid.

Severely practical persons may object to the sentimental strain of some of these "doggy" epitaphs, but, at any rate, they testify to a great bond of affection between the dead animals and their owners.

Still Believe In Witchcraft.

A belief in witchcraft still prevails in parts of Lancashire, England; also in the Isle of Man and still more strongly in the Hebrides. A writer in Chambers' Journal gives some interesting anecdotes of the superstitions which persist among the Hebrideans. Belief in witchcraft is said to have a "strong and living hold" on some of the people of those outer isles. An instance is given of a case heard before the Stornoway sheriff's court not many years ago, in which witnesses deposed to there being several witches in the township, one of whom was charged with so bewitching cows that the substance of their milk passed into the milk of the witch's cow. The husband of the alleged witch stated in court that when he heard the rumors about his wife he got three of the constables of the township to come and examine his cow's milk to see if it were any richer than usual, as would be the case if the substance of Mrs. A.'s cow's milk were present in it. Other evidence of this remarkable transubstantiation was given. The sheriff ridiculed the notion of witchcraft, but the Stornowegians stuck to it with absolute faith.

A Debtor's Woes.

"The worst thing about owing people," sighed the woman, "is that it seems to give them the right to ask us such personal and impertinent questions about things that really should be none of their business. I never stave off my piano man, for example, that he doesn't ask how it is that I can afford to pay so much rent for my flat."

Disliked the Other Kind.

Philanthropic Caller (with subscription paper)—I shall ask your attention only a moment, sir. Are you a friend of the dumb brutes? Shorty McGinnis—You bet I am! That's why I hate cats, parrots and donkeys.—Chicago Tribune.

The Financial Menagerie.

"Were you a bull or a bear in Wall street?"

"Neither," answered the cautious man. "Not having funds to invest, I was a giraffe. I just rubbernecked."—Washington Star.

Speaking Trumpets.

Alexander the Great is said to have used a speaking trumpet.

Would He?

It hardly seems probable that a man should suffer from corns on a wooden leg, but if the leg is made of oak would it not be natural that there should be acorn on it?—London Punch.

A Dear Victory.

"In your little family arguments do you ever succeed in convincing your wife that she is wrong?"

"Yes, but afterward I always deeply regret having done so."

Whatever we conceive clearly we express with ease, and words flow with ease.—Boileau.

SERGEANTS' INN SOLD.

One of London's Landmarks Disposed of Under the Hammer.

At $16,000 a year rent Old Sergeants' Inn was sold at the Mart recently.

There are two Sergeants' Inns. The one sold the other day faces Chancery lane, and backs on to the charming quietude and greenery of Clifford's Inn. The other, which is entered by a gateway on the south side of Fleet street, was entirely rebuilt a good many years ago, and is chiefly notable because Mr. Delane, the famous editor of The Times, lived there.

The sergeants-at-law were a very ancient body of dignitaries. They wore a special dress, with a peculiar cap, or coif, which caused them to be known as the "Order of the Coif." No one could be made a judge who was not already a sergeant.

The Judicature Act abolished the old sergeants, and in 1877 "the Order of the Coif" wound up its affairs and liquidated its assets, amounting to $285,000, among its members. The relics of the inn became the property of Sergeant Cox (at the instance of whose executors the sale took place), whilst the portraits of the famous lawyers which graced the walls, went to the National Portrait Gallery. When the order was abolished and the sergeants decided to sell the property Lord Chief Justice Cockburn presided at the final gathering, whilst the last treasurer was Sergeant Ballantine.

The property submitted was a building lease for ninety-nine years, the lessee having the option of acquiring the freehold at any time within the first three years at the rate of twenty-six years' purchase of the ground rent. The minimum sum to be expended by the lessees in the erection of new buildings is $280,000 over a period of five years, providing half the sum is spent during the first three years. There is a rent charge of $800 per annum to the Bishop of Ely. The property has an area of 16,600 feet.

The purchase price, at four per cent., represents $400,000, and this was regarded as a poor price to get for it. How surprised some of the old sergeants would be to learn how valuable their property had become!

"Who Are Sea Lords?"

Just now the Sea Lords are the best abused of all Britain's public servants; but, frequently as we hear them spoken of, we know very little who these Sea Lords are, and what they really do.

First comes "Jacky" Fisher, as he is familiarly called in the service, who holds the post of Senior Naval Lord. His duty it is to look after the "war efficiency" of the navy, and he is the chief naval adviser of the First Lord—the Right Hon. Reginald McKenna.

Admiral Sir Francis Bridgeman is Second Naval Lord. In three years he will be celebrating his jubilee as a naval officer. His special function in the Admiralty is to look after the "personnel" of the fleet.

Next comes the Third Naval Lord and Controller, Rear-Admiral Sir John Jellicoe, far-famed for his gunnery reforms. The construction, the equipment, the upkeep of every ship in the service are under his supervision. He is also responsible for the administration of our dockyards.

The Junior Naval Lord, Vice-Admiral Winsloe, may be termed the "odd job" Sea Lord, and deals with matters of transport, coaling, pay, pensions, medals, naval prisons, etc.; while last comes the Civil Lord, Mr. George Lambert, the M.P., with whose decision rests the fate of Jack Tar's bill of fare.

Mr. McKenna himself, the First Lord, is the Minister immediately responsible to the country for the general efficiency of the navy.

A GREAT CHANCE.

To Make a Safe and Exceedingly Profitable Investment.

Conservative people of sound business sense know of the large fortunes which have been made in mining, often as the result of comparatively small investments made during the development period of mines when capital is required to bring the mines to the dividend paying period.

A mining proposition in accessible parts of the United States is not difficult to investigate and if any man of ordinary intelligence will simply take the trouble he can ascertain before investing whether or not a company is engaged in a serious mining enterprise and whether the directors of its affairs are substantial men of good character who have established a good record, or whether they are professional stock sellers, working one section and then flitting to another.

The Copper Belt Mines Company is well along on the road to dividends, has made remarkable progress in a comparatively short time. A careful, cold-blooded business investigation of both mines and management, which should be made before investing, should convince any fair-minded person that the chance of making a "big thing" out of a reasonable investment in Copper Belt stock at the present price is better than on any investment in which a few hundred or few thousand dollars can be placed anywhere at this time.

A total of over 2500 feet of underground work has been done on the Copper Belt property which, with the showing made, is sufficient to take the Copper Belt mine entirely out of the prospect or gambling stage and classify it as a large but not completely developed mine, sure with able management to bring large returns to those interested in a reasonably short time. A comparatively small amount of additional capital for new development, additional machinery and smelter should assure handsome dividends even for a successful mine, and no other legitimate enterprise yields such enormous returns on the capital invested.

These mines are located in the Rawhide Buttes, Wyoming, twelve miles south of Lusk on the main line of the C & N. W. Ry., and consists of 35 claims, four large proven veins, 2500 feet of actual development. Main shaft, the Lucky Henry, now down to a depth of 620 feet, interested by the Paine tunnel at the 400 foot level—620 feet long. Four other shafts 65, 50, 40 and 20 feet, and have all the attributes for successful mining on the property—water, timber and fuel.

The President and active manager of this Company is Edwin Hall, a mining engineer of nations, reputation, who directs the work at the mines—he is also a prominent member of the American Mining Congress and recently appointed State Geologist of Wyoming. We call the attention of our readers to their advertisement on another page.

Gypsies at Ottawa

Ottawa, July 8.—A band of gypsies camped Ottawa pitching their camp on a field off Wellington street. Later on in the morning two men entered the home of Mr. J. Herbert, over 200 Wellington street and again in the afternoon, and according to what is known of the incident, the intruders it is believed form a part of the gypsy outfit.

Mr. Herbert is employed by the city, while Mrs. Herbert goes out working by the day. Yesterday morning she went to work as usual, leaving her four children, Agnes, aged 10, Leon, aged 9, and Doris, aged 18 months to look after the house. The children, about 10:30, were at play in a shed adjoining the house when Leon heard noises inside. With commendable courage, she investigated and looking upstairs through the front door, saw two big men, both of whom were busy searching the house. The children then ran away in fear, and later saw the men leave. They came again and made another search about 1:30, and were just in the act of entering again shortly after 6 when, seeing the children around the door, they retreated.

CHILD DESCRIBES THEM

"They were dressed nearly all in black", said Leon to a Journal man this morning, "and I thought they were niggers. If we'd seen a policeman, I would have told him." Then she went on with a child's excited account of how the men acted, saying that they threw bread crusts out of the window, and that when they left they were wiping their mouths, and there was butter on one man's face.

"I don't know how it got out that I had money in the house", said Mrs Hebert to The Journal when interviewed; "but people seem to know it. You see I received a considerable amount a few days ago, which I kept in the house, and I believe these men were after it. They searched everything, never missing the smallest nook."

BLAMES THE GYPSIES.

"Do you believe they were gypsies?" she was asked.

"Yes", was the answer. "Leon saw the gypsies passing the house in the morning, when the men were leaving after their first visit, she recognized as two of those belonging to the wanderers. She would know them again any time."

A reporter called at the gypsy encampment, where three small tents, a camp fire, and innumerable sunburned, dirty-faced children fell under the gaze of the visitor. The tents were empty, save one, where a dark hued woman kneeled over a pan of water in the act of washing out some of the family wardrobe. She wore the typical gypsy turban, while phoney jewels and brass souvenirs ornamented her arms, neck and ears. She was excellent example of a lower-class Mexican woman, to which race these gypsies claim a connection.

COST HIM A QUARTAR.

The woman looked up with a curious expression at the reporter's "Good morning." She never answered, but waited for further parley.

"Are you a fortune-teller?" she was asked.

A smile crept over her features as she answered, "25 cents—me tella you all your troub'. Come, leta me tella to you!"

With a farewell glance at the piece of silver the reporter listened to her conception of his future, at the same time gleaning the information that the band had come, so she claimed, from Montreal, and would be here a week or more. A pretence is made at the manufacture of copper ware, but fortune-telling is the big money maker. In this connection it must be said that, although 25 cents is the stated price, the listener will be lucky to get through less than 50 or 75 cents. It is absolutely necessary that small pieces of silver be placed in the open palm at intervals, also a handkerchief and other articles, all of which the Gypsy attemps to get hold of "for keeps."

Her eyes glared fire like when asked if her band was a part of the Peterboro crowd arrested recently. "We no make a fight," she said. "We like-a best de peace."

North-West Mounted Police

Calgary, July 8.—The Calgary detachment of R. N. W. M. P. are working overtime to endeavor to round-up two suspects as being members of the bandit gang who held up the Canadian Pacific train and also a Bohemian homesteader named Anton E. Walvich of Stettler, who on June 30 killed his bride of six months by shooting her in the breast with a 30 rifle.

Early yesterday morning word was received from Morley, a few miles west, that two men were making for Calgary along the railway track, armed and evidently half dead with fatigue. The description of the tallest man tallied with that of eye-witnesses of the hold-up. Indians who saw the men say that they went into hiding on being observed. The mounted police are out hot foot after them and supposed they are waiting their chance to jump a freight. Both men are carrying rifles and a battle may follow.

The murderer is on the other side of the city from these suspected bandits. Walvich was last seen six miles from the scene of the crime, piking it for Calgary. He has a revolver and is said to be crazed with drink.

The National Ideal

Earl Grey declares that provided Canada keeps her judiciary pure, her politics clean, her administration honest, remarks the Brantford Expositor, nothing can prevent her becoming the most populous, wealthy and if she lives right, the most influential portion of the empire,—the controlling factor of the empire of self-governing nations.

This declaration, made at a Dominion Day dinner in England, should prove an inspiration to Canadians in attaining to the high ideals of nationhood which the Governor-General entertains for the Dominion.

There is no reason why the prophesy should not be fulfilled. Certain it is, at any rate. Canadians should experience little difficulty in meeting the conditions which are thus laid down as a means to that end. The Canadian judiciary is above reproach and will undoubtedfy maintain its reputation unimpeached. The responsibility for clean politics rests with the citizenship of the country, and should be borne readily if the press, the pulpit and the universities are true to their mission in creating and fostering a spirit of independence and righteousness with moral fibre in it. Administrative honestly will speedily follow a revival in public life to the enthronement of truth honor and integrity.

Canadians should steadily press towards the mark in order that the national ideal may be attained and the national mission fulfilled.

Left $10,000 to Girl who Scorned His Love

Young Man's Father Has Filed Contest for Possession of Property, Alleging that Son Was Insane From Unrequetted Love and Over-indulgence in Cigarettes.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 7.—Being of sound mind and body, I give and bequeth all my property, real and personal, to Elizabeth Croskey, 3326 Powelton avenue, Philadelphia, Pa., with a life interest of $3,000 a year to my father.—William N. Howard."

Such is the brief will which William Nixon Howard wrote, in a fairly firm hand, before he committed suicide in his home, 1601 Master St. June 4, last.

The chief beneficiary Howard named in his will is a young woman with whom he was deeply infatuated daughter of Dr. John Welsh Croskey. She denied, when Howard killed himself, that she had engaged herself to marry him and a few days after his death she married. The value of his bequest to her is $10,000.

Howard's father, Daniel W. Howard, has begun a contest of the will, filing a caveat against probating it, alleging that his son was of unsound mind.

Howard's friends say that he was erratic, unquited love for the then Miss Croskey having unbalanced his mind. His relatives insist that excessive smoking of cigarettes was one of the causes of his mental vagary.

The night before he killed himself young Howard called Miss Croskey on the telephone and said:

"I hear you have said I gave you headaches and made you sick. I'm going to do something now that will give you good cause to feel bad."

England's Yeomanry

(Special Correspondence.)

London, Eng., June 30—In the regular English army maneuvers this year, women—fashionable, well to do women—will play a conspicuous part. Not as casual visitors giving teas for the officers, but as actual members of the army going through the hard work and discipline of camp life.

"The first Aid Nursing Yeomanry corps" is the name of the women's organization. Its members have taken medical and nursing training during the winter. The summer maneuvers will see them in the field.

A sham battle is on. A scout on horseback dashes to the headquarters of the Nursing Yeomanry corps "Desperate engagement over the hill' he pants. "Our forces cut to pieces, need help at once."

The colonel salutes and gives a dozen quick orders. The bugle rings out. Women in natty khakiskirts and leggings and brilliant scarlet blouses dash from the tents. Horses are saddled and mounted. Others hitch up the hospital wagon and throw in lint bandages, medicine cases.

"Forward!" and the women fighters dash away in a cloud of dust.

No part of the maneuvers will attract as much attention as these women of war.

The corps was organized last winter during the German invasion scare. A play, "An Englishman's Home", which aroused the nation to the inefficiency of the home guards—called the territorial army—showed in side lights the unpreparedness of the medical and nursing corps.

Shamed by the disclosures, patriotic women all over England took up the work of recruiting a nursery corps. Many prominent women—society leaders, rich, leisure-loving—enlisted.

The women will live in tents like the rest of the army. Being women, however, as well as soldiers, they have smuggled in some comforts. There are carpets on the wooden floors, and easy chairs. Some of the tents have cottage size pianos. The mess tent serves salads and pie, and other dainties.

Nothing in the way of a Cough is quite so annoying as a tickling teasing, wheezing, bronchial Cough. The quickest relief comes perhaps from a prescription known to Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And besides, it is so thoroughly harmless that mothers give it with perfect safety even to the youngest babies. The tender leaves of a simple mountain shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its remarkable curative effect. It is truly a most certain and trustworthy prescription Sold by All Druggists.

Await Gong at Peoria--Mile Track Opens

MINOR HEIR 1.59¼.

MAJOR DELMAR 1.59¼.

Special Correspondence)

Peoria, Ill., June 30.—While they are celebrating 13th of July from one end of this country to another with firecrackers, devil chasers, pin wheels and the other bang and spectacle makers, Peoria will celebrate by holding the opening mile-track harness meet of the season.

It is true that harness racing has been going on for some time, but only on the half-mile "bull rings". It remains for Peoria to uncover the real thing, and with splendid weather in prospect and the city filled with horsemen, everything promises another sensational week like that one which last summer made old-timers sit up and ejaculate.

That meeting last summer was one of repeated wonderful performances. Trotters and side-wheelers went so fast that the length of the track was doubted, and it was surveyed before records would be accepted, only to be found accurate. So it is not without reason the reinsmen expect to see them go to low marks this year.

With some of the greatest teamsters in the country, including "Messrs Ed" Geers, Lon McDonald, Charlie Dean and Dick McMahan on the job, there are 200 equine speeders here.

Peoria offers horsemen the first opportunity of the year to get a line on the good things that will be shipped down the grand circuit or over the Great Western tracks, and they are here in droves, clocking the quarters and filling their books with dope for future reference.

With so many drivers present, no one can say what the horses will show when called upon. Many of last season's big winners, together with score of green ones with worlds of speed hidden in their slender legs, await the call to the wire. The man who would attempt predictions before the Peoria meet would be considered off his hang.

Rumors are plentiful of course One hears that Ed Geers has a world beater in his filly, or that Lon McDonald is sure to make a killing with that horse, but only the "talent" pays attention to these mutterings, for the chance of some unknown putting over the meeting's good thing is multiple.

Horsemen remember that Sonoma Girl "came out of the west" unheralded and proceeded to clean up the fields with the ease of a hungry dog at a platter of soup meat, and they fight shy during these early meetings, especially if a driver happens to have the appearance of coming from the district west of the Rockies.

Following the week here the good things will be shipped to Terre Haute, where last season a week almost as sensational as that which now makes Peoria the center of attraction followed the curtain raiser and gave promise of the great things that were to follow.

It is not idle talk to say that the horses stabled at the track could not be replaced for $1,000,000, while the sum represented in paraphernalia would keep even Katherine Gould in loose change for a few weeks.

What will the season bring forth? No man can say. Will it develop the number of sterling new ones that broke upon the public gaze in 1908, or will it be a year of mediocre performers?

The best of the new trotters were Allen Winter 2:06¼, Spanish Queen 2:07¼, Exalted 2:09¼, Happy F. 2:11¼, and Locust Jack 2:09, while Minor Heir 1:59½, The Eel 2:02¼, Alcelia 2:01½, Hedgewood Boy 2:08¼, Citation 2:06¼ and Dr. Elmo 2:06¼ took honors among the pacers.

World's records which some sensational green performer or one already well known to turf followers may lower are: Lou Dillon's 1:58¼ made behind a wind shield, or Cresceus 2:03¼ for trotters; Dan Patch's 1:55 behind a wind shield, and 1:58 without, or the race record held jointly by Star Pointer and Minor Heir, of 2:00¼.

Some of the best known men who will be seen opening day are Dilly Snow, E. F. Geers, Millard Sanders Gus Macey, Thos. W. Murphy, Dick McMahan and Lon McDonald; and the entries the clockers are really wise to are Spanish Queen 2:07¼, The Harvester 2:08½, 1908's champion 3-year-old, and Denver (green) clocked in 2:05¼. So far as is known these are the classiest of the trotters

The best looking pacers uncovered are The Limit, a glib-looking green thing that has been clocked in 2:04¼ Spill 2:04¼, Hal Raven 2:07¼, George Gans 2:12¼, Margin (green) shown in 2:08.

The Tinplate Strike

and the skeletons of steel buildings, and everything from a big armor plate to the wire screens you use in your windows in fly time. On that morning of July 1, 800 sheet and tin mill workers struck against the order of the American Sheet and Tinplate Co., a branch of the trust. In this strike the old Amalgamated association is making its last stand against utter extermination in the trust mills.

This handful of 8000 Amalgamated men is all that are left of the 60,000

For the latter-day policy of the steel trust is not to bring strike breakers into a mill and try to operate it in the face of the strikers' pickets, but to let it stand idle, and push some nonunion plant beyond its capacity until the strikers are tired out and give up the struggle

President E. H. Pargny of the American Sheet Steel Co. boasts that his company "has no union mills," but he is not trying to start any of the 14 that were tied up last week when the Amalgamated men walked out. These mills are standing idle; while the plants from which the plants from which the union was driven years ago are being pushed double-turn to bring the average output up as high as possible.

It is an easy way to "break" a strike. But before the day of trusts the manufacturer with one, or even two or three mills, couldn't do it. He hadn't mills enough.

For nearly nine years the Amalgamated association has hung on in this losing battle, giving concession after concession, rather than fight a power that even the United States government has sometimes seemed to fear. But the end came a month ago, when the trust refused to sign another annual scale with the Amalgamated, announced its own scale with a reduction of about 8 per cent in wages, and posted a notice declaring that the 15 plants in which the union still retained a foothold would run, after July 1, as "open shops," in which union and nonunion men alike could get employment.

The Amalgamated men had had a taste of the "open shop" in the trust "Open shop" mills always bar known union men after six months or a year. National President P. J. McArdle, as he said in his office in the House building, in this City, nearly sobbed as he said, the day the 8000 devoted men came out.

"They are loyal to a man, as I knew they would be. And every striker this year is a hero. He knows what he is fighting. We did everything to avoid this, but the Trust has thrown down the gauntlet. We would be cowards if we didn't fight."

These 8000 men started their fight well. Out of five sheet steel plants and 10 tinplate plants where the "open shop" order was posted, 14 have been idle since July 1. In one plant, the sheet mill at Cambridge, O., a part of the men reported for work and are operating about a third of the mill.

IF SICK--WHY PAY

Unless Health First Returns.

Here is what should and can be done!
Now you would not willingly pay for food that was worthless—would you?
Then why pay for medicine until that medicine first proves to you its actual worth?
Positively knowing what Dr. Shoop's Restorative can do for the sick, I say to all "don't pay unless health first returns". And I back my Restorative with a signed and sealed 30 day "No help, No pay" contract.
I positively pledge to the sick everywhere that "Dr. Shoop's Restorative is absolutely free if it fails". Let others do the same or else pay their prescriptions by.
If you need more strength, more vitality, more vigor or more vim, use my Restorative a few days and note the immediate improvement.
When the Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys go wrong, then test Dr Shoop's Restorative. I do not dose the Stomach nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys, for that is wrong. Years ago I cast away that mistaken idea in medicine. The books below will best tell you how I am succeeding.
These books also tell of a tiny hidden "life nerve," no larger than a silken thread. They tell how that nerve, until it fails, actually gives to the Heart its power, its tone, its never-ceasing action or impulse.
These books will open up new and helpful ideas to those who are not well. They tell how the Stomach, and Kidneys each have their "inside" or power nerves. They tell how the Restorative was especially made to reach and revitalize these weak or failing inside nerves. All of these facts tell why I am able to say, "It is free if it fails".
This is why I say "take no chances on a medicine whose maker dare not back it just as I do by this remarkable offer".
So write me today for the order.
I have appointed honest and responsible druggists in nearly every community to loan my medicines to the sick.
But write me first for the order.
All druggists sell Dr. Shoop's Restorative, but all are not authorized by give the 30 day test.
So drop me a line please—and then save disappointment and delays. Tell me also which book you need.
A postal will do.
Besides, you are free to consult me as you would your home physician. My advice and the book below are yours—and without cost.
Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some serious ailment. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescription or personal advice plan. My best effort is every worth a single result, so write now while you have it fresh in mind, for tomorrow never comes. Dr. Shoop, Box 11, Racine, Wis.

He cuts out all that boose-a-flowin' free
And studies nights and makes her see that he
Has got the makin' of a man, by hen!
And I am goin' to try that bombrey's game
And spruce myself like all stage lovers do

An Ancient Flintlock Musket Is Discovered at Kinlochleven.

Mr. H. Spencer Threlfall, one of the engineers connected with the new water power works at Kinlochleven, Scotland, made a discovery the other day in a rocky gorge of the Black Water, on the property of Mrs. Cameron Lucy, of Callart. Noticing a small, partially concealed cave on the slope of the defile, curiosity tempted him to enter the cavity, and on exploring the interior he was surprised to find on a dry shelf of rock a well-preserved specimen of an old Highland flintlock musket, together with a claymore, having a brass basket-shaped hilt. The gun, says The Glasgow Herald, is a ponderous weapon, 5 feet 3 inches in length, with a huge stock, part of which is gone through natural decay, and a portion of the sword blade is also missing. Many beliefs have been expressed as to how and when the arms had been deposited at the spot, but as the type of weapon is that employed by the Highlanders about the beginning of the seventeenth century it is generally believed that the flintlock and sword must have belonged either to some of the MacDonalds of Glencoe or to the Callart Camerons, who were ardent supporters of the Stuart cause. On the night of the notorious massacre of Glencoe a number of those who escaped the sword of the butchers fled in this direction, and the cave in question being a safe retreat it is not unnatural to suppose that some of the fugitives may have lain concealed there for a time and left the weapons now discovered. Or, again, when the Act of discernment came into force, some of the loyal Lochaber men, rather than hand over their arms to the governor of the fort at Fort William, may have placed them for safe custody in the cave which

FIRST HOLIDAY.

Dry Goods and Millinery Clerks Enjoy a Holiday.

The first Thursday half holiday enjoyed by the clerks of the dry goods and millinery stores, was enjoyed yesterday. As a result the streets were somewhat deserted as the public did not come down to do any shopping. As a matter of fact all the other stores would have been just as far ahead had they closed up also. The majority of the clerks spent the afternoon and evening down the river. About 65 went on the Monarch, on A. W. Cressman & Co's. picnic, while the others were out in skiffs, canoes and launches. It was an ideal day and the counter hoppers certainly know how to spend a half holiday.

to begin. We are standing in a sacred spot where those lay who have already crossed the river which we must all cross. This ceremony brings a message from the dead to the living. That message is "Have faith in Christ. Do good in Christ."

Rev. Mr. Webb esteemed it a privilege and a pleasure to take even a small part in an occasion of this kind. It was admirable to see so many men lay down their work and go to the cemetery to place decorations upon the graves of their departed brethren. He gave the following text for all to remember and and think it over: "Forget it not. Forget it not."

Rev. Mr. Coon said that he had been greatly impressed by the ceremony, and by the addresses of the different speakers. His own place in the events was not only as a minister of the gospel but also as a fellow Oddfellow. As an Oddfellow he expressed his great pleasure at seeing such a large gathering and he hoped that their motto. "Help one another" would be adopted by all, who were present.

Rev. J. G. Potter was called upon to pronounce the benediction and the ceremony was over.

OBITUARY

BERTHA SMITHSON

The large circle of friends of Mr and Mrs. Wm. Smithson, 135 Lansdowne avenue, will regret to learn of the death of their daughter, Bertha, which took place shortly after midnight Wednesday night. Miss Smithson was stricken with acute inflammatory rheumatism some five months ago, and though progress toward recovery was slow, hopes for ultimate restoration were fully entertained. Her sudden demise is a great shock to her friends.

Miss Smithson possessed a fine type of Christian character, having an intelligent faith, a modest, cheerful, lovable disposition, and was beloved by all who knew her. She was a loyal member of St. Andrew's church.

The funeral will take place from the family residence, 135 Lansdowne avenue, this Friday, at 2.30 p.m., to Little Lake cemetery.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. CORNER STONE OF ALL SAINTS' NEW CHURCH LAID UNDER MASONIC AUSPICES

M.W.Bro. Judge Harding, Acting Grand Master, Laid the Stone---Beautiful Ceremony, Addresses by the Clergy of the City and Others--Ladies Served Refreshments

The corner stone for All Saints' handsome new edifice was well and truly laid last night by M. W. Bro. Judge John E. Harding, acting Grand Master, with Masonic ritual, assisted by the grand officers of the Grand Lodge of Canada in Ontario, and in the presence of the members of Corinthian and Peterborough Lodges A.F. & A.M., of this city.

The beautiful and impressive ceremony was witnessed by an immense gathering of people from all parts of the city. Early in the evening they began to arrive, and by the time set for the service it was very difficult to get near the building, and they remained long after the service and enjoyed the delicious refreshments provided by the ladies.

The representatives of the Grand Lodge of Canada in Ontario, with the members of Corinthian and Peterborough Lodges met in their lodge rooms at 6.30 o'clock and proceeded in a body to the church.

The Extension of City Streets to be Paid for by Issue of Debentures

In less than three weeks the street extension bylaw will be voted upon by the ratepayers and that the people should vote intelligently upon it it is necessary that the should know the facts in connection with it. For many years the city has been growing rapidly and streets that ten years ago were thinly settled and appeared to be quite long enough for a great many years have since become thickly built upon and it was necessary that these streets should be extended. The boundderies of the city are being reached and new houses are cropping up in all directions great vacant fields, or farms of a few years ago, are now cut up into streets and the adjoining lots covered with houses. These streets must be connected with the city by extending to the main streets sometimes it happens, that the council must purchase property and do this without waiting to get the sanction of the ratepayers. One great fault in the past has been that the council waited too long before opening up thoroughfares and dwellings and stores were built upon what was eventually the right of way. Every one of these buildings adds from $1000 to $5,000 to the cost of opening a new street or extending an old one. And it is advisable to purchase the property before the house is erected.

In the case before the ratepayers where several streets have been extended the city has had to purchase several buildings in order to get the roadway through abd had the work been delayed longer several more house would have had to be purchased.

The by-law before the people asks for $15,500 for street extensions. Nearly all of this sum has already been expended and when the by-law was defeated last January the total sum should have been raised out of this years taxes, but as that would have been a heavy burden upon the ratepayers the council decided to try the by-law again. If however, the people run it down on July 29th the tax rate next year will be 2 or 3 mills higher as there is no other possible way out of it!

The expenditure of the money on the several streets referred to in the by-law was begun in 1904 and additional money has been spent until the present time! The streets effected were Hunter street east to lift lock. The right of way over Armour's hill was purchased and the hill cut down to a possible grade and fixed up. George street was extended north from Argyle to Hilliard street, Barnardo Ave. was continued from George street to Water street. George street was continued south from Lake street to Lansdown Ave and Aylmer street was extended south from Lake street to Lansdown Ave. The work here has not been completed any further than the King Edward School, but when the by law is passed there will be sufficient money to complete the job.

COST OF WORK

The following figures represent the cost of the work done on the several streets to date:

Barnardo Ave. George street to Water street, $1041.37.

George St. South from Lake St. to Lansdown, $2,528.51.

Hunter St. east from concession St. to the Lift Lock, $2,920.10.

Up to December 31st 1907 the total expenditure was $18,539.09.

During 1908 and to date in 1909, an additional $2,961.91 was spent making a total of $21,500. From this must be deducted the $6,000 raised by debenture in 1906, leaving a total of $15,500 still to be raised.

VIEWS WIFE'S BODY, THEN DIES

Husband Takes His Life Following Her Alleged Suicide.

Louisville, Culy 9.—Responding to a notice that the body of his wife who, it is believed, committed suicide two or three days ago, had been taken from the Ohio River, Walter J. MILLIONAIRE TO DIE.

Mexican Who Killed Son of American Must also Pay $200,000.

El Paso, Tex., July 10.—News was received here yesterday that the Supreme Court of the state of San Luis Potosi, Mexico, had confirmed the death sentence of the murder of his brother-in-law, Manuel Iturre, the wealthy son of an American.

In addition to confirming the death penalty, the court ordered Gonzales to pay $200,000 to the widow of the murdered man. The prominence, popularity and wealth of Gonzales were relied upon to obtain for him a lighter sentence.

ANOTHER BIG STRIKE.

American Labor Agitators at Work in Nova Scotia.

Sydney, N.S., July, 9.—Vice-president E. S. McCullough and International Board Member Peter Paterson of the United Mine Workers of America, passed through the city Tuesday evening from Glace Bay for Inverness. These officials of the American organization have gone to the mining town on the western side of the island to deal with trouble that has arisen between the operators and the miners at the collieries of the Inverness Coal and Railway Company. Vice-president McCullough and Mr. Paterson gave the following joint statement to your correspondent:

"The company at Inverness persists in docking at their office from the U. M. W. members dues for P.W. A., in spite of the fact that these men have repeatedly notified the company that they have severed their connection with the W. P. A. and are members of the U. M.W., and demand the company cease docking the P. W. A. from their earnings. Out of a total of about 550 employes of the Inverness Co., the U. M. W. control 526 men. If the company will not refund these dues so paid and so deducted from the miners' wages for the P. W. A. funds, we will call the men out on strike and will tie the colliery up even tighter than No. 2, at Glace Bay, was tied up.

Incontrovertible Logic.

—A certain young man's friends thought he was dead, but he was only in a state of coma. When, in ample time to avoid being buried, he showed signs of life, he was asked how it seemed to be dead.

"Dead!" he exclaimed. "I wasn't dead. I knew all that was going on. And I know I wasn't dead, too, because my feet were cold and I was hungry."

"But how did that fact make you think you were still alive?" asked one of the curious.

"Well, this way: I knew that if I were in heaven I wouldn't be hungry. And if I was in the other place my feet wouldn't be cold.

Bring Your Subscriptions to the Office Tonight

Second Voting Period Ends at Ten O'clock Tonight---See Your Friends and Get Their Subscriptions

Only today is left of the second voting period, and then you will have to take fewer votes for the subscriptions you secure.

Do not let anything prevent your bringing all your subscriptions to the Contest Department before this evening at 10 o'clock.

BRING NOW—NOT LATER

Although you must turn in your subscriptions today in order to get the full benefit of the present schedule you need not cast all your votes until you are ready. The vote certificates may be held and voted just at the moment you think most opportune. While it is a good plan to stand well in the printed list, yet it is not always advisable to show your full strength, therefore, you will want to hold out a reserve to stand you in good stead later on.

MUCH DONE IN SHORT TIME

That much can be done in a short time is proved by some of our recent entries. Several of these have come jumping up in a most satisfactory manner. This is a stimulating example and should inspire you to similar efforts. Make up your mind that you will consider every day wasted that does not see a good increase in votes for you.

GOOD CHANCES FOR ALL

When the number and value of the prizes is set against the number of contestants, it will be seen that the list of candidates is not large. Even of these there are many who are not active workers, thus reducing the apparent opposition. If any one has not yet entered, has an idea that they would like to compete for a prize, let them by all means enter at once and benefit by the very liberal scale of votes that prevails up to ten o'clock tonight.

DON'T GET SCARED

Some of the candidates are inclined to be timid and to fear the possible reserve of their opponents. Let them remember that they themselves are exactly as much feared by others. In a contest naturally every one is a little afraid of every one else. If this were not to there would be very little vote gathering, but it may be a consolation to know that you are not alone in your nervousness. Every one feels it, and the only way to get over it is to work so hard that you gain a sense of security in the knowledge that you have something to spare.

GET PROMISES FULFILLED

Earlier in the contest many people promised you to give a subscription later. These promises should now be fulfilled, and will be if you go to those who made them and point out to them that their subscriptions will help you toward winning a handsome prize.

TO SUBSCRIBERS.

If you have not already paid that subscription which you promised to some candidate earlier in the contest you should do so today, and help them on their way to victory.

If you live out of town and cannot bring in your votes and subscriptions, you will receive the full benefit of the second voting period provided the package in which they are mailed bears the date of July 10.

Be sure to put sufficient postage on your subscriptions for much delay and confusion may be caused by insufficient postage.

VOTE CERTIFICATES

Note certificates are issued on paid-in-advance subscriptions to The Morning Times. These certificates can be held and voted at any time during the contest, and are good for the scale of votes at the time issued Pay a subscription now, receive a vote certificate and cast the votes whenever you please.

Governing Body for All Lines of Sport is Latest Suggestion

When the Rugby boys of the city met last fall and consented to one governing body for all the clubs, both in the city leagues, and in the O.R.F.U., they permitted the introduction of a new system of conducting sports. The Rugby executive has wide powers. They form the leagues, draft the constitution, place teams where they belong and keep the game running smoothly.

If the hockey boys would get busy and adopt a similar plan they would find that the sport of the game would be greatly increased; their finances would be carefully looked after for the benefit of sport; the business of the clubs would be taken care of and all, or nearly all, of those unpleasantneases which creep into the various leagues will be abolished. In short the players will be in the game for the sport, the exercise and the physical benefit, while the business end will be looked after by a set of business men who know how and will do the right thing.

With a governing body every team in the city would come under their control. That body would gather together the clubs, select the O.H.A teams, place them in the proper series, form the various city and church leagues; engage the rink for the season; arrange all pratice hours; and transact the business generally. Thus it will be seen the players or club managers have nothing to do but enjoy themselves and reap the benefitss. All clashing and weak, foolish rules would be avoided. Every player in the city would find a place in his own class and would not be closed out of the game entirely.

Then all the young players would be given a chance to develope, and there would always be a supply of players on hand to take the places of those who move away or get too old to play. The selfish, narrow cliques that are not uncommon would be abolished, and everything would work to the betterment of sport, and in the interest of the city.

The chief idea of those behind the scheme of governing bodies in sport is to get all lines of sport to adopt it, and then have a small governing body. In other words it would occupy a position similar to the Canadian Senate. All arrangements and in fact all business of the clubs would first have to be sanctioned by the senate or governing body. The finances of all sports would be taken care of by them and the weak clubs would be supported by the stronger. It is an ideal system and would work wonders in the city if the clubs can be brought into line.

Applegath, George F. Clare.

THE REPORT OF THE DIRECTORS

On motion of J. M. Clark, K. C., seconded by Mr. John Kennedy, the president, Mr. Eugene O'Keefe, took the chair, and the general manager, Lieut.-Col. James Mason, acted as secretary.

Mr. Eugene O'Keefe, the president presented the report of the directors:

"The directors have pleasure in submitting to the shareholders the fourth annual report, giving the result of the bank's business for the year ending May 31st, 1909, together with the balance sheet of the bank of that date.

"Rates for money ruled lower, but the results of the year's business and the progress made by the bank were satisfactory.

"Four quarterly dividends, amounting to 6 per cent, on the paid-up capital, have been paid and provided a sum has been added to the rest, sufficient to make that account equal to one-third of the paid-up capital, and $55,629.65 has been carried forward to the credit of the profit and loss account.

"The connection established in the North-West referred to in the last annual report is proving to be a valuable one, three new branches have been opened there, and some three hundred and thirty farmers have already become shareholders. The number is steadily increasing, and while in most cases their holdings are but limited in extent, the bank should in time derive much advantage from having a large body of shareholders of so valuable a class in that important section of the Dominion.

"The expectations regarding the crops in the North-West mentioned in the last annual report were fully realized and the prospects for the current year promise fair results.

"The usual examination by the directors of the treasury and securities was made, and the branches inspected."

THE PRESIDEET'S ADDRESS

In moving the adoption of the report, the President, Mr. Eugene O'Keefe, said.

"When we had the pleasure of meeting you a year ago at our last annual meeting, we stated that the crop prospects in the North West and in different parts of Ontario were promising, and if expectations were realized, the financial stringency, which then prevailed, would have passed away before we met again. I think it is now safe to say that this has taken place, and confidence once more restored. The outlook for the present season in the North-West and Ontario, according to the latest crop reports, is encouraging, and we may naturally look for a good harvest. Last year the harvest was satisfactory in practically all sections of the North-West, and there are now 11,110,000 acres under cultivation an increase over last year of 700,000 acres, although, owing to unfavorable conditions in the earlier part of the season, less wheat has been seen and coarser grains taken its place.

"As there was not the same demand for money during the past year there was naturally a depreciation in the rate of interest secured for good loans, and particularly for call loans on the collateral security of stocks, bonds and debentures. Bank generally found some difficulty in keeping all their funds employed in desirable loans,, and consequently we had at times a considerable amount of uninvested funds on hand, but following the same conservative policy that we have on former occasions referred to we deemed it more advisable to carry a larger proportion of uninvested funds and to accept only loans that were unquestionably good.

"Our paid-up capital now amounts to a little over $1,000,000, an increase of over $167,000 since last year, and our shareholders, who numbered 502 last year, now number 891

"Our deposits have increased by nearly $1,000,000, of which $732,000 has been added to the savings accounts and $240,000 to the current accounts, an increase to the total deposits of about 20 per cent, a very satisfactory result, we consider. Our circulation is also somewhat in excess of last year.

"We have added to the Rest account $35,948, making it $333,053, equal to 33 per cent. of the paid-up capital, and transferred the balance, $55,629.65, to profit and loss account

"We have opened during the year branches at Sunderland, Ont., Lyleton and Crystal City, Man., and Sintaluta, Sask. The total assets show an increase of $1,189,220.76."

AN ENTHUSIASTIC DIRECTOR

Mr. John Kennedy, vice-president of the Grain-Growers Company, of Winnipeg, and a director of the Home Bank was present at the meeting, and described the nature of the organization of which he is the vice-president. In each of the three North-West Provinces there are voluntary organizations of the farmers, called Grain-Growers' Associations, organized for the purpose of obtaining for their members the full market price for their grain. There are between twenty and thirty thousand farmers members of these organizations, and the number is rapidly increasing, and the expectation is that in time they will embrace practically all the farmers of the West, now numbering some 130,000.

The Grain-Growers' Grain Company is an incorporated institution, with its headquarters in Winnipeg. The par value of the shares of this company is $25, and no one can hold more than four shares. The stockholders, who must be farmers or associated with farming, number about 7,000. This company handles the grain of the members of the Grain-Growers' Associations, advancing a certain proportion of the price, and the balance when the grain is sold. Mr. Kennedy stated that they handled some 8,000,000 bushels of grain in the season just closed and were more than pleased with the treatment they received at the hands of the Home Bank of Canada. The company was particularly fortunate, he considered, in having its dealings with the Home Bank, and the bank found in the company a safe and profitable customer.

The bank, when asked to open a branch, found a great many of the neighboring farmers stockholders of the bank, and also members of the association, and they would naturally prefer to do their business with what they now call the Bank of the Farmers of the North-West.

Mr. Kennedy is of the opinion that in will only be a question of time when the Home Bank will be represented throughout the North West, and a profitable and flourishing business established.

A resolution moved by Mr. L. H. Baldwin, and seconded by Mr. W. T. Kernahan, was adopted, providing for an increase of one thousand dollars to be added to the sum appropriated for directors' fees.

On a motion by Mr Edward Galley seconded by Mr. H. G. Hopkirk, the thanks of the shareholders were tendered to the president, vice-president and directors for their careful attention to the affairs of the bank.

On a motion by Mr. H. T. Kelly, K.-C., seconded by Mr. H. W. Evans, the thanks of the shareholders were tendered to the general manager and the other officers of the bank for the efficient manner in which they have respectively discharged their duties during the past year.

DIRECTORS FOR 1909-10.

Messrs. W. T. Kernahan and Wm. Crocker were appointed scrutineers and reported the following gentlemen duly elected directors for the ensuing year; Messrs. Eugene O'Keefe, Thos. Flynn, E. G. Gooderham, Lieut-Col. J. I. Davidson, W. Parkyn Murray, John Purves, John Kennedy, and Lieut.-Col. James Mason.

At a meeting held immediately after the close of the annual meeting of shareholders, Mr Eugene O'Keefe was re-elected president and Mr. Thos. Flynn re-elected vice-president of the bank.

A MUTUAL SURPRISE.

The Meeting Between an Ambitious Hunter and His First Grizzly.

In "Sketches of Life in the Golden State" Colonel Albert S. Evans tells an amusing anecdote of an ambitious hunter who met his first grizzly bear—in procession. The incident occurred in the woods near the site of the present town of Monterey.

The hunter sat down to rest in the shade of a tree and unwittingly went to sleep. When he woke it was near sunset, and he sat up, rubbing his eyes and contemplating a return to his hotel, several miles distant.

Just then a rustling and crackling noise from a clump of chaparral about 100 yards away attracted his attention. Out walked a grizzly bear, a monarch of his kind. He yawned, licked his jaws and then advanced toward the tree where our hunter sat, but evidently was unconscious of his presence.

His grizzly majesty had proceeded about twenty paces when a female bear followed him, and an instant later a third grizzly followed her at a slow, shambling pace.

The hunter sat spellbound with terror as the procession came toward him until the forward grizzly was within thirty yards. Then, scarcely realizing what he did, he sprang to his feet and uttered a frenzied yell—yell upon yell!

The effect was magical. The foremost bear sprang into the air, turned sharply about, knocked the female down, rolled over her, gathered himself up and bolted "like forty cart loads of rock going down a chute" straight for the chaparral again, the other two bears close at his heels and never turning to see what had frightened them.

The hunter, seeing the enemy retreating, sprang to his feet and fled at top speed for the hotel, leaving hat and gun behind. The truth of his wild and startling tale was proved the next day by the numerous bear tracks of different sizes found in the marshy ground near by. But the three bears had gone off beyond pursuit.

THE NEW ORE.

One of Andrew Carnegie's Early Iron Experiences.

Andrew Carnegie once stated that a short time after the starting of his first plant in Pittsburg he had an odd experience with iron ore.

"I was offered some ore that sampled about the usual grade, so far as I was able to judge from appearances, at a reduced price," he said. "I bought several thousand tons—a big order for those days. The second day after we commenced to run it the foreman came to the office and told me the new ore was of no account, that it did not flow and that the furnaces were so choked they would have to be dumped unless some remedy was found. Those fires were built to last two years, and to dump them at this time would mean no heavy a loss as to practically put me out of business. A young chemist had called on me a few weeks before, and, while I had not paid much attention to him, I had kept his card. It occurred to me that he might possibly of some help, though I confess I did not then see what chemistry had to do with the iron business. But I sent for him, and he came at once. First he examined the new ore and then the old that we had been running without difficulty, and finally he looked at the furnaces. To avoid delay he made a little test of the two ores right there. I had told him when he arrived that I felt sure the new ore was worthless and admitted my mistake in buying it. Of course I did this as I did not want him to think I was ignorant of the business. You can imagine my surprise, then, when at the conclusion of his test he quietly informed me that the new ore was so good we did not know how to run it. The fact was that the new ore contained 20 per cent more iron than the old, and all that it was necessary to do was to add a proportionate increase of flux to bring about reduction."—American Industries.

Heat Conductors.

Some substances conduct heat more freely than others, silver among the metals being the best conductor, and as a unit of measurement is taken at 1,000. Compared with silver as a conductor, gold is 981, copper 845, zinc 611, tin 422, steel 397 and wrought iron 436. Glass, wood, gases, liquids and resinous substances are bad conductors. Water is such a poor conductor that if heat is applied to the top it will boil at the top, while the bottom will remain cold.

THE RIVER SEINE.

It Is the Most Picturesque of the Highways of Paris.

We have heard almost too much of the streets of Paris and not enough of that street most distinctive of all—the river Seine. Flowing through the city for six miles, it is a highway, with its bateaux mouches, its bridges and its quays. Of a dark night the Seine may seem to lugubrious fancy the symbol of death in the city's life abounding—murky death and inky crime, oozy and silent wickedness. Yet normally, even perhaps to suicides, the Seine is but the mirror of a city's mood. There are lights everywhere, lights lengthened in the water. The Louvre and the Conciergerie shown in the stream are things fairer than their originals. It is better to look upon the eddying reflections of the bridges here than to stand in the Place de la Concorde bright with its orange lamps in honor of an auto show. The lights on the Seine and its images are more alluring more innately of fairyland and Paris than the gilded boulevards.

Nor is it only in the moonlight that the Seine has charms. The holiday sculler finds it a paradise for miles above the city, and there are ever such fishermen as Maupassant's Renard. Line fishing is more than a mild sport at Paris. Even to watch its devotees seems to amuse your true Parisian. A legend tells us that in the commune days, when the Hotel de Ville was fired on and a dark page written in the city's history, the Seine fishermen pursued their pastime, imperturbable. And the tale seems likely enough as the spectator watches the fisher folk, whose leisure may be envied more than their occupation and who are found not on the city quays alone, but in the basins, where the Seine's green bank is dabbed with villages in brown and red and gray and where one stops to watch the peasants bathe their horses in the stream itself, rubbing them down soon afterward by the river's brink. Within the city there are the men who clip poodles on the quays and higher book and picture stalls with their merchants and shifting groups of bargain hunters—the Odeon arcade for new books, the riverside for old.

BRIBERY IN RUSSIA.

An old and long retired Russian general, a man of the "old school," related the following story in illustration of the official bribery that prevails in Russia, the incident being one within his own personal knowledge:

During the reign of Alexander II., the "czar-liberator," the widow of a distinguished general endeavored to obtain an appointment in a certain ministry for her only son, a young man of superior education and intelligence. The minister promised the widow to reserve the first occurring vacancy in his department. She waited in vain for the fulfillment of the promise and twice repeated her appeal by letter. She learned, too, that in the meantime several vacancies had been filled by other candidates.

The widow then called upon the emperor and told His majesty of the minister's broken promises and her own keen disappointment, and after a few moments' consideration the czar asked her if she had inclosed a gift of money to the minister with her written application.

"Why, certainly not, your majesty. I should not dare put such an affront upon his excellency."

"Do not trouble yourself about the affront, madame," replied the czar, "but renew your prosbenle to the minister and inclose £1,000 to him."

"But I have no such sum of money, your majesty," said the widow dolefully.

"Oh, as to that, I will lend you the money, and the minister will no doubt repay me, and you will inform me, please, of the result of your renewed application with the inclosure."

The widow sent her son to the minister with the £1,000 lent by the czar inclosed with a politely written note, the result being that the young man received the desired appointment the same day.

About a week later the minister had just concluded his customary official report to the czar when his majesty observed, "By the way, there is a very intelligent and promising young man, the son of the late General ——, for whom you can perhaps find a fairly prospective position in your department."

"But, your majesty," said the minister, "that young man is already in my department, and I should say that he is likely to make a career for himself."

"Tell me, please," quietly asked the czar, "how much did this youth's mother pay you for the appointment?"

The minister was too wily and tactful outwardly to manifest his surprise and chagrin, and he knew, too, that his safety demanded a perfectly candid reply to his sovereign.

"Would your majesty be interested," he said, "to hear what I myself paid for the influence which procured my portfolio from your gracious hands? The total sum was £22,500, and, relatively speaking, I do not think, with all humility, that this lady has paid at all dearly for the prospects of her son."

The minister repaid to the czar the £1,000 and was not unkindly dismissed from the audience, and he also retained his portfolio.—Odessa Cor. London Standard.

ALL NESTS ARE INTERESTING.

But Some Birds Are Much Better Housekeepers Than Others.

An old French proverb says, "Each bird finds its own nest beautiful," but to human eyes there is a mighty difference. The dove, for example, is a mighty bad housekeeper, either wild as the wood-dove or tame as the domestic pigeon. Two sticks, three straws, a suspicion of coarse grass, and Madam Dove is ready to lay her pearl-white eggs and brood them with a touching devotion. Neither she nor her mate has any shame in such a nest, for they always set it where it can be plainly seen.

Robin Redbreast belies the adage that practice makes perfect. He often builds three nests a season, but they are solid, commonplace, mud-plastered affairs, as unpoetic as the mud nests of the house martin. The ice martin puts up a different home for himself and mate. His nest may have a foundation of mud, but it is cushioned within, stuccoed without, with fine wood lichens, into a thing of beauty. It vies, indeed, with the nests of the chimney swallow, the queer angular affairs stuck flat against the sutty chimney side. They are of tiny sticks, built up like elfin log cabins, and cemented at the corners, as well as held fast to the chimney by a sort of glue secreted by the birds themselves.

The warblers are pattern nestbuilders. They generally choose a spot of safe seclusion, "far from the madding crowd," as it were, then pitch upon some cup of twig and line it and cushion it with the finest soft fibers, fine grass, horse hair, human hair, bits of string. In choosing they are curiously intelligent. If a handful of variegated threads be spread out where they can find them, all the sad-colored ones will be used, the gay ones left.

Not so with the cat bird. His catcall has something savage about it and he has also a savage taste for red. Bits of red flannel are a dear delight to him. He will tug and tug at them, letting go, then seizing them again, until he has found the exact spot at which the weight of this treasure trove least impedes flight. The odd thing is that he does not line his nest with the flannel once he has it safe. He works it into the outer wall, the latter being of rough sticks and thorns.

Mocking birds love a nest in garden shrubbery, orchard tangle or the scented thickets of an abandoned field. They build big nests, soft, elastic and lined with the finest hair, sometimes off my lady's head. They come next to the oriole as aerial architects. Almost everyone who has lived in the country for any great length of time has noticed the pretty purse-shaped oriole houses swung from orchard boughs, but few, perhaps, know the bird's trick of bending down a leafy twig to ambush his precious nest, and holding the twig in place with a loose wrapping of long fibers.

A Flower of Many Names.

One of the most cheerful flowers in the old gardens was the happy faced little pansy that under various fanciful folk names has ever been loved. Its Italian name means idle thoughts; the German, little stepmother. Spencer called it pawnee. Shakespeare said maidens called it love in idleness, and Drayton named it heartsease. Dr. Prior gives these names: Herb trinity, three faces under a hood, fancy flamy, kiss me, pull me, cuddle me upto you, tickle my fancy, kiss me ere I rise, jump up and kiss me, kiss me at the garden gate, rask of my Joan. To these let me add the New England folk names: Bird's-eye, garden gate, johnny-jump-up, kit run about, none so pretty and ladies' delight. All these testify to the affectionate and intimate friendship felt for this laughing and fairly-speaking little garden face, not the least of whose endearing qualities was that after a half warm, snow melting week in January and February this bright-some little "delight" often opened a tiny blossom to greet and cheer us—a true jump up and kiss me.

No "Rooms for Rent."

"In London the good woman who has furnished lodgings to let never puts out that sign, 'Room for Rent,' so familiar in the cities of Canada," said a traveler. "Instead she displays the single word 'Residence.' That sounds queer to us, and until the Canadian visitor becomes wise as to its meaning he wonders what its purpose might be. Any native will tell him that such a legend means the occupant of the house will rent a part thereof to one who is seeking a place to reside in. So if you are in England and wish to rent a furnished apartment or room wherever you see the word 'Residence' go boldly in and state your mission."

Crape on the Door.

The custom of placing crape on the door of a house where there has been a recent death had its origin in the ancient English heraldic customs and dates back to the year 1100 A.D. At that period hatchments, or armorial ensigns, were placed in front of houses when the nobility or gentry died. The hatchments were of diamond shape and contained the family arms quartered and covered with sable.

Locating the Trouble.

One day Mary came to her mother and said, "Mother, my ear aches."

"Does it ache very bad, Mary?" asked her mother.

"No."

"Well, run out and play. Then you will forget about it."

Mary went out, but pretty soon she came back and said: "Mother, my ear does ache. It is not the hole, but the ruffle around it."

Knew the Ropes.

"What do you say to a young lady at a dance?" quoted the youth who was about to attend his first ball.

"Oh," replied the society man, "talk to her about her beauty."

"But suppose she hasn't any?" said the youth.

"In that case," rejoined the society man, "talk to her about the ugliness of the other girls present."—London Tatler.

The Temple of Zeus.

All that remains of the great temple of Zeus, which was 700 years in building, is to be found about 150 yards from the foot of the Acropolis at Athens. The ruins consist of sixteen columns of the Corinthian order, six and one-half feet in diameter and sixty feet high. It was the second largest temple erected by the Greeks, one superior to it in size being the temple of Diana at Ephesus. According to a legend, its foundation was built by Deukalion, the Greek Noah, who from this point witnessed the waters of the flood subside. An opening in the ground is said to be the orifice through which the flood disappeared.

A Dangerous Disease

Owing to Its Tendency to Spread to all Parts of the System, Catarrh should be checked in its Incipient Stages.

Catarrh commences generally with a slight cold, and because slight, it is often neglected. But the seed that has been sown brings forth a dangerous harvest—perhaps it is the harvest of consumption, which is the harvest of death.

Better spend a few months each day inhaling Catarrhozone, an aromatic antiseptic remedy that is breathed in through the mouth, and, after permeating all the respiratory organs, is slowly exhaled through the nostrils.

The immediate effect of Catarrhozone is magical—so prompt and efficient. Relief is instantaneous, throat and nose cleared in a few moments by the penetrating vapor from the inhaler Ferrozone, taken in conjunction with Catarrhozone, purifies the blood, cleanses it of all poisons, and builds up the system so that Catarrh cannot exist.

You are sure to receive lasting benefit from Catarrhozone if bothered by Catarrh in any part of the system. It is highly recommended for Bronchitis, Asthma, and Lung Trouble, and used for Coughs and Colds in the head it has no equal.

Remember that Catarrhozone is both a local and constitutional treatment, and is warranted under all circumstances to give satisfaction. Money refunded if it fails.

Two months' treatment, consisting of a beautiful polished hard rubber inhaler and large bottle of liquid for recharging, together with a box of Ferrozone tablets costs but $1; trial size, 25c. Sold by all druggists and N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont. Buy it to-day.

ANARCHISM IN ENGLAND.

It is a pretty safe assumption that the Indian anarchist crime of last week in London is regarded by anarchists in Great Britain and throughout the world with consternation and regret as well as with malevolent exultation. That is because it imperils their enjoyment of their favorite asylum. Hitherto the United Kingdom, and especially London, has been the chief refuge of anarchists from all over the world, who, as a rule, have maintained fairly good behaviour, there in order to avoir expulsion. They have realized that it would be a disastrous thing for them to have the police of England co-operate with the police of France and Germany in suppressing them; and for that reason Englishmen have rejoiced in a supposed immunity from anarchist outrages. Nevertheless there have been some outrages there, though none so serious as to provoke the government to the enactment of more severe laws.

The notorious John Most, of Augsburg, Germany, was the chief founder of the criminal cult in London, in 1879. Two years later he got looked up for his deviltries, and on his release came to New York to conduct a similar propaganda here. But he published and distributed in London his "Anarchist's Guide," containing directions for the making and use of murderous bombs, and it is still the favorite handbook of criminals of that class. His disciples founded the "Autonomy Club" after his departure from London, of which the membership was at first exclusively German, but afterward became cosmopolitan and thus distinguished from the organizations of Russian nihilists, Armenian revolutionists and others of national rather than international composition. Its organ, "Die Autonomie," became the most conspicuous periodical of crime in all Europe.

It was to this villainous organization that most, if not all, of the anarchist outrages in London for a number of years were due. One of its chief officers was a Frenchman named Bourdin, who, in February, 1894, set out to blow up the Greenwich Observatory with a bomb, but happily succeeded in blowing up himself instead. In the same year Francis Potti and Ginsseppe Carnot attempted to blow up the Stock Exchange when it was crowded with members, and were sent to prison for a term of years, as was another who wrecked with bombs several postoffices in London. Then the police raided the Autonomy Club and broke it up, with the result that its members went into other clubs, and thus scattered the virus of that sort of crime still more widely about the city. There are supposed to be now from eight hundred to one thousand professional anarchists in London, many of them apparaparently industrious artisans, while many others ply the trades of burglars and cutpurses.

It is not improbable that this latest outrage will move the government to enact more stringent laws or the police to administer the existing laws more rigidly and remorselessly. As a matter of fact, existing laws afford little or no protection against anarchists as such. It is only when actual crime, further than criminal incitement, is committed that anything is done. It is very difficult to exclude undesirable immigrants. If one is sent back because he is a pauper, he goes, but he may presently return with a little money in his pockets, and then he is unhesitatingly admitted. Practically any one with a £5 note has been the passport of many persons, being mailed back to the Continent again and again to other emigrants as soon as it has served its purpose. In the present case, of course, the criminal is a subject of the British Empire; but that fact is not likely to restrain the demand for more effective action against anarchists of all nationalities.

THE NEW YELLOW PERIL.

Throughout the American continent in the press and in the judgment of the sensible citizen, the result of the murder of Miss Sigel in New York will be to put beyond the ban of popular rule out of popular favorthe practice of classes for Chinamen being taught by young women. The Montreal Gazette is frank, straight, and outspoken on the subject. It says: "Instruction such as the Chinese need for business purposes can be given by men as well as women, while in the matter of religious teaching, the Chinaman with as strong an intellect as any of the white races can lay claim to, and a religious faith extending back to centuries before Christ, is not likely to be moved from his beliefs by the entreatment of young women, however earnest and convinced, and there are some dangers in the association that it is not well for the young women to run."

The Home Bank.

While earl year was not a particularly brink year for business the Home Bank of Canada made profits Rhich averaged of well and permitted the payment of quarterly dividends at the rate of 6 per cent per annum besides adding $55,629.65 to the credit of profit and loss account to be carried over to next year and also the addition of a sum to the rest fund which increased that fund to one third of the paid up capital. The deposits also increased $1,000,200. Such is the record of the Home Bank of Canada, the president, Mr. Eugene O'Keefe, and the General Manager Lieut-Col. James Masson, along with the board of directors are deserving of great credit. Their policy has been a sure and rareful one and one which has increased wonderfully the confidence of the General public in that institution.

Last years annual report of the Home Bank contained reference to a connection formed with the Grain Grower's Association of the North-West. From Mr. John Kennedy's remarks to the shareholders at the annual meeting it is to be surmised that this connection is working out most amicably and both sides are well content. Mr. Kennedy is a director of the Home Bank and vice-president of the Grain Growers' Company, and from his outline of the objects of the Grain Growersj Organization, it is evident that the Home Bank is supplying the finances where by Grain Growers are able to obtain loans on their grain. Obviously the grain itself is the Banks security and as this is a stable commodity the arrangement is in accordance with established banking principles.

The African Buffalo.

A wounded buffalo is vastly more dangerous when he runs away than when he charges, for in nine cases out of ten after a dash that may be for a few hundred yards or a mile he will revengefully circle back to an interception of his own trail, stand hidden in grass or thicket until his pursuer comes plodding along the trail and then charge upon him. Despite the fierce temper of a lone bull, his savage cunning and his great, charging bulk, I believe him much less dangerous than the lion, for he has far less speed, lacks the lion's poisoned claws and is a much bigger target. This opinion is substantiated by the indisputable fact that at least ten men are killed or mauled by lion to one killed by buffalo.—Edgar Beecher Bronson in Century.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co. Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. The Proper Question.

The man with the glassy eye and preternaturally solemn demeanor put down a sovereign at the booking office at Charing Cross and demanded "a ticket." "What station?" snapped the booking clerk. WABSATCH MINING COMPANY

Capital Stock 300,000 Shares; Par $5; 20,000 10 per cent. Cumulative Preferred; 280,000 Common Stock.

Property at Bingham City, Utah, on the main line of the Oregon Short Line Railroad.

This property is the result of twenty years of labor and the expenditure of $150,000 by its President, H. C. Baker, director of the Commercial National Bank of Ogden. It is opened in fourteen places; there is a complete equipment and full line of supplies on hand. The preferred stock, which has been up to this time in the treasury, is being sold to provide for the working capital which O. A. Palmer, Engineer of the Ontario Silver Company, with a record of $15,000,000 in dividends, says is necessary to make a dividend payer. Enough stock has been placed to assure the running of the property. President Baker reports that within three months from the date of starting the mill the mine can net $11,000 a month. This means 10 per cent. on the preferred and 7 per cent. on the common.

Wabsatch will be listed at once on the Boston Curb Market and later application will be made to the Boston Stock Exchange. After listing on the Boston Curb, all offers will be withdrawn. Not a share of the preferred will be sold for less than par and not a share of common for less than $1.00. Further, I stand ready to take any or all offers of stock at these prices.

Now you can buy this stock before listing and sell within two months at an advance. Your preferred stock will positively sell at $7.00 and the common at par within a short while. Furthermore, to each purchaser of a round lot I will agree to transport him or his representative to the mine. I have hold of a winner and shall use it as a clientele increaser.

O. A. Palmer, M.E., says, "To insure proper development and to get the best results in the shortest time, there should be a reserve fund created to draw on of at least $35,000 or $40,000 for the purpose, and from my examination of this particular section and long familiarity and experience with the mining districts and the largest producers of ore in the Wabsatch Range, there is no doubt that the Gold Belt Group of mines will, with this expenditure, be placed on a paying basis.

Summary of Natural Advantages.

This property gives assurance that dividends will be paid steadily, based on the following natural advantages:

Climate—Allowing work throughout the year.

True Fissure Vein—Large quantities of ore.

Will Peterboro' Ever Own a Water Power on the Kawartha Waterway?

Peterborough is on the brink of a new era. The opportunity is at hanh if the city council will only realize it and grasp it. By the purchase of Burleigh Falls power, the development of it and the transmission of it to this city, by the city, will mean a greater Peterborough. The first thing a factory wants in power! Cheap power will get more factories. Lots of cheap power will get lots of factories, and factories mean a large population and a greater volume of business.

So far as Burleigh Falls is concerned everyone knows that it is a good water power; that there are several thousand horse power available; that it will last just as long as there is water in the Karwartha Lakes and the Grent Valley Canal. Is the City therefore taking an unreasonable risk in purchasing the power? Your answer will depend upon your faith in the permanency of the water supply in the lakes.

Is the purchase of Burleigh Falls so large that a city council, or anybody of business men should tremble to touch it? Your answer will depend upon your faith in the capacity of the men.

The present council is composed of good men. Some of them are accustomed to handling large sums of money. They have successfully put and they certainly should not hesitate to at least secure the necessary information required in this matter. Yet they do appear to hesitate. At least the members of the Power Committee do not appear at the committee meetings nor yet do they send any reason for not attending.

There are great American and foreign manufacturing companies who find it necessary to open branches of their business in Canada. These branches are being located every few days. Some town or city is being increased in population and importance. Where does Peterborough come in? How many of those new factories are being planted in Peterborough? No answer is necessary-Everyone knows.

Peterborough has the geographical position; the railway facilities; all natural facilities. A big river fed by a long chain of inland lakes flows through the heart of the city. On that river and on the lakes are thousands of electric horse power going to waste. Does Peterborough own any of them? Will the city ever own any of them? Or will the opportunities be allowed to pass and private parties allowed to get the power and hold the city up for all time to come?

To the Special Power Committee allow it to be said that the time is at hand for prompt action. Take hold of the Burleigh power question and find out what there is in it now or let some one else take your place. The power question like the isolation hospital has been hanging so long that it is a joke, and the lack of an isolation hospital has been a most expensive joke. Still that is nothing to the tremendous loss the city is suffering and always will suffer for want of cheap power. There is an opening now for the aldermen to do something for their city. Will they do it?

If Sick

Don't risk even one single penny!

And I will tell you why I say this.

In his present every penny of Dr. Shoop's medicines is absolutely Free To All Sufferers.

No one need risk even one single penny.

Just think what this means to the suffering sick!

No risk, no expense, nothing whatever, you have decided for yourself, free in full share, and without the risk of a single penny, you can test either of my two great remedies, Dr. Shoop's Restorative or Dr. Shoop's Night Cure.

Why not write me today and learn about them?

Why purchase any medicine when another dare not back it just as I do by this remarkable offer?

And besides, I am not asking you to buy. Dr. Shoop's Restorative and Dr. Shoop's Night Cure are not sold in stores anywhere.

They are obtainable only from me. And I have decided to distribute them free to all sufferers who write me.

And I have decided to distribute them free to all sufferers who write me.

Just write me first for an order.

I have an agent in almost every community, but all druggists are not authorized to grant the free offer.

So write me a line, please—and then note all directions and obey them.

Besides, the books will open up new and helpful ideas to you. They tell of my 39 years experience of the cause, home and cure of sickness. All about your ailment. Both are sent free. They tell of Dr. Shoop's Restorative, which is now famous the world over. Also of Dr. Shoop's Night Cure, which is given by the Heart to Heart Talks. How the stomach and kidneys work have their cause or prevent nerves. How these organs should behave when these controlling or master nerves begin to fail. How Dr. Shoop's Restorative is made from the juices of certain roots, herbs and barks. How it is sold entirely on my own personal honor, without a single secret ingredient. How it is sold entirely on my own personal honor, without a single secret ingredient. How it is sold entirely on my own personal honor, without a single secret ingredient.

Why not write today? Why pay—if it is within the power of medicine to do so. My book offers it gratis, worth your whole attention, the world over, while it is here. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 12, Racine, Wis.

She was attended by her niece, Miss Evelyn Smith of Owen Sound, as bridesmaid, and Miss Emily Merritt and Miss Mary Rowe. Following the ceremony the guests were driven to Woodside where a reception was held after which Mr. and Mrs. King left for a honeymoon trip to the Eastern Provinces.—Toronto News.

PERDUE—HALL.

Confined to His Home for Weeks.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on a double varicocele. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and skilful. I wrote them and got THE NEW METHOD TREATMENT. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $18 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $21 and never lose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment.

"FROM INKLETS"

Some time ago we heard a number of expert users of INK discussing the relative merits of the various Brands of WRITING INKS, especially for Commercial and Mercantile use, and the unanimous conclusion was that there was not a better INK for this purpose than KEARNS'. We suppose the KEARNS INK COMPANY could sell two or three times its present output; provided they would permit the amount of their sales to take precedence over the quality of their INK, which they guard with the most zealous care. Western Canada Wood Pulp & Paper Co. Ltd.

HEAD OFFICE, 638 VIEW ST. VICTORIA, B. C.

Plant Now Under Course of Erection at Quatsina Sound, Vancouver Island.

Asset.

The company have acquired 15,000 acres of Pulp Land on Quatsino Sound, Vancouver Island.

Water Power

In addition to the vast Pulp Limits acquired, the company have also secured a 20,000 inch water record on Marble Creek, at Quatsino Sound, capable of developing from 15,000 to 18,000 h.p. This creek derives its source from three lakes 20 miles in length and is there permanent the year round.

Capacity of Plant

The plant when fully complete will have a capacity of 600 tons of news and wrapping per week, we are rushing the work along and feel confident that we will have the pulp plant with a weekly capacity of 100 tons in operation by December 1st of this year.

Cost of Manufacture

With our tremendous pulp limits, which enable us to secure our pulp wood at a nominal figure, and splendid water power, the cost of manufacture above and wrapping paper should not exceed $5.00 per ton. At present news is jobbing in British Columbia at $20.00 per ton. The freight rate in carload lots from Ontario and Quebec being $17.00 per ton.

Local Markets

The local market of the company extends east a thousand miles to Moose Jaw and tributary region. Within the above territory the annual consumption of paper is estimated at a thousand tons exclusive of that used by printers and newspapers. The five daily papers at Victoria and Vancouver alone consume over 100 carloads of paper per year.

Foreign Markets

The foreign markets of the company consist of China, Japan, New Zealand, Australia, Hawaii and the Philippines. In 1906 the above countries imported over $30,000,000 worth of wood pulp and paper, principally from Norway, Sweden ,Germany ,Eastern United States and Eastern Canada.

Freight Rates to Orient

A freight rate of from $5.00 to $6.00 per ton can be secured from British Columbia to China, Japan, New Zealand and Australia ,on wood pulp and paper as against a rate of $7.00 to $15.00 per ton on the same commodities from Eastern Canada and Europe. Being from 2,000 to 5,000 miles nearer the Oriental market than Eastern Canada or European mills we are not only able to secure a much lower freight rate, but also a lower insurance rate.

Natural Advantages of British Columbia

News and wrapping paper are manufactured principally from Spruce, Hemlock, Balsam and Larch wood, one ton of chemical wood pulp requires approximately two cords of four foot wood. At present Spruce and Hemlock wood is worth from $5.00 to $9.00 per cord, in Eastern Canada; our institution enable us to secure it at less than $3.00 per cord. In 1906 the American mills were obliged to pay from $9.00 to $12.00 per cord.

Progress of Work

We are proceeding as fast as possible with the work. The erection of the plant has been placed under the exclusive supervision of Mr. Charles B. Pride, of Appleton, Wis., one of the most distinguished authorities on the erection of pulp and paper mills in the United States,having built more than fifty of the leading mills of the country and he is confident of being able to have the pulp mill in operation by December 1st of this year.

Sale of Stock

In offering the preferred stock of this corporation, we do so with a feeling that it is the best industrial stock ever offered for subscription in Western Canada. At present it is impossible to buy stock in the majority of the operating mills of Canada and there is no question but that inside of 18 months the stock of this corporation will be selling at a handsome premium; remember the time to buy stock in any corporation is six months before a wheel has been turned, not after it is in operation.

Profits in Pulp and Paper Manufacture

No industry, not even mining itself, has yielded as large and permanent dividends as the manufacture of Wood Pulp and Paper, and there is no reason why the mill which we are now erecting should not pay at least 25 per cent. annual dividends. Under much less favorable conditions, the Eastern Canadian and English mills are paying from 10 to 25 per cent. With our natural advantages, we should be able to make a profit of approximately $15.00 per ton on news paper, $30.00 per ton on Wrapping paper, and $35.00 per ton on box board and pulp board. The Pacific Coast mills of the United States are now making a net profit, after deducting depreciation, operating expenses, bonds, & etc., of approximately $35.00 per ton on wrapping and $15.00 per ton on box and pulp boards, and this after paying from $4.00 to $5.00 per cord for wood. In 1906 the Lauzatide Paper Co. showed a profit of $351,464. The Kellner-Partington Pulp and Paper Co. showed a gross profit last year of $1,252,365. The official United States Government Report, issued at Washington, D. C., July 24th, 1907, Bulletin 88, showed that the mills of the State of Oregon made a profit of 39 3-3 per cent, of the value of goods over all expenses, of 19 per cent. The gross profits of the International PaPer Co., for the year ending June 30th, 1906, amounted to $1,636,913.

Under date of February 16th, 1906, Mr. Herman Ridder, President of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, filed charges against the Paper Trust of the United States, and in his disposition to Hon. Chas. J. Bonaparte, Attorney-General of the United States, said:

"News print paper mills that are not entirely modern are now making paper at figures that show a profit of more than $20.00 per ton on the paper prices just announced by the International Paper Co., $37.50 per ton. In other words, for paper delivered, say, in New York, up-to-date mills are making a profit of more than 60 per cent, on the cost of manufacture, delivery and storage, and they are making a profit of more than 40 per cent, upon a reasonable allowance for the capital required for a modern plant."

With our close proximity to the Oriental market, there is no reason why we should not make, conservatively, 10 per cent. more dividends than the Eastern Canadian or American Mills. In 1906, Australia imported over 60,000 tons of News principally from Western Canada and Europe. Why should we let this great volume of paper go to Eastern Canada, Eastern United States, and Europe, when we are in a position to control it ourselves? Every dollar of paper used in the Orient should be furnished from Western Canada. With sufficient mills to produce the goods, what country is in a better position to control the trade of the Orient than British Columbia. Not only are we able to manufacture News and Wrapping Paper from $2.50 to $3.00 per ton lower than Eastern Canada and American mills, but we are from 2,000 to 5,000 miles nearer the great Oriental markets. The demand for News and Wrapping Paper is gradually increasing, and, within ten years, China, Japan, Australia and New Zealand will be absolutely dependent upon this Providence for its supply of pulp and paper. We know the big dividends that the paper mills of the world are paying, and with our immense timber limits, covering 36 square miles, which assures a permanent supply of wood at a nominal cost, there is no reason why we should not pay even larger dividends than the present operating mills.

The preferred stock is entitled to a cumulative dividend of 7 per cent., payable before any dividend is paid on the ordinary stock. After 7 per cent. has been paid upon both the preferred and ordinary shares, both stocks thereafter participate equally.

Metropolitan Life Insurance Company

JOHN R. HEGEMAN, President.

(INDUSTRIAL DEPARTMENT.)

In January, 1907, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company largely increased the benefits in its Industrial policies by reason of a heavy Reduction in expenses and improvement in mortality experience.

During the past three years the company has steadily reduced its expenses, so that it is enabled to make a further increase in the benefits. Industrial insurance policies have a unit of weekly premium—three cents, five cents and multiples thereof--and the amount of insurance varies with the age.

All Industrial Life policies (premiums cease after age 74), Endowment policies at 80 and Adult Twenty-year Endowment

Policies issued since Jan. 1, 1907, will be increased in benefits about 10 PER CENT

according to a new table of benefits adopted for policies issued after July 1, 1909. In other words, not only does the Company issue a new table for policies hereafter issued, but it makes the increase retroactive since the present form of Limited Payment and Endowment at age 80 policies were adopted.

Upon the OLD INDUSTRIAL POLICIES the Company is paying out TWO AND A HALF MILLIONS OF DOLLARS IN BONUSES THIS YEAR, bringing up the total Bonuses and Concessions upon Industrial policies to EIGHTEEN MILLIONS OF DOLLARS IN SIXTEEN YEARS. This is OVER AND ABOVE ANY AND ALL OBLIGATIONS expressed or implied in the policies.

The Metropolitan in its Industrial Department has the lowest Ratio of Expense of all the Industrial Insurance Companies in the world which pay immediate benefits. In FIVE YEARS its Ratio of

Expense to Premium Income has been Reduced

6 per cent representing an Annual

Saving of Three and a Half Millions of Dollars

The new Covertible policy issued by the Company is a novel form of insurance which becomes fully paid-up life insurance in a few years and is then automatically converted into endowment insurance, the maturity of which is periodically shortened as payment of premiums continues.

The Company is abreast of the public demand for combination of term insurance and annuties, and serves the public better than any other agency.

INDUSTRIAL POLICIES IN FORCE: NEARLY 9,500,000, INSURANCE NEARLY $1,500,000,000.

"ORDINARY DEPARTMENT"

The Company has reduced expenses six per cent. in this Department in the last FIVE years—representing an ANNUAL SAVING ING OF OVER A MILLION AND A QUARTER OF DOLLARS IN THE ORDINARY DEPARTMENT.

The Company issues policies in the Ordinary Department in amounts from $500 to $1,000,000 upon all approved plans at the lowest rates. IN 1906 IT WROTE MORE PAID-FOR BUSINESS IN ITS ORDINARY OLD LINE INSURANCE (exclusive of Industrial,) in the United States and Canada, THAN ANY OTHER COMPANY.

All of its policies in the Ordinary as well as the Industrial Department are written on the non-participating plan. The Metropolitan pays its dividends at the start—that is to say, it cuts down the premiums. It believes the plain, common-sense men who make up bulk of modern bol-ders look for a plain business contract. By plain business contracts we mean those which tell their whole story upon their face; which leave nothing to the imagination, borrow nothing from hope, require definite conditions and make definite promises in dollars and cents.

In both Departments combined the Company has, in each of the past fifteen years, written more paid-for insurance than any other company in the world."

The Company upon its Total Business Has in the Last Ten Years Reduced its Ratio of Expenses FIFTEEN PER CENT.

A SMALL BLIND TUBE

The Vermiform Appendix and Its Probable Function.

PROBLEM OF APPENDICITIS.

The Causes of the Disease and the Methods of Fighting It—The Way the Operation of Removal Is Performed—Disease as Old as Mankind.

Appendicitis is not a disease of modern times, though its nature and methods of treatment are the result of careful observation by one of our well known modern surgeons while engaged in postmortem work.

It may be safe to say that appendicitis is as old as mankind, for in studying very old histories wherein are given the diagnoses of the physicians we read of cases of inflammation of the bowels, intestinal disorders and like ailments the symptoms of which prove that they must have been appendicitis.

Appendicitis is inflammation of the vermiform appendix, a small blind tube, averaging two and a half inches in length and a quarter of an inch in diameter, attached to the coecum at its inner and posterior part. It is made of a very sensitive mucous membrane containing several glands.

The appendix is part of the digestive tract, its function, it is believed, being to lubricate that part of the intestines, though as yet there is no absolute proof of this. Careful study of a child from whom the colon has been removed until he reaches the age of manhood has revealed no irregularities of any nature.

The causes of this disease may be grouped under four heads—stenosis, which means closing up; impaction, the entrance of foreign bodies, not necessarily seeds; exposure and injury. In fighting this disease nature takes three methods of disposing of the toxic materials—discharging them into the peritoneal cavity, sending them into the bowels and discharging them through an external wound. In the first, if the discharge be not too rapid while the peritoneum is taking them up, nature again makes an effort to ward off the threatened danger by walling the poisonous matters in, thus localizing them and so aiding the physician or surgeon in his work. If, however, the discharge be sudden, as is the case when the mass bursts, the whole of the peritoneum becomes involved, which is called septic peritonitis, and this is generally fatal.

After the diagnosis has revealed the disease the doctor decides whether the case be one for medicine or external treatment or for separation. In the latter case the greatest of care is demanded, as sometimes an immediate operation is necessary, while at other times it must be delayed, often for hours, until the condition of the patient has been brought to that point at which the surgeon can feel it is safe to go ahead.

The operation determined upon, the most careful arrangements to secure perfect antisepsis are made, and the patient is placed in a full state of anaesthesia.

The operating surgeon then draws an imaginary line from the navel to the anterior superior spine of the right hip bone, dividing that line into three parts. Under the inner side of the middle third the appendix in normal cases will be found, though in rare cases it has been found on the left side and in extremely rare cases otherwise displaced.

Having satisfied himself of the exact spot under which it will be found, an incision from two to five inches long is made in the skin. (Some of the best surgeons pride themselves on the smallness of their incisions in this operation.) The fatty tissues are then cut through, the small blood vessels are secured, and then the muscular walls of the abdomen are separated, bringing into view the peritoneum. This is a serous secretive lining composed of two layers. On cutting through this the edges of both layers are clamped so as to enable the surgeon to reunite them when the operation shall have been completed.

The intestines are now visible, and the affected section is very tenderly drawn through the opening, where the nature and extent of the infection are made known. Hot towels moistened with salt water are kept applied to the intestine while it is exposed. The word "tenderly" characterizes the whole of this operation, as the surgeon must be more than careful to prevent any rupture of the appendix, for should this happen while he is operating the pus would be quickly taken up by the peritoneum and other mucous membranes, and the resulting complications would make the outcome very uncertain.

The mesentery, a large vessel adjoining the appendix, is next ligated, and then the colon is tied off, after which the diseased organ is cut away. The stump is pushed back into the intestine and the ligature is tightly drawn, this to prevent the formation of a pouch.

The removal safely accomplished, the intestine is replaced, the edges of the peritoneum are carefully approximated and the muscular walls, fatty tissue and skin are brought together by subcutaneous and cutaneous sutures.

In the majority of cases, no complications ensuing, the patient is ready for discharge in two weeks.—James M. Smyth, M. D., in New York World.

There is a proper dignity and proportion to be observed in the performance of every act of life.—Ausellus.

DAMASCUS.

The situation of Damascus is remarkable—she stands isolated on an oasis of the east desert which everywhere hems her in. You may see from Damascus the sunset touch with purple the low western hills twenty-five miles away. These hills mark the beginning of the great desert. Beyond them there is nothing but a rolling waste and the long roads to Palmyra and Bagdad. The permanence and prosperity of Damascus are due to the presence of two rivers, which have converted this spot of the dreary, desolate and uninhabited desert into a smiling and well watered plain. The Pharpar approaches only within seven miles of Damascus, but by means of canals and aqueducts sends its life giving waters to the gardens of the city. The Abana is the stream from which the city's main supply of water is obtained. Minerva-like, it springs full born from the base of a perpendicular rock at Ain Fijih, in the heart of the Anti-Lebanons, and runs a course of ten miles in a gorge, a large river twenty to thirty feet wide and four feet deep, its waters always fresh and ice cold, casting out branches everywhere, permeating every nook and corner of the city, until, as one has said, "literally there is scarce a street, bazaar, khan, courtyard or dwelling house which has not its marble or stone fountain constantly filled with running water supplied directly by the Abana itself." Thus the Abana, not fruitlessly wasting her waters on that thirsty land, saves them in her narrow gorge till she can fling them well out on the desert and expends all her life at once in the creation of a single city.—Biblical World.

CHANGED HIS MIND.

A New York pastor received a call in his study one morning not long ago from a man with whom he had a pleasant but not intimate acquaintance. And the visitor told him without much ado that he had called on a peculiar errand.

"Some time ago," he said, "as you know, I lost my wife. I have no children, I have no kinsfolk, and I am very lonely in the world. Last week, by an unlucky speculation, I lost my whole fortune. I am therefore without companionship, without occupation, without money. I am too old to start again, and I have no joy in life as it is. I have deliberately decided, therefore, to commit suicide. And I called to tell you of my purpose and to ask the favor of you that when my body is found you will make such an explanation as your good judgment and kindly feeling toward me may suggest. I have come simply to ask this favor and not to argue the question, which I have settled for myself. If you do me this last service I shall be very grateful."

The preacher said little and was far too wise to undertake to dissuade him, but he permitted the man to say all that he had to say without interruption.

Then as he was going away the preacher called to him and said:

"I have not seen you on the golf links for some time. You use to enjoy the game."

"Yes," said the other.

"Well, go out and play one more game today before you carry out your purpose."

The man smiled for the first time and went to the golf course and—he is living yet.

Old Time Gas Charges.

The price of gas in the early part of the last century is shown by a schedule of charges issued by the Liverpool Gaslight company in the year 1817. Instead of so much per cubic foot being levied each individual burner was charged for, and the price varied according to the hour at which the light was to be extinguished. Thus for using one No. 1 Argand burner up till 8 p. m. £3 per annum had to be paid. For the right to keep it alight until 9 £3 18s. was the figure, while those roistering blades who sat up till 10, 11 or 12 had to disburse £4 16s., £5 12s. and £6 8s. respectively. Imagine the gas bill at a house where ten or twelve burners are flaring away until the small hours if such a method of taxation were in force nowadays!—Liverpool Post.

Insincerity.

"Our civilization demands a greater or less degree of mendacity," remarked the abstruse person. "We are constantly encountering some empty phrase, some conventional remark, which is absolutely devoid of sincerity."

"That's right," answered the book agent. "That's perfectly true. I am reminded of it every time I walk up to the front step where there is a doormat with the word 'welcome' on it."

The Right Word.

"Why do you speak of him as a finished artist?"

"Because he told me he was utterly discouraged and was going to quit the profession. If that doesn't show that he's finished I don't know what does."

The Plain Part of It.

"Did the young man they caught in fraudulent transactions peculate very much?"

"I donno about that, but he stole a lot."

ASTRONOMY.

Its Exactness Illustrated by the Discovery of Neptune.

There is perhaps no more striking illustration of the power of scientific method than that relating to the discovery of Neptune in 1846. The planet Uranus, until then the outermost known member of our solar system, refused to follow the path computed for it by mathematical astronomers. With the progress of time the discrepancies between its predicted and observed positions grew constantly larger until in the early eighteen-forties the discordance amounted to fully seventy-five seconds of arc. This is a small angle, not more than one-twenty-fifth the angular diameter of our moon, yet a very large angle to defined astronomy, for a discrepancy of two seconds would have been detected with ease. The opinion gradually developed that Uranus was drawn from its natural course by the attractions of an undiscovered planet still farther from the sun than itself. Adams [illegible] and Le Verrier in 1845 independently and each without knowledge of the other's plans attacked the then extremely difficult problem of determining the approximate orbit, mass and position of an undiscovered body whose attractions should produce the perturbations observed. Regrettable and avoidable delays occurred in searching for the planet after Adams' results were communicated to the astronomer royal in October, 1845. Le Verrier's results were communicated to the Berlin observatory in September, 1846, with the request that a search be made. The disturbing planet, later named Neptune, was found on the first evening that it was looked for less than one degree of arc from the position assigned by Le Verrier. If an energetic search had been made in England the year before the planet would have been discovered within two degrees of the position assigned by Adams.—Professor W. W. Campbell in Popular Science Monthly.

The Smuggled Sox.

A joker had some fun with the customs officials at New York some years ago. A servant had gone ashore from a German liner with a basket and was about to leave the pier when a passenger whispered to a customs officer that he had better see what the basket contained. Following the tip, the basket bearer was detained, and a wooden box was found among a lot of soiled linen. The box contained another and this still another box, the third securely fastened with screws. When these were removed a card was discovered on which was written in three languages, "This is the 1st of April. Many happy returns of the day."

A GREAT CHANCE.

To Make a Safe and Exceedingly Profitable Investment.

Conservative people of sound business sense know of the large fortunes which have been made in mining, often as the result of comparatively small investments made during the development period of mines when capital is required to bring the mines to the dividend paying period.

A mining proposition in accessible parts of the United States is not difficult to investigate and if any man of ordinary intelligence will simply take the trouble he can ascertain before investing whether or not a company is engaged in a serious mining enterprise and whether the directors of its affairs are substantial men of good character who have established a good record, or whether they are professional stock sellers, working one section and then jitting to another.

The Copper Belt Mines Company is well along on the road to dividends, has made remarkable progress in a comparatively short time. A careful, cold-blooded business investigation of both mines and management, which should be made before investing, should convince any fair-minded person that the chance of making a "big thing" out of a reasonable investment in Copper Belt stock at the present price is better than on any investment in which a few hundred or few thousand dollars can be placed anywhere at this time.

A total of over 2500 feet of underground work has been done on the Copper Belt property which, with the showing made, is sufficient to take the Copper Belt mine entirely out of the prospect or gambling stage and classify it as a large but not completely developed mine, sure with able management to bring large returns to those interested in a reasonably short time. A comparatively small amount of additional capital for new development, additional machinery and smelter should assure handsome dividends even for a successful mine, and as other legitimate enterprise yields such enormous returns on the capital invested.

These mines are located in the Rawhide Buttes, Wyoming, twelve miles south of Lusk on the main line of the C & N. W. Ry., and consists of 35 claims, four large proven veins, 2500 feet of actual development. Main shaft, the Lucky Henry, now down to a depth of 620 feet, interested by the Paine tunnel at the 400 foot level—520 feet long. Four other shafts 65, 50, 40 and 20 feet, and have all the attributes for successful mining on the property—water, timber and fuel.

The President and active manager of this Company is Edwin Hall, a mining engineer of nations, reputation, who directs the work at the mines—he is also a prominent member of the American Mining Congress and recently appointed State Geologist of Wyoming. Weary, Worn Out, Tired

If You Feel Poorly this Spring the Article is worth Considering.

Nothing in life keeps people from advancement like poor health If the nerves are weak, if the stomach liver, bowels or kidneys, fail to work properly, healthy surely suffers. Spring is the hardest time on health —the season when the system calls for active cleansing medicine.

The best plan is to entrust your condition to a physician of reputation like Dr. Hamilton, who has had years of experience in compounding tonics. For the ills and tired feeling of spring Dr. Hamilton says nothing is better than Mandrake and Butternut Pills, and this is well proven in the case of James Burton of Lewisham. "I had grip and it left me very weak. The disease settled in my back and side, which ached day and night. I had a nagging cough. My appetite was all gone. My nerves unstrung. I could not sleep well, I struggled against growing pale, thin and weak—but it was no good. Spring brought depressions, overpowering weakness and bad headaches. But my life was spared, simply because learned of the wonderful merit in Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. The result was marvelous. I gained rapidly, became strong, ruddy, vigorous, perfectly well. I urge every man and woman to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly.

You'll brighten up, have cleaner blood, stronger nerves, better spirits after using Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. at all dealers. Guaranteed safe, sure helpful for old and young.

Whose Booze ?

Recently before Justices of the Peace Tate and Lillierap the question of the right of the town to confiscate the barrel of whiskey recently seized by License Inspector Jos. Stewart, Mr. James Haverson, K. C., represented Mr. Lawless, and no counsel for the town was present. Mr. Lawless claimed that the liquor was simply on the premises awaiting transfer to Bobcaygeon, and thought it should be sent on to its destination. The case occupied considerable time and the point at issue is a novel one and created quite a bit of interest among the license holders of the district. Judgment was reserved.

His prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these weak and faltering inside nerves. This, no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Heavy Rain at Chemong Barn Struck by Lightning

Chemong Park, July 11. — The heavy rain which lasted practically all day and until late at night was worth many thousands of dollars to the farmers of this neighborhood. Almost immediately afterward the crops and the grass began to grow, and the farmers are more than delighted, as the meadows were pretty well dried up and the field and root crops had begun to suffer.

One of the delegates at the summer school at the park, and who is staying at the hotel, took the measurement of the water fall and announced this morning that two and one quarter inches of rain had fallen or about 220 tons per acre.

Early in the storm the lightning was very vivid, and the gable on Mr. Blewett's barn just east of the village was struck. The lightning found the hay carrier track and followed it through to the other end and ran down the side of the barn and was grounded. Practically no damage was done other than that a piece of the gable was knocked off.

THE SUMMER SCHOOL.

Today was the closing day of the summer school which has been conducted here for the past week under the auspices of the Bay of Quinte Epworth League. The school has been a most successful one. About 150 were in attendance and they were present at all the sessions and enjoyed and benefitted by the several addresses that were given. Last night's meeting was held as usual. The rain did not interfere with it at all except that the attendance from the village and the city was very were well attended, morning, afternoon and evening, and a great many from the vicinity were present. The feature of the morning session was the love feast of which all the delegates took part. Mr. and Mrs. Brown of Chemong Park Hotel looked after their visitors in a manner which won the highest praise from all. Cots were put up in the ball room and a large cottage was rented for the occasion, and cots were put up there, while the meals were all that one could wish for.

He Flirted with the Wrong Girl at Chemong

Chemong Park, July 11.—Three young men from the village had a bunch of fun with a fourth village sport one evening last week, and the victim will not forget his experience for a long time. The three dressed up in their sisters' clothes, put on wigs, veils and peach basket hats. They were gotten up in the latest style, and were a sporty trio. They made eyes and tossed their heads in that saucy way so well known to all young girls and they created quite a sensation in the park. Finally the fourth person who was the victim, put on a brave front and walked up to the girls and engaged in conversation. The girls continued walking and did not resent the young man's attention. Instead they headed for the pavilion, and succeeded in coaxing their masculine guardian to go for some ice cream at the hotel. While he was away one of the trio slipped around behind the pavilion, took of his feminine clothes and leisurely sauntered around the park until the met the fellow with four dishes of ice cream. He joined him and took charge of one of the girls. The game was going fine and everyone was enjoying themselves. Then a walk in the park was suggested and this was the downfall of the would-be heartbreaker. They sat under the trees for a while, and suddenly his girl cried out and ran towards the hotel where she happened to meet a county policeman and immediately laid a charge of assault against her new found friend. The young man was arrested and carried off to a place of safe keeping. He was in great distress and pleaded to be allowed to go. He declared his innocence, but it was no good. Finally when the other three fellows had had sufficient sport they made known their identity and got the fellow his freedom again. When asked why he did not notice the size of the girls' feet he replied that the great majority of the Chemong Park girls have feet so large that there is little difference between the girls and the men. He has not been "picking up" girls since.

A tickling or dry cough can be quickly loosened with Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. No opium, no chloroform. nothing unsafe or harsh. Sold by all dealers.

Saturday's heavy rain put a stop to the City League ball games. The teams did not attempt to go to the park and the games were called off until next Saturday.

Quaker Oats Seventh Annual Picnic Went to South Beach Saturday

Big Crowd on the Steamer Otonabee Had a Good Time in Spite of the Heavy Rain—Dancing in the Pavilion and Land and Water sports—Took Their Own Music

In spite of the heavy downpour of rain which lasted nearly all day Saturday and which wetted the great majority the seventh annual picnic of the Quaker Oats employes was a big success. The steamer Otonabee was crowded, although early in the morning the weather was threatening and there was a shower about hall an hour before the boat was due to leave. Mr. W. H. Denham along with the committeemen were among the early arrivals and they looked after the people and got everything safely on board. The big steamer pulled out from the wharf about 8.30, and the weather did not look so bad until after they got some distance above the lift lock. Then the rain came down in torrents and lasted until they reached South Beach. Here the young people made a rush for Mr. Brook's hotel, where they were taken in and made welcome.

On board the Otonabee were the general superintendent, the office staff and all the foremen of the different departments. These gentlemen did everything in their power to make the outing as pleasant as possible and they succeeded in a wonderful degree. Three big barrels of puffed rice and loads of lemonade were furnished and these refreshment were liberally partaken of and much appreciated.

The Quaker Oats band of 15 members under the leadership of W. Froud, furnished the music for the day. This is the only band in connection with the Quaker Oats Company on the American continent, and it is a credit to the Peterborough mills. The musicians only organized recently, and had not played together very often. Nevertheless their music was up to date and catchy and was one of the brightest features of the afternoon.

After the excursion arrived at South Beach the rain subsided for a couple of hours and the program of sports was run off. The rest of the time was spent around the hotel, and in the ball room where dancing was the great feature. The ball room dancing was the great feature. The ball room at South Beach Hotel is an ideal place to shelter people during a storm, and the Quaker Oats people are congratulating themselves upon selecting this place for their picnic.

Dinner was served by Host Brooks and a right royal meal it was. There was an abundance of good things and they were cooked and served in a manner which would please a king. So good was the dinner that many of the picnickers have promised to make Brook's Hotel there headquarters hen they go up the lakes.

The day was a success and in spite of the rain every one had a good time and were glad they went.

The Home Bank.

While last year was not a particularly brisk one for business the Home Bank of Canada made profits which averaged up well and permitted the payment of quarterly dividends at the rate of 6 per cent per annum besides adding $55,620.65 to the credit of profit and loss account to be carried over to next year and also the addition of a sum to the rest fund which increased that fund to one-third of the paid up capital. The deposits also increased $1,000,000. Such is the record of the Home Bank of Canada, the president, Mr. Eugene O'Keefe, and the General Manager Lieut-Col. James Mason, along with the board of directors are deserving of great credit. Their policy has been a sure and careful one and one which has increased wonderfully the confidence of the general public in that institution.

Last years annual report of the Home Bank contained reference to a connection formed with the Grain Grower's Association of the North-West. From Mr. John Kennedy's remarks to the shareholders at the annual meeting it is to be surmised that this connection is working out most amicably and both sides are well content. Mr. Kennedy is a director of the Home Bank and vice-president of the Grain Growers' Company, and from his outline of the objects of the Grain Growers' Otganization, it is evident that the Home Bank is supplying the finances where by Grain Growers are able to obtain loans on their grain. Obviously the grain itself is the Banks security and as this is a stable commodity the arrangement is in accordance with established banking principles.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

M.W.Bro. Judge Harding's Address at the Laying of All Saints' Corner Stone

Owing to a lack of time and a lack of space The Times was unable to get in all the report of the laying of the corner stone at All Saints' church, in the Saturday morning's issue. The balance of the report is therefore published today.

JUDGE HARDING'S ADDRESS.

It has been the custom for centuries, Judge Harding said, for the fraternity of A.F. & A.M., to lay the corner stone of buildings erected for the worship of the one true God. Standing here as the representative of the M.W., the grand master of 40,000 Masons in this province I have great pleasure in performing this ceremony as his substitute. It is very appropriate that we the Masons should lay this stone.

Representing the oldest fraternity in existence with a traditional history extending back into the mists and darkness of the ages, and an authentic history writtenaince the 15th century, we have at all times insisted that our members should be believers in the Great Architect of the universe. No athiest or unbeliever can be a Mason, and each member must declare his belief before being admitted a member. In addition he must be a man of good moral character, and in good repute in the community. In the fraternity he is taught tolerance and to respect the opinion of all other members of all Christian bodies being members of this fraternity, and there is no bar to the Roman Catholic of like qualification, save the rules of his church.

We are the only benevolent fraternity that distributes its beneficence to those only who need. No brother can claim any grant as amatter of right his necessity constituting his only claim. The Grand Lodge of Canada need not be ashamed of its record in this respect, as many hundreds of thousands have been expended by them in the relief of the brother in distress, the widow and the orphan children of our deceased brethren. It is true thatwe have secrets that are carefully guarded, and my brethren need not fear that I shall devulge them.

Each society and each family have their secrets that they would not like to become the property of the public. The society is always in favor of peace, and their influence in that regard is becoming so powerful in both England and the United States as to render war between those powers impossible. In fact this result was predicted by that great statesman, Henry Clay, when G. M. of Kentucky in 1820.

REFRESHMENTS SERVED.

An important feature of the evening was the part the ladies played. Several tables were placed about the floor of the new church from which were served ice cream, strawberries, cake., needless to say they were well patronized.

The new edifice of All Saints' church will be a large and handsome structure, which will be a credit to the city and an honor to those who have been instrumental in its construction. It will be built to stand for ages during which time its influence will be a great factor in the moral circles of the city and especially in the south end. The material for the walls will be red granite quarried at Stony Lake and brought down to the city. The church will be 95 feet long and 60 feet wide with a seating capacity of 500. The central tower will be 20 feet square. There will be no basement. All the material used on the inside will be of the best and will be put together so that it will stand for ages. The floor will be dipped so that the view from the rear will not be disturbed by those sitting ahead. It is expected that the church will be ready for fall. The present church will be used entirely for Sunday school purposes, and as a lecture hall in which social events and meetings may be held.

THE FIRST PAPER.

Published in Prince Rupert has Been Received.

A copy of the Prince Rupert, the first issue of the first paper published in the new city in Northern British Columbia, has been received at this office. It is an eight-page, six column weekly, printed on good paper with a new press and all new type. It is an eight-page weekly, type. It is neat, tastely got up and looks like a newspaper. It also has a good advertising feature. The editor and manager of the Prince Rupert is G. R. T. Sawle, late of Prescott, and a brother of C. H. Sawle of this paper. Associated with him as s- secretary-treasurer is Geo. S. McInnes, formerly of Vankleek Hill. These two young men went out to the new city for the first publia sale of town lots and were consequently among the first settlers. The Times extends the Prince Rupert its best wishes for a successful future.

THE WEATHER.

Showers, clearing towards evening.

Suing the Town

Messrs. Bogue and Buchanan have issued a writ against the town for $26,900 and interest since last November, this being, they claim, the balance due them on the work of the new power house. The council has withheld payment from the contractors on the ground that the work was badly done, and now the case will be fought in the courts.

Proceeding on the advice of eminent engineers the council have had the stone work all taken down, and men are engaged under Messrs. Brown & Aylmer to treat the foundation walls with concrete. These walls will be reinforced by a layer of concrete six inches or more in thickness. Messrs. Brown & Aylmer have a large number of men on the job. This work will mean a large outlay to the town and from present indications the revenue for this year from the new plant will be small.—Campbellford Despatch.

Orangemen to Aid in Strengthening Union of the Churches

Orangemen and Sons of England Attend Divine Service at Knox Presbyterian Church Sunday Evening

The Loyal Orange Lodges of the city paraded several hundred strong from their lodge rooms on Simcoe street to Knox Presbyterian church last night. The Orangemen always attend divine service the first Sunday before July 12th. Last night Rev. H. J. Keith delivered to them an excellent sermon and it was greatly appreciated by the immense congregation present. The church was crowded to the doors and many could not gain admittance.

The choir of the church sang very acceptably as an anthem "The Lord is my Light, whom shall I fear?"

Rev. Mr. Keith took as his text 1st Peter 2.15—16. "For this is the will of God that with well doing ye may put to silence the ignorance of men. As free men and not using your freedom as a cloak of maliciousness, but as the servants of God."

In opening the reverend gentleman extended a welcome to the order and also to the Sons of England who worshipped with him, making special reference to the boys who were present and pointed out the significance of training them in the association while young.

The speaker said that the association and church had suffered from ignorance of its principals from within and without and the extensio of knowledge of its principals would remove this ignorance. After looking over the constitution and principles of the order the speaker thought that every Orangeman should be a good churchman, and that good churchmen must be in heart at least sincere Orangemen.

Rev. Mr. Keith's remarks to the were suggested by 1st Peter 15-16. The first word was that of truth. Truth as expressed in life is the most effective way of dispelling ignorance. God has set a premium on right action so that by it men will be drawn from bondage into liberty. By their fruit ye shall know them. Religion is to be known by the men who profess it. This is not only the high ideal of the order but is involved in its constitution.

Freedom—It is characteristic of the highest type of christianity that the closed freedom goes with. Freedom is based on three factsi viz:—

The open Bible, which it was the duty of all Orangemen to propogate and be personally studied. It is the free gift of Jesus Christ and his salvation. The risen Christ is the only rightful Lord of men and the church.

Service—Orangemen had in the past been exhorted to great duties, and the performance of these duties was service.

WANT TROOPS RECALLED.

Glace Bay Citizens Petition Government to Recall Soldiers.

Glace Bay, N.S., July 10.—The central point of public interest today is an agitation for the withdrawal of the troops from the strike area. The mayor and council decided that the troops were unnecessary and an aggravation to the situation. Brigadier-General Drury held a conference with the mayor which was ed a petition flargely signed by the citizens asking for a removal of the soldiers, and setting forth that the civil police were quite capable of controlling the situation and preserving good order. The soldiers feel that they have been sent on a fool's errand and are enjoying the affair as a picnic.

Yesterday soldiers and strikers were playing cricket and football together and otherwise appear to have established cordial relations. The rushing of troops to the scene was probably good business but a tatical blunder. To procure the military to do civil police duty does not cost the coal company anything,, but releases many employes who are badly wanted in the mines.

KILLED HIS MASTER.

Peculiar Fatality Near Gow Ganda by Which Andrew Dunn met Death

Montreal, July 9.—The news of a very remarkable accident at a mining camp at Hanging Stone Lake, near Gow Ganda by which one man was killed, and two injured, was brought to Bonaventure station by Mr. Frederick Dunn, a resident of St. John's, in this Province, who accompanied from Northern Ontario the remains of his brother, Andrew Dunn, the principal victim, for interment at his old home just outside that city.

Andrew Dunn, with two companions named J. T. Hackett and W. F. Sims, had been working on a claim near the edge of the lake, in which there were very clear indications of a pretty rich vein of silver descending diagonally towards the lake shore, under some fairly hard rock. It was decided, in the beginning of last week, to blow out the rock with, dynamite, and follow up the promising vein. A stick of dynamite was accordingly brought from the shanty, which was quite near the workings, by Dunn, whose dog, which had the reputation of being an intelligent collie, followed at his heels and stood at the side of the diggings while the explosive was being laid. Having finished, Dunn and his two partners ran for refuge to the shanty, thinking the dog would follow. He did, but first he went to the cavity under the rock, and seized the dynamite stick in his teeth, thinking his master had placed it there for him to bring along to the hut, just as he sometimes did with an ordinary stick. With a dozen bounds the dog was at the shanty door, and there dropped the dynamite which instantly exploded, blowing up the front of the shanty, and burying Dunn and the two other men in the ruins.

Dunn was killed almost instantly, his skull being fractured in two places, and one of his arms and two ribs being broken. One of the other men, Sims, was stunned, and badly cut about the neck, while the other miner, Hackett, escaped with a few bruises. The dog, which was the cause of the disaster, bounded away and escaped injury.

A PECULIAR CASE.

Fenelon Falls Child Poisoned Through Sting of Insects.

Fenelon Falls, July 11.—On Tuesday last a little daughter of Mr. Alfred Miller of Fenelon Falls, complained of a pain on her hand, on which there was a small spot between the thumb and forefinger that looked as if it might have been the sting of a bee or other insect. In a short time the child's hand, face and body commenced to swell, her eyes were swelled, almost shut, and her lips and throat swelled to such an extent as to endanger her breathing Dr. Gould was called in, and the swelling shortly afterward commenced to subside. The doctor is at a loss to account for the occurrence, unless on the supposition that the child came in contact with some poinonous weed, such as the deadly nightshade, or belladonna, as it is thought that the sting of an insect would not have such a serious effect.

His Honor Judge O'Connell gave judgment Saturday morning in the case of Burnham vs. Ackerman, dismissing the action with costs. Mr. Z. Burnham of Otonabee, sued Mr. Ackerman of Norwood, for trespass, the alleged offence taking place on some property near Crowe's Landing, Stony Lake. CATARRHOZONE

Rev. D. K. Smith, of White Head, N.S., was cured of catarrh by Catarrhozone.

"For years I tried all the advertised remedies for Catarrh, but was unable to get relief until I used Catarrhozone. Before I had used the inhaler half an hour my nostrils became free and clear so that I could breathe easily through them. In one day Catarrhozone helped me immensely, stopped my coughing and hawking and cured a dull pain that was continually over my eyes. I have great pleasure in recommending Catarrhozone. I have proved it the best remedy for Catarrh and diseases of the throat, lungs and bronchial tubes."

There is certainly no remedy that is so well spoken of by the clergy as Catarrhozone and this can be accounted for by the fact that it gives perfect satisfaction.

It is the only remedy that reaches all diseased parts and gives quick relief without bad after effects. Catarrhozone contains no cocaine nor morphine. It is nature's own remedy, soothing and healing, and pleases everybody that uses it.

Catarrhozone is a local and constitutional treatment. The inhaler clears the air passages, stops the headache, and Ferrozone Tablets that are included in every complete Catarrhozone outfit, never fail to drive impurities from the blood. This builds up and strengthens the system so that Catarrhal conditions cannot exist.

The speediest cure for Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Bronchitis, and Asthma is Catarrhozone. Two months' treatment, price $1.00; medium size 50c; at druggists, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

GROWTH OF BRITISH FLEET.

The mimic of the British fleet this year is noteworthy for more reasons than one. The scene and plan of the operations are highly significant of the source from which actual attack upon the United Kingdom is deemed most probable, or least improbable. The revival of the red, white and blue divisions is interesting from historical and sentimental points of view. The discipline and the secrecy which are being maintained are strongly suggestive of the conditions of actual warfare. Moreover, the expedition with which the ships were put into condition for action and were equipped with full war complements of men must have been exceedingly gratifying to the administrative officers of the Admiralty, and must have gone far toward correcting the suspicion of unreadiness.

The most striking feature of all, however, is probably the number of ships engaged in the manoeuvres and the enormous increase over other recent assemblages of the imperial navy. The increase is to be noted in nearly all classes of ships, and most of all in the important fighting classes, and in the fleet as a whole it amounts to considerably more than 100 per cent over the showing of the two great reviews of 1897 and 1902. Thus, of big battleships there were in Queen Victoria's diamond jubilee review, in 1897, only 21, and in view, in 1902, the same number, King King Edward's coronation review, in 1902, the same number, while in the present operations there are no fewer than 40. Of those powerful armored cruisers which are practically battleships there were in 1897 only 4 and in 1902 only 6, while now there are 27. Of those destroyers which Mr. Kipling has celebrated as the deadliest of all craft, "the shooters of the slain," there were 30 in 1897 and 82 in 1902, and now there are 117. Torpedo boats have increased from 20 in 1897 and 6 in 1902, to 79, while submarine which were nonexistent in the two reviews, now number 26. The totals are 165 in 1897, 125 in 1902 and 350 in 1909.

To this tremendous showing we may add that while in 1897 and 1902 about half of the battleships were more than twenty years old, 18

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co. Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. THE REPORT OF THE DIRECTORS

On motion of J. M. Clark, K. C., seconded by Mr. John Kennedy, the president, Mr. Eugene O'Keefe, took the chair, and the general manager, Lieut.-Col. James Mason, acted as secretary.

Mr. Eugene O'Keefe, the president presented the report of the directors:

"The directors have pleasure in submitting to the shareholders the fourth annual report, giving the result of the bank's business for the year ending May 31st, 1909, together with the balance sheet of the bank of that date.

"Rates for money ruled lower, but the results of the year's business and the progress made by the bank were satisfactory.

"Four quarterly dividends, amounting to 6 per cent. on the paid-up capital, have been paid and provided for, a sum has been added to the rest, sufficient to make that account equal to one-third of the paid-up capital, and $55,629.65 has been carried forward to the credit of the profit and loss account.

"The connection established in the North-West referred to in the last annual report is proving to be a valuable one, three new branches have been opened there, and some three hundred and thirty farmers have already become shareholders. The number is steadily increasing, and while in most cases their holdings are but limited in extent, the bank should in time derive much advantage from having a large body of shareholders of so valuable a class in that important section of the Dominion.

"The expectations regarding the crops in the North-West mentioned in the last annual report were fully realized and the prospects for the current year promise fair results.

"The usual examination by the directors of the treasury and securities was made, and the branches inspected."

THE PRESIDEET'S ADDRESS

In moving the adoption of the report, the President, Mr. Eugene O'Keefe, said:

"When we had the pleasure of meeting you a year ago at our last annual meeting, we stated that the crop prospects in the North-West and in different parts of Ontario were promising, and if expectations were realized, the financial stringency, which then prevailed, would have passed away before we met again. I think it is now safe to say that this has taken place, and confidence once more restored. The outlook for the present season in the North-West and Ontario, according to the latest crop reports, is encouraging, and we may naturally look for a good harvest. Last year the harvest was satisfactory in practically all sections of the North-West, and there are now 11,110,000 acres under cultivation an increase over last year of 700,000 acres, although, owing to unfavorable conditions in the earlier part of the season, less wheat has been soen and coarser grains taken its place.

"As there was not the same demand for money during the past year there was naturally a depreciation in the rate of interest secured for good loans, and particularly for call loans on the collateral security of stocks, bonds and debentures. Bank generally found some difficulty in keeping all their funds employed in desirable loans,, and consequently we had at times a considerable amount of uninvested funds on hand, but following the same conservative policy that we have on former occasions referred to we deemed it more advisable to carry a larger proportion of uninvested funds and to accept only loans that were unquestionably good.

"Our paid-up capital now amounts to a little over $1,000,000, an increase of over $107,000 since last year, and our shareholders, who num bered 502 last year, now number 811

"Our deposits have increased by nearly $1,000,000, of which $732,000 has been added to the savings accounts and $240,000 to the current accounts, an increase to the total deposits of about 20 per cent, a very satisfactory result, we consider. Our circulation is also somewhat in excess of last year.

"We have added to the Rest account $35,948, making it $333,653. equal to 33 per cent, of the paid-up capital, and transferred the balance, $55,629.65, to profit and loss account

"We have opened during the year branches at Sunderland, Ont., Lyleton and Crystal City, Man., and Sintaluta, Sask. The total assets show an increase of $1,188,220.76."

AN ENTHUSIASTIC DIRECTOR

Mr. John Kennedy, vice-president of the Grain-Growers' Company, of Winnipeg, and a director of the Home Bank was present at the meeting, and described the nature of the organization of which he is the vice-president. In each of the three North-West Provinces there are voluntary organizations of the farmers, called Grain-Growers' Associations, organized for the purpose of obtaining for their members the full market price for their grain. There are between twenty and thirty thousand farmers members of these organizations, and the number is rapidly increasing, and the expectation is that in time they will embrace practically all the farmers of the West, now numbering some 130,000.

The Grain-Growers' Grain Company is an incorporated institution, with its headquartfrs in Winnipeg. The par value of the shares of this company is $25, and no one can hold more than four shares. The stockholders, who must be farmers or associated with farming, number about 7,000. This company handles the grain of the members of the Grain-Growers' Associations, advancing a certain proportion of the price, and the balance when the grain is sold. Mr. Kennedy stated that they handled some 8,000,000 bushels of grain in the season just closed and were more than pleased with the treatment they received at the hands of the Home Bank of Canada. The company was particularly fortunate, he considered, in having its dealings with the Home Bank, and the bank found in the company a safe and profitable customer.

The bank, when asked to open a branch, found a great many of the neighboring farmers stockholders of the bank, and also members of the association, and they would naturally prefer to do their business wit what they now call the Bank of th Farmers of the North-West.

Mr. Kennedy is of the opinion that in will only be a question of time when the Home Bank will be represented throughout the North-West, and a profitable and flourishing business established.

A resolution moved by Mr. L. H. Baldwin, and seconded by Mr. W.T. Kernahans, was adopted, providing for an increase of one thousand dollars to be added to the sum appropriated for directors' fees.

On a motion by Mr Edward Galley seconded by Mr. H. G. Hopkirk, the thanks of the shareholders were tendered to the president, vice-president and directors for their careful attention to the affairs of the bank.

On a motion by Mr. H. T. Kelly, K.C., seconded by Mr. H. W. Evans, the thanks of the shareholders were tendered to the general manager and the other officers of the bank for the efficient manner in which they have respectively discharged their duties during the past year.

DIRECTORS FOR 1909-10.

Messrs. W. T. Kernahan and Wm. Crocker were appointed scrutineers and reported the following gentlemen duly elected directors for the ensuing year; Messrs. Eugene O'Keefe, Thos. Flynn, E. G. Gooderham, Lieut.-Col. J. I. Davidson, W. Parkyn Murray, John Person, John Kennedy, and Lieut.-Col. James Mason.

At a meeting held immediately after the close of the general meeting of shareholders, Mr Eugene O'Keefe was re-elected president and Mr. Thos. Flynn re-elected vice-president of the bank.

THE WITCHES' TREE.

Superstitions Regarding the Influence of the Elder.

Country people speak of the elder tree as "the witches' tree" and planted it near farm buildings and dairies to keep off witches. They also say that the roots should never come near a well, still less grow into it, or the water will be spoiled. Evelyn's opinion was also unfavorable. The diarist says: "I do by no means commend the scent of it, which is very noxious to the air.

"We learn from Blesius that a certain house in Spain, seated among many elder trees, diseased and killed nearly all its inhabitants, which, when at last they were grubbed up, became a very healthy and wholesome place."

Cattle scarcely touch the elder, and the mole is driven away by the scent. Carters often placed branches on their horses' heads to keep off flies. Nothing will grow well in the company of the elder, and when it has been removed and all its roots carefully grubbed up it is some few years before the ground becomes perfectly sweet and good for anything.

The berries, besides feeding the birds, make excellent country wine, delicious with soda water in summer or taken hot in winter. The wood is particularly good for skewers, and a curious red fungus grows on elder stumps. A species of elder in the Tyrol is covered with beautiful scarlet berries.—Selborne's Magazine.

Smart Electors.

At an open air political meeting in the north of England a man cried, "Hurrah for Jackson!" to which a bystander replied sarcastically, "Hurrah for a jackass!" "All right, my friend," exclaimed the first speaker. "You can hurrah for your candidate, and I'll do the same for mine!"

All electors are not so gifted, as the following experience of a canvasser in Devonshire clearly indicates:

"Whom are you voting for, my good fellow?" he asked.

"I votes for the lady."

"But there is no lady candidate standing."

"Well," replied Hodge, "Poll Early comes on my voting paper before the names of the two men, and I thought I'd vote for her. See!"

Noisy Avians.

The bellbird, which makes perhaps in its natural state the greatest noise of any known avian, is found both in South America and certain parts of Africa. Its voice will carry on a still day a distance of quite three miles. Its note is like the tolling of a distant church bell and is uttered during the heat of the day, when every other bird has ceased to sing and nature is hushed in silence. The hornbill, a bird which is widely distributed in India, the Malay archipelago and Africa, has also a very loud note. Its call has been described as "between the shriek of a locomotive and the bray of a donkey" and can be heard a distance of a couple of miles.

Where the Hippopotamus Lurks.

Herds of hippopotamuses are not found everywhere in central Africa. They stick to the swampy shores overgrown with the papyrus plant, which affords them cover by day when they come out to rest. At night they feed on land, sometimes walking long distances away from the lake or river in search of palatable herbs. The hippopotamus is a great eater. A cow hippopotamus stays with her calf until the young one gets strong enough to walk and swim.—Exchange

WAHSATCH MINING COMPANY

Capital Stock 300,000 Shares; Par $5; 20,000 10 per cent. Cumulative Preferred; 280,000 Common Stock.

Property at Bingham City, Utah, on the main line of the Oregon Short Line Railroad.

This property is the result of twenty years of labor and the expenditure of $150,000 by its President, H. C. Baker, director of the Commercial National Bank of Ogden. It is opened in fourteen places; there is a complete equipment and full line of supplies on hand. The preferred stock, which has been up to this time in the treasury, is being sold to provide for the working capital which O. A. Palmer, Engineer of the Ontario Silver Company, with a record of $15,000,000 in dividends, says is necessary to make a dividend payer. Enough stock has been placed to assure the running of the property. President Baker reports that within three months from the date of starting the mill the mine can net $11,000 a month. This means 10 per cent. on the preferred and 7 per cent. on the common.

Wahsatch will be listed at once on the Boston Curb Market and later application will be made to the Boston Stock Exchange. After listing on the Boston Curb, all offers will be withdrawn. Not a share of the preferred will be sold for less than par and not a share of common for less than $1.00. Further, I stand ready to take any or all offers of stock at these prices.

Now you can buy this stock before listing and sell within two months at an advance. Your preferred stock will positively sell at $7.00 and the common at par within a short while. Furthermore, to each purchaser of a round lot I will agree to transport him or his representative to the mine. I have hold of a winner and shall use it as a clientele increaser.

O. A. Palmer, M.E., says; "To insure proper development and to get the best results in the shortest time, there should be a reserve fund created to draw on of at least $35,000 or $40,000 for the purpose, and from my examination of this particular section and long familiarity and experience with the mining districts and the largest producers of ore in the Wahsatch Range, there is no doubt that the Gold Hill Group of mines will, with this expenditure, be placed on a paying basis.

FAMOUS BULLS.

Gems From the House of Commons and From the Pulpit.

The house of commons, as might have been expected, has contributed a fair share to a very amusing collection of "bulls." It was in one of the debates of that body that the late Colonel Saunderson described Eastern Roumelia as "man enough to take her stand" in defense of a certain threatened right.

An Irish member of parliament once declared that of the outrages reported from Ireland three-quarters were exaggerated and half had no foundation in fact, a statistical computation that reminds one of another Irish member of parliament who declared excitedly to a group of fellow members, "I want to convince you that there isn't any truth in half the lies they are telling about Ireland."

The biography of Dean Hook recalls a certain minor canon who used to preach at the cathedral when Hook was a boy at Winchester school. In one of his sermons there occurred the striking reflection that "what is impossible can never be and very seldom comes to pass."

Another discourse was long remembered for its pathetic lamentation on the degeneracy of the age: "O tempora! O mores! What times we live in! Little boys and girls run about the streets cursing and swearing before they can either walk or talk!" But the Church of England has no monopoly of these violent contrasts, for it was at a City Temple meeting not many years ago that a speaker exclaimed: "I find my time is already gone. Therefore I will keep within it."

POSED THE DEAD MAN.

Scheme of the Gamblers in Crockford's House in London.

Crockford, the proprietor of a well known London gambling house, was made to play a queer role after he was dead. When one of Crockford's horses was poisoned just before the Derby the misfortune brought on an attack of apoplexy, which proved fatal within forty-eight hours. Now, many of Crockford's friends had staked large sums on another of the gambler's horses, which was a favorite for the Oaks and which was disqualified by the death of the owner. Only the people in the gambling house knew of Crockford's death, and it was resolved to keep it a secret until after the race.

The servants were bribed and sworn to secrecy, and the conspirators on the day after the night upon which Crockford died had the body placed in a chair at a window, so that people returning from the track could see the gambler sitting there. He was fixed up to look as lifelike as possible and through the window and partially concealed from view by the curtains looked so natural that no one of the great crowd which came cheering by the house when on their return from seeing Crockford the Oaks suspected the trick.

The next day it was announced that Crockford was dead, but it was years before the true story leaked out.—Westminster Gazette.

Superstitions of the Cingalese.

An old Cingalese woman who lived in an ordinary native hut by herself died and was buried. On the following day a large iguana (a species of lizard which attains great size) entered the compound of a gentleman living close by and attacked his poultry. Hearing the noise and commotion, he came out and on ascertaining the cause got his gun and shot the iguana. No sooner had he done this than there arose a great uproar from the relatives of the old woman, who declared that he had killed her, because her spirit had passed into the lizard, in proof of which they pointed triumphantly to the fact that it had never before been seen in the vicinity and only appeared after her death. Repose finally appeased the outraged feelings of the old woman's descendants. —Java Times.

The Elephant's Trunk.

The long trunk of the elephant is very, very wonderful. The neck of four footed animals is usually long to enable them to reach their food without difficulty, but the elephant has a short neck to enable him more easily to support the weight of his large head and heavy tusks. The long trunk helps him to get his food, and the trunk is to an elephant what a long neck is to other animals.

Denmark's Old Age Pension.

In Denmark any person who at the age of twenty-one pays to the state a sum of $6 10s. is entitled, if he reaches the age of sixty-five, to an annuity of £12. But if he dies before that age the money is forfeited.—London Mail.

Hazarding a Guess.

"Know anything about golf?"
"Not much. Why?"
"What's a bunker? Do you know?"
"I suppose it's one of those cranks that simply live and sleep on the links."

Rebuked.

Small Tommy (after the slipper seance)—Mamma, I'm glad I'm not a girl. Mamma—Why, Tommy? Small Tommy—'Cause I'd be ashamed to grow up and become a child beater.

Her Choice.

"Can he sing well?"
"Well, I'll tell you. He offered to sing the baby to sleep the other night, and his wife said, 'No; let her keep on crying.'"

The heavy rain storm here on Saturday will do an immense amount of good. The water was badly needed by everyone, and while many got wet no one kicked.

HOW TO TELL

If the Kidneys and Liver are Not Acting Well.

Thousands die every year from aggravated kidney distress that could have been saved if they only knew.

Your back may ache, you think it's tiredness or physical weakness.

You grow irritable and nervous—it's put down to loss of sleep.

Can't you see it's all from your over-worked kidneys, which can't keep the body clear of poisons that are now surging through the whole system.

Cure your kidneys with Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

"When I was so stooped and back weary, so lame and sore with kidney and bladder trouble, I cured myself quickly with Dr. Hamilton's Pills," writes C. C. Ferrier, a well known merchant in Plainsville. "Dr. Hamilton's Pills touched the spot at once, gave my back ease, lifted depression and weariness, made a new man of me. I can also say for a good spring medicine to clear and enrich the blood Dr. Hamilton's Pills have no equal."

The housewife whose aching back makes every little duty a burden, the working man who is tired all day and can't rest at night, whose back aches, and whose feet swell—these people have kidney trouble. Women whose kidneys are sick, suffer continually from blind and sick headaches, faint and dizzy spells, bearing down pains, sharp twinges when stooping, distressing urinary troubles, aching muscles, and joints lack of appetite, and loss of sleep, teach the cause. Cure the kidneys. Use Dr. Hamilton's Mandrake and Butternut Pills, which have cured thousands. 25c at all dealers.

Circassian Seeds.

The bright scarlet seeds of Adenanthera pavonina are used as jewelers' weights in India, each being about four grains. They are also strung and made into necklaces. In the West Indies they are known as Circassian seeds.

The Turkish Empire.

The total area of the Turkish empire is 1,602,280 square miles and the total population over 38,000,000.

Siberian Urmans.

The Siberian "urmans" or "targas" are vast woods of pine, larch and cedar at least 3,000 miles from east to west and 1,000 miles from north to south. They are so thick and gloomy that the natives call them "places where the mind is lost."

Angleworms.

Angleworms may live fully ten years, as has been shown by experiments made in Marburg, Germany.

Camphor.

Into a basin of clear water put a few pieces of camphor. They will commence a peculiar motion, traversing every part of the surface of the water, but may instantly be stopped by dropping into the water the minutest quantity of an oily substance.

Lake Huron Islands.

There are some 3,000 islands in Lake Huron.

Scipio Africanus.

Scipio Africanus was one of the greatest soldiers, save Julius Caesar, in Roman history. He defeated Hannibal and his Carthaginians at Zama, a city of Carthage, on Oct. 19, in the year 202 B. C., and gave to Rome the ascendancy over the then known world.

Opalescent Glass.

Opalescent glass for use in the manufacture of stained glass windows is made in this country in a manner which cannot be duplicated, and this material is shipped all over Europe.

The Bladderwort.

The aquatic plant the bladderwort feeds on animal life. The tiny bladders attached to the leaves and leaf stalks are each furnished with a door, the whole acting on the eel trap principle. Any small water creature that ventures to peep in is seized in the clutches of the murderous plant and is at once swallowed and assimilated.

Ant Proof Woods.

Use is made in the south sea islands of boxes made of camphor wood or American white cedar, because ants and other insects have an aversion for those woods. The natives use such boxes for trunks.

Servian Army Pay.

Of the officers of the army of Servia, a general receives $2,000 a year; a colonel, $1,400; a lieutenant colonel, $1,100; a major, $900; a captain, $630; a first lieutenant, $450; a second lieutenant, $360. Servian commanders use the whistle in the field and control their men by signal without any shouting or confusion during operations. Most of them speak at least one foreign language, and nearly all understand French or German.

How an Ostrich Hatches Eggs.

Valuable Paper Secret.

The Oxford Press syndicate values its formula for making the very thin, tough paper used in the Bibles at more than a million dollars. To perfect the process required twenty-five years of hard work and the expenditure of $100,000 in cash.

Dragon Fly Grubs.

Criminals in China.

An important factor in the punishment of criminals in China is the power of the government to seize members of the criminal's family and hold them responsible should he escape. Few Chinamen will flee when they know that their father or mother or near relatives may be pounced upon and imprisoned.

Very Limited.

When that very limited monarch Louis Philippe was asked to pardon Barbes he replied, "He has my pardon; now I will see if I can get him that of my ministers."

Some Laughs.

An American traveler in Europe remarks the Italian laugh as languid, but musical, the German as deliberate, the French as spasmodic and uncertain, the upper class English as guarded and not always genuine, the lower class English as explosive, the Scotch of all classes as hearty and the Irish as rollicking.

WALKED INTO RIVER.

Dresden, Ont., July 8.—A very sad drowning at 7.30 o'clock, when Mrs. J. Wright deliberately walked from here to the waterfront and threw herself into the River Fieldham.

She was seen walking down to the river by Capt. Ryble. The body was found in about fifteen minutes after the accident.

Mrs. Wright had been ill for some time, and was the wife of Joshua Wright, a prominent merchant of the town.

W. C. Pennington has resigned his position as superintendent of the Peterborough Lubricator Mfg. Co., and sailed yesterday for Europe.

First Omnibus.

"Omnibus" was an almost brand new word in its modern sense when Shillibeer took it from the French in 1829, and in France the name possessed a special significance for those who knew their history, for from 1672 to 1676 Paris had already seen a regular service of roomy public vehicles, "carosses a cinq sous." Only these predecessors of the modern bus were not "omnibus"—for all the letters patent which instituted them for the benefit of middle class people laid down that they were not to be used by soldiers, lackeys or any other wearers of livery or artisans and laborers. These exclusive vehicles faded out of existence, and the new ones, which were started in Paris in 1828, were named "omnibus" expressly to signify their democratic character.—London Chronicle.

Widows Caps.

The widow's cap is a survival of an old Roman custom. Widows were obliged to wear their weeds for ten months, and the bereaved woman shaved her head as a token of mourning. Naturally the widow could not very well appear in public with a bald head, so dainty caps were made in order to hide the disfigurement. The cap still remains, though the immediate necessity for its existence has long passed away.

Advantageous Promptitude.

Henry IV. of France particularly liked answers to his questions given quickly and without preparation. On one occasion, meeting an ecclesiastic, he said to him: "Where do you come from? Where are you going? What do you want?"

"From Bourges; to Paris; a living," replied the cleric promptly.

"You shall have it!" cried the prince.

An Oversight.

"Look here," exclaimed the angry man as he rushed into the real estate agent's office, "that plot I bought from you yesterday is thirty feet under water!"

"Pardon my oversight," apologized the gentlemanly agent. "We give a diving suit with each plot. I will send yours to you today."

Oddly Expressed.

The following letter of gratitude for services rendered appears in a London publication: "Mr and Mrs. Blank wish to express thanks to their friends and neighbors who so kindly assisted at the burning of their residence last night."

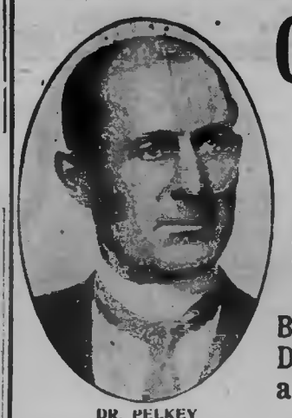
Consumption Cured

And all Other Lung and Kidney Troubles

By the Wonderful Discovery made by a Canadian Doctor



DR. PELKEY

Dr. Pelky, a Canadian Physician, holding medical certificates in France, United States and Mexico, has made a discovery that promises to be the greatest boon yet given to humanity.

His great Consumption Cure is applied by means of an inhaler, the ingredients for which are contained in a tank, and the very first use made of it by the patient brings immediate relief, followed quickly by permanent cure. These inhalers are not sold to the people, but are placed in the home until they are not further needed, and then taken away.

Dr. Pelkey is exhibiting the invention, which is called the Peltier Inhaler, throughout the country. The inhaler is first a platinum tank, divided into 38 compartments, into which various chemicals and drugs are placed. Outside these compartments cold water is placed. The action of the cold water causes a vaporous gas to rise into an eight-part evaporator at the top, where it is purified and forced through tubes for inhalation. The gas forms pure oxygen, tasteless, and odorless, and the patient inhales this. So healing is its effect that it will almost immediately stop a tubercolosis cough.

Most wonderful of all is the fact that Dr. Pelkey offers to treat his patients with the inhaler free of charge. The only thing for which he charges is a blood-purifier and building-up tonic, which he insists upon the patient's taking. He will even allow the person undergoing the treatment to take home the tank with him and be treated there.

Dr. Pelky has been for 17 years in Mexico and Central and South America. He has Government certificates from Mexico, Brazil, New Mexico and Canada and many Latin-American republics, testifying to cures wrought by him with the inhaler. One certificate states that nearly half a troop of Mexican soldiers and American soldiers and Government officials of Montreal were cured under his treatment. Another is signed by President Diaz, of Mexico, himself, whom Dr. Pelkey cured. Dr. Pelkey can show hundreds of other testimonials of permanent people of Ottawa, who were cured of lung troubles and kidney troubles after suffering for five years.

Write letters, fully describing your trouble to The Great Specific Co., or to Ottawa, Ont.

Did You See the Big Bonus Offer in Monday's Issue

Candidates are Given a Chance to Make Up for Previous Inactivity, and Others can Make a Big Lead

Well, what do you think of the offer we are making this week?

Pretty good, isn't it? Of course it is not so good as the offer on the extra vote period—we couldn't positively give you as many votes for your subscriptions as then—but it looks fine.

BIG BONUS.

This big bonus on SUBSCRIPTIONS is just the thing to put those candidates who do not stand quite as high as they would like in good heart It shows you definitely what you will gain by a certain amount of ett. and it will show that you can easily gain a good deal.

WE KEEP OUR PROMISES

During the Extra Vote Period we told you that at no future time in the contest would your subscriptions count for as much, and we have kept our word. Let this convince you that we mean it just as firmly when we assure you that Monday's offer is the next best that we have to make, and that your best chance to collect votes is while this big Bonus Offer lasts.

TIME IS OPPORTUNE.

The time for this inducement to collect subscriptions is particularly opportune. Several of our candidates lamented the fact that the extra vote should close just before pay day which would have made many more subscribers available to them. Now this Bonus Offer comes to make up to them for what they missed then. If you are diligent in collecting all the subscriptions you can you will not feel the lack of what you might have gained during the Extra Vote offer.

TO OLD AND NEW SUBSCRIBERS.

Remember, without your aid the eager, hopeful candidate can do nothing. It is not every day that one finds an opportunity to do a kindly act that at the same time is beneficial. You certainly have some favorite among them. Make them happy. Give your votes. Renew your subscriptions to the Morning Times, or begin by takin the paper. It means so much to the contestants, and they have set their hearts on winning one of the many handsome prizes.

VOTES NOT TRANSFERABLE.

We are just in receipt of word from one of our contestants that he had been approached by another contestant's friend, trying to find out what he would be willing to pay for a certain number of votes, as he would drop out of the contest if the inducement was large enough. We wish to respectfully call the attention of every contestant that the votes issued in one contestant's name are not transferable to another. Every certificate issued by the Contest Department has "Not transferable" printed on it. This should be sufficient evidence that they cannot be sold, and, if when the final accounting is made any certificate showing that it has been tampered with or changed in any respect will be thrown out and not accounted for. This is final and conclusive. No votes will be transferred from one contestant to another under any circumstances.

DECIDE TO ENTER YOUR NAME NOW.

There is no time like the present to enter. During Bonus Days is the ideal time to enter the contest, for the ratio of votes is so high that a few subscriptions will place you on a level with the leaders. They can be gained with little effort during these big days.

Why U.M.W.A. is Fighting the P.W.A. in N.S.

"The minimum rate of Rages for Nova Scotia miners who work under ground is $1.42 for ten hours, while the minimum scale in all other mines outside of Nova Scotia is $2.50 for an eight-hour day."—Peter Patterson, a strike leader.

Glace Bay., N.S., July 12.—" If the United Mine Workers of America loss in this struggle it will take many years to organize any kind of union in this part of Canada," said Mr. Peter Patterson, one of the leaders in the bog strike of coal miners "As the operators are no better and no worse than in other countries wages would surely be reduced and conditions made much worse for every miner in Nova Scotia.

"In Nova Scotia the miners are working from nine to eleven hours a day, while in all other mining districts, the hours are eight from bank to bank, or from pit-mouth to pit-mouth. The minimum rate of wages for Nova Scotia miners who work underground is $1.42 for ten hours, while the minimum scale in all other coal mines outside of Nova Scotia is $2.50 for an eight-hour day. The cost of living for miners is about the same in both Eastern and Western Canada.

"The present struggle is an important one because the Dominion Coal Company holds the key to the situation in this Province. They can make Nova Scotia either non union or union."

ONLY FOUR AMERICANS.

When asked to what extent United States officers of the United Mine Workers were controlling the strike situation, Mr. Patterson gave the following list of the committee and their places of residence.

Dan McDougall, Glace Bay; Joseph Moss, Springhill; J. B. McLaughlin, Sydney; J. D. McLennan, Glace Bay, E. S. McCullough, Michigan; Peter Patterson, Fernie, B.C.; Harry Bousfield, Hanaa; E. S. Sutherland, New Aberdeen; N.S.; Con. Kellahar, Missouri; Geo. Hargrave, Indiana.

The list shows that of a committee of ten, six are Canadians and four citizens of the United States.

It was not until December 10th, 1908 that the United Miner Workers entered the eastern part of Canada, and on January 2, 1909, two local unions were organized at Sydney Mines. Since that time the miners have taken kindly to the international union and over 7,000 are now enrolled with the U.M.W. of A. The Provincial Workmen's Association has been slowly reduced in strength and from present indications will be wiped out of existence.

WORMALD—SKIPPEN.

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at 9 o'clock Saturday morning between Miss Daisy Skippen and Mr. James William Wormald. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Canon Davidson of St. John's church. The bride was attired in an Empire gown of Copenhagen blue, and was attended by Miss Harriet Downham and Miss Mabla Herbert, while the bridegroom was assisted by Mr. Wm. Payne.

Mr. and Mrs. Wormald will reside in North Monaghan.

SUGGESTION MADE.

Local Police Will do Well to Follow.

The police convention at Buffalo, submitted to those present the following suggestions as worthy of general adoption.

1. Juveniles not to be arrested, but to be handed over to parents for correction.

2. Drunks assisted home and not arrested unless absolutely helpless

3. Policemen act as judges where possible and settle minor disputes without arrests.

4. Policemen to use their best efforts to ease friction and ill temper between man and man.

5. The best policeman is the one who manages an offender with the least show of authority.

6. Officers should have evidence to convict before even contemplating the arrest and imprisonment of any person.

7. Some men fall through misfortune and are not criminals at heart

8. A well applied reprimand may be the most effective punishment.

MARL BEDS.

Under Sandy Lake to Be Operated by English Capitalists.

Toronto, July 12.—Marl beds of considerable value are reputed to invade the land under the waters of Sandy Lake, in the township of Harvey, in Peterborough County. Reports are very sanguine in character, and it is understood that some British capitalists are desirous to exploit the deposits.

In view of pending negotiations with the Provincial Government, Hon. Frank Cochrane, Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines, has decided to withdraw the property from general prospecting and staking out, and from sale or lease under the Mining Act. The order in council to this effect was gazetted on Saturday.

"The government has merely reports to go on," said Hon. Mr. Cochrane, When interviewed, "but they will be looked into with a view to development."

It is well known in Peterborough that the bottom of Sandy Lake is practically a large bed of marl. It is white in color and the lake is very clear as a result.

Power Committee Makes Offer of $50,000 for Burleigh Falls Power

The Special Power Committee will offer $50,000 to the Central Ontario Power Company for the Burleigh Falls power. This was the decision of the aldermen at a full meeting of the Power Committee last night, called for the purpose of discussing the power question.

The Central Ontario Power Company are asking the city the sum of $125,000, which the committee considers too high. Of course the city has not yet received a report from an independent engineer, but without that they are willing to offer $50,000, and if the company accepts will recommend the council to have a bylaw submitted to the people asking for authority to raise sufficient money to pay for the power, the development and trans mission.

There were present at the meeting—Ald. McIntyre, chairman of the committe; Mayor Rush, Aldermen Phelan, Bradburn, Gillespie, Hicks, and Morgan, the city solicitor and city clerk.

City Solicitor E. H. D. Hall reported on the property the Central Ontario Power Company owns at and around Burleigh Falls. He said that the whole description of the property was taken from the compas bearings. He therefore could not say how much property the company owned. It was a good for a survey. The company owns a small Burleigh Island and the easterly part of large Burleigh, they have squatters' rights on one lot; the first lot; the company has the right to dam back the water, the government owns Perry's creek and therefore the company owns the whole water power.

At the present where the best development can be made is owned by Darey of the Burleigh Falls power, and to develop at this point Darey's property will have to be purchased. This the company claims that they have an agreement to secure from Darey.

The chief thing to find out, said the solicitor, was if the power was worth buying. To do this the city would have to secure the services of an engineer to make a report.

The chairman read a letter from Mr. R. J. McLaughlin, stating that the city's option would expire on July 15th, and that if the city should be able to tell by that time whether they wanted the property or not. If the city does not decide by that time the company would be free to proceed with other negotiations.

It was moved by Ald. Phelan and Ald Gillespie, that the city clerk write the Ontario Government re lot 5 con. 1, Harvey township, and ascertain who has the right to its ownership.

The aldermen had a long discussion upon the price asked for Burleigh Falls Power, viz., $125,000. This they claim is too high and very few if any of them are willing to pay that for it.

Finally it was decided to make the company an offer and the following motion was passed—:

Moved by Ald. Gillespie and Ald. Bradburn, that the committee would be willing to recommend to City Council and the people that they pay the company $50,000 for Burleigh Falls power, providing that their titles, etc., are all right and if the company will accept that offer.—Carried.

SHOT HIS WIFE.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., July 12.—The wails of a deserted infant greeting the ears of Charles Small, a milk man, brought about the discovery of a murder and a suicide at No 2406 Whirlpool street. George England in the night had sent a bullet through the heart of his bride of four months, and, turning the weapon on himself, had shot himself.

England, a New York Central brakeman, was incensed when he returned home last evening to find his wifne away and dinner not ready. Neighbors heard the couple quarrelling late at night, but heard no shots The infant had belonged to Mrs. England's sister, who died recently in Detroit.

Liverpool, July 12. — During the last few days six women in this city have been attacked by a mysterious man, supposed to be the same in each instance, and stabbed with a sharp instrument.

All the women were taken to hospitals, where they were found to be suffering from serious wounds. In one case the man approached a woman, who refused to enter into conversation with him, and stabbed her He attacked another woman without even speaking to her.

Orangemen Celebrate the Glorious Twelfth at Town of Port Hope

About 1,500 People from Peterborough Took in the Celebration—Thousands of Orangemen in Parade

The several Orange lodges of Peterborough, to the number of about 400 with as many followers were in Port Hope yesterday and with many other loyal Orangemen celebrated the 12th of July and the Battle of the Boyne. The greatest day in the Orangeman's year is the battle of the Boyne, and in yesterday's procession were scores of old men who boast that they have not missed a walk for the past quarter and even half century. A good Orangeman, if able to toddle on his legs at all will get into the procession on the Glorious Twelfth.

Peterborough's Orangemen left on the Grand Trunk early in the morning. Extra coaches were supplied, and the train made good time. With the local lodges were fifte and drum bands and brass bands, and they furnished lots of lively music.

There was an enormous crowd at Port Hope. In fact that town never before contained so many people at one time. The hotels and eating houses were taxed to their utmost, but all got something to eat. The day was a fine one, although at times it threatened rain. The sun was hot and the visitors had a war was hot and the visitors had a warm time. The crowd was, however an orderly one, and there was no distirbance whatever. The Peterborough Orangemen made a great impression. They are a fine body of men and boys and they conducted themselves in a right and proper manner.

After dinner the procession which was nearly as long as the one in Peterborough last year, was formed and the walk was out to the Exhibition grounds where speeches was made by some of the leading Orangemen of the Province and district.

The return trains bought back the crowds and all report a big day

Something About That Smith Street Bridge

Some figures on the proposed new Smith street bridge at this time will be interesting, owing to the fact that the bylaw authorizing the council to raise funds for the pay for the cost of it will be voted on on Thursday, July 29th next. The bridge will be reinforced concrete with steel truss bars fitted through it adding greater strength to the structure. The bridge is of simple design, but will make a pleasing spectacle, and will answer every purpose of the city for many years, while the bridge will be permanent.

The length over all will be 340 feet with three arches 100 feet each. The width from outside to outside will be 33 feet. This allows a roadway 18 feet wide and two sidewalks. On the outside of the walks will be a concrete railing 3 feet 9 inches above the surface of the bridge.

The crown of the arches will be 14 feet above the normal level of the river. The crown is the bottom part of the roadway. The spandrel of the arches will be filled with gravel, and there is provision for eight electric lamps for lighting the bridge The wing walls at each end are splayed out to the street line which will prevent anything getting down behind it so that the city will have all its property protected.

Provision is also made for conduits for water, gas and electric wiring to be placed under the sidewalks.

The city engineer in his plans has been very careful to provide for everything and to give a bridge which will be cheap to construct, which will cost practically nothing for maintaining, and which will last forever. The ratepayers have already seen all the particulars. The public know that a new bridge must be constructed at Smith street, or else the present bridge will have to be closed this fall. That means a serious loss to the city, as Auburn will be completely shut out and this no one cares to see. The only remedy therefore is to pass the bylaw on July 29th.

Kept Injured Man Waiting Five Hours

Buffalo, July 12.—Frank Ceopie, of Sherkston, Ont., whom a village doctor was hurrying to a Buffalo hospital last night for treatment that might save his life, and who was refused permission to land from the excursion steamer Americana, was brought ashore shortly before 4 o'clock this morning.

Scopie had his skull fractured in a game of duck on the rock at Ridgeway, Ont., three miles inland from Crystal Beach. No adequate treatment could be given him there, and he was put on board the excursion steamer, Americana, which plies beneath the beach and Buffalo. When the steamer arrived here Immigration Inspector Sparkling refused to allow the doctor to bring Scopie ashore on the ground that he was a disabled alien. For five hours the ambulance stood idly at the dock, and the wounded man remained on the steamer. Finally Chief Inspector Buchanan was reached, and consent was given to bring Scopie on shore under a guarantee from the local hospital surgeons that he would not become a public charge.

At o'clock this morning it was said that Scopie was being operated upon, but they were unable to speak of the consequencies.

SUFFRAGIST HEADQUARTERS.

Plenty of Money Pledged, and Movement on Every Tongue.

Seattle, July 8.—The American Women Suffrage Association decided today to establish national headquarters in New York City.

When discussion of the removal Washington was begun some of the delegates objected on the ground of the heavy expense of maintenance in New York. They were assured, however, that plenty of money was obtainable in New York, and that it had been definitely pledged; that the suffrage movement was on every tongue in that city and had entered on a new era there.

Wilkes-Barre, Penn., July 8.—Forty-six widows, from twenty-three to seventy-seven years old, from Berwick and vicinity, held their fifth annual reunion at Fairchild's park today. Each year the widows assemble to enjoy a day of mutual sympathy. There was not a man in the park—not because they would not have been allowed so much as because they did not come.

Catarrh

THE MOTHER OF CONSUMPTION.

How this dread disease may be prevented and cured—the opinions of people who have been cured by

CATARRHOZONE.

Catarrh is very often spoken of as the mother of consumption, because when unchecked it extends from its place of beginning to the bronchial tubes then deeper and deeper, till finally the disease becomes consumption of the lungs.

The safest and best remedy for any form of Catarrh is Catarrhozone. It is inhaled to all parts of the breathing organs, kills the disease, and drives it completely out of the system.

Mrs. Mary J. Whitney, of Clay street, Topeka, Kansas, was cured of Nasal Catarrh after twenty years' suffering by Catarrhozone. She says:

"I owe to Catarrhozone an immense debt of gratitude. It cured me of Catarrh of the most disagreeable kind after doctors without number had pronounced my case incurable. My breath is pure and my respiration regular, and I do not cough any more since using Catarrhozone. It has cured me perfectly."

Another case of Chronic Catarrh that was cured quickly by Catarrhozone is that of Mr. G. I. Luce, of [illegible] Nassau street, Austin, Texas. Mr. Luce says;

"I tried for four years to get rid of Nasal Catarrh, used salt douches, atomisers, tablets, stomach medicines, etc., but they didn't [illegible] much good.

"Then I tried Catarrhozone, and received relief in a few hours. It cured in a week, so that I never had a recurrence of my former trouble."

Miss Winer, who resides on May street in Hartford, Conn., was cured of throat trouble by Catarrhozone, and speaks of her recovery in the following words;—

"Repeated colds finally resulted in a Catarrhal condition from which I suffered more or less every spring and fall. Catarrhozone was the only remedy that relieved and cured me. I recommended it."

No treatment is so good for Catarrhal affections and Bronchitis as Catarrhozone. Its success is quite unequalled in the history of medicine. It will cure you quickly and surely, and is well worth a trial. Two months' treatment guaranteed to cure, price $1.00; small size 50c. Druggists, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont. Buy it today.

STANDING FOR PEACE.

Close by a spot in New York State made historic by bloody struggles in years gone by a representative of Britain this week declared his nation's adherence to a policy of peace and in that declaration he was joined by a representative of the United States and an ambassador of France. This declaration indicates the attitude of truly great nations toward a question of tremendous moment.

With Britain, the United States and France committed to policies of peace the danger of strife is lessened as none believed it possible a few years ago to see it lessened. The moral effect of such a declaration is almost incalculable.

More and more today the people of the nations are recognizing that the victories of peace are far above those of conflict. The nation that leads in the arts of peace must rightly be first among the nations of the world, and the fact is coming home to all ci vilized peoples with more forcefulness each year. Armies and navies are still national necessities, and will be for years to come. The occasions for calling them into action are steadily becoming less frequent, and the readiness to create fancied occasions is not displayed to day as yesterday. Tomorrow will see less display of that readine s than today.

WHERE PATRIOTISM HALTS.

Patriotism at its wisest must regret deeply such instances as the Fourth of July attacks at Shamford, Conn., and Part Chester, N. V., on flags of other and friendly nations, says the New York World under the above caption. In both these cases the offending colors were raised in good faith. The British captain at Stamford flying his own national ensign at his masthead, did only what an American captain would have done on a British holiday in a British port. The mistaken sentiment of the day regarded not the spirit of the two flag-raisings, but stormed at the patterns of the two banners.

If the Stars and Stripes stood for nothing better than the intolerance and prejudice thus manifested, we should be hardly keeping our Independance Day anniversaries under the prevailing auspices. The Star-Spangled Banner is properly a symbol of peace with freedom, power and plenty. Under it we stand as a people whose hands are not against the hands of other peoples. It is not itself a flag flaunting defiance to other flags. We love it for what it means, not for its peculiarity of design. When in its honor a banner of a different color scheme is flying to the breeze we are to accept the tribute with due appreciation and not to meet the occasion with oaths and a shotgun.

CANADA'S FOREST PRODUCTS

By instruction from the Forestry Branch of the Department of the Interior, A. H. D. Ross, M. A., of Toronto University has issued a bulletin dealing with the forest products of Canada. In 1868 the exports of manufactured and unmanufactured products, his report says, amounted to less than $10,000,000, and last year they aggregated $49,000,000. The United States in 1868 took $7,842,526 worth, and last year $27,470,754 worth; in the same years Great Britain took $9,354,244 and $11,483,094 respectively. In manufactured wood products, such as pulp wood, the whole practically goes to the United States.

Mr. Ross discusses the need of more thorough gathering of information respecting the forestry resources of the Dominion. It was with this end, in view that the Forestry Branch was started. The great forest areas are among the greatest resources of the Dominion. In the census of 1891 the forest area of the Dominion was estimated at 799,000,000 acres. More recent estimates, says Mr. Ross, reduce the area to between 500,000,000 and 600,000,000 acres, but this will include areas of timber which is not at present merchantable, and for land covered with merchantable timber presently available estimates have been made as low as 200,000,000 acres, and even 100,000,000 acres. It is to be remembered, however, that these are estimates based from deductions from a general knowledge of conditions or of special areas, and none of them are entitled to great reliability.

The stand of timber is even less known, but between five and six hundred billion feet of lumber suitable for sawing would be a conservative estimate. In addition there are large areas suitable for pulpwood. The whole forest area of Canada has suffered so severely from fire that the average stand must be computed at a low figure.

EARLY FREE FROM LEPROSY.

Not the Slightest Trace of Disease Was Found.

New York, July 12.—Iogn R. Early, the young Southerner heralded about the country as a leper, gave a reception to prove that he is untainted. It was held at the New York Skin and Cancer Hospital and was attended by medical men and a number of Early's friends.

Early, who lately came from Washington, where he had been locked up for nearly a year, received his guests cordially, and discussed his recent isolation. The reception was arranged by Dr. L. Duncan Bulkley, the specialist, who brought Early here to show that there is nothing leprous about the man. As the visitors gazed at him last night his skin was clear and fresh, while there was nothing tion.

Early related an incident at the expense of the Washington authorities: "I raised chickens," he saidl "and both the chickens and their eggs were sent into Washington and sold in the open market. They would not let my wife come within ten feet of me, but they had a watchman who brought me my food."

"If Earlier had been a leper these eggs might have spread the disease all over Washington," added Dr. Bulkley.

What Early has, Dr. Bulkley explained, is a simple inflammation of the spine produced by the acid used in the pulp mill where he formerly worked in North Carolina.

Early will soon be free to go and mingle with the crowd. Dr. Bulkley said after a careful examination not the slightest trace of the bacillus of leprosy was found.

When the stomach fails to perform its functions, the bowels become deranged, the liver and the kidneys congested causing numerous diseases. The stomach and liver must be restored to a healthy condition and Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets can be depended upon to do it. Easy to take and most effective.

TURKEY'S FLEET FOR SALE.

Wonderful Collection of Obsolete War Vessels.

London, July 12.—The wave of reform which has swept over Constantinople has nowhere produced greater bustle and commotion than in the naval department. Heroic efforts are being made to evolve some sort of fleet from the collection of venerable derelicts which compose the present Turkish navy.

It was resolved to class as effective all those warships which have undergone renovation in comparatively recent years—namely, within the last decade. Practically all the others are condemned to the scrap-heap, and the local newspapers publish announcements that over sixty battleships, cruisers, monitors, gunboats and torpedo vessels are to be sold by auction.

Some of these discarded veterans are interesting specimens of the earliest types or ironclad. Practically all date their birth from towards the middle of the last century. Among other oddities to be disposed of is one of the oldest submarines extant. It has been peacefully reposing under a shed in the Golden Horn for the last quarter of a century, literally dropping to pieces from rust and neglect. It never saw active service, and only made one trial trip after its purchase by the Turkish Government

BRITISH AT CELEBRATION.

Four Cruisers Designated to Take Part in Hudson-Fulton Pageant.

London, July 12.— Ambassador has been informed that the Fifth Cruiser Squadron of the British navy has been designated to attend the Hudson-Fulton celebration, to be held at New York on September 25 to October 9 next.

The squadron consists of four ships the Drake, the Argyll, the Duke of Edinburg and the Black Prince. They will be under the command of Rear Admiral representative of his majesty's government at the American celebration.

FIVE RUSSIAN GIRLS SENTENCED TO EXILE.

They Take Their Lives in a Horrible Manner.

St. Petersbourg, July 10.—In 1907, says a correspondent of the Russ, writing from Tobolsk, five young people, a girl who had just graduated at a Kazan grammar school among them, were "tried", senteneed and sent into exile for having carried on political propaganda among the troops.

The village of Valgeny (in the extreme north of the Tobolsk province) where they were installed, is populated almost exclusively by native savages (Ostiaks and Toungous) who live on hunting and fishing. Every tallow candle, every pint of kerosene oil, every lump of sugar or pound of flour has to be imported, while there are no roads at all, and the distance from the nearest "town" (Obdorsk) is 132 miles.

STARVED IN HUT.

No employment was to be got at such a place, and the five exiles did not receive any allowance from the Government, as the police reported them to be "children of well-to-do patents." As a matter of fact, the patents of two of them were dead, the third had a mother who could hardly exist by hard work, the parents of the remaining two, though better off, would not assist their children as "criminals."

Cut off from the whole world, the five educated young people carried on a life of semi-starvation, cold and despondent, in a hut abondoned by the natives because of its dilapidated condition, for a whole year. At last their endurance was at an end, and, profiting by the absence of her comrades, the girl, Sabiourova, piled up her diary, books, etc., round her bed, besprinkled the whole and the walls with paraffin, oil, lay down and burned herself within the hut. She left a letter behind full of black despair.

OTHERS FOLLOW.

Her four companions, on seeing her charred body, felt crushed down completely. Nassilessky and Roubtsov were subsequently found drowned. Pablousky and Trotsky have taken their lives by means of an axe. They also have left a letter behind.

"This letter," says the correspondent, "will at some future time be made public. It depicts political exile in Russia in 1907-1908 so strikingly that Russian citizens will, in time to come, shudder while reading it."

Teething children have more or less diarrhoea, which can be controlled by giving Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. All that is necessary is to give the prescribed dose after each operation of the bowels more than natural and then castor oil to cleanse the system. It is safe and sure.

ESTIMATES CUT NEARLY $9000000

Interior Department Obeying President's Order for Economy.

Washington, July 12.—In carrying out President Taft's order for economy in appropriations for the fiscal year 1911, the Secretary of the Interior has cut down the estimates for his department from those of 1910 by $8,959,198, the total which Congress will be asked to appropriate for the use of that department being $175,674,953. The appropriations for the present fiscal year were $184,210,102, so that next year's estimates are $9,001,429 less than this year's appropriations.

THE SULTAN'S MILLIONS.

Turkish Government Investigating. But Unable to Find it.

Washington, July 12.—If the Turkish government has found any deposits of Abdul Hamid, the deposed Sultan, in American banks, it has not been brought officially to the knowledge of the State Department. Hundreds of offers to furnish information concerning the deposits have been received at the Turkish Embassy. Nearly all gave assurance that they would find the money, but in nearly every case a large sum in advance was requested to cover expenses. So far the Turkish government has been content to make its own investigation.

It was said at the embassy today that while it was confidently believed that Abdul Hamid had deposited a large portion of his fortune in American banks no satisfactory information as to its exact location had been obtained. If the money is found it was further said, steps will be taken to recover it.

Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets gently stimulate the liver and bowels to expel poisoneous matter, cleanse the system, cure constipation and sick headache.

BRISTOL HALF WET.

Victory Considered Severe Blow to Southern Prohibitionists.

Bristol, Va., 12.—The local option option election here today resulted in a majority of 32 for the "wets." By the vote Bristol will be half "wet" and half "dry". That part of the city in Tennessee has been "dry" since July 1. The portion of the town in Virginia voted "dry" two years ago by a majority of 207. The results is considered a severe blow to Southern prohibitionists.

Both the temperance people and saloon interests waged a strenuous campaign. The ringing of church bells before daylight today summoned the temperance workers, mostly women and children, to the polls. Paraders wearing white ribbons and singing temperance hymns marched about the city all day, while women were busy electioneering and serving luncheons. Bands of Women and children held prayer and song service at the polling places.

Tell Some Sick One

It Is Free If It Fails.

Will you do an act of Humanity?

Will you tell some sick friend of this, my remarkable offer?

Tell him or her, that you have learned of a medicine so certain that its maker dare say to the sick, "It is absolutely and unconditionally free if it fails."

And you, no doubt, already know of Dr. Shoop's Restorative and its popularity.

For 20 years it has been the standard remedy for Stomach, Kidney and Heart ailments everywhere in America.

When the "inside" or controlling nerves of these vital organs begin to fail, it is Dr. Shoop's Restorative that has quickly vitalized, and strengthened, and brought these nerves and organs back to health again.

I do not dose the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys—for that is all wrong.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes direct to the cause of these ailments—the failing, faltering, inside or controlling nerves. And herein lies the keynote to my success.

When these nerves are again made well and strong, then that is the certain end of all such sickness.

To me it is a great satisfaction that I am the only physician able to say to the suffering sick, "Take my prescription for full 30 days, and if it fails to help you, the entire expense is mine—not yours."

Then why should the sick take any chance on any other medicine, whose maker dare not back it just as I do by this remarkable offer?

I also have a Rheumatic Remedy—and that remedy is covered by the same identical "no help, no pay" protective plan.

Besides, you are free to consult me just as you would your home physician. My advice and the book below are yours—and without cost.

Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some serious ailment. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescription or personal advice plan. My best effort is surely worth your simple request.

So let me send you an order at once. Take the message to some sick friend.

A postal will bring the opportunity.

I will have an honest and trustworthy drug-gist to whom you can confidently go for the 5 day test.

But first, ask me for the order, for all drug-gists are not authorized to give the 30 day test.

So write me now and save all delays. Remember that tomorrow never comes. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 12, Racine, Wis.

WAS HANGED SECOND TIME.

Negro Talked Coherently After the First Drop.

Nashville, Georgia, July 12.—With blood flowing from his mouth and begging piteously for water, Mashall Lewis, colored, was led back to the scaffold to be hanged a second time, after the sheriff had made a bungling job of the first attempt to execute him.

The drop of six feet stretched the cotton rope so that the man's feet touched the earth. He was cut down and with the aid of one man mounted the scaffold a second time, talking coherently.

Lewis shot and killed Clifford Rutherford, assistant postmaster at Lennox, G. A., on April 12.

DR. PELKEY

Consumption Cured

And all Other Lung and Kidney Troubles

By the Wonderful Discovery made by a Canadian Doctor

Dr. Pelky, a Canadian Physician, holding medical certificates in France, United States and Mexico, has made a discovery that promises to be the greatest boon yet given to humanity.

His great Consumption Cure is applied by means of an inhaler, the ingredients for which are contained in a tank, and the very first use made of it by the patient brings immediate relief, followed quickly by permanent cure. These inhalers are not sold to the people, but are placed in the home until they are not further needed, and then taken away.

Dr. Pelkey is exhibiting the invention, which is called the Peltier Inhaler, throughout the country. The inhaler is first a platinum tank, divided into 38 compartments, into which various chemicals and drugs are placed. Outside these compartments cold water is placed. The action of the cold water causes a vaporous gas to rise into an eight-part evaporator at the top, where it is purified and forced through tubes for inhalation. The gas forms pure oxygen, tasteless, and odorless, and the patient inhales this. So healing is its effect that it will almost immediately stop a tuberculosis cough.

Most wonderful of all is the fact that Dr. Pelkey offers to treat his patients with the inhaler free of charge. The only thing for which he charges is a blood-purifier and building-up tonic, which he insists upon the patient's taking. He will even allow the person undergoing the treatment to take home the tank with him and be treated there.

Dr. Pelky has been for 17 years in Mexico and Central and South America. He has Government certificates from Mexico, Brazil, New Mexico and Canada and many Latin-American republics, testifying to cures wrought by him with the inhaler. One certificate states that nearly half a troop of Mexican soldiers and American soldiers and Government officials of Montreal were cured under his treatment. Another is signed by President Diaz, of Mexico, himself, whom Dr. Pelkey cured. Dr. Pelkey can show hundreds of other testimonials of permanent people of Ottawa, who were cured of lung troubles and kidney troubles after suffering for five years.

Write letters, fully describing your trouble to The Great Specific Co., or to Ottawa, Ont.

LUDLOW STREET JAIL

The Sheriff's Famous Prison In New York City.

ITS GUESTS WELL TREATED.

The Inmates Wear No Uniform and Have Many Privileges—The Discipline Is Quite Gentle and the Surroundings Peaceful and Homelike.

Walking through the streets of the squalid, noisy east side, the visitor in New York is quite unprepared for the peace and clean homeliness which greet him in the sheriff's prison in Ludlow street. Flanked by public school and police court on two sides, the brick building, ornamented with antique iron grill over long windows, resembles a village church or old fashioned hall of learning. The outer clamor does not penetrate its cool cloisters. The struggle for existence is halted at the threshold. But it is not so easy to enter the sheriff's rest establishment. The guard who opens the front door in response to the electric bell eyes the visitor suspiciously, as if the latter might be trying to break into the county haven without proper credentials. The only persons entitled to the privileges of the Ludlow tavern are those in contempt of surrogates' and certain other courts, federal bankrupts, delinquent militiamen, execution and judgment debtors and breach of promise and alimony men.

However, the visitor who can prove that he has no sinister purpose is ushered into a cosy parlor fitted with rugs, pictures and piano. Here he meets the warden, who talks freely and simply about his guests. He admits he has never read Lombroso or any other criminologist. What's the use? They don't send felons to this place. The learned observations of penologists do not apply to the inmates of Ludlow tavern. Methods of discipline and reform are superfluous. There are just a few rules, such as obtain in any well regulated hostelry. A guest on arrival has his pedigree taken at the office, is shown up to his sleeping chamber, gets introduced to the gentlemen in the sitting room and is left to his own devices—no uniform, no hair cut, none of the unpleasant features of a common prison. There is, indeed, a genteel search for sharp instruments, keys and knives, as forbidden articles, but there is no confiscation of any other private possessions. A man may bring in all the books, writing material, tobacco, clothes, toilet articles and bric-a-brac that he pleases.

The rising bell rings at 6:30 a. m., and the guests have a chance to wash, shave and make their beds before breakfast, at 8 o'clock. The regular breakfast consists of coffee and rolls, but guests may supplement it with eggs cooked at the hot water tap or may order, at their own expense, an elaborate meal from the menu card of a nearby restaurant. The morning newspapers are at hand, so that guests, while sipping their coffee, may scan headlines and note the progress of events.

After breakfast every one goes into the yard for an hour's exercise. The high brick walls do not bar the sunshine from the yard, which is about sixty feet square and stone flagged around a central grass plot. After the exercise hour the guests repair to a large sitting room and read, study or play penuchle, checkers, dominos and chess. There is a small library of books and magazines. Those who have private stocks of literature exchange their books in a fraternal spirit.

The dinner bell rings at noon. A wholesome stew, a boiled dinner or a plate of fish and potatoes is provided. If this seems too frugal even for cloister life, there is the restaurant menu to fall back on. As a rule, though, the inmates are satisfied with the regular fare. Another hour in the yard, an afternoon spent in the sitting room, after the style of the morning session, and then a supper of bread and tea at 5 o'clock. Two hours later the guests retire to their chambers for the night. They are locked in, it is true, but the obliging guard will open on any reasonable request. There is no rule against talking, and guests may read or write by the light of their own candles until they feel disposed to go to bed.

A gentle routine it is. No one is overcrowded, for, while there are accommodations for a hundred persons, the number of guests is seldom anything like that. The disagreeable monotony of seeing the same faces and hearing the same anecdotes, complained of by arctic travelers, is obviated by the coming and going of inmates. The comfort of guests is pretty well assured by a staff of nine guards and three or four cooks and attendants.

Letters to guests are not opened before delivery, as in common penal institutions. Three days a week are set aside for visitors, but no member of the Alimony club is compelled to see his wife. Once in a long while, however, a member of the fair sex enters the portals as a guest. There was one woman brought to the office in contempt proceedings subsequent on a supplementary inquiry, but the referee held a hearing on the spot, and the woman was discharged with consent of counsel. In former days a male guest charged with breach of promise won freedom by marrying the woman of his choice in the hotel office.

THE WORD "BANZAI."

It Has Been Used in Japan From the Earliest Ages.

It is not infrequent to find men speculating as to the origin of the now familiar "banzai," and we believe that a general impression classes this excellent ejaculation among the inventions of modern Japan. Quite recently indeed we heard a learned Japanese declare that the late Professor Toyama was the originator of the word as the Japanese equivalent of "hurrah." But the truth is that "banzai" belongs to a very much remoter date. History shows that it was used certainly as long ago as the year 486 A. D., and probably it was not an innovation even then. In the "Chronicles of Japan," a work published in the year 820 A. D., it is related that in the spring of 486 A. D. the Emperor Woke, remembered by posterity as "Kenzo, Tenno," repaired to the park of the summer hall and there held revel by "the winding streams." His guests were a concourse of ministers and of high officials known at that epoch under the titles of Omi, Muraji and Miyakko. When the feast was at its height the guests, we read, "raised repeated cries of banzai." It may fairly be assumed that this formula of gratulation did not originate then, but at any rate its undoubted use in Japan more than fourteen centuries ago deprives any Meiji savant of the credit of having invented it.—Japan Mail.

AIM TO SUCCEED.

The Self Improvement Habit as a Business Asset.

The very reputation of having an ambition to amount to something in the world, of having a grand life aim, is worth everything, says a writer in Success Magazine. The moment your associates find that you are dead in earnest, that you mean business, that they cannot shake you from your determination to get on in the world or rob you of your time or persuade you to waste it in frivolous things you will not only be an inspiring example to them, but the very people who are throwing away their time will also admire your stand, respect it and profit by it, and you will thus be able to protect yourself from a thousand annoyances and time wasters and experiences which would only hinder you.

In other words, there is everything in declaring yourself, in taking a stand and thereby announcing to the world that you do not propose to be a failure or an ignoramus; that you are going to prepare yourself for something out of the ordinary, away beyond mediocrity, something large and grand.

The moment you do this you stand out in strong contrast from the great mass of people who are throwing away their opportunities and have not grit and stamina enough to do anything worth while or to make any great effort to be somebody in the world.

CHINESE DWARFS.

Humans Who Seem Lower in the Scale Than African Baboons.

Pygmy human beings who live like animals and seem lower in the scale than African baboons were discovered in the mountain solitudes of Northern China by Dr. W. E. Geil, an American explorer, and writer, who has just returned to this country. The discovery was made in the course of a caravan journey along the entire extent of the Great Wall of China, 1,800 miles, and it confirmed the legend that far in the interior dwelt a race of hairy dwarfs—the kind of beings described by Marco Polo and Baron Munchausen with damage to their reputations for veracity. But the dwarfs exist, and ancient inscriptions on the Great Wall, deciphered for Dr. Geil by Chinese scholars, profess to explain their origin. Back in 210 B.C. the Emperor Chin decided that his country needed protection from the fierce Tartar tribes on the west and north, and he ordered the building of a horse shoe shaped barrier thousands of miles in length to inclose the empire from sea to sea. A work more monumental than the erection of all the Egyptians pyramids and temples was begun. Millions of Chinese toiled at the Great Wall, cutting and laying granite blocks for the first courses and making brick for the superstructure. The towers were built first, and they served as military blockhouses while the connecting walls were put up.

Kept at their job by strict compulsion, the millions of laborers were inspired by the fear of an unusual penalty for error or rebellion. The workman who made a mistake or listened to agitators was promptly incorporated in the wall as so much building material. Burying alive proved to be good discipline with a majority of the laborers, obviating strikes and discontent, but some of them ran away to the remote forests on the Tibetan border. They took their wives and children with them. So affected were they by their terrible experience that some of them went crazy and the rest had such a hard fight for existence that they deteriorated physically, transmitting dwarfishness to their present day descendants. The Chinese legend to this effect may not be entirely astray, since it is likely that deserters from the army of labor fled to the forests and that the hardships of a wild, isolated life should have had effect on them after many generations. The dwarfs have long nails, terrible faces and resemble apes. Dr. Geil believes that the Great Wall has never been entirely explored in modern times previous to his expedition last year. He found a stretch of 200 miles that had not been mapped. At places the Great Wall climbed to a height of two miles above sea level. There were evidences of monumental barriers antedating Emeperor Chin's celebrated inclosure.

All the Difference.

Among the patients in the private ward of a Philadelphia hospital there was recently a testy old millionaire of that city whose case gave his physician considerable difficulty at first.

"Well," asked the crusty patient one morning, "how do you find me now eh?"

"You're getting on fine," responded the doctor, rubbing his hands with an air of satisfaction. "Your legs are still swollen, but that doesn't trouble me."

"Of course it doesn't!" howled the old man. "And let me tell you this. If your legs were swollen, it wouldn't trouble me either!"—Lippincott's.

Ambergris.

The essential characteristic of ambergris is the penetrating and peculiar odor, similar to that of musk. It is so powerful and so diffusive in its perfume that the most minute quantity when mingled with any other strong scent is still perceptible. Its chief component is a fatty matter called ambrein, which is got by boiling ambergris in alcohol.

Polite.

First Hobo—Say, did yer ever make an after dinner speech? Second Hobo—Sure, I always do. First Hobo—G'on. Second Hobo—Sure, I always sez, "Thank ye, ma'am."

It's surprising how much a sixteen-year-old son can tell his father that the old man won't believe.—Exchange.

A RIVAL'S DOWNFALL

Out of Bitterness the Lovers Snatched Happiness.

By ESTHER AINSLEE.

[Copyright, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.]

If Dalzell's store advertised a sale of silk dress goods in the Monday issue of the Rosemont Banner it was a certainty that the paper's Tuesday night number would contain an ad. from Thompson's store across the street telling of bargains in satins, with a side line of embroideries, at which Rosemont smiled appreciatively and reaped the benefit.

The town was proud of the proprietors of the two leading dry goods stores, for most of the young men left for the adjacent big city when it came time to make their way in the world, but Malcolm Dalzell and Lewis Thompson within a year of each other settled down to make a living in their home town.

Perhaps it were better to say Rosemont was proud of their enterprise, for Lewis Thompson was not the type to inspire affection in the hearts of his townsmen. A man cannot be blamed for lack of magnetism and an attractive nature, but nevertheless he suffers for it, and Thompson possessed besides these drawbacks a hot headed, quarrelsome disposition and a theory that every man had a right to look out for himself to the exclusion of any possible rights of others.

His aggressiveness made him enemies where Malcolm Dalzell won friends by his mere cheerfulness and diplomacy. But each flourished on his own side of the street.

Not only were they rivals in business, but from the days of carrying schoolbooks there had seemingly been but one girl in the world in the eyes of each, Milly Wainwright, with the waves of soft brown hair and eyes that matched, with the sweet voice and appealing little ways.

Shrewd people even said the reason both boys stayed in Rosemont was that each was afraid to leave the other a clear field with Milly, who had never shown any preference between the two.

Lewis Thompson was a different man with her. Her mere presence smoothed and softened the aggressive young business man, and she smiled incredulously when stories of his cold shrewdness and overreaching deals came to her ears.

Yet unknown to herself Malcolm Dalzell occupied a place in her life from which no one could dislodge him. Milly was in the delicious and dreamy state of indecision which a girl always prolongs unwittingly. Life was sweet to her, and even the growing wildness of her younger brother, Dick, which was aging her father and mother, had not power to do more than depress her momentarily.

"It's only because Dick is young," she told her mother half indignantly. "He will see the mistake of his ways before he ever does anything really wrong. Why, Dick wouldn't be really bad. It's absurd!"

She was great chums with the handsome eighteen-year-old brother, and because she did have faith in him the boy turned to her always in his rare spells of repentance. At present he had gone to work in a bank in the next town, six miles distant.

The Rosemont Banner had two columns of description, speculation and denunciation when Thompson's store was robbed. Malefactors were rare in Rosemont, and the night watchman's work was perfunctory, but nevertheless Lewis Thompson discovered a back window pried open and nearly $300 worth of silks and laces missing.

Three weeks later he was reduced to explosive rage by the discovery that again his store had been entered. This time a hundred dollars' worth of goods vanished. In his wrath the owner of the store telegraphed for a city detective and established a night patrol for the block. The city detective looked important, smoked good cigars of the leading citizens, who wanted to tell him their theories as to the robbery, had a very pleasant time and departed with dark hints as to future developments.

"At any rate," Lewis Thompson said vigorously, "with Maloney on hand as a watchman the thief won't get another chance!"

"It's hard luck, Lewis," sympathized Malcolm Dalzell with his business rival. Thompson regarded him coldly. Of late Milly had been in Dalzell's company more than he liked.

"Thanks," he said. "It's funny the thief doesn't attack your premises, Malcolm. I don't understand such factitism unless it's because he knows where the best goods are!" He smiled somewhat maliciously as he made the fling.

"Superiority has its drawbacks, then," Dalzell said quietly, holding his temper. He understood Thompson's grudge against him and could afford to be magnanimous, for he had begun to cherish a certainty that he had distanced Thompson with Milly. For her he would endure much.

Lewis Thompson did not relax his vigilance as the weeks went by. One Thursday night, as he made one of his personal trips of inspection, about 1 o'clock he started for his store on a run after finding the watchman, Maloney, knocked senseless at the corner. And he was rewarded. The revolver in his hand covered the dark form of the man standing at the rear window with the faint gleam of a dark lantern on the floor beside him.

Yet even Lewis Thompson was speechless when after his trembling fingers had turned on the rear light he saw the man before him was none other than Malcolm Dalzell, who stood white and quiet facing his captor.

"I—I can't comprehend," Thompson almost stammered, still covering the marauder with his revolver. "You—of all people!"

The man before him moistened his lips. "Lewis," he said at last, "will you believe me if I say, in spite of this, I'm not the robber—that it's just unfortunate circumstances that have brought this about? Will you?"

Lewis Thompson recovered his coolness, and he laughed shortly, sarcastically, glancing significantly at the dark lantern, the fallen jimmy, the goods piled at hand for removal.

"I don't see any one but you, Dalzell," he said curtly. "You've got to take your medicine. You can plead kleptomania, you know. Rising young business man, easy circumstances, no need to rob—why, of course, it's kleptomania!"

There was a little triumph edging into his laugh as what this meant to his rival dawned upon him. And it was likewise dawning upon his captive, who shut his jaw when the marshal, hastily summoned, almost refused to obey Thompson's command to take the prisoner to the jail.

"Go ahead, Smith," was all that Malcolm Dalzell would say, and he walked to the lockup with his head in the air.

The whole town shared the sensations of Smith the next morning, and the Rosemont Banner exhausted all its heavy black faced type that evening and paused only for absence of more space. It was paralyzing, horrifying, this downfall of a man like Malcolm Dalzell, one of those queer croppings out of hidden tendencies that sometimes destroy the world's best.

The three days that intervened before his preliminary hearing drew lines in Dalzell's face and gave him a pallor that usually it takes age to bring. Yet he maintained those close shut lips and, further than stating he was not guilty, refused to talk.

When he faced his friends and neighbors at the preliminary hearing there was a trace of proud defiance in his glance that yet was strangely hurt, for on many faces he read a dawning waveging in allegiance to him.

Much talk had bred suspicion, and every one knew of the long rivalry between the two men. What more natural than that Dalzell should attempt to harass, to ruin his opponent? So they waited for the sensational disclosures.

The sensation came. As usual with sensations, it was quite different from what was expected. This white faced girl, with eyes reddened by tears, who suddenly presented herself struck pity from the heart of the hardest. She spoke rapidly, breathlessly.

"Malcolm did not do it!" she protested, with tight clasped hands. "If he won't tell I will, now that I know the truth! It was Dick, my brother and Malcolm, who also was watching, saw him and entered Thompson's store to save him, to get him away, to help him, and when Lewis Thompson came upon him—he, Malcolm, would not tell because"—

Milly Wainwright's voice died away, but the end of the sentence was furnished by Malcolm Dalzell's quick step to her side and hiding her tears on his shoulder. Both had made their sacrifice for each other and out of the bitterness had snatched happiness. And Rosemont, with the fickleness of the human race, said it served Lewis Thompson right and he should have had more common sense.

Steeplejack In Wrong.

Bob and Jim were Jacks of all trades and worked together. One summer's morning Bob came round to Jim's house at the early hour of 3 and managed to wake him.

"Now, then," he cried, "hurry up. There's a big factory chimney wants pulling down about a mile away from here, and I got the tip from the factory foreman that if we could knock twenty feet off it before the authorities were about it would save the factory the expenses of a scaffold and it would mean a five pound note apiece for you and me."

"What, ho!" cried Jim. "Let's go."

Their destination reached, they climbed to the top of the chimney, and soon masses of brickwork were falling to earth. A man who lived near was disturbed by the noise and started to make a fuss. "Here, Bob," cried Jim, "you climb down and quiet that fellow. Keep him talking while I finish this job up here." So Bob climbed down and engaged the indignant man in conversation.

Suddenly Jim heard Bob calling to him and, looking down, saw his friend gesticulating wildly and beckoning him to come down. So down Jim came. "What's the matter?" he asked.

"Let's go home, Jim, thundering quick. We've been pulling down the wrong chimney."—London Answers.

An elderly rustic, who had been standing watching him painting by the roadside, approached him.

"No offense, sir," he began, "but is there anything the matter w' yer?"

"No," answered D'Auber. "What makes you ask?"

"Yer hain't lame, are yer?"

"Lame! Good gracious, no!"

"Yer hain't 'ad a misfortune in any way—the clatticar or lumbager—that's kind o' laik yer by?"

"No, I'm as well as I have always been."

The rustic drew himself up and gazed scornfully at the artist.

"An' yer call yerself a man an' can sit theer a-doin' o' that?" he said. "Well, I'm blest!"—Exchange.

We suppose the KEARNS INK COMPANY could sell two or three times its present output; provided they would permit the amount of their sales to take precedence over the quality of their INK, which they guard with the most zealous care. Dr. Peldey Has Conquered the Great White Plague

The wonderful discovery for the cure of consumption which is being introducted to the people by this vicinity and city is creating a great deal of interest. A Times representative called upon Dr. Pelkey recently and learned of some of the remarkable qualities of this remedy. The doctor gave an interesting talk on his varied experiences while engaged in the study and perfection of his cure. Believing that he was on the right track he went to Mexico where consumption is very prevalent and spent many years there where he met with great success. The Mexican government became interested in his discovery and purchased the right to use his patents, and that body has since continued the use of the medecine among the victims of the white plague.

The doctor is a Canadian by birth having been born in Broome County, Quebec. He studied in both Mexico and the United States, and took a post graduate course in the Belmont Medical School, where he remained for four years. He then returned to Baltimore and passed his examinations in surgery and chemistry at the John Hopkins college.

In 1901, he returned to the city of Mexico, where he served as physician in the army for seven years. He returned to Canada in 1906 and in 1907 he made the first discovery of the great specific cure for tuberculosis.

Patients suffering from tuberculosis are given an inhaler, invented by Dr. Pelkey. The invention was completed a year ago last February.

Dr. Pelkey is exhibiting the invention, which is called the Peltier Inhaler, throughout the country. He has government certificates from Mexico, Brazil, New Mexico and Canada and many Latin-American republics, testifying to cures wrought by him through the inhaler. One certificate states that nearly half troop of Mexican soldiers and Government officials of Montreal were cured under his treatment. Another is signed by President Diaz of Mexico, himself, whom Dr. Pelkey cured.

This morning the doctor told of a telegraph call to Tweed yesterday, where he found a patient almost at the last stage of consumption, and scarcely able to breathe. The inhaler was set up and used with immediate and wonderful effect, and relief given the sufferer at once. The doctor states that he will continue this relief, and is quite confident of an ultimate cure. The Great Specific Remedies and Inhaler will be kept in stock by J. D. Tully, druggist, corner of George and Hunter streets, but for a few days the doctor can be seen at 389 Queen street.

Mr. Hendry of Downers Coners has a sister who has been affected with Tabereulosis for five years. She was given up in Scotland and was sent here to this country to be cured. The Doctors had all given her up but now she has only had the grest inhaler for six days and has been given immediate relief. Anyone who wishes can go and see this lady.

The Times was shown Dr. Pelkey's certificates from the Mexican and United States Government. These documents are of a very high order. Several letters from the President of Mexican Republic and governors of States in Mexico and in the Neighboring Republic were also in the collection. These letters and testimonials, speak in the highest terms of Dr. Pelkey.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co. Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

PRESIDENTS TO MEET.

Plan to Have Taft and Diaz Shake Hands at the Border.

El Paso, Tex., July 12.—Having invited President Taft to open the El Paso fair on November 1, and having extended an invitation to President Diaz of Mexico to meet the Chief Executive of the United States here, the El Paso Fair Association has received assurance that President Diaz will be here if President Taft can so arrange his itinerary.

President Diaz, it is said, has expressed pleasure at the prospect of shaking hands with President Taft across the border of the two republics, with troops and military bands of both nations to be massed on the international bridge.

Appetite Gone---Nerves Badly Run Down

A Strong Moral Well Exemplified in Mrs. Wilson's Case.

Like thousands of other people at this season of the year Mrs. E. P. Wilson was tired and worn out—winter sorely tired her health and vigor. But now she is robust and well, eats well, sleeps well, feels invigorated and braced. "For some years," writes Mrs. Wilson of Waimere, P.O., "I suffered from systematic weakness, Biliousness and depressing headache. I could take little nourishment and grew thin and pale. If I ate a hearty meal the result was dreadful. Pains started at my chest, and spread all through my body going across my stomach, back and right side. I was discouraged till a friend insisted on me taking Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They made a new woman of me, and for the past eight months my health has been perfected. For a good cleansing, rejuvenating medicine I urge every one to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

There is extraordinary and magic power in Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they bring vigor, tone, health and spirits—are compounded from the most wonderful and healing juices and essences in vegetable life—are safe for young and old and guaranteed to kindle renewed activity and strength of every system that is weak, sickly or run down from kidney, liver, stomach or bladder trouble. Get Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut—today—25c. at all dealers.

Nothing in the way of a Cough is quite so annoying as a tickling teasing, wheezing, bronchial Cough. The quickest relief comes perhaps from a prescription known to Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And besides, it is so thoroughly harmless that mothers give it with perfect safety even to the youngest babies. The tender leaves of a simple mountain shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its remarkable curative effect. It is truly a most certain and trustworthy prescription. Sold by All Druggists.

Medical Health Officer Made Suggestions for the Isolation Hospital

An isolation hospital will be built in Peterborough and that very soon. Of this there is little doubt. The Property Committee has fully made up its mind to have the work done this year, and to have it started very soon. The hospital will be complete and up-to-date, and will be a place where everyone will be willing to send their patients when suffering from scarlet fever and dyphtheria.

Dr. MacPherson made several suggestions to the committee last night and he is now consulting with the architect for the purpose of having the plans revised with the several necessary improvements he mentioned provided for. The committee will meet again next Tuesday night.

Those present at the meeting were —Ald. Bradburn, chairman; Mayor Rush, Ald. Duncan and Morgan. Two members were absent.

Chairman Ald. Bradburn stated to the committee that the principal business for consideration was the isolation hospital, the plans for plans for which have been prepared by Architect Blackwell but which have not yet been accepted.

As has been published in these columns before the plans call for a building of solid brick and which will cost in the neighborhood of $7000 to $8000.

Dr. MacPherson, medical health officer was present and was given the plans to look over with Ald. Duncan, who explained them to him. The building is a three-storey one with a solid brick wall through the center making two seperate sections, kitchen in the basement with waiters to deliver the meals. In connection with the wards should be little pantries from which the meals could be served and where the dishes are washed.

Ald. Morgan asked if it would not be sufficient to have a plain frame structure.

Dr. MacPherson said in his opinion and in the opinion of many doctors the city should put up a good structure for the reason that if things are not comfortable and convenient there would be very few private ward patients, and if there are no private ward patients who pay for the attention received the city will have to bear the full cost of maintenance. With a good hospital and comfortable wards those who can afford will be glad to pay and will send their children to the hospital.

The doctor also said that a very necessary provision was a sun parlor for the convalescents. In cold weather the children must have some place to run around in the sun, and still be warm and comfortable. In the summer the glass could be taken off and the verandah used.

Other necessities were an operating room where patients could be examined and sometimes an operation is necessary. There should also be a small laboratory.

DISINFECTING PLANT.

Aside from the isolation hospital and whether the city has one or not, the city should have a disinfecting plant. This plant consists of a large metal chamber connected up with steam pipes. In this chamber is placed the clothing and bedding from the rooms where patients have been and there they are disinfected in a short time. Not only will the clothes from the hospital be disinfected in a short time, but from the houses in which there is scarlet fever.

So far as the laboratory and operating room is concerned they need not have them finished up just now. They should however be placed in the building so they can be fitted up when the city can do so.

The members of the committee at once saw the value of Dr. MacPherson's suggestions and thought that he had better take the matter up with Mr. Blackwell, and have the plans arranged as soon as possible.

It was moved by Aldermen Duncan and Morgan, that Dr. MacPherson consult with Mr. Blackwell re the plans so that the city will have a complete hospital and report to this committee in one week.—Carried.

A tickling or dry cough can be quickly loosened with Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. No opium, no chloroform, nothing unsafe or harsh. Sold by all dealers.

Detectives Visited Belleville to Lay Bare the Life of Ella Gingles

HAD VARIOUS NAMES

Visited Belleville and Montreal to Lay Bare the Life of Irish Lacemaker.

(Special to The Times.)

Belleville, July 13.—Miss Ella Gingles, who is at present the star attraction in Chicago courts, being charged with theft, was formerly employed at the residence of Mr. D. S. Thornton, this city, and interest in her case is intense. At noon yesterday there arrived in this city George Furthman, special assistant State's attorney, Chicago, in search of evidence of her former career in this city. As a result he returned to Chicago on the early morning train, accompanied by Dr. W. J. Gibson, who attended Miss Gingles, the latter giving her name as Ella Raymond. There also went with him Mr. Thornton, who had with him two lace dresses in which Miss Gingles had photographs taken and which are the property of Mrs. Thornton. Grnest Mc Cormack, the photographer, who took the photographs, also went to testify, taking the negatives. She gave her name to him as Miss Wilson.

Montreal, July 13.—Detectives Bell and Kimble, of the Chicago police department, reached Montreal yesterday intent upon an investigation of the Montreal history of Miss Ella Gingles, or Miss Ella Raymond, as she was known in Montreal.

It is alleged by past employers in Chicago that she stole lace and other goods, valued at several hundred dollars. The girl brings a counter charge of improper conduct and felonious assault against her accusers.

SEA WAR RULES HELD UP.

England May Refuse to Ratify Naval Conference's Acten.

London, July 14.—"The Standard" publishes a report that the government has decided to postpone indefinitely of the delearation made in London, February 26, embodying decisions of the Naval Conference. "The Standard" says that it may therefore be concluded that the agreement will remain a dead letter.

The Naval Conference concluded its sittings on February 26 and a declaration was signed, consisting of seventy-one articles containing a large number of rules of naval warfare. This declaration was made public on March 21, and the principles enunciated were to set as a guide for the International Prize Court to be established at The Hague.

Fight to Hear Shocking Testimony of Pretty Irish Girl Lacemaker

Ella Gingles, the Lace Maker.

(Special Correspondence)

Chicago, July 14.—Not since the famous trial of Johann Hoch have men and women fought to get into a court room as they have to hear the story of pretty Ella Gingles, that little Irish lacemaker. Miss Gingles day after day has sat in Judge Brentano's court and told shocking stories of ill-treatment in a fashionable hotel on Jackson boulevard.

She accuses Miss Agnes Barrette, lace dealer, of plotting to sell her as a white slave to a nationally prominent politician in Indiana.

Asst. State's Atty. Benedict J. Short has tried to batter down the girl's story, but she has withstood him. Although denied by records of the weather bureau, she insists the night when she was mistreated in the Wellington Hotel was a moonlight night and not rainy, as the records show.

The girl's story has reopened talk of a new white slave crusade in Chicago. Despite attacks made on her testimony many believe she is telling the truth, and point to facts which they say bear out her story.

Miss Gingles on the stand speaks in a low voice and with an Irish accent. Her childhood life in Canada has been investigated, and the assistant state's attorney is frank in saying nothing was found against her there.

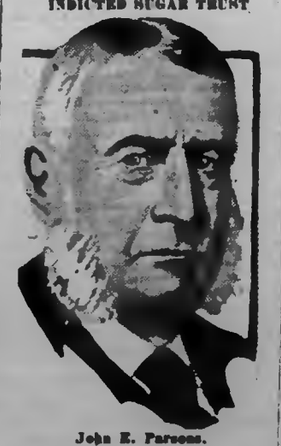
INDICTED SUGAR TRUST



John E. Parsons.

John E. Parsons, "uncle of the sugar trust," who is under indictment for conspiracy in the famous Segal case, is one of the oldest corporation lawyers in the country. He is father of Congressman Herbert L. Parsons, Republican leader in New York.

During the early days of the late Henry O. Havemeyer he and Parsons became friends. Later the lawyer, who is now 60, and the founder of the trust always were business allies. Patient Gained 13 Pounds While Confined in the Smallpox Hospital

Now Complains of the Cooking and Wants City to Pay Him for Loss of Time While Sick

To be suffering from a disease like smallpox, to be seperated from one's relatives and friends for six weeks and to have no income during that time is a hardship which is not welcomed by many, and the unfortunate ones received the sympathy of all. The kicker, however deserves, and receives little consideration. In the recent smallpox outbreak in the city the council and medical health officers did all in their power to prevent the spreading of the trouble, and to look after the patients in the best possible manner. In this they succeeded wonderfully. The public at large are thankful, and the families of the victims should be grateful. Most of them are. Still there are kickers.

The complaints, and the unreasonableness of them, made by one man has attracted the attention of the aldermen. This fellow contracted smallpox, and although the rash had broken out before the M.H.O. was notified he was sent at once to the hospital, and he spent several weeks under canvas. He received every attention and made splendid progress. In fact he gained some 13 pounds in weight, he got a coat of tan like that taken on by the tourist at Stony Lake; he had several weeks' rest, and had a good time during that period. He was not charged for his board nor medical attendance.

He was a married man, and it is true he had no income during the time he was laid up. That of course is a natural condition.

Now that he has got out and is restored to health with a lot more flesh he is making loud comments against the treatment he received, and also against the cooking at the tents. He has nothing good to say, and claims he never had smallpox. He is now looking for some one to tell him where to go to get money from the city to reimburse him for the time his illness kept him from work. The city of course is responsible for him being sick.

The aldermen on the other hand in view of his having had so pleasant a time at tents and having gained so much weight, are inclined to send him a bill to cover the cost of his maintenance and doctor's attendance while he was confined in the hospital, tents. The city is surely entitled to something for this man's improved condition.

Strange Freak of Lightning in Sunday Night's Storm

A stray ball of lightning played a strange game in the back kitchen and rear part of the residence of Mr. John Stabler on the 12th concession of Smith, during the thunderstorm Sunday evening.

The family was awakened from their sleep by a loud crash that shook the house as if it were a toy and while dazed by the suddenness of shattering sound the family thought the house had been destroyed. The lightning had struck the chimney at the rear of the house and seared its way down the stove pipe and blew the stove door off and took up its course in a piece of wood lying on the floor. It carried the wood along until it met the brick wall that seperated the shed from the main part of the house. The opposition of the stout wall only angered the sportive sizzling ball, and with the peculiar and terrible radioactivity of its own, it pierced the wall, leaving a gap that a man could easily have crawled through. What happened then can only be surmised. The broken bricks enervated by the electric bulb crossed the shed and blew out the opposite wall completely.

SULPHUROUS ODOR.

The house was filled with a smell of burning sulphur, and it was thought that some part was on fire, but investigation proved that only a few scorched articles were found on the floor. The whole affair happened in a second. The crash had been accompanied with a sound of breaking glass, and in the same moment it passed away as abruptly as it had come, but there arose from the rear of the house a peculiar odor that seemed unearthly. It was more of a burning mineral and mostly resembled burning sulphur.

The wonderful part of the performance was the manner in which the end of the shed was torn away. The family received a bad scare but the subsequent examination reassured them that the situation was not as serious as the awful noise would lead them to expect.

It is understood that the loss is covered by insurance. No one was injured but a dog lying beside the stove, near the stick was hurt

SMALLPOX CASES.

Patients Have Nearly all Gone Home —No New Cases.

The smallpox outbreak which caused some little excitement in the city a few weeks ago, is now over. There have been no new cases for three weeks, and by the middle of next week, nearly all, if not all, the patients in the tents will be allowed to go home. At the present time quite a number have already gone home they having fully recovered from the disease. Dr. MacPherson deserves great credit for the prompt and successful manner in which he took hold of his duties as medical health officer and for his success in treating the cases.

The next job is to have all the tents, cots and bedding disinfected and packed away for future use. The city has considerable money invested in this outfit, and it must be looked after. The M.H.O will superintend the disinfection which will be carried on in a shack on the Hilliard farm. Afterwards the tents will be stored away in one of the rooms in the city hall.

SITE SELECTED.

For New Public Library—Committee Met on the Property.

A meeting of the Property Committee was held on the property on which the new public library will be erected, yesterdat afternoon when the exact site for the building was decided upon. The contractors, Messrs. Rutherford Bros., have signed the contract, and everything is now ready to begin operations. The contractors asked for a month's extension of time in which to complete the contract and at a meeting held last night this was granted.

On motion of Aldermen Morgan and Duncan, an extension of time was granted to Rutherford Bros. on their contract for the public library, from May 1, 1910 to June 1, 1910.

This was granted on account of the spring months being backward and it is frequently very dangerous and difficult to work early in the spring.

The chairman was also authorized to have the water works put in the basement of the library. He was also authorized to make the sewer connection.

With the Wire in Sight, Contest Victory Now Depends Upon the Ability to Spurt

Great Race Reaches Stage Where Sensational Exhibitions of Speed May Be Expected—Things That Happen at the Track and in Voting Contests Indications of an Exciting Finish Seen.

If you go to horse races, you know that victory depends upon ability to spurt with the wire in sight. Many a horse that has headed the bunch all the way round loses in the last quarter, simply because he hasn't steam to go a little faster at the finish; and many a horse that has hugged the flanks of the bunch for three-fourths of the distance has flashed by the stand a winner, just because he could throw on a little gear for the last hundred yards or so.

The Morning Times great voting race is now in its last quarter, with the leaders well bunched and a great many others within hopeful distance. The contestant with the best spurting ability is going to win the big black touring car, and the other winners will take prizes according to the steam they show on the home stretch. Some racer now well back toward the rear may skim past the others and, by a fine exhibition of speed, be first under the wire. Stranger things have happened, both in horse races and in voting contests.

It has been a great race, so far; and to the knowing eye there are indications that the finish will be of a sort to bring the grandstand to its feet and set it wild with excited suspense.

Sciatica

EXPECTED DEATH ANY DAY.

Another Case Where Life Was Saved and Health Restored By "Nerviline."

We have all read and heard of the agonies of Sciatica, but only those who have been tortured by this dread malady can fully appreciate what it must mean to be cured after years of suffering.

It is because he feels it his solemn duty to tell to the world his faith in Nerviline that Victor P. Hires makes the following declaration: "For three years I was in the Royal Mail service, and in all kinds of weather had to meet the night trains. Dampness, cold and exposure brought on sciatica that affected my left side. Sometimes an attack would come on that made me powerless to work. I was so nearly a complete cripple that I had to give up my job. I was in despair, completely cast down because the money I spent on trying to my chemist one day, and he recommended "Nerviline." I had this good liniment rubbed on several times a day and got relief. In order to build up my general health and CURED and improve my blood I used Ferrozone, one SIX tablet with each meal. I continued this treatment YEARS four months and was cured. I have used all kinds of liniments, and can truthfully say that Nerviline is far stronger, more penetrating, and infinitely better than anything else for relieving pain. I urge everyone with lumbago, neuralgia, rheumatism or sciatica to use Nerviline. I know it will cure them."

There isn't a more highly-esteemed citizen in Westchester than Mr Hires What he says can be relied upon. For six years since being cured he hasn't had a single relapse. Don't accept anything from your dealer but "Nerviline." 25 cents per bottle or five for $1.00; sold everywhere, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 14, 1909.

SMALL MEANS TO GREAT END.

A recently made contract for the supplying of a quantity of radium contains a noteworthy suggestion of the relationship between the almost immeasurably small and the almost immeasurably great. This contract is one which Lord Iveagh and Sir Ernest Cassel have made with a British mining company for the relatively enormous quantity of seven and a half grams of pure radium bromide.

Seven and a half grams of most other commodities would be a quantity so small as to be negligible, and the "conveying" of it would scarcely amount to petty larceny. But such a quantity of radium bromide is really enormous, in value. It is more than seven times larger than any quantity ever ordered before, the largest previous order having been for only a single gram. Seven and a half grams are the equivalent of a little more than a quarter of an ounce.

The price which is to be paid for this supply of radium is truly bewildering, when contrasted with the amount of the mineral. It is at the rate of four pounds sterling, or about $20 a milligram, or $20,000 a gram. That means $160,000 for the supply which is to be furnished under this contract or about $570,000 an ounce. It may be added by way of reminder that to produce the stipulated amount of radium bromide will require from five to seven thousand tons of the pitchblende residues obtained from the manufacture of uranium, twenty or thirty thousand tons of chemicals and perhaps hundreds of thousands of tons of water, in operations lasting for several months.

This minute but costly supply of radium bromide is to be presented by Lord Iveagh and Sir Ernest Cassel to the Radium Institute of London, which is under the direction of Sir Frederick Treves, and which will be ready about six months hence to receive cancer patients and apply the curative energy which radium is believed to possess in fighting and, we may hope, in vanquishing one of the most dreaded and most deadly of all human ills.

Don't Risk even a penny—until health returns. And I mean just exactly that.
I am the one physician who says to the sick, "I will risk of my own pocket, pay for your medicine if it fails to make you well."
And for 20 years Dr. Shoop's medicines have been used and recommended in every city and hamlet in America. They are positively stocked and in every community—and everywhere.

Get Health

Then why pay the quack, and at your risk, for what you can get of me and absolutely without risk? Why pay for a medicine to benefit a stranger, when you can get the same medicine, the same quality, the same benefit, and pay nothing unless it benefits you?

When the first dose or bottle of Dr. Shoop's Restorative fails to benefit, I tell you frankly, and you quickly tell Dr. Shoop. And he will not take my word. Today many times when health fails to return for a trifling cost, and for that cost a full 30 day trial will be furnished.

First

Then write me first for my offer.

Then with unprejudice and disappointment.

All depended on Dr. Shoop's Restorative and I'm glad to say that in almost every case the first bottle has done the work. Sometimes more was needed, but rarely. Today I have over 10,000 voluntary testimonials from those whom I have thus restored to health.

Then

Then write me about your case. Describe it fully. Tell me also which book you need.

Then, the day before you receive my letter, the remedy will be shipped you. Then you are to decide for yourself, and entirely at my risk, if you will keep it or not. No question to be asked. No promise to be made. No one to be consulted. Then you are to be the sole judge, and the only one to decide whether you will continue or discontinue.

Pay

Then you are to pay me, or not pay me, entirely as you yourself may feel you should. Then you are to be the only one to say what the remedy shall cost you, if anything. Then you are to be the only one to say whether you will keep it or not. Then you are to be the only one to say whether you will continue or discontinue. Then you are to be the only one to say whether you will pay me or not. Then you are to be the only one to say whether you will keep it or not. Then you are to be the only one to say whether you will continue or discontinue. Then you are to be the only one to say whether you will pay me or not.

Then why not write me today for my Restorative and my book? Tell me also which book you need.

Then, the day before you receive my letter, the remedy will be shipped you. Then you are to decide for yourself, and entirely at my risk, if you will keep it or not. No question to be asked. WED IN ICY WATER.

Couple Consider River Appropriate for Matrimonial Plunge.

San Francisco, July 14.—With teeth chattering until they could hardly answer the solemn questions of the officiating minister, W. N. Lynch of Fruitvale, Cal., and Miss Violet Peart of Colorado Springs Colo., were married yesterday while standing neck deep in the icy waters of the Sacramento River near Shasta Retreat. They explained that they considered the middle of the river the most appropriate place to take the plunge into matrimony.

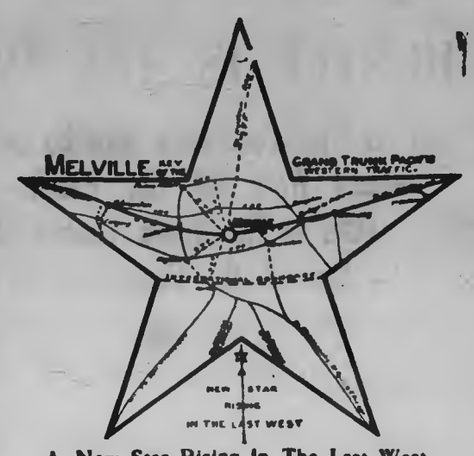
MELVILLE



A New Star Rising In The Last West

If you know the story of this Coming City, it's wonderful growth and great future, you are aware of the exceptionally large profit to be made by investing NOW in a few business and residential lots.

A third Branch Line is now being surveyed—from Melville to Prince Albert. This means three Branch Lines of the Grand Trunk Pacific with headquarters at Melville, the three of which will be well under way before next winter. The Saskatchewan Government's guarantee of Bonds for these Lines is an assurance that they will be completed as soon as money can do it.

Besides being the Chief Divisional Point and Operating Pivot of the Prairie Division, Melville is the headquarters for the most important of the Western proposed Branches, viz:

1st—To Hudson Bay.

2nd—To Regina and the American Boundary through the coal district, with air lines to Moose Jaw and Brandon.

3rd—To Prince Albert and the lumber district of the North eventually to be extended beyond to the new lands yet unexplored.

The Canadian Northern Railway will eventually run a Line through Melville, from North Portal to their Prince Albert Line. James J. Hill's Great Northern Railway will reach Melville over the G. T. P. American Line, and will also likely have its own Line into Melville in the near future.

Can you realize all the future of Melville?

Melville is destined, because of its railway situation, to become one of the most important distributing centres of Western Canada.

Do you want to share in such a great future? Why not?

DR. PELKEY

Consumption Cured

And all Other Lung and Kidney Troubles

the Wonderful Discovery made by a Canadian Doctor

Dr. Pelkey, a Canadian Physician, holding medical certificates in France, United States and Mexico, has made a discovery that promises to be the greatest boon yet given to humanity.

His great Consumption Cure is applied by means of an inhaler, the ingredients for which are contained in a tank, and the very first use made of it by the patient brings immediate relief, followed quickly by permanent cure. These inhalers are not sold to the people, but are placed in the home until they are not further needed, and then taken away.

Dr. Pelkey is exhibiting the invention, which is called the Peltier Inhaler, throughout the country. The inhaler is first a platinum tank, divided into 26 compartments, into which various chemicals and drugs are placed. Outside these compartments cold water is placed. The action of the cold water causes a vaporous gas to rise into an eight-part evaporator at the top, where it is purified and forced through tubes for inhalation. The gas forms pure oxygen, tasteless, and odorless, and the patient inhales this. So healing is its effect that it will almost immediately stop a tuberculosis cough.

Most wonderful of all is the fact that Dr. Pelkey offers to treat his patients with the inhaler free of charge. The only thing for which he charges is a blood-purifier and building-up tonic, which he insists upon the patient's taking. He will even allow the person undergoing the treatment to take home the tank with him and be treated there.

Dr. Pelkey has been for 17 years in Mexico and Central and South America. He has Government certificates from Mexico, Brazil, New Mexico and Canada and many Latin-American republics, testifying to cures wrought by him with the inhaler. One certificate states that nearly half a troop of Mexican soldiers and American soldiers and Government officials of Montreal were cured under his treatment. Another is signed by President Diaz, of Mexico, himself, whom Dr. Pelkey cured. Dr. Pelkey can show hundreds of other testimonials of permanent people of Ottawa, who were cured of lung troubles and kidney troubles after suffering for five years.

Write letters, fully describing your trouble to The Great Specific Co., or to Ottawa, Ont.

HER CONQUERING FAITH

It Overcame the Scheming of a Selfish Sister.

By ARABELLA NASMYTH.

[Copyright, 1909, by Associated Literary Press]

The indisputable fact which has so often sadly surprised people that two and two will not make five was staring the Anslem girls in the face.

It was a year after the death of their father, and many evasions and putting off of the fatal day had gone for naught. They were face to face with the knowledge that they could no longer afford to keep up the old family home and, moreover, must do something to add to their infinitesimal income.

"In some way," said Regina, looking up rather wearily from her pencil and paper—"in some way we've got to have money. We've got to go to work."

Regina was twenty-six, with rebellious dark hair and a firm chin which always amazed people by the dimple they discovered in it. Regina was the one who always did things in the family. Nobody had ever taken time to call her a beauty, so she had never quite realized the fact that she came very close to being one and could devote her leisure to accomplish results.

Of course with Esther it was different. From the time her first duff of golden hair had made itself manifest and her big blue eyes had first glanced appealingly at humanity it had been decided that Esther was a beauty, and the decision had clung to her through life, though at maturity it is doubtful if she would have been thought more than an ordinarily good looking fresh young girl had not those around her been so educated in the other view.

But as a beauty Esther had always been waited on and put forward, and even when time went on and girlish petulance and fickleness and caprice degenerated into pettishness and selfish inconsiderateness nobody ever expected Esther to do anything but exist.

And now she was thirty, for in spite of belledom the men who had wooed her seriously had been few and, with her aspirations, beneath her consideration. At her sister's flat Esther drew her brows together fretfully.

"Work!" she said. "You are ridiculous! It's all very well for you to talk, but how could I work? What could I do? Regina"—

She hesitated a little, for there was something in the straight browed face meditatively surveying her as though she were seen for the first time that bid her pause. "Regina—if you would—it would be very easy for you to place both of us beyond all money cares forever. I'm sure"—

The voice died away before the sparkle of anger in the dark face across the table. Regina bit her lip before she spoke in a repressed voice. "I won't pretend to misunderstand you," she said. "It's like you to propose offering something else than yourself! Understand once for all that I'll never marry Dr Brightright! He is selfish he has a cruel and vindictive nature with all his surface and polish, and he is sixty years old."

"Also he owns the most magnificent country place in the state and is a millionaire," breathed Esther as her sister stopped. "Really, Regina, for a grownup person you are distressingly silly! I'm sure Dr Brightright is no worse than lots of men, and think what you'd have!"

"Which you, of course, would share," said Regina coldly. Her face took on an immobile expression as she looked down at her sister. "Understand, I'll never marry him. I'll find work to do."

"It's Neal Maxwell!" the older girl flashed angrily. "You'd be glad of the chance if you weren't eating your heart out for a man who threw you over and never cared anything for you! You"—

But Regina had swept from the room, her head in the air her hands clutching mechanically the papers covered with their rows of discouraging figures.

She was hurt as only a proud person can be hurt, and the sure knowledge deep in her heart that Neal Maxwell had indeed, beyond all doubt, cared for her, in spite of the opinion voiced by her sister and shared, as Regina knew, by nearly all her acquaintances in the town, did not help much in bearing the taunt.

It was a year since Neal had gone abroad as foreign representative for his firm and eleven months since his letters had stopped abruptly, without warning. Her two letters of inquiry bringing no response, pride had stepped in and she had made no further effort to hear from him beyond learning from his firm he was alive and well.

And when he left they had been engaged. She could hardly remember when she and Neal had not intended to marry one another, so many had been the years of their more than friendship. In spite of her indignation and her secret grief, in spite of his mysterious neglect, Regina still clung to the feeling that, wherever he was, whatever had happened, Neal still must care for her just as day must follow night.

And she was of too strong a nature to seek to cover her jilting by accepting the man who had haunted her footsteps for the past year, Dr Brightright, whom she instinctively disliked and steadily shunned, to the furious exasperation of Esther. This had not been the first difference they had had upon the subject.

This night she was tired, very tired, and discouraged. Sympathy, understanding or help from Esther she felt she never could expect. The weakness, the shallowness, that were her sister's were forcing themselves on her recognition against her will.

If only Esther had been of a different mold their situation would even now be vastly improved. Encouragement and energy at her elbow would have given Regina the strength of ten. Instead there were bitterness, complaint and reproach weighing her down, and beneath it all the old longing for Neal, the hurt wonder that he could have failed her!

Sunk in her thoughts, absentmindedly making preparation for the night, Regina stood for several minutes staring at what she had uncovered at the bottom of the long utility box on her dresser without a complete realization of what the discovery meant.

First it dawned on her bewildered mind that the box was blue instead of pink, as it should have been. Then if it were blue it belonged in the next room on Esther's dresser. The woman who had swept and cleaned for them that day had probably mixed them. And at the bottom of the blue box, under all the handkerchiefs and ribbons which Regina had mechanically disarranged in her search for a particular ribbon, lay, with a rubber band binding them, the last two letters she had written to Neal Maxwell inquiring as to his silence and which he had, of course, never answered.

Regina leaned against the dresser, breathing heavily, clutching the letters, trying to think. The face that looked out at her from the mirror was white with excitement. Some one had kept her letters from reaching Neal—some one—

In the doorway stood Esther, still petulant from the scene downstairs. As she walked toward her sister Regina turned and faced her silently, the letters in her outstretched palm.

With a little gasp Esther saw, crumpled into a chair and began to cry in a frightened way.

"I did it for your own good," Esther wailed. "Neal never will be rich, and we want—we need—so much! I thought—I thought you'd see how much better a position Dr. Brightright could give you—I thought you'd forget—I wrote Neal you were going to marry the doctor and hadn't courage to tell him yourself and that you did not want to hear from him again. I—I got your letters both times by taking them to slip into the drop while I asked you to get stamps or cards at the window—do you remember? I—I did it because I thought you would be happier, Regina!"

The tall, stern girl, standing like an avenging goddess, looking down on the hysterical, weak woman huddled in the chair, did not speak for some minutes.

"Why didn't you destroy them when you got them?" she asked abruptly.

"I didn't dare," wept Esther. "I was afraid it was criminal or something."

The faint flicker of humor which swept Regina's face even in her moment of righteous wrath spread to her generous heart.

"We won't talk about it again, Esther," she said quietly. "You'd better go to bed. And now—now I'm going to write to Neal."

The Dwelling of the Void.

There is still enough unexplored land in the world to make a new continent if lumped together. For instance, within ten days' journey from London by modern express routes there is a tract of country the size of Germany, France and Holland combined and as unknown as the Mountains of the Moon. It occupies nearly the whole of central southern Arabia. This pleasing district is known as the Dahna, or the "Dwelling of the Void," and consists of what Lord Salisbury once politely referred to as "chiefly light soil" when he was speaking of the French possessions in Africa. It is a mighty waste of sand, with not a single river—so far as can be judged—in more than 400,000 square miles. Compared with this country the Sahara is a pleasant and fruitful tract. It defies even the Arab and the camel.—Westminster Gazette.

NOISY AFRICANS.

Laughter Seldom Heard in the Uproar of the Natives.

Among the African natives there can be nothing done without noise, according to a Pittsburg man who has traveled extensively in Africa.

"It is simply appalling, the rush, the roar, the chatter and the bustle, like Bedlam broke loose," the traveler said. "The principal object of conversation is said to be money, and the hubbub, bawling and uproar in all sorts of tones from shrill and screaming to gruff and growling, accompanied by all sorts of gesticulations, with tongue, head and feet, are beyond description.

"It is rather odd, but laughter is almost never heard in this uproar, and as for whistling it is a lost art. If there are any quarrels they are not to be heard in public, although when a company of natives gets to carry on an animated conversation it appears to the observer as if the next act would be a melee.

"In addition to these natural sounds there are others of an artificial character that are equally familiar to the traveler. Such is the noise of the drums called tomtoms, which are beaten on every occasion, and a kind of pipe about eighteen inches long, with holes like those of a flute and breathed through in a way that produces a variety of notes of a wild, discordant character. A frightful noise is made by the kaffa men blowing on a big shell."

THE CORDON BLEU.

At First an Order For Women Cooks Established by Louis XV.

When you hear a man spoken of as a "cordon bleu" you know he is a great cook, but few people have any idea of how and when the expression originated. The cordon bleu was at first an order for women cooks. It was established by a king—which makes it a real, proper order. Louis XV. once asserted to Mme. du Barry that only men could cook really well. The famous beauty challenged the assertion, but the king insisted that he was right—that women might be all right for boiling potatoes and performing the simpler operations of cooking, but that when it came to a work of art it took a man.

Soon after this argument the royal favorite invited the king to dinner. He praised every dish; he even expressed his august approval of the menu as a whole. Then his hostess triumphantly announced to him that the entire dinner had been prepared by women, from the arrangement of the menu and the selection of the dishes to the preparation of the sauces and the sweets and the serving of the several plats. Accordingly she claimed the foundation of an order of merit for her female cooks. The claim was at once granted, and the cordon bleu was first conferred upon the women of Mme. du Barry's kitchen.

Gourmets of today would be inclined to say that, however great the cooks of Mme. du Barry may have been in their day, the dictum of Louis XV. would be true today. There are now few great hotels or restaurants in the world in which cookery is a fine art where the chef is not a man.

The mean things done by those we dislike never surprise us.—St. Louis Republic.

DAFFODILS IN TOWN.

They Brought Back Memories of Home and True Love.

By HENRIETTA CRAWFORD.

[Copyright, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.]

Everybody was sipping tea and nibbling cakes save Mildred. For her tea and cakes had no charm, perhaps because she had poured the one and dispensed the other steadily for the past hour.

She leaned back in her chair behind the tea table absently watching the little crowd of fashionably dressed men and women that were moving about the parlors, yet conscious nevertheless that the man beside her was observing her and enjoying her experience from his own standpoint, which was so different from her own that she often wondered how he could find anything in her to interest him.

In a low voice he was telling her about the people before her eyes, how the woman in gray velvet had recently come into a fortune, how another woman in rather shabby silk with wonderful silver fox furs had lost hers, how Mrs. Poynter had been Mrs. Somebody else before divorce released her and how the girl in blue was sadly puzzled as to whether she would be happier with an American because she loved him or with an Englishman because he was heir to a title.

She listened carelessly, scarcely replying. In reality her mind was busy with its own affairs. What did she care about these people, most of whom she had not seen before and might not see again? And what did they care about her?

She was merely their hostess' country cousin who poured tea and to whom Hilis Hubbard was somewhat attentive. Cousin Nell had seen that her frock was appropriate, and she herself had been long enough in the gay world to learn that the majority judges one by one's raiment mainly. Yet Hilis Hubbard seemed to judge her in different wise.

"You must be very nice to him," Cousin Nell had advised the first day Mildred was in the house.

"And why?" the girl had inquired.

"Because he is a good match, as good as there is to be had. That counts very much in my world, Mildred. It may be that you will charm him, being a type that he is unacquainted with."

Certainly it seemed that she had charmed him. Since the first day she met him he had been attentive to her, sending her flowers, taking her to ride in his motor and to lunch at the best places. Cousin Nell was delighted. And Mildred thought it fascinating business to be thus sought after by a man whom so many girls had tried unsuccessfully to capture.

She had been quite frank with him from the first in spite of Cousin Nell, telling him that her father was only a poor country doctor and this was the first time she had been asked to visit her cousin. He had seemed not to mind. Perhaps he had so much money himself that he did not care whether the woman he married had a dowry or not.

As she leaned back in her chair she was wondering how it would seem to always have plenty of money, to buy one's frocks at the best shops, to live in a house where the work was done as by magic, to go about in a blue and gold motor and be able to hear all the best music.

Just that afternoon Cousin Nell had said when she came in to inspect her toilet:

"You understand, Mildred, that Mr. Hubbard will have something to say to you before you go home. There is but one answer for you to make, and I am sure he expects that one."

"But—but I'm not certain I care for him enough," Mildred had stammered. Nell had stared at her.

"My dear child! Do you think that any one in these days marries for love alone?"

"I didn't know," the girl said humbly. Then she thought of her cousin's elderly husband, who was seldom visible save at breakfast time, and the hitherto concealed reason for Nell's strange marriage was suddenly revealed to her.

Mildred had indeed experienced much since coming into her cousin's house. None of the golden rules which her parents had taught her were applicable here. Other ideals were cherished, other aims kept in sight. At first it had been very mystifying to the girl to find that the teachings of her whole lifetime were of no account. It was as if she had taken great pains to acquire Latin only to find that French was demanded of her.

Her father and mother had married for love. Money they knew to be a great good which one could yet be happy without. The poorest person was as good as the wealthiest, provided he was of moral character. Yet, after all, when one was constantly meeting strangers how could one know more about them than their appearance revealed? Who cared whether Mrs. Poynter's first husband was living?

She was the wife of a notable rich man and very agreeable. In Harlin she would have been looked upon with suspicion, but here she was courted. Yes, money was a wonderful thing. It brought one so much. Even if she did not love Mr. Hubbard she could no doubt be very happy with him. To be able to wear a dress like that gray velvet and black furs with long silver hairs in them, each one of which represented a purseful of money, and rubies like Mrs. Ogden's!

The girl drew a long breath and stirred uneasily. What would her father and mother say? What would Tom think? She bit her lip as the memory of his brave yet tender face possessed her. She could almost hear him saying:

"Now, look here, Daffy-Down-Dilly, you are going up to town to visit your fine cousin, and she'll have some fellow picked out for you, I know. He'll be rich and—and different, and that will end my chance, which always was mighty poor, wasn't it, dear? If it wasn't you'd say one word, and then I wouldn't feel so entirely down and out as I will be if you go without saying it."

She had not said the word, and so she was quite free as far as Tom was concerned to marry Hilis Hubbard if she chose. With a start she came back to reality and the sound of his voice.

"You can understand that everybody is watching Miss Steuben with a great deal of interest. But there is no doubt in my mind that the Englishman will win out."

"What makes you think so?" Mildred asked.

"Because. That's a woman's reason, I know; but, as I say, it involves a good deal. The American, you see, has only his business prospects and for the present an average living. The Englishman has a fine old home, ancestry of the best, acres and tenants and a coronet about to descend upon his aristocratic head."

Mildred sighed and looked again at the girl in blue. She was very pretty as she stood with her back to a great mass of daffodils particularly, but now something about them set her heart to beating quickly with memories of home. A month later there would be a great showing of them in the little garden she and her mother tended. The dear, dear things! Neil had ordered them simply because they looked well against the wall paper of her drawing room, but to Mildred's girlish fancy they were vital, appealing. They meant home, the country, springtime—yes, and Tom, walking toward her, his face full of joy at sight of her.

Oh, they had no business to be here in this hot, crowded room, jostled by furs and velvets, simple, open air blossoms that they were! No one apparently was aware of them save herself and the girl in blue, who had drawn one from the jar and was pulling it to pieces.

A woman came across the room, set her cup down upon the table, smiled at Mildred and leaned toward Hilis Hubbard.

"I have something to tell you which I just now heard on the best authority," she said. "You have lost your wager, my dear boy. Love wins. Miss Bertha Steuben marries the American after all."

"Is that possible?" he exclaimed. "I would not have believed it of her."

"Nor I. Thank you, no more tea, my dear Miss Verrel. I am just leaving." She made her adieus and passed on gayly. Mildred's eyes, with a new expression in them, were again on the girl in blue.

He turned sharply.

"You would do it yourself?"

"Yes," Mildred said.

He studied her a moment.

"Yes, I believe you would," he said, "but in your case there are no parallel circumstances. May I come tomorrow when you are alone, dear, and explain to you what I mean?"

Mildred turned white, but she faced him bravely.

"No," she gasped. "No. It would be of no use. You see, I have just made up my mind to go home tomorrow. It's the best place for me, I think, and they want me, father and my mother and"— She stopped abruptly, with a vivid blush.

"Ah, I see!" Hilis Hubbard said. He looked very straight before him for an instant.

In Mildred's ears were ringing the absurd old nursery rhyme with which Tom had teased her before she set forth to visit her cousin Nell:

Daffy-Down-Dilly has gone up to town
In her yellow petticoat and her green gown.

The Lady and the Cobra.

An Englishwoman residing in India one evening found to her horror that a huge cobra had coiled itself about her veranda rails, near which she sat playing the violin. She was too near the snake to run with safety, so she continued playing while she gradually edged away. At first her only idea was to keep the creature thus engaged while she escaped, but when she had gained a safer distance and perhaps fascinated by the unwonted sight a strange inspiration seized her. She played air after air of different characters.

The effect was magical. That snake behaved like an ardent, hot blooded disciple of Paganini. Every variation in the music, whether of volume or of tone, produced instantly a corresponding change in the attitude of the cobra. If she played a lively dance it swayed its body sideways in quick time and yet in graceful curves. Once she struck a number of false notes in rapid succession on purpose. The cobra winced and writhed in pain, as if suddenly struck with a whip.

Thus the creature behaved like a mad musician till the lady, getting tired of the sport, gradually moved herself farther and farther and then made a sudden bolt into her room and banged the door, leaving the cobra to wander disconsolate to its lair in the fields.—London Chronicle.

Fish That Cannot Swim.

More than one species of fish that cannot swim are known to naturalists. Perhaps the most singular of these is the maltha, a Brazilian fish, whose organs of locomotion only enable it to crawl or walk or hop. The anterior (pectoral) fins of the maltha, which are quite small, are not capable of acting on the water, but can only move backward and forward, having truly the form of thin paws. Both these and the ventral and anal fins are very different from the similar fins in other fishes and could not serve for swimming at all. Other examples of nonswimming fishes include the sea horse, another most peculiarly-shaped inhabitant of the sea, and the starfish.

Delaying His Jaws.

Shark stories, with some reason, are commonly received with incredulity. A well authenticated anecdote, however, is told of Dr. Frederic Hill, an English surgeon of distinction. A man fell overboard in the Indian Ocean and almost into a shark's mouth. Hill, who was standing close to the rail, grabbed a belaying pin and without hesitation jumped to save the sailor. The great brute was just turning on his back to bite when Hill drove the belaying pin right through both jaws. Both men were got on board again unharmed.

"Perhaps that fellow won't want another toothpick. Has any one got a clean shirt to lend? This was my last," were the only words of the rescuer.

The Pig in Water.

Of pigs it is commonly reported that so queerly fashioned are they that if they attempt to swim they cut their throats with their fore feet, but this is only an old wife's fable. Whether wild or tame, they are all good swimmers, though, owing to the shortness of their legs, they just touch their throats with their fore feet and beat the water very high. Many of the islands of the southern seas are now inhabited by wild pigs, which are the descendants of those which have swum ashore, sometimes great distances, from wrecked vessels.

The first kindergarten was opened by Froebel in 1837 at Brandenburg, Germany, and fifteen years afterward he died. When the King of Prussia in 1851 forbade the establishment of kindergartens the old man died of a broken heart, not dreaming that his life work had been a noble success.

The Acorn.

Take a large acorn, suspend it by a thread so as to nearly touch the water in any glass vessel, set it upon your mantelshelf, bracket or table and let it stand there for about two months without in any way interfering with it excepting to supply fresh water. The acorn will burst, throw a root down into the water and a stem upward, sending out from the stem beautiful green leaves.

WHILE The Great-West Life Assurance Company is writing a very large business in all parts of Canada, it is in Manitoba, the Home Province, where the most notable results are being accomplished.

Not only was The Great-West considerably in advance of all the Companies in respect to premium receipt in Manitoba during 1908—but whereas the average GAIN of all the Companies in this respect over the previous year was 2.2 p. c. The Great-West gained 12.5 p. c.

The moral is clear. If those most intimately acquainted with the Company endorse its Policies in this way, others at a distance can well afford to follow their lead.

Eight-Mile Bore Through Alps

London, July 14.—The latest details concerning the project of boring a tunnel through Mont Blanc are embodied in a report prepared by the French Ministry of Public Works. The great tunnel would begin at Chamonix, at a height of 3,500 feet above the sea level, and would end at Entreves, at a height of 4,300 feet Its length would be eight miles.

It is not expected that special difficulties will be encountered in the boring, as the Mont Blanc massif is held to consist of hard granite throughout and unbearably high temperatures and sudden floodings by subterranean streams, as in the case of the Simplon tunnel, are not looked for. The construction of a double track electric railway would, it is estimated, take five years and cost $10,000,000.

Two new connecting lines with existing systems would be needed, one at the French end from St. Gervais to Chamonix and one on the Italian side from Aosta to Entreves. These would cost $3,000,000 each. Electric traction would be indispensable here, as the gradients of these connecting links vary from 1 in 50 to 1 in 124. The entire scheme would thus cost roughly $18,000,000, which should be borne equally by France and Italy.

The Mont Blanc direct route would shorten the Paris-Genoa journey by over thirty miles, but its great political importance would be that it would make the British overland mail to India independent of transit through Germany and Switzerland, as at present, and would be directed by the new Franco-Italian route.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co. Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

SAYS THIS MEDICINE HAS MYSTIC POWERS.

Will Assist Anyone in Weak, Pale, Nervous Condition to Robust Hearty Health.

It's in the spring that health gives out—that folks begin to feel draggy, weary, restless,—hate to eat, look pale, feel discouraged.

If you've reached this state read what J. W. Jarvis, well known in Morristown, has to say about the medicine that cured him. "Last winter I caught a heavy cold that settled in my back. My kidneys and liver were affected and my health failed. By spring I was in bad shape—couldn't sleep like I used to—felt tired in the morning—ate very little—was terribly depressed, late and anxious looking. Twinges of rheumatism, frequent neuralgia attacks over the temples, made matters worse. The doctor prescribed three times, but didn't help. Then I heard of Dr. Hamilton's Pills—They possess mystic powers surely, for I gained and improved day by day and now am in perfect health again. I will praise and use Dr. Hamilton's Pills till I die."

The ingredients in Dr. Hamilton's Pills are pure and wholesome—come right from the storehouse of Nature to the form of vegetable juices and extracts,—consequently this gentle invigorating laxative tonic and blood purifier is safe for old and young alike. Mrs. T. C. Irwin, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Gulick, of Manteno, Ill., during the past month has arrived home.

Young men wanted who desire to enter railroad work in such positions as Operators, Freight, Ticket or Bag gage clerks. Wages fifty to seventy-five dollars to start. Free booklet describes work. Dominion School of Railroading, Toronto. 3

Mrs. James McConnel, Elm Grange Gilmour street, has gone, accompanied by her son, Master Bruce, for a lengthened stay in the West. Her initerary will include Winnipeg, Indian Head, where Mr. McConnel has large farming interests, and British Columbia.

When the stomach fails to perform its functions, the bowels become deranged, the liver and the kidneys congested causing numerous diseases. The stomach and liver must be restored to a healthy condition and Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets can be depended upon to do it. Easy to take and most effective.

Mr. D. F. Saulter, of San Francisco, is spending a few days in the city after an absence from Peterborough of about 15 years. Mr. Saulter is a former resident of Peterborough who has done well in the Southwest and was given a warm welcome by many of the citizens who remember him. He notices many changes in his native city and thinks that Peterborough has made marked progress during the time that he has been away.

After an extended visit abroad, accompanied by his wife and daughter, Miss Eva, Mr. William Irwin of Ashburnham, has returned home. They sailed from New York on April 29th, on the steamer Baltic, and disembarked at Queenstown, Ireland. They spent considerable of their vacation in Ireland, and also visited England, and Scotland, as well as France. Many cities and places of interest in these countries were visited.

Teething children have more or less diarrhoea, which can be controlled by giving Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. All that is necessary is to give the prescribed dose after each operation of the bowels more than natural and then castor oil to cleanse the system. It is safe and sure.

Lady Snagge, of Stuggart and London, Eng., is at Chemong Park, the guest of Dr. and Mrs Poole. She is accompanied by her secretary is accompanied by her secretary, Mr. Stogle, and it is her first visit to Chemong or any of the other Kawartha Lake resorts. Lady Snagge is on a tour of Canada, and will return by way of Japan. It is of interest to note that Lady Snagge is the aunt of Rev. Mr. Pelly, a Church of England clergyman in England, and the man that the notorious murderer, Burchell, tried to murder by attempting to push him in the whirlpool at Niagara Falls.

The local hotels are having a share in the Kawartha Lakes tourist traffic. Every day now brings new visitors, and they seldom arrive, but in parties. Messrs. L. Jake, Ed. Glavatz, Fred Boehm, Louis Kinsel and F. L. Koch composed a Buffalo party that went up to Stony Lake yesterday. Mr. J. P. Coveney of Chicago, has gone to Rice Lake, and W. Albert Davies, J. G. Scarcith, G. H. Sturum and J. W. Hunter of Plainsville, N.Y., and Thos. P. Wilson, of Dayton, Ohio, also passed through the city to various resorts. Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Pearson of Toronto, Miss Pearson of Strathroy, and Mr. H. M. Upton of Toronto, have gone down to Wadlock's. All of these were registered at the Orion tal during one day and were summer visitors.

TO PREVENT BETTING.

Drastic Bill Has Been Introduced in Transvaal Legislature.

Pretoria, July 14.—A bill has been gazetted and will be shortly introduced by Mr. De Villiers, the Attorney-General, dealing with horse racing and betting, and aiming at preventing the dissemination of betting information.

The proposals include the licensing of racecourses and the prohibition of racing in the Witwatersrand and Pretoria districts except on Saturdays and public holidays, with the exception of Christmas, Good Friday, and Ascension Day. The bill further forbids the selling of race cards except on race courses and on race days, and all betting except on race-on race days, and on races [illegible] race days, which precludes [illegible] Events.

[illegible] betting on all other [illegible] and colored per-sons will not be allowed to make wagers nor will newspapers be allowed to publish betting information prior to races or other sporting events. It further prohibits the circulation of South African newspapers containing betting information, and the dissemination in any other manner of betting information on events in or outside South Africa prior to results.

The bill taxes the totalisator 2 per cent. of its gross takings. Betting rooms will be allowed to open for five hours a day following the races, otherwise, excepting on race-courses on race days, settling will be an offence, the penalties for which provide, on first conviction a fine of V75, or in default imprisonment not exceeding six months, and on the second or subsequent conviction six months' imprisonment without the option of a fine.

GERMAN RACE SUICIDE.

Statisticians Point in Alarm to Decreasing Birth Rate.

Berlin, July 10.—German statisticians point in alarm to the decreasing birth rate, most plainly observed in Berlin, and a pronunciamento against "race suicide" such as ex-President Roosevelt hurled at the American people is expected from Emperor William.

In England the discovery of Germany's danger will come as a great relief, for one of the main arguments of the agitators during the war scare in England has been to point out that the German housewife is providing seven children to the English wife's four.

As far as Berlin is concerned there can be no doubt that the situation is serious. Every year shows a decreasing birth rate. In 1908 the total fell to 51,036 from 56,809 the previous year.

In 1907 about twenty nine children were born for every thousand of population, whereas in 1908 the rate had decreased to twenty-four. In 1878 the birth rate was over forty four to the thousand.

Another startling fact brought to light is that in 1876 every fourth married woman bore a child; in 1908 every ninth.

In ten years the illegitimate births have increased out of all proportion to the natural increase of population.

In looking for an explanation some investigators blame the hard times. Others say the Berlin married woman show growing dislike to large families.

Deserted Wife Seeks to End Life by Carbolic Acid and Gas

Three startling events to her husband's absence, Mrs. Harry Ball made a determined attempt to destroy herself Monday night at her home by swallowing a quantity of carbolic acid and turned on the jet of the gas range in the kitchen, after putting herself and three small children in the room.

WIFE DESPONDENT.

Monday morning Mrs. Ball broke into tears a number of times as she told of her husband going away and of the great worry it was causing her. She appeared almost heartbroken, and seemed to consider that he had gone for good. That night Constable Moore, acting bailiff in the absence of Mr. LaPlante, took possession of the store to meet a debt Mr. Ball had owed. It was stated that this was not a large amount and it is understood to have been about sixty dollars, although his complete indebtedness was about one hundred dollars.

SUSPICIOUS ACTIONS.

The house is a large one at the northwest corner of Aylmer and McDonell streets and besides the store there were several families occupying the various departments into which it had been divided.

The store which Mr. Ball had rented was on the corner. Back of the grocery part there was a bedroom and behind that the kitchen. A short hallway connected the several rooms. A little window looked from the bedroom into the store and this Mrs. Ball during the evening completely closed with a cloth. There is a window in the kitchen looking into Aylmer street. Mr. Moore, who was in the store part was suspicious of the actions of the woman and was on the alert for anything that she might attempt.

Mrs. Ball took the mattress off the bed and dragged it into the kitchen, where she placed it on the floor. The little baby, a boy of about a year, was placed in the cradle which was also brought out into the kitchen and ranged beside the impromptu bed. The other two children, a boy of three years, and Esther, the oldest, a girl of five years, were to sleep on the mattress. The mother put a coin in the gas meter, and probably, imagining that she was being watched, she hung a blanket over the Aylmer street window.

CARBOLIC IN COFFEE.

Not long afterwards a faint smell of gas leaked out into the store part and it was not long before the county constable broke into the rear part and found the room heavy with gas. He called the police and Dr. MacPherson. A bottle containing carbolic acid—almost empty—was found unscorked. A cup with coffee grains on the bottom and side showed that it had recently been used. Dr. MacPherson arrived in a short time and gave the woman an emetic for the purpose of clearing the stomach of its supposed poisonous contents. The rescue of the woman had been rapid, and it is probable that this saved her life.

Mrs. Ball had mixed the carbolic with the coffee and drank it and practically simultaneously turned on the gas in the kitchen range.

After the doctor's first aid had been successful a cab was secured and the woman taken to the Nicholls Hospital. The doors of the house had all been thrown open and the gas was not long in finding its way to the outer air. The three children were taken to the Children's Shelter, arriving there about two o'clock.

WELL TUESDAY MORNING.

The children are all well at the Shelter, and are none the worse for their experience. The mother was almost recovered, and but for a marked paleness shows no effect of her suicidal attempt. A charge was preferred against her for trying to take her life and she was taken to the police station at noon. She spoke in a whisper that could be scarcely heard and appeared languid and weart.

NOT THE FIRST ATTEMPT.

It is stated by those living in the neighborhood, that the turning on of the gas was not the first attempt on the woman's part since her husband went away.

On Monday morning gas leaked through into the other apartments and was rather dense, particularly in one. The Times was told by a young man living in the vicinity of the Ball home that the wife stated that she would do away with herself if her husband did not come very soon. He told her to be cheerful and not to talk in that manner, but she only shook her head.

Mrs. Ball appeared before Magistrate Dumble yesterday afternoon. The charge was read: "That she did attempt to commit suicide contrary to the provisions of the crimibal code." She did not elect or plead and her case was enlarged for a week.

Trent Canal in Five Years

Mr. M. J. Butler, the effient and popular deputy minister of Railways and Canals, on his return from a trip over the Ontario waterways, stated that work on the Trent Canal was progressing favorably, and that the canal would be completed in about four years. Mr. Butler is preparing estimates for the necessary works on the canal. Nothing elaborate will be attempted, the department intending to economize.

The early completion of the Trent waterway will mean a good deal to Peterborough.

Otonabee River Claims First Victim of Season Max Martyn Drowned

The first drowning fatality of the season occurred last evening about six o'clock, when the Otonabee river claimed as its victim Maxwell Martyn, the 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer Martyn, Lock St. The little lad in company with two other boys, went down to the river and Martyn went in for a bath. The other two stayed on the bank. Just what happened is hard to say for when his two companions saw that Maxwell was drowning they became greatly frightened and ran for home. On the way they told someone of the accident and that gave the alarm. When Chas. Carson, one of the boys, and who lives near Martyn's, was seen sometime later, he was still too scared to talk.

The deceased lad went in just above the willow tree opposite the carpet works, and when his body was found an hour and a half later, it was some hundred feet down the stream, and in about eight feet of water.

As soon as the alarm was given a large number of people gathered on the river bank, nd several canoes and punts with men in started dragging the bottom of the river with drag hooks and pike poles. The hunt was kept up until after seven o'clock and then James McMartin, the well-known runner, who lives across the river, and Wm. Allen, took off their clothes and dove to the bottom. They made several fruitless attempts but at twenty minues past seven, McMartin located the body and brought it up. Several boats hurried to his assistance, and the Otonabee's victim was brought to the shore. When found the little lad had only his bathing trunks on, and was curled up like a ball. McMartin got hold of his hair, at the back of the neck.

Coroner Dr. Gray was immediately notified, and he gave the father permission to remove the body home at once.

The accident is a very sad one, and to the bereaved parents is extended the heartfelt sympathy of the whole community.

JAPANESE MUTINY.

Strikers Besiege Sheriff at an Hawaiian Plantation.

Honolulu, July 15.—William P. Jarrett, County Sheriff, is a prisoner in a mill at the Waimanalao plantation where he is surrounded by an angry crowd of three hundred Japanese strikers, according to a telephone message received this afternoon. A squad of mounted police, a dozen deputies and several special policemen, well armed, started in automobiles for Waimanalao as soon as the Sheriff's urgent message was received.

Sheriff Jarrett went to the Waimanalao plantation this morning and arrested several Japanese charged with assault on Japanese strikers who had returned to work. When he attempted to start for Honolulu with his prisoners, Japanese strikers became wildly excited, and assumed so threatening an attitude that the sheriff retreated with the prisoners to the plantation mill. Waimanalao is on the southeast corner of Oahu, about eighteen miles from Honolulu.

HIGH LICENSE

On Hotels, Pushes Shove in Brantford.

(Special to The Times.)

Brantford, Ont., July 13.— The City Council last night removed certain restrictions on five-cent theater issues and raised the license fee from $25 to $600 per annum.

The above action on the part of Brantford is indeed most commendable, and it would be well for Peterborough if the local council followed suit. The five-cent theaters should at least be taxed as high proportionately as billiard and pool tables. They do a large business and it is of a luxurious nature and as the system of taxation in vogue goes after luxuries the five-cent theater should certainly pay their share.

A meeting of the Water Commissioners was held yesterday afternoon when routine business was transacted.

A United Country is Sure to Come

Milner's Ideal Slowly Being Developed in South Africa

Montreal, July 14.—South Africa is now moving towards the ideal of Lord Milner, the greatest governor we have ever had out there," emphatically declared the Rev. Douglas Ellison, superintendent of the Church of England work along the Cape to Cairo railway, this morning, at the Place Viger Hotel.

"I haven't the shadow of a doubt," he went on, "that our war had to come, and if had come a few years sooner it would have been better. As it is, the old ideas of Krugerism and monopoly are now gone, and in their place the British idea of freedom and development is coming into favor."

Mr. Ellison sees the development towards Lord Milner's ideal in a united South Africa in which British ideals will control.

"I believe" he said, "that the Boer leaders, such as General Smuts, have accepted the new regime in sincerity, and I have strong hopes that it will be a success.

"The chief difficulty is the Boer farmer, who still retains a good deal of his old attitude. The Boer leaders however, are shrewd politicians, and I apprehend that it will be only a short time until the ideas of the leaders will have filtered through all the people. A great risk was run when legislative powers were given to the former Boer republics so early, but I hope now that it will work out all right."

RHODESIA NOT FOR SALE.

The report that the South African colonies were likely to purchase Rhodesia from the British South Africa Company, Mr. Ellison considered extremely improbable. Rhodesia was founded, he said, to be a centre for British ideals, a strong British influence was already established there So that just at this stage, it was not likely that the men who had established it with such a definite object would allow it to pass intoDutch control.

The Rev. Mr. Ellison has been in South Africa for eighteen years, engaged in the work along the railway.

MANY BOATS OUT.

Rye's Boat House and Park Is a Lively Place.

Traffic on the Otonabee river was busy last night. A big crowd went down to Rye's boat house and Rye's Park, where the launches are moored, and a very pleasant evening was spent on the water. The Otonabee boat house is one of the most popular places in the city, and thisyear there are more boats there thanever. Mr. Rye's own boats are kept busy and he is having a good season.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

CASTRO TO DIE AT HOME.

Renounces Right to Presidency and Asks Only a Piece of Ground.

Santander, Spain, July 15.—In the manifesto which ex-President Cipriano Castro recently addressed to Venezuela, attempting to justify his rule from political, monitary, diplomatic and administrative points of view, he renounced his right to the Presidency and asked only for a piece of ground in order that he might die on his native soil.

LIBRARY STARTED.

Contractors Busy Excavating for the Foundation and Basement.

Messrs. Rutherford Bros., the contractors for the new public library will start actual operations this morning. They have sub-let the contract for the masonry and excavation to Mr. James Bogue, and yesterday he was busy getting the lot surveyed and staked off. Today a force of men and teams will be put on to take out the foundation. The lot is practically all gravel and, except what is needed for the building will be carted away and put on the roads.

CHILD MOVES PRESIDENT.

Commutes Sentence of Father, Who Embezzled to Obtain Means For Treatment.

Washington, July 15.—A crippled child for whom he embezzled bank funds to obtain means for treatment by specialists was the extenuating circumstance which induced the President to commute the sentence of Carl M. Spencer, formerly teller of the Des Moines National Bank, from five to three years' imprisonment.

The President declined to pardon Spencer, but directed the commutation. Execution of the sentence was postponed, pending the result of the appeal to Mr. Taft.

GLASS IN HIS BODY.

Chatham Man Receives a Wound in a Fight.

Chatham, Ont., July 15.—Robert Hallinan, butcher, of this city, had a piece of glass removed from his back today. The glass had been in his body for 28 years.

One New Year's night 28 years ago the Idlewild Hotel. He fell through a [illegible] window. Afterwards it was discovered that he had a wound in his back He was taken to the office of Dr. Springer, who thought it must have been inflicted by a knife. Quigley, the man he was fighting with, was then accused of sticking him in the back with a knife, and in spite of the fact that no one saw the knife, nor could they swear that he had a knife, Quigley was sentenced dead. No glass was found in the wound at the time and only now has it made its appearance. It is now believed that the wound in his back was caused by the breaking glass when he fell through the window 22 years ago and that Quigley, who served the six months in the Central, was innocent of the crime of which he was convicted.

BEATEN TO DEATH.

Austrian Laborer Found Dead at Station in Elgin.

St. Thomas, Ont., July 15.—Djuro Tortic, an Austrian laborer on the M. C. R., steel gang, was found lying in a dying condition beside his boarding car at Iona Station this morning and evidence points to murder as the result of a drunken row during the night after the men received their pay cheques yesterday. Tortic's head was terribly injured as the result of blows, and as soon as the colony of Austrians became aware of his death some left for Windsor and others came to St. Thomas, where they are all housed in a car and are guarded by police pending the Crown's investigation.

It is believed a woman was the first cause of the row in the boarding car last night and she departed for Windsor this morning, but was apprehended and brought back this evening. The authorities searched the effects of deceased, but not any money was found despite the fact that he received his month's pay yesterday. County Crown McCrimmon, of St. Thomas, and Coroner Ling, of Dutton, are at Iona Station making full investigation of the Austrian's death.

MISSIONARY CAMPAIGN.

The Laymen's Movement to Conduct Meetings Throughout the Dominion.

The Canadian Council of the Laymen's Missionary Movement, which has the direction of the work through out the Dominion, has just issued a dtatement as to its Policy and plans for the immediate future.

The Policy was adopted and then submitted to the different Denominational Committees and heartily endorsed by them. The Denominational Secretaries each agreed that the best results come to their work through the larger inter-denominational meetings, and will therefore all co-operate in the campaign of the fall and winter. This will include district meetings covering two days each, in every Province of the Dominion, so located that every church may be able to send one or more delegates without great outlay of time or money.

It is expected that invitations will be received from different centres, and the Council will make selections with the best interests of the entire work in mind. The first few meetings will probably be held in Ontario in September and those in the western Provinces in October and November.

An earnest call to prayer for wisdom in locating and planning these meetings has been issued to co-operating clergy and laymen throughout the Dominion.

THE WEATHER.

Jack Fallen Died in St. Joseph's Hospital Yesterday Afternoon

Took Hemorrage of the Brain while at the G.T.R. Station and Fell Unconscious from the Bus.

A very sad and most unfortunate death occurred at St. Joseph's hospital about five o'clock last evening, when Jack Fallon passed away without having gained consciousness from the time he took the hemmorrage in the morning. The deceased was 35 years of age, and was the well known bus driver at the Oriental Hotel, where he has been employed off and on for the past 16 or 17 years. Yesterday morning he went as usual to the Grand Trunk station to meet the Lakefield train. While driving into the station yard he was seized with a hemmorage of the brain. He became unconscious, and as a result fell off the seat to the ground. Medical assistance was immediately summoned, and the unfortunate fellow was removed to St. Joseph's Hospital, where he was given every attention. He did not, however, regain consciousness and passed away about five o'clock in the afternoon.

This death is a particularly sad one as he leaves a wife and three small children, the youngest being only six months old. There is scarlet fever in the house and this makes it the more unfortunate. The arrangements for the funeral have not yet been made.

City League Ball Games on Saturday Afternoon

The City League baseball games should be patronized by a large number of fans next Saturday, and both contests are sure to be exciting and as all four teams need the game, the players can be depended on to put up their prettiest article of ball. The contests will be played at the Oval, the first game between the Strathconas and T.A.S., starting at two o'clock. Both clubs will be represented by the strongest nine this season, and the Strathconas are looking for a win, as they claim the team works better on the Oval than at Riverside.

Batting practices have been the order since their last game and the ball is likely to be clouted some on Saturday.

With Quinlan or Flaherty pitching the T.A.S are not worrying much as to the outcome, but are aware that they have a tough proposition with the Straths playing on their stamping grounds.

The West Ends and P.A.C. will play in the second game at 3.30, and on account of the keen rivalry among the players as to which is the better team, the fans should witness one of the closest and best exhibitions of the season.

As no admission can be charged to the Oval, the teams will depend upon the liberality of the spectators, to help pay expenses, and the fans should come forward and show that the efforts of the players are appreciated.

The Noose Slipped at the Hanging

Edmonton, July 14. — Protesting his innocence to the last and declaring that he had killed Deputy Warden Stedman, of Alberta Penitentiary formerly of Toronto, in self-defence, Gary E. Barrett, was hanged this morning in the corridor of the prison. The drop being sprung, it required 15 minutes before the doctors pronounced him dead, as the noose had slipped. Death was due to strangulation and not a broken neck. His son, who was not permitted to be present at the execution, was given the body which will be taken to Butte, Montana, for burial.

The condemned man showed the utmost unconcern, saved that he objected to the oration he wished to deliver being cut short.

Edmonton, July 14.—A daring and successful escape was made ten minutes before ten o'clock yesterday morning by two convicts at Edmonton penitentiary. The men, who are still at large, are John C. Atkinson of Regina, undergoing five years' sentence, and Jack Johnson, the negro who assaulted the guard some time ago, and who had an indefinite sentence of about six years of imprisonment. The men are thought to be hiding in the brush which lies for several miles north and south of the prison yards.

MR. J. A. ELLIS PROMOTED.

Former Peterborough Man Rapidly Climbing to the Top.

Mr. J. A. Ellis, formerly of the C. P.R. here, and for some time holding responsible positions with the Chicago Great Western Railway, has again been promoted. He is now placed in charge of the terminals of that road, and will have his headquarters in Chicago.

Mr. Ellis is a brother-in law of Mr. W. Buller, president and manager of the Peterborough Fuel & Cartage Company. He was very popular while in Peterborough with the C.P. R., and it is amply evident that his success is largely due to the fact that he not only has agreeable manners, but is a first-class railway manager. The Times tenders Mr. Ellis its hearty congratulations.

Mr. W. T. O'Brien, head master of Peterborough Separate school, is in the Windy City seeing the sights and enjoying a holiday. The wheat pit was a revelation to him.

The Loss was Slight

Ottawa, July 15.—Careful enquiry made by the forestry branch of the Department of the Interior from its officials and from independent lumbermen with regard to the damage reported early in June along the Canadian Northern Railway lines in Saskatchewan, show that their reports of the damage were greatly exaggerated. From Tisdale to Etiomami the only loss sustained was that of the Carrot River Lumber Company, which lost a quantity of lumber north of Tisdale. Their mill had, however, been previously removed. The Ruby Lake Mills sustained no loss. The fires in the vicinity of Crooked River did little damage. At Roscoe the C. N. R. lost one span of their bridge.

PREPARE FOR LUMBAGO

If You Have "Nerviline" Handy One Rubbing Will Cure the Pain.

THOUSANDS USE "NERVILINE."

The "strike" of lumbago is like a bolt of lightning—you never know when it is coming or where it is going to strike. Probably the one certain thing about lumbago is the fact that it can be cured by Nerviline—the only liniment that penetrates deeply enough to reach the congested chords and muscles.

LETTER No. 4875.

"Years ago I strained my back and suffered considerably with with weakness over the spine," writes Darius P. Millan, a well known farmer, residing near Kingsville. "Then lumbago attacked the weak spot, and for days at a time I would hope to lie up in bed, unable to move or turn. Liniments, poultices and hot applications failed to bring the desired relief, and I was in despair of ever getting really well again. I at last decided to test "Nerviline". I got five bottles from the drug store and had it rubbed on three times a day. The stiffness and pain left my back quickly, and by continuing Nerviline I was completely cured of Lumbago."

This is similar testimony to that of nearly five thousand Canadians who have written unstinted words of praise to the manufacturers of Nerviline. For the cure of lumbago, sciatica, neuralgia and rheumatism there is no liniment with one-fifth the pain relieving power of nerviline.

Refuse any substitute. Large 25c. bottles of Nerviline, or five for $1.00 at all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Kingston, Ont.

THURSDAY, JULY 15, 1909.

CANADA IN GREAT BRITAIN.

In the last few years there has been a very great increase in the knowledge of Canada and things Canadian possessed by the people of the United Kingdom. Various causes have contributed to a result, as satisfactory as it is important in the interests not only of Canada but of the whole Empire. For recent events have shown how necessary it is that measures should be adopted to bring all the parts of the Empire into closer touch and, as far as possible to establish more intimate relations between them and a stronger grasp of the fact that their people are citizens of one great political organization, with sentiments and aspirations common to all. In one direction—that of the defence of the Empire—it seems to be probable that before long some proposal will be made to give practical effect to the realisation of those common interests. While in the past there has been, perhaps, a disposition on the part of some people in the great self-governing colonies to regard any suggestion of attack on the latter by foreign Powers as without justification, it is now agreed that but for the supremacy of Great Britain on the sea the danger of such attack would be very real. In no part of the Empire is the perception of that fact more clearly realised than in Australia and New Zealand, and the offers made by them of contributions in one form or another to the cost of the defence of the Empire are practical proofs of that.

Another illustration of the change in the sentiment of the people of the Mother Country towards the outlying portions of the Empire was afforded during the discussion of the question of a cheaper cable service in the recent Imperial Press Conference in London. The manner in which the proposal that means should be taken to bring this about, even if it involved the government ownership and operation of new cables to complete a cable system throughout the Empire, was received by the press and public men in Great Britain was remarkable for its unanimity. It indicated that a better knowledge of their fellow-citizens overseas was desired by the people in the Motherland, and a realization of the fact that this could only be had by such changes and improvements in the present facilities as would permit of fuller and more frequent communication between the centre and the outposts of the Empire. That effect will be given to this recommendation of the Conference there can be little doubt, although there may be considerable difference of opinion as to the manner in which this improved telegraphic service should be secured. The statements made by Mr. Marconi, in an address at the Press Conference, as to the probable development in wireless telegraphy in the near future, may raise the question as to whether the ends sought to be attained can be more easily reached by that method than by an extension of the existing cable lines. That is, however, merely a question of detail and in no way affects the proposition that greater and better facilities for intercommunication must be provided.

By no means the last important sign of this improvement in the knowledge of Imperial affairs possessed by the people of the Mother Country is the change which is to be seen in the opinion of British capitalists and investors as to the Dominion being a field for investment. Although the aggregate amount of British capital invested annually beyond the United Kingdom is still greater in foreign countries than in those under the British flag, the sums invested in the latter are increasing. It is also of interest to the people of the Dominion to know that Canada gets her full share of these investments outside of the United Kingdom. Of the £70,500,000 publicly invested by the capitalists of the United Kingdom in the Colonies and India, Canada received no less than 39 per cent., India 19 per cent., South Africa 19 per cent., and Australia 17 per cent., the balance being distributed among other parts of the Empire. It should also be noted that during the same period Canada received more British money than went to any other country within or without the British Empire. Increasing knowledge of the commercial conditions in the Dominion; of the field for the remunerative investment of capital in various enterprises, and of the enormous natural resources awaiting capital for their development, will tend to divert to Canada more and more of the great flow of capital from Great Britain to outside investments. Nothing that the Mother Country can do for her great est dependency will benefit the latter more than the liberal investment of British capital in the Dominion. There are indications that this will come about and it will involve a great responsibility on our part to see that the trust reposed in our integrity and honor by British investors is not abused. If it is not, then in the interest of the Dominion there cannot be too much known of Canada in the Mother Country and we should do everything in our power to make the dissemination of such knowledge as wide and full as possible.

Nothing in the way of a cough is quite so annoying as a tickling, teasing, wheezing, bronchial Cough. The quickest relief comes perhaps from a prescription known to Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And besides, it is so thoroughly harmless that mothers give it with perfect safety even to the youngest babies. The tender leaves of a simple mountain shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its remarkable curative effect. It is truly a most certain and trustworthy prescription. Sold by all dealers.

CANADA'S WATER POWERS.

There are few if any countries which have such magnificent water powers as Canada possesses. The development of electrical science has given these water powers a value far beyond what they were considered to have thirty or even twenty years ago. In the cheap production of power which is possible by the utilization of the currents of our rivers and streams, we have the most important factor for the foundation of all lines of manufacture under most favorable conditions. Although power for the production of electricity is already being obtained from this natural source to the extent of many thousand horse-powers, the utilization so far made of the water now running to waste is inconsiderable— a mere fraction, indeed, of what is available. Some very interesting details in regard to this subject were given recently by Mr. R. E. Young, Secretary of the Canadian Conservation Commission, in an address before the House of Commons Committee on Lands, Forests and Water Powers. He quoted some figures from a computation that had been made by Mr. J. B. Challies, C. E., of the Department of the Interior, on the water powers of Canada. This computation, even if only approximately accurate, contains information that cannot but be of the greatest interest in connection with the vista which it opens of the possible development of industrial enterprises as the result of the utilization of this source of power.

Mr. Challies estimates the minimum flow development of all the water powers of Canada at 25,082,987 horse-power, of which but 516,985 horse-power has as yet been developed. A calculation made by Mr. Young shows that the maintenance of one horse-power per annum from steam power requires a consumption of 21.9 tons of coal. If we take this as a basis the available water powers of the Dominion represent an energy which, if maintained by steam power, would require a coal consumption of 562,455,633 tons per annum. Even at the lowest price of coal at the pit's mouth this would involve an expenditure that can scarcely be regarded as possible of attainment. But these figures serve to show the immense industrial potentialities that we possess in the water powers in the Dominion. In the international manufacturing and industrial competition of the future, the possession of these magnificent water powers must be a most patent factor for this country's success when matched against those not so favored in this particular by Nature. Every advance made in electrical science, and in the utilization of electricity in place of steam power will add to the advantage which Canada will have against her rivals.

As we have already said the actual development of electricity by water power up to the present time is insignificant in comparison with the amount of water that can be utilized in that manner. Out of the 25,000,000 horse-power, estimated by Mr. Challies to be available, little more than half a million has so far been developed. Of this 73,000 is in British Columbia, 20,000 in Manitoba, 1,300 in Alberta, 331,157 in Ontario, 50,000 in Quebec, and 13,000 in Nova Scotia.

In his computation of the Water power available Mr. Challies gives Quebec the first place with 17,675,380 horse-power; Ontario coming next with 3,129,168 horse power and British Columbia third with 2,065,520 horse-power. Alberta has 1,144,000 horse-power; Saskatchewan, 560,000 and Manitoba 565,000 horse-power. The North-West Territories are estimated to have 660,000, New Brunswick, 150,000, and Nova Scotia only 54,300 horse-power. The Yukon is estimated to possess 470,000. Although we cannot assume that these figures are anything but approximate their magnitude shows what enormous resources Canada possesses in one of the most important items required for the development of industrial enterprises, of cheap and convenient facilities for transportation and of many adaptations of electricity to processes and purposes in the ordinary life of the country.

40 MILES IN 4 HOURS.

Remarkable Time Made by Western Boy While Deranged.

Calgary, Alta., July 15.—Last night there arrived from Edmonton a 19-years-old boy named Galloway, being taken to Brandon Asylum. He has an allucination that he is a Marathon runner. One day he ran from Edmonton to Fort Saskatchewan and back, a distance of forty miles, in four hours. He is paralyzed in both legs, and those who saw him after his run say that he did not seem distressed, and was not even breathing heavily. However, he lost weight steadily ever since, and is now little more than a skeleton.

COST OF INDUSTRIAL LIFE INSURANCE FURTHER REDUCED BY THE PRUDENTIAL.

Great Life Insurance Company Voluntarily Adds Over $20,000,000 in Additional Benefits to Industrial Policies.

Voluntary concessions aggregating over $20,000,000 additional benefits to Industrial policies already in force, and increasing the amount of benefits to all similar policies issued after July 1st, briefly states the effect of an important and far-reaching announcement just made by The Prudential Insurance Company through President John F. Dryden.

For years it has been the practice of The Prudential to add to the benefits already granted to policyholders giving more insurance than the contracts called for whenever experience has demonstrated that it could safely be done. The constant aim of the officers of The Prudential is to give the most and the best for the least. Close and careful study is given every feature of the Company's great business. The gains made in different departments each year, the earning power of the Company's assets, decrease in mortality, etc., as compared with what was expected, are all carefully scrutinized. In this way The Prudential is able from time to time to grant increased benefits to policyholders, giving them the advantage obtained through these savings, even through no legal obligation so to do exists under the policy contracts.

According to the announcement just made, on all Industrial policies issued after 1st the benefits will be increased by an amount averaging more than ten per cent., thus giving all new Industrial policyholders more insurance for less money than ever hitherto granted.

In furtherance of this liberal practice The Prudential has also made these concessions retroactive—that is applicable to similar policies issued since the beginning of the year 1907 and in force on the 1st of July of this year, thus enabling holders of old policies to share in the increased benefits granted to the new.

It is to be remembered that The Prudential issued these policies upon the non-participating plan and that there was no obligation whatever to pay one dollar of benefit in excess of the amounts called for under the contracts, and that these concessions have been entirely voluntary and were extended by the Company in its usual spirit of liberality and fairness to policyholders.

The Prudential has already made voluntary concessions to its Industrial policyholders, amounting to more than $11,000,000, and this retroactive feature of its new liberal benefits will add over $20,000,000 more to this remarkable sum, not to speak of the many, many millions more that will ensue to prospective policyholders.

IF SICK--WHY PAY

Unless Health First Returns.

Here is what should and can be done!

How pray would not willingly pay for food that you worshiped—provid you?

Then why pay for medicine until that medicine first proved to you its actual worth?

I have driven pain from millions with Dr. Shoop's. Do you want me to try the first day's test on you? Then by all means write for my valued health-free reasoning". And if I send you nothing, you will be under no obligation whatever. So why not write to-day and embark in the right path to the right goal?

I particularly invite to the sick everywhere those "Dr. Shoop's Restorative is absolutely free if it fails". Let others do the same or else from their prescriptions by.

If you could know positively, prove vitality, power, vigor or manhood. Yes, and if dissatisfied in any way, send none the less, nothing to pay.

When the Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys go wrong, then test Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Try it on those three. Remember not one but the Heart or Kidneys, for that is wrong. You may have to test the other three in addition. The tests below will tell you how I can serve you.

If your back aches, full cold of a dizzy sudden "do-the-nerve," no longer than a fifteen thread. That will how that nerve, until it fails, actually gives to the Heart its power, its tone, its nerve-control action or beat.

Those tests will open up new and helpful ideas to those who are not well. They tell how the Stomach, and Kidneys each have their "double" or power nerves. They tell how the Nerve-Centres are especially made to reach and revitalize them each or failing inside nerves. All of these facts tell why I am able to say: "It is free if it fails".

This is why I say "Take no chances on a medicine whose maker dare not back it just as I do by this remarkable offer".

So write me today for the order.

I have appointed honest and responsible druggists in nearly every community to loan my medicines to the sick.

But write me first for the order.

All druggists sell Dr. Shoop's Restorative, but all are not authorized to give the 30 day test.

So drop me a line please and shut away disappointment and delays. Tell me also which book you need.

A postal will do.

Besides, you are free to consult me as you would your home physician. My advice and the book below are yours—and without cost.

Perhaps a word or two from me will show up matters sufficiently. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescription or personal advice plan. My best effort is surely worth your simple request. So write now while you have it fresh in mind, for tomorrow never comes. Dr. Shoop, Box 15, Racine, Wis.

MELVILLE

A New Star Rising In The Last West

If you know the story of this Coming City, it's wonderful growth and great future, you are aware of the exceptionally large profit to be made by investing NOW in a few business and residential lots.

A third Branch Line is now being surveyed—from Melville to Prince Albert. This means three Branch Lines of the Grand Trunk Pacific with headquarters at Melville, the three of which will be well under way before next winter. The Saskatchewan Government's guarantee of Bonds for these Lines is an assurance that they will be completed as soon as money can do it.

Besides being the Chief Divisional Point and Operating Pivot of the Prairie Division, Melville is the headquarters for the most important of the Western proposed Branches, viz:

1st—To Hudson Bay.

2nd—To Regina and the American Boundary through the coal district, with air lines to Moose Jaw and Brandon.

3rd—To Prince Albert and the lumber district of the North eventually to be extended beyond to the new lands yet unexplored.

The Canadian Northern Railway will eventually run a Line through Melville, from North Portal to their Prince Albert Line. James J. Hill's Great Northern Railway will reach Melville over the G. T. P. American Line, and will also likely have its own Line into Melville in the near future.

DR. PELKEY

Consumption Cured

And all Other Lung and Kidney Troubles

By the Wonderful Discovery made by a Canadian Doctor

Dr. Pelkey, a Canadian Physician, holding medical certificates in France, United States and Mexico, has made a discovery that promises to be the greatest boon yet given to humanity.

His great Consumption Cure is applied by means of an inhaler, the ingredients for which are contained in a tank, and the very first use made of it by the patient brings immediate relief, followed quickly by permanent cure. These inhalers are not sold to the people, but are placed in the home until they are not further needed, and then taken away.

Dr. Pelkey is exhibiting the invention, which is called the Peltier Inhaler, throughout the country. The inhaler is first a platinum tank, divided into 28 compartments, into which various chemicals and drugs are placed. Outside these compartments cold water is placed. The action of the cold water causes a vaporous gas to rise into an eight-part evaporator at the top, where it is purified and forced through tubes for inhalation. The gas forms pure oxygen, tasteless, and odorless, and the patient inhales this. So healing is its effect that it will almost immediately stop a tuberculosis cough.

Most wonderful of all is the fact that Dr. Pelkey offers to treat his patients with the inhaler free of charge. The only thing for which he charges is a blood-purifier and building-up tonic, which he insists upon the patient's taking. He will even allow the person undergoing the treatment to take home the tank with him and be treated there.

Dr. Pelky has been for 17 years in Mexico and Central and South America. He has Government certificates from Mexico, Brazil, New Mexico and Canada and many Latin-American republics, testifying to cures wrought by him with the inhaler. One certificate states that nearly half a troop of Mexican soldiers and American soldiers and Government officials of Montreal were cured under his treatment. Another is signed by President Diaz, of Mexico, himself, whom Dr. Pelkey cured. Dr. Pelkey can show hundreds of other testimonials of permanent people of Ottawa, who were cured of lung troubles and kidney troubles after suffering for five years.

Write letters, fully describing your trouble to The Great Specific Co., or to Ottawa, Ont.

The Passing of The Great Fleet

As the plentiful lack of confidence in the naval policy of the present British Government can find no adequate expression in the existing House of Commons, it has to make use of other organs. The newspaper and magazine press has lent itself to the agitation for a change in naval administration, and books have been written to bring home to the minds of the people a sense of the seriousness of the situation. In the host of writers upon the question are some of the most eminent men in the United Kingdom. Nor are all of them politically or professionally concerned. Philosophers and friends of peace like Frederic Harrison have declared their alarm at the developments of sea power on the part of possible unpreparedness of Great Britain.

AN INTERESTING BOOK.

Of the shoal of publications born of this new spirit of naval criticism the latest to appear is "The Passing of the Great Fleet" (Sampson Low, Marston and Co., London), by Mr Harold F. Wyatt and Mr. L. Graham H. Horton-Smith, joint founders and joint honorary secretaries of the Imperial Maritime League. As the Navy League's Volunteer Envoy to the Colonies, Mr. Wyatt visited this country a few years ago. His writings and speeches on the subject of naval defence are very numerous and cogent. Mr. Harton-Smith has also been an earnest and effective worker for the promotion of a policy to keep Britain's navy up to the requirements of present risks. In this book, printed and published at their own expense, and dedicated to "British peoples", the authors give an account of the origin of the Imperial Maritime League they brought into existence, of the controversy in the old Navy League which led to the separation therefrom, of the work of the new league, and of its aims. But in writing the history of the organization they founded Mr. Wyatt and Mr. Harton-Smith find it necessary to make the Government's responsibility for the state of the navy the most prominent phase of the question. In fact, it is the Government's default and the old league's apathy that are the Imperial Maritime League's reason for being.

CASE AGAINST THE GOVERNMENT.

The writers sum up the case against the Government as follows:

1. That sea training has been diminished to a degree utterly incompatible with naval efficiency and national safety. A hundred years ago the British fleet kept the seas, and the French fleet kept the ports. Now the navy which keeps the seas is Germany's, and the navy that keeps the ports is Britain's.

2. That Germany has been allowed to attain a facility probably greater than Britain's for turning out heavy battleships. Mr. McKenna's own speech of the 18th ult. is quoted to show that this was allowed in order to secure a reduction of armaments.

3. That Britain has been allowed to fall below even the one-power standard in the matter of destroyers in which Germany now has the preeminence.

4. That only 80 medium and small British cruisers are available against 40 of like German vessels.

5. That Britain has no dockyard on the east coast capable of receiving a damaged Dreadnought, while Germany has six, and, according to Mr. McKenna, will soon have twice that number.

It is further charged that a system of espionage has been introduced into the navy, and, bound up with that system, one of favoritism, which threatens to impair one of the finest bodies of officers ever employed in the service of a State. Even in the privacy of the ward-room mess naval officers no longer dare to speak with freedom, lest a bird in the air, a spy somewhere, should report their private utterance, and punishment to their careers should follow."

OPINION OF RADICALS AND SOCIALISTS

In bringing about this condition the Government has acted, it is maintained, through the too willing agency of Sir John Fisher, and under the pressure of Radical and Socialist supporters. Of both Sir John and the dominant groups on the Government's side of the House the authors speak in unsparing language. Their book, indeed, would have more influence if it had less of a tone that may be described as almost abusive. The writers give their indignation a little too much vent, and thus put themselves at the disadvantage of appearing violent in their advocacy. To speak of the Radicals and Socialists in the House as probably the most "keenly despicable" faction in the history of any country is scarcely in the manner of the judicious writer. Nor is it an improvement on this style to refer to "that mass of political charlatans, that crew of religious tricksters, whose places of so-called worship are mere temples of the Radical party." Some of the objects of the Imperial Maritime League are, we are told, "to face issues fairly; to call the spawn of "Little England," whether Radicals or Socialists, or a nauseous mixture of the two, by their proper names, and to hold them up to public execration and contempt."

SIR JOHN FISHER.

At a time like that we have been passing through in the last few years the great need was an Admiralty Board capable of standing out for the country's sea-power against the factions that called for the cutting down of the fighting services. "Of that board," we are told, "the chief the despot, the autocrat, is Sir John Fisher." He is accused of damaging the navy by his policy of "concentration," "scrapping," and one-man power. Together, his dictatorship and the Government's parsimony have held black Britain until she is in serious danger of losing the lead among naval powers. Sir John is said to have dominated the other professional advisers upon the Board of Admiralty "partly by virtue of the exceptional powers conferred upon him, and partly by virtue of the arrogance of his character and the violence of his will." The book is sometimes over-vehement, but its mass of fact makes it a necessary work of reference for the student of the present-day aspect of Britain's sea-power.

RUSSIAN AGRESSION.

Attempts to Control Chinese River Makes Trouble.

London, July 14.—Russia's attempt to prevent the opening of the Sungari River to international trade is difficult to explain on equitable and creditable grounds. Every inch of that stream lies within the boundaries of the Chinese Empire, and the Chinese government ought to be able to open it to commerce if it wishes to do so, as it does. Russia has some commercial concessions in Manchuria, especially at Harbin, a city situated on the Sungari River, but they do not give her sovereignty over the country or over its watercourses.

IMPRISONED IN LONDON TOWER

300 Visitors Were Suddenly Locked In—How the Tower is Guarded.

London, July 14.—The amusing if somewhat embarrassing situation in which 300 Tower of London visitors were placed when they suddenly found themselves imprisoned behind locked doors the other day brings to light the effective manner in which the nation's treasures are guarded.

There is a system of secret electrical alarms installed at the Tower, the sound of which is a signal for the immediate closing of all the doors in the building as well as all the entrances. On the occasion referred to an atmospheric disturbance set the alarm bell ringing in the guard-house and at once all the doors were closed. Warders and policemen took their appointed stations and nobody was allowed to enter or leave. The officials were uncertain whether an attempt had been made to carry away the Crown jewels or to blow up the Tower, and watch was kept on the tourists until the order was given for the doors and gates to be swung open again.

Similar elaborate precautions against robbery are in use at the British Museum. There is a secret electrical alarm in every room, and if a burglary takes place in any part of the building a policeman has only to touch a button to notify all the officials, who close the doors and entrance gates, which are swung round by the turning of a crank. The National Gallery and other art museums are equally well protected.

Nothing in the way of a cough is quite so annoying as a tickling, teasing, wheezing, bronchial Cough. The quickest relief comes perhaps from a prescription known to Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And besides, it is so thoroughly harmless that mothers give it with perfect safety even to the youngest babies. The tender leaves of a simple mountain shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its remarkable curative effect. It is truly a most certain and trustworthy prescription. Sold by all dealers.

HE COULD DRAW.

Artemus Ward on His Own Connection With the Art.

On the occasion of Artemus Ward's professional visit to London, which occurred not long before his death, J. B. Preston Muddock says in his book, "Pages From an Adventurous Life," that the American humorist's advertisements of his "show" were as full of funny surprises as the lectures themselves. One that tickled the general public was this:

Artemus Ward Delivered Lectures Before All the Crowned Heads of Europe Ever Thought of Delivering Lectures.

And an excerpt from his lecture on "Drawing" is quoted by Mr. Muddock as a particularly delightful bit.

"I haven't distinguished myself as an artist," Ward said in his inimitable way, "but have always been mixed up in art. I have an uncle who takes photographs in his same moments, and I have a servant who takes everything he can lay his hands on at any moment.

"At a very tender age I could draw on wood. When a mere child I once threw a small cart load of raw turnips over a wooden bridge. It was a raw morning. The people of the village recognized me. They said it was a raw turnip drawing. That shows how faithfully I had copied nature. I drew their attention to it, so you see there was a lot of drawing in it.

"The villagers, with the wonderful discernment peculiar to villagers, said I had a future before me. As I was walking backward when I made my drawing I replied that I thought that my future must be behind me."

Hannibal in Italy.

Hannibal entered northern Italy in the year 218 B. C. and gained during that year the two victories of Ticinus and Trebia, both in Cisalpine Gaul. The next year he advanced farther south and defeated the Romans at Trasymenus, and the year following, having proceeded still farther south, he inflicted upon them the terrible defeat at Cannae, at which time his ascendency attained its maximum. He remained for thirteen years longer, but gained no more decisive victories. He was finally recalled by the authorities at Carthage, who had never given him anything like a decent support.

That's Good.

"My husband has always been one to encourage those who work for him," remarked Mrs. Pike to her sister.

"You mean he is always ready to give praise where praise is due?"

"Yes, indeed. When one of his men does good work he is quick to say so. Night after night, after he has been late at the office, I hear him murmuring in his sleep: 'That's good: That's good!' And he always reluctantly confesses that he was dreaming about the good work the men are doing at the office. Oh, I'm so glad!"

Who lives for power must trample joy.
Who lives for fame stakes all for toy.

AN INDIAN NEWSPAPER

KAMLOOPS WAWA IS UNIQUE THE WORLD OVER

Father Le Jeune, a French Catholic Missionary Sent From Brittany Has Taught a System of Shorthand to the Natives and They Get Out a Quaint Little Publication — Hat Translated Bible.

Probably the only tribe of real Indian shorthand writers in the world who contribute and subscribe to the queerest newspaper now being published are those belonging to the Kamloops and Douglas River bands. Living in the interior of British Columbia, over 200 of these natives have mastered the art, and regularly read all the news pertaining to the tribe and individuals in their curious journal, called the "Kamloops Wawa." Bible, hymn and prayer book are likewise printed in the sign language.

This extraordinary advance in Indian culture was brought about through the effort of a French Catholic missionary, Father Le Jeune, sent out from Brittany a few years ago Kamloops, the headquarters of Father Le Jeune, is some 300 miles and more northeast from Victoria, the capital of British Columbia. Just across the river, a few miles up from the town, is the main Indian village or rancherie. Here the native congregate in large numbers at certain seasons, for this is the important centre of Indian life for some 50 or 100 miles around. The occupation is principally hunting, fishing and ranching, and farming on a limited scale. Prior to the appearance of the priest, the Shamans, pretenders at the curing of disease, claiming, by aid of supernatural or magic powers, to be able to ward off evil spirits and prevent sickness, completely held the people in their superstitious and powerful grasp. Besides hindering their progress in religious matters, a good deal of property was squeezed from the people by their misleading influence. These so-called magical prophets fled at the coming of the French priest, who fully exposed their tricks and false creed to the Indians, and before he began his educational work the tribes of this locality living along the canyons and banks of the Thomson and Fraser Rivers in British Columbia, were unable to write their language, and had no written literature, although each possessed a language which has an extensive mythology, which was preserved by oral tradition.

To-day, nearly all the different tribes, some half-dozen or more, are writing letters to one another in their several languages, reading a newspaper, Bibles, and song books, all by means of shorthand. Father Le Jeune found that to be successful in his mission it would be absolutely necessary to devise a system of communication both to arouse and gain their interest by placing instructive printed matter in their hands. Having no written language or grammar of their own, he conceived the novel and useful idea of teaching the Indians of the various tribes to write their language, and showed them a sign to represent each sound which they uttered in pronouncing their words. The signs were simply the shorthand symbols of the Duployn phonographic system. After working out an Indian vocabulary containing nearly all the words most commonly employed in everyday usage in his shorthand signs, the priest, in early fall, when the village was thickly populated, first showed and explained his system to one of the bright Indian boys. He took to it intuitively and set to work to decipher some Indian prayers which the father gave him. Before Christmas he had pretty thoroughly learned the art of writing his language, and, being so pleased with his rapid success, he set to work at once to instruct his friends. The new "talk language" created widespread interest and the Indians were all eager to learn it. Soon the young as well as the adult members of each habitation for miles around were engaged in practicing the new method of communication.

Father Le Jeune was not satisfied with teaching his Indian parishioners to write letters in their own language by means of shorthand, and to read a paper in their native tongue, but he had published various parts of the Bible in nine different languages spoken by the several tribes in this region, using the same method, and still is laboring on additional publications. Shorthand, he claims, is so many times simpler than English orthography, that he takes no credit to himself for this wonderfully novel work of being the first to teach these natives to write.

On church and feast days the whole community attends services. The church is well lighted by acetylene gas, and illustrated stereopticon lectures are frequently given by the pastor. In the rear of the church are the editorial rooms where Father Le Jeune gets up his quaint shorthand paper. This has sixteen pages, about the size of the average book, devoted to church and various local information. "Wawa" is the word for talk in the Chinook jargon, hence Father Le Jeune chose that name for the quaint newspaper. It was printed on a mimeograph for the first year, but after this the priest succeeded in having type made for it and getting it printed on one of the presses of the nearest city. A full page of this unique publication shows the curious shorthand symbols used in the church services. Several years ago the Passion Play was enacted here by the Indians under the direction of the priest. They are quite proud of their performance, and speak of the event with unusual pride. For a novel picture of progressive Indian life, Father Le Jeune's queer "Wawa," and his band of Indian shorthand writers quite overshadow all others to be met in British Columbia.

THE RIGHT TO STRIKE.

Noteworthy Labor Decision by British Columbia Judge.

The Supreme Court of British Columbia, sitting at Vancouver, has handed down a decision in an appeal case that is of great interest. The plaintiff in the case was a stonecutter from England, who applied for membership in the union and obtained certain work at the trade as a test of competency. He objected to the test on the ground that the work was different from what he was accustomed to, and he was refused admission to the union. The men working with him notified the employer that they would not work with him, thus forcing his discharge to avert a strike. The stonecutter sued the union, through its secretary, for damages for loss of employment and was successful in the lower court. On appeal the legality of the union's action was upheld and the action dismissed. The chief justice's opinion, both in its spirit and decisions, has such bearing upon recent judicial utterances and judgments in notorious labor cases that it is worthy of note:

In no case is there a greater obligation on the court to be alert in maintaining the rights of both parties than in that originating in trade or labor disputes, in none is it more difficult for the court to satisfy all persons that it has lived up to the time honored tradition that it holds an even scale.

It cannot be disputed that a body of workmen may, for the protection of their trade and the promotion of their interests, associate themselves together and prescribe conditions for the admission or rejection of others to the association, and, if any condition appears to work hardship by resulting in the rejection of any applicant, there is no remedy by which that body can be forced to associate themselves with the applicant

Similarly any body of men may decide for themselves the conditions under which they will agree to render service, to whom and with whom, and this involves the proceeding that they may quit an employer's service, having due regard to existing contracts, if the conditions of employment are such as dissatisfy them. It makes no differences in their legal rights if they complain of such a condition as the employment of another who does not see eye to eye with themselves. They cannot be denied the right to settle for themselves whether they shall remain in the same employment, for, with one or two apparent exceptions, a legal act does not become illegal merely because done with questionable motives.

Runs In the Family.

Rev W E A Lewis, rector of Mt Clemens, Mich., was born and bred in Wellington County, Ontario, and while loyal to the country of his adoption will not let the land of his birth be maligned. Righting some gross misstatements regarding Canada while at the summer camp of a number of youthful Yankees last year, his quick wit and the laugh which followed extricated him from what bade fair to be a heated argument

"If you have such a high opinion of Canada why did you leave there?" questioned one lad hotly.

"I come to this country, my boy," said the rector with a smile, "as a missionary."

Mrs. Lewis, his mother, is a staunch Canadian, and from her he has inherited both his wit and his love for the land of the maple. Mrs. Lewis' eldest daughter is the wife of Rev R T W Webb of St John's Church, Detroit. Some of the ladies of the parish were particularly anxious to enroll Mrs Webb as a Daughter of the Revolution Mrs Webb protesting she was not eligible, they appealed to her mother, asking if she could not think of some way in which her daughter could trace back a connection with 1776

"Well, yes," replied Mrs. Lewis, her blue eyes, undimmed by time and many troubles, twinkling merrily, "my mother's people left Pennsylvania rather than fight against the King."

The Memorial Tower.

The finances in regard to the erection of the Memorial Tower at the Northwest Arm, Halifax, to commemorate the establishment of representative government in Overseas Britain are progressing satisfactorily The Dominion Government will give $5,000 towards the erection of the tower, and the Nova Scotian Government is expected to contribute generously The Quebec and British Columbia Government will make donations, and it is expected that all the Provincial Governments in Canada will contribute something. Pending the erection of the tower, the property in the vicinity, given by Sir Sandford Fleming for a public park for the citizens, has been transferred by Sir Sandford to Lieutenant-Governor Fraser in trust, and will be handed over to the city on the completion of the tower.

Rossland Ore Find.

After being conceded to have been practically worked out by former owners, the Canadian Consolidated Co. has uncovered an ore body in the War Eagle that contains a million dollars. It is on the ninth level, and is the most important discovery in the history of Rossland It is 400 feet long and 50 feet wide, and the 3,000 tons thus far taken from it have averaged $30 per ton. A downward continuation of this body has been located on the tenth level, and it is supposed to continue above the ninth level to the surface. The south belt, on which hundreds of thousands were spent in the early days of the camp, is experiencing a new era of development with rich results in silver and gold, as compared with the copper-gold ores of the other portions of the camp.

Must Boost Goods.

W. T. R. Preston reports to the Department of Trade and Commerce that the chief need of this country to develop trade with Japan is a more active boosting of Canadian products. This, he says, must be done by direct representation of big firms. Correspondence is comparatively little use.

Fish That Cannot Swim.

More than one species of fish that cannot swim are known to naturalists. Perhaps the most singular of these is the maltha, a Brazilian fish, whose organs of locomotion only enable it to crawl or walk or hop. The anterior (pectoral) fins of the maltha, which are quite small, are not capable of acting on the water, but can only move backward and forward, having truly the form of thin paws. Both these and the ventral and anal fins are very different from the similar fins in other fishes and could not serve for swimming at all. Other examples of nonswimming fishes include the sea horse, another most peculiarly shaped inhabitant of the sea, and the starfish.

A failing tiny nerve—no larger than the finest silken thread—takes from the Heart its impulse, its power, its regularity. The Stomach also has its hidden, or inside nerve. it was wrong to drug a weak it was wrong to drug a weak of failing Stomach, Heart or Kidneys. His prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these weak and faltering inside nerves. This no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even for a few days soon become fully convinced of its wonderful merits. Anyway, don't drug the organ. Treating the cause of disease is the sensible and successful way. Sold by All Druggists.

Called His Bluff.

A young woman of smart wit and striking beauty presided at one of the stalls at a Paris charity bazaar. Among the small crowd which pressed round the fair vender was a young man of much assurance, who gazed upon the girl with freedom and affected to admire the various fancy articles exposed for sale, but bought nothing.

"What will you please to buy?" asked mademoiselle, with an exquisite smile.

"Oh," replied the young dandy, with a languishing look, "what I most wish to buy is unhappily not for sale."

"Tell me what you wish?" she responded.

"Oh, no; I dare not declare my wishes."

"Nevertheless let me know what you wish to buy," persisted the fair sales woman.

"Well, then, since you demand it, I should like a ringlet of your glossy black hair."

She manifested no embarrassment at the bold request, but with a pair of scissors immediately clipped off one of her beautiful locks and handed it to the astonished youth, remarking that the price was only 500 francs.

Her audacious admirer was thunderstruck with the demand, but dared not demur, as by this time a group had collected and were listening to the conversation. So he took the hair, paid over the money and left the hall

Trade with Britain is Rapidly Increasing

Montreal, July 15.—Through the medium of Mr. Richard Grigg, His Majesty's Trade Commissioner to the Dominion of Canada, a healthful interest in trade conditions in Canada among the merchants and manufacturers of Great Britain has been developing during the present summer, such as it is hoped may produce gratifying results.

The office of the Commissioner provides a source of information, of a nature hitherto unknown, for British men of commerce. A general interest had already been stimulated by the distribution of a most comprehensive report on trade conditions and prospects in Canada; when therefore a central office was established in Montreal a short time ago, with branches in various other cities of the Dominion, the British commercial world hastened to take advantage of the opportunity offered to make further inquiry through the safe means of an official of the home government.

ADVICE AND ASSISTANCE

"Large numbers of British manufacturers and traders come to the office for advice and assistance in the way of accurate and full information as to the conditions under which they may undertake business in Canada and other such particulars," Mr. Grigg stated in conversation with a Star representative. "Very large numbers of inquiries by letter are replied to through the Commercial Intelligence Branch of the British Board of Trade."

The dissemination of information of wide variety concerning Canada is an important function of the office of Commissioner. Reports on every conceivable economic question are constantly being made to the British Board of Trade. In cases where the report is considered suitable for such use, it is printed in the Board of Trade Journal, a weekly Government publication. Other reports are privately circulated to firms whose business might be affected by the matter which is the raison d'etre of the report.

Besides furnishing information to his official chiefs in London by written reports, it is understood that the Commissioner will visit England from time to time in order to confer with officials of the various departments of the Government and also with manufacturers and merchants.

COVERS A WIDE FIELD

These are, however, not all the duties of the Commissioner. Some of them are of a nature that could not be readily explained in a newspaper article. Mr Grigg's commission covers a wide field. Primarily, of course, his aim and that of the trade correspondents in Halifax, St. John, Quebec, Ottawa, Toronto, Winnipeg, Victoria and Vancouver, who are associated with him, is to foster trade relations between the Dominion of Canada and the Mother Country. The Commissioner is, however, the chief representative in this country of the Board of Trade one of the most important departments of the British Government. He may be called upon to act in a great variety of matters which may lead to a better and more sympathetic understanding between trade bodies and individual business houses in the two countries. Thus, the results which may indirectly follow a judicious exercise of the duties of the Commissioner's office may be of no small value in drawing closer the bonds of amity between Great Britain and Canada.

ONLY A YEAR OLD.

The office of His Majesty's Trade Commissioner to the Dominion of Canada was instituted by the British British Board of Trade last year when Mr. Richard Grigg was appointed, with headquarters in the Board of Trade Building in Montreal. Mr. Grigg had previously, as special commissioner to His Majesty's Board of Trade, written a report addressed to the Right Hon. David Lloyd George, then president of that department, on the conditions and prospects of British Trade in Canada. The report was presented to Parliament and printed by the British Government as a blue book. It proved to be a very comprehensive and important report and was received by both the British and the Canadian press was unanimous approval.

The question of the formation of small departments in Canada, Australia, New Zealand and the Cape was dealt with at the premiers' conference in 1907. The colonial premiers were unanimous in approval and expressed the view that responsible officials with headquarters in the leading city of each country should be appointed, the object being to present actual economic conditions in each country to the British Government and to the trade classes by a continuous supply of information. In the case of Canada the appointment referred to was accompanied by the appointment of Imperial trade correspondents in the other chief cities. Mr. Grigg himself acting as trade correspondent for Montreal.

Ella Gingles Case Excites Interest

Chicago, July 15.—The fighting forces in the Ella Gingles case spent yesterday priming their guns for a renewed engagement today. Both the State and the defence asserted that they would be prepared with additional evidence that simply would smash the other side.

Assistant State's Attorney Short said that he had sent two officers to Bellaville, Ont., where Ella Gingles formerly was employed, and that he hoped to procure the presence in court of several Canadian witnesses, who would prove that Miss Gingles was not innocent when she came to Chicago and that she had been guilty of theft while living in Belleville.

P. H. O'Donnell of counsel for the defence gave out a letter he had just received from the pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Larne, Ireland, in which the minister wrote that so far as he knew Ella Gingles always had been respectable and well-conducted.

The letter received by O'Donnel was signed J. Kennedy, pastor of the Old Presbyterian Congregation at Larne, Ireland. It reads in part as follows:

"Last evening two American ladies Miss Hopkins of Chicago and Mrs. Murphy of Minneapolis, called upon me with reference to the poor young girl, Ella Gingles. I know her well.

"Ella was frequently under my roof, as she was on friendly terms with two young ladies—my adopted daughters—who reside with me. I always found her a bright, cheerful, well-principled girl, clever in many ways with her needle, and especially in the art of crocheting and manufacturing of lace. In the latter branches I know that she won prizes at our local annual industrial exhibitions in the town of Larne.

"She, herself, so far as I know, has always been respectable and well-conducted in every way, with a large infusion of enterprise and determination in her character, so that you may proceed in your generous and energetic endeavors in her behalf with the most entire confidence in her integrity in every respect.

"Accept for yourself and convey to those truly Christian people who are associated with you in the defence of an innocent but much-injured young girl the assurance of the most sincere gratitude and admiration, not only of the writer, but of the sorely-stricken parents and friends of poor Ella."

TEN SAVED AND 14 DROWNED.

Big Steel Steamer on Her Maiden Trip Sinks a Huge Freighter. Near the Soo.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., July 15.—Three minutes after the steel steamers Isaac M. Scott and John B. Cowle of Cleveland had collided in Lake Superior early yesterday morning, about a mile and a half off Whitefish Point lighthouse, the Cowle had gone to the bottom in fifty fathoms of water, carrying with her fourteen members of her crew. The Scott, although badly damaged about the bows, put back to this port, where she arrived with part of the crew of the Cowle.

A heavy fog was responsible for the collision. The Scott, a new boat on her maiden trip to the head of the lake, had just passed the light at Whitefish Point and straightened out her course up the lake, when suddenly the John B. Cowle loomed up through the fog, broadside on the Scott, and only a few away. The Cowle was down-bound with 8,000 tons of iron ore in the hold.

The Scott crashed into the side of the heavily laden Cowle. For fifteen feet her bow penetrated. Tons of water rushed into the great opening, and in three minutes the Cowle had settled on the bottom of Lake Superior

Immediately after the collision a line was thrown from the deck of the Scott to the Cowle and three members of the crew escaped to the deck of the upbound boat by this means. The rest of the crew who were saved jumped from the sinking steamer into the lake, some without life preservers, and were picked up by the Scott and the steamer Goodyear, which was a short distance eastern of the Scott when the collision occurred. Captain Rogers of the Cowle was one of those rescued by the Goodyear.

NAMES OF THE SAVED

Those saved, are as follows:

Captain Rogers and second mate, who were gotten on board the Goodyear; Alva Rogers, a son of the captain, and John Sargeant, watchmen, both of Henderson, N. Y.; first mate E. Carlton and Ed. Tinney, both of Sonneaut, Ohio; Byron Rogers, steward, of Watertown, N. Y.; Jos. Woodham, wheelsman, Buffalo, N. Y. Chas. Ault, oiler, Adams, N. Y.; and the one passenger, Thos. McKerran, son of the chief engineer, who is among the lost.

Others missing are the second engineer, one wheelsman, one oiler, four firemen, four deck hands, cook, and porter, making a total of fourteen.

The Scott is tied up here, awaiting the arrival of insurance adjusters. She is in charge of Captain A. McArthur, and was on her maiden trip, up bound, for a cargo of iron ore.

The John B. Cowle was 445 feet long, 50 feet beam, and owned by the Cowle Transit Company of Cleveland. The Cowle went into commission in 1902.

AMERICAN BARN DANCE.

The Latest Dance Has Become Very Popular.

The American barn dance, now one of the leading novelties of the London ball-rooms, has been introduced in this country. Several society women startled the community with "S. R. Henry's Barn Dance," to which they danced the figures of the Virginia reel and the hoe-down. Since then the band and orchestras have taken up the craze.

The method in which the dance is interpreted is that of six couples who swing their partners to a central point, then waltz back to an angle formed by the first retreating couple, who, in turn, exchange partners. The following strains indicate the musical theme to which this is done:

The dance proper occupies increased interest. It is wrought to a climax in which the couples sing as they dance. For this purpose a set of words called "Down at the Huskin Bee" are invoked. The following bars of Mr. Henry's barn dance are utilized:

To this melody the text runs as follows:

"Come along and let's make merry down at the huskin' bee,
Applejack and good blackberry, we'll have a jubilee," etc.

MR. ALBERT SMITH.

Apsley, June 14.—The death occurred on July 8th, at his home in Anstruther, of Mr. Albert Smith, at the age of 32 years. Deceased had not been in very robust health for some time, but his condition was not thought to be serious till during the last month, when the dreaded disease, consumption, claimed him as its victim. All that medical skill and tender care could do was of no avail, and his untimely death is much regretted. In September, 1906 he was married to Miss Ena Hawes, who, with two small children, is left to mourn his death. He also leaves a father and mother, and twobrothers, Harry and Charles, all of whom have our heartfelt sympathy in their hour of affliction. The funeral took place on Saturday afternoon from his late residence to the Church of England, Apsley, of which the deceased was a member. A very touching sermon was preached by Mr. Harris, assistant to Rev. C. Lord. He preached from the following text: "Behold I stand at the door and knock," dwelling on the fact that we should so live to be ready at any time to answer the call to meet our Redeemer; also speaking of the resignation of the deceased to submit to the will of the inevitable. Being a member of the True Blue Lodge, that order attended in a body, heading the funeral procession from the lodge room to the church. The pallbearers were: Wilbert Lean, Dan, Thomas and Jas. Lean, Philip Tanner and Robert Scott. The remains were laid in the family plot in the Church of England cemetery.

Western Canada Wood Pulp & Paper Co. Ltd.

HEAD OFFICE, 638 VIEW ST. VICTORIA, B. C.

Plant Now Under Course of Erection at Quatsina Sound, Vancouver Island.

Asset.

The company have acquired 15,000 acres of Pulp Land on Quatsina Sound, Vancouver Island.

Water Power

In addition to the vast Pulp Limits acquired, the company have also secured a 25,000 inch water record on Marble Creek, at Quatsina Sound, capable of developing from 10,000 to 15,000 h.p. This creek derives its source from three lakes 20 miles in length and is thus permanent the year round.

Capacity of Plant

The plant when fully complete will have a capacity of 400 tons of news and wrapping per week, we are rushing the work along and feel confident that we will have the pulp plant with a weekly capacity of 200 tons in operation by December 1st of this year.

Cost of Manufacture

With our tremendous pulp limits, which enable us to secure our pulp wood at a nominal figure, and splendid water power, the cost of manufacture should and wrapping paper should not exceed $5.00 per ton. At present rates in pulp in British Columbia at $20.00 per ton. The freight rate to eastern Canada and Quebec being $10.00 per ton.

Local Markets

The local market of the company extends over a thousand miles to Hudson Bay and tributary region. Within the above territory the annual consumption of paper is estimated at a thousand tons exclusive of that used by printers and newspapers. The five daily papers at Victoria and Vancouver alone consume over 400 carloads of paper per year.

Foreign Markets

The foreign markets of the company consist of China, Japan, New Zealand, Australia, Hawaii and the Philippines. In 1908 the above countries imported over $30,000,000 worth of wood pulp and paper, principally from Norway, Sweden ,Germany ,Eastern United States and Eastern Canada.

Freight Rates to Orient

A freight rate of over $8.00 to $9.00 per ton can be secured from British Columbia to China, Japan, New Zealand and Australia on wood pulp and paper as against a rate of $7.00 to $10.00 per ton on the same commodities from Eastern Canada and Europe. Being from 3,000 to 5,000 miles nearer the Oriental market than Eastern Canada or European mills we are not only able to secure a much lower freight rate, but also a lower insurance rate.

Natural Advantages of British Columbia

News and wrapping paper are manufactured principally from Spruce, Hemlock, Balsam and Larch wood, one ton of dissolved wood pulp requires approximately two cords of four foot wood. At present Spruce and Hemlock wood is worth from $5.00 to $9.00 per cord, in Eastern Canada our facilities enable us to secure it at less than $2.00 per cord. In 1908 the American mills were obliged to pay from $9.00 to $12.00 per cord.

Progress of Work

We are proceeding as fast as possible with the work, the erection of the plant has been placed under the exclusive supervision of Mr. Charles B. Pratt, of Appleton, Wis., one of the most distinguished authorities on the erection of pulp and paper mills in the United States,having built more than fifty of the leading mills of the country and he is confident of being able to have the pulp mill in operation by December 1st of this year.

Profits in Pulp and Paper Manufacture

No industry, not even mining itself, has yielded as large and permanent dividends as the manufacture of Wood Pulp and Paper, and there is no reason why the mill which we are now erecting should not pay at least 25 per cent. annual dividends. Under much less favourable conditions, the Eastern Canadian and English mills are paying from 20 to 25 per cent. With our natural advantages, we should be able to make a profit of approximately $25.00 per ton on news paper, $20.00 per ton on Wrapping paper, and $15.00 per ton on box board and pulp board. The Pacific Coast mills of the United States are now making a net profit, after deducting depreciation, operating expenses, bonds, & etc., of approximately $20.00 per ton on wrapping and $15.00 per ton on box and pulp boards, and this after paying from $5.00 to $8.00 per cord for wood. In 1908 the Laurentide Paper Co. showed a profit of $700,000. The Kellogg-Farrington Pulp and Paper Co. showed a gross profit last year of $1,000,000. The official United States Government Report, issued at Washington, D. C., July 25th, 1908, Bulletin 81, showed that the mills of the State of Oregon made a profit of 29 3-4 per cent. of the value of goods over all expenses, of 19 per cent. The gross profits of the International Paper Co., for the year ending June 30th, 1908, amounted to $1,000,000.

Under date of February 16th, 1908, Mr. Herman Ridder, President of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, filed charges against the Paper Trust of the United States, and in his deposition to Hon. Chas. J. Bonaparte, Attorney-General of the United States, said:

"News print paper mills that are not entirely modern are now making paper as figures that show a profit of more than $20.00 per ton on the paper prices just announced by the International Paper Co., $32.50 per ton. In other words, for paper conveyed, say, to New York, up-to-date mills are making a profit of more than 60 per cent. on the cost of manufacture, delivery and storage, and they are making a profit of more than 40 per cent. upon a reasonable allowance for the capital required for a modern plant."

With our close proximity to the Oriental market, there is no reason why we should not make, conservatively, 20 per cent. more dividends than the Eastern Canadian or American Mills. In 1908, Australia imported over 45,000 tons of News principally from Eastern Canada and Europe. Why should we let this great volume of paper go to Eastern Canada, Eastern United States, and Europe, when we are in a position to control it ourselves? Every dollar of paper used in the Orient should be furnished from Western Canada. With sufficient mills to produce the goods, what country is in a better position to control the trade of the Orient than British Columbia. Not only are we able to manufacture News and Wrapping Paper from $2.00 to $3.00 per ton lower than Eastern Canada and American mills, but we are from $2.00 to $4.00 under them, the great Oriental markets. The demand for News and Wrapping Paper is practically unlimited, and, while we possess China, Japan, Australia and New Zealand will be absolutely dependent upon us for their supply of ... and ... [illegible] ... Japan alone imported over 200,000 tons of paper, principally from Europe, and the ... [illegible] ...

Morning Times Great Contest the Talk of the Town---Running Marathon Race---One Hustling Contestant Says She Has Much More Than Done This

Time is flying. What is more, he is urging the ambitious candidates to strike as rapid a pace as himself. "Step lively, step lively," he is calling to all who are gathering subscriptions for the Bonus Offer this week. "If you want to come in on time you must step lively." Nothing will help you as much as subscriptions secured at this period. Bring in all that you have secured to the Contest Department as soon as possible. You need not cast the votes until such time as you wish, but bring in the subscriptions promptly so that we may serve the paper to your friends and issue the votes to you. It is a lot of comfort to have a good bunch of these certificates in your possession. Just to look at them puts one in good heart, and this week they are bigger and mean more to you than they ever will again.

YOU HAVE ANOTHER GUESS COMING.

This big contest is causing a great deal of talk now, and everyone is taking an interest in the candidates. This is the time to tell them how much their subscriptions would help you if given promptly.

Up to Saturday evening is the most interesting period of the contest, with the possible exception of the last day, which will decide the winners of the 20 prizes.

The excitement of the last day will be caused by that sort of breathless eagerness with which we watch the close of a hard and well run race, but the last day has really less to do with the final result than the days of this week, when every subscription counts on your Bonus Offer.

VOTE EARLY AND OFTEN.

Remember that no better offer will be made again during the Contest. The best chance for getting subscriptions that count high is during this time. If you work hard this week it will not be difficult to place your name in a conspicuous place on the list, so that your friends may see that you have been doing good work, and when you have secured a good place on the list you may begin to save for the final rush. It is a good plan to have that big bunch of reserves for you will want to keep in the lead at the end.

A MARATHON RACE.

"Talk about the Marathon Race being the supreme test of endurance," laughed a diligent candidate to us yesterday, "why, I have been running five weeks already and I expect to Run the Rest of the Time without a single letup. All I ask for is the glory of coming out well in the end." And if she keeps her word and sticks to her work she will have her wish, and so can you.

If there is anything in the world that will incite you to put forth your very best efforts, the prizes which we are giving away certainly should do this. There is not one of them that is not worth the time and trouble it will take to win it, and it is the most surprising thing in the world that you are not working harder than you are in an endeavor to win whichever prize you may fancy.

We have been telling you all along that it is not too late to enter your name in the list of contestants, and we repeat it. If you would look over the list you can see for yourself what an altogether wonderful opportunity this is.

Three Pumps Installed on the Coffer Dam, Work Progressing

Pumping the water out of the coffer dam will be started today or tomorrow at the new water works dam. Two pumps were started on Tuesday night but they were too small and a third is being installed. Times man visited the works yesterday afternoon and found a big gang of men at work. The big pump was practically installed, a short delay being necessary while some new parts were being made. There is one boiler to steam the two small pumps and another boiler to steam the big one. When ready to start the water will be lifted out at the rate of 10,000 gallons or more per hour, and at this rate of pumping it will take but a short time to empty the coffer dam.

The Bishop Construction Company are certainly hustling things. Since the coffer dam was finished they have strung cables across the river for the purpose of carrying cement across from the railway siding and for carrying the concrete from the mixer to the dam. The power for running the cable is supplied by a boiler and engine on the east side of the river while the cement mixer which is the same one used on the Buckhorn dam and which arrived yesterday, is on the west bank. For carrying the concrete two immense iron buckets with drop bottoms will be used. These will be loaded direct from the mixer and run out on the cable to the proper place and then lowered to the dam, load and dumped. This will not only be many times faster than men with wheel barrows can handle it, but will be a great deal cheaper. The Bishop Construction Company have, or will have, a most complete plant on the grounds. They look out for speed and economy and in this way the water commissioners profit also.

The cement will be brought down by the carload and stored on the east bank. A special siding has been run on to the property from the G. T. R. spur line. Then while the west half is being constructed the supply of cement for the following day will be run across on the cable at night.

All the past week a gang of over 60 men were engaged, but yesterday on account of the delay while the third pump was being installed nearly half of the men were laid off for a couple of days. As soon as the water is pumped out the men will all be taken on again, and will have steady work for the balance of the season.

Immense Crowd Saw the Opening of New Church at Gore's Landing

His Lordship Archbishop Sweeney Officiated at the Opening Ceremonies---The Edifice is of Solid Stone and is Built and Finished in the latest Style

St. George's church, Gore's Landing, was opened yesterday afternoon by his Lordship Archbishop Sweeny of Toronto, in the presence of an immense concourse of people. The new edifice is of solid stone and built and finished in the latest style. It is small but is one of the prettiest churches in this section. It is a credit to the people of Gore's Landing, and it is the pride of the congregation.

To witness the ceremony a big crowd of Stony Lake cottagers went down by boat and the steamer Otonabee carried another big crowd from the city. The boat was loaded to its full capacity. Music was furnished by a detachment of the 57th band, and the sail down and back was greatly appreciated. Besides the large crowd that the Otonabee carried, a large number went down in steam and gasoline launches.

The church was crowded long before the time appointed for the ceremony to begin, and there were far more outside than in. His Lordship Bishop Sweeny in company with the rector and the visiting clergy entered in a body and proceeded to the chancel. Among the clergy present besides the Archbishop, were Rev. Canon Davidson, Rev. Rural Dean Langfeldt, D.D., and Rev. H. R. Toumpour of Peterborough, Rev. Mr. Daniel of Port Hope, Rev. Mr. Sprague of Coubourg, Rev. Mr. Summerhaze, a former rector, and Rev. Mr. Newton, rector of St. George's.

Those taking part in the service were Archbishop Sweeny who preached the service, Rev. Canon Davidson, Rev. Mr. Summerhaze, and Rev Mr. Daniel. His lordship took as his text part of the 17th verse of the 19th chapter of Genesis. He heartily congratulated the congregation upon erecting such a handsome edifice, and hoped that they would accomplish a great deal of good in the neighborhood.

At the opening there was only an indebtedness of $1100 and this was no doubt wiped out by the liberal collection taken up at the services. Miss Dawson of All Saints' choir, sang a solo during the offertory.

After the ceremony supper was served by the ladies on Mrs. Edwin Harris' lawn, and the crowd which greeted the ladies was much greater than had been anticipated. Still all had lots to eat and thoroughly enjoyed the meal. The steamers started on their return trip at an early hour and got home in good time.

Detective Says That Attorney O'Donnell Embraced Miss Gingles

Chicago, July 15. — Wrangling of lawyers, and further testimony to impeach Ella Gingles' story of alleged torture in a bathroom of the Wellington Hotel on February 16, marked the closing hours yesterday of the State's case against the young Irish lacemaker for larceny of lace from Miss Agnes Barrette, her former employer. The case probably will reach the jury by Friday evening.

An alibi was furnished for Miss Barrette, proprietor of a lace store in the Wellington Hotel, who is charged by Miss Gingles of beating her with a hair brush in the early morning hours of the theft. Later she said they went to Miss Barrette's room and went to bed. All this occurred during the time in which Miss Gingles said she was undergoing mistreatment at the hands of Miss Barrette and her companion.

NOTHING TO DRINK.

"Did Miss Barrette have anything to drink that evening?" asked Attorney O'Donnell, on cross-examination.

"No, I never saw her touch a drop."

Detective-Sergeant Charles McNulty told of the actions of Attorney F. H. O'Donnell, when the defendant's lawyer was informed in a mysterious note that his client was in danger at the hotel.

"O'Donnell met me in Chief of Detectives O'Brien's office," said McNulty. "We got a taxicab, and O'Donnell directed the driver to go to 474 La Salle avenue. I asked him why he was going to the house where Miss Gingles roomed first. He said he wanted to make sure that Ella was not at home. He showed us a note which said that she was being killed at the hotel. Then he went to O'Donnell's office and then to the hotel.

"O'Donnell told me to go in and see if Miss Gingles was there. I passed the clerk, and he said that no one of that name was there. We drove back to the station. Capt. O'Brien met us, and told us to go back to the hotel, as Ella was in the bathroom.

DOCTOR'S EVIDENCE.

Dr. William O. Krohn, who examined the mental and nervous condition of Miss Gingles at the Dunlap Willard Hospital, said he found her to be in all respects normal, and not suffering from any spinal or cerebal disease. She caused her limbs to tremble, he said, and complained of pains, which, in his opinion did not exist.

MRS. HARRY BALL.

Is With Mr. and Mrs. B. Lastar — Her Children With Her.

Mrs. Harry Ball, who was remanded for a week on Tuesday on the charge of attempting to commit suicide, was taken from the jail yesterday morning to the police court. Mr. B. Lastar acting as a friend of the family, stated that he and his wife would take care of her and the three children if she was allowed to go with him. Magistrate Dumble was satisfied. Mr. Lastar also asked what would be done with the $100 that had been found in the house by the authorities. It belonged to Mrs. Ball but the bailiff had taken $60 of it. Mr. Dumble said he had nothing to do with the matter. It was entirely a civil affair. A complete account of every cent would have to be given to the creditors. The magistrate did not give any advice as to what steps should be taken.

As to the reason of the disappearance of Mr. Ball, The Times learned that a friend of the family had stated that there had been a quarrel or dispute between the husband and wife on Sunday morning.

FORESTERS' EXCURSION.

Large Crowd Went on the Special Two Day Trip.

There was a big crowd left here yesterday morning on the Independent Order of Foresters' special excursion to Toronto and Niagara Falls. The fare was very low and many took advantage of it to have a couple of days outing as the tickets are good until tonight. The trip is a splendid one and gives lots of time to knock around Niagara Falls and even Buffalo. Not a few spent last night in the Bison City.

Two Sisters Drown in the Ottawa River

Hung on for Hours Before Letting Go---Male Companions Rescued---Liquor was Carried and Dispute Occurred

Ottawa, July 15.—Jenny and Dorothy Green, two waitresses at the Victoria Hotel, Aylmer, Que., were drowned in the early hours of this morning in Lake Deschenes, whose waters are particularly treacherous, but there is no indication that on this occasion any storm arose, which might cause the overturning of the boat in which they were sailing. Everything points to a tragedy of an unusual nature. It is even hinted that arrests may be made.

Last evening the two young women, who were aged 32 and 23, respectively, and who originally came to Aylmer from Richmond, Ont., met two young men from Ottawa, named E. Guertin and L. Lovir. It appears that some of the party had been drinking.

Two other young men named N. Granelle and A. Dorion joined the party later in the evening and it is said a dispute arose as to the girls the two arrivals claiming that they had a better right to be in their company. However that may be, Guertin and Lover are said to have set off with the girls in a skiff and crossed the lake to the Ontario side, taking a good supply of liquor with them. Granelle and Dorion followed in another skiff, and it is believed that the party met again on the opposite shore where the quarrelling was resumed.

What followed is not quite clear, the several versions differing somewhat in the details given. Lover says that about 11 o'clock last night his boat was upset near the Quebec shore and floated bottom upwards. In it were the two girls and Guertin. He was the only swimmer in the party and he succeeded in getting the others to the overturned boat to which they clung and began to shout for help.

A stupid custom in this was the cause of their death. It seems that boating parties are the habit of doing a good deal shouting, and the people on the shore hearing a series of shouts paid no attention to them. The shouting was kept up until after two o'clock this morning, when the girls weakened and sank. Lover says he repeatedly brought them to the surface but in the end they disappeared in the dark, and Lover and Guertin were picked up in an exhausted condition about three o'clock.

The Lindsay Golfers Lost to Peterborough, First Game of Season

Peterborough golf players won from Lindsay yesterday afternoon in the first game of the season between the two clubs. The score was Lindsay 5, Peterborough 10. The visitors, 15 strong, arrived on the noon train, and were met by some of the local enthusiasts at the station. The game started at two o'clock, and lasted all afternoon. Luncheon and tea were served on the golf grounds and a most enjoyable afternoon was spent. The visitors returned home on the nine o'clock train. The return match will likely be played on Lindsay about August 1st. On Wednesday next the locals will play at Port Hope. The players and scores yesterday were:

HALF HOLIDAY.

Clerks Had Pleasant Afternoon Down the River.

The clerks' second half holiday was enjoyed yesterday afternoon. It was very hot and the young people certainly like the afternoon and evening on the water. A large crowd went on the excursions to Gore's Landing. The steamer Otonabee carried the full number of her capacity.

Besides those who went on the big boats a great many went down the river in canoes, skiffs and yachts, and had private picnics in some secluded spot on the banks. Others spent the afternoon fishing.

On a Holiday.

Mr. Thos. H. Burnham of Fort Francis, Ont., son of Mr. Z. Burnham, Otonabee, paid a brief visit to his home this week. During his stay in the city he met many of his former Peterborough friends, who were delighted to see him after a considerable absence. He is employed in a hardware store at Fort Frances, conducted by Mr. A. Stethem, formerly of this city. He was employed at one time on the staff of the Peterborough Hardware Company. Mr. Burnham states that Mr. Stethem has a good business and has a modern hardware store. Fort Frances is in New Ontario, and is a good hardware town. It is now booming and mining operations are going on close at hand.

LOCAL FISHING.

Is Better Than at the Various Summer Resorts.

From time to time reports have been printed in the local press that caught at one or other of the summer resorts. Some people have said that every time a bass or lunge is hooked at the resorts a notice is sent to the papers. This is not far from the truth either.

Yet right here in Peterborough many fish are caught every day. It is safe to say that more bass and lunge have been pulled out of Little Lake and the Otonabee river than at any resort on the Kawartha lakes. The local waters are full of them, and there are lots of small fish to take their place.

Inside the coffer dam for the new water works dam there are shoals of small bass that got inside before the last of the sheeting was put on. There are also a number of big fish in the enclosed water which the construction company's staff are figuring on getting after the water is pumped out.

Discuss Bylaws.

A meeting of the Board of Trade will be held on Tuesday evening to discuss the Smith street bridge and street extension bylaws which will go before the ratepayers on July 29. These are two very important matters and the meeting of the Board of Trade will give the public an excellent opportunity to hear all about them. It is expected that there will be a large attendance at the meeting.

DROWNED LIKE RATS IN TWO BRITISH WAR VESSELS

Vessels which were manoeuvering at night, were in collision and men were drowned in smashed submarines.

NO COMPLETE REPORT RECEIVED

A number of men went to bottom with vessels—Accident occurred near Lowestoft—Crew had no way of escape.

(Special to The Times.)

London, July 15.—A wireless message received at Portsmouth states that submarine torpedo boat C 11 was in collision late last night with an unknown steamship near Lowestoft, and was sunk with most of its crew of 16 men.

Another submarine boat, C 17, was also damaged in the collision but the crew were saved.

It is understood that the crew of C 11 had little chance to escape, being inside the submarine, and and nearly all went to the bottom with it.

No complete report of the accident has yet been received, but the latest advices from Sherness, whence assistance was sent, indicates that some members of the crew of C 11 were saved.

A failing tiny nerve—no larger than the finest silken thread—takes from the Heart its impulse, its power, its regularity. The stomach also has its hidden or inside nerve. It was Dr. Shoop who first told us it was wrong to drug a weak or failing Stomach, Heart or Kidneys. His tive—is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even for a few days soon become fully convinced of its wonderful merit. Anyway, don't drug the organ. Are You Using An Oily Liniment?

Beware of Any Thick, Greasy Liniment That Contains Acids and strong Ammonia.

No doctor would think of prescribing a greasy, thick, ammonia liniment— they can't penetrate and in consequence are unable to reach the source of pain. The best liniment for general household use is "Nerviline" which is sold under positive guarantee to cure pain.

Nerviline is sure to cure pain because it is immensely stronger than other liniments, because it is more penetrating, because it relieves the congested condition that excites pain because it restores circulation of the part. Now you understand why one person in three throughout the Dominion of Canada uses Nerviline. These people have tested it. They know how good it is, because in the hundred and one minor ailments that afflict us at odd times they found Nerviline always cured. Nerviline is an absolute antidote to pain, powerful, soothing, and certain in its action.

THE CROP OUTLOOK

Crop reports from the Northwest are most encouraging. From Calgary the news comes that considerable of the fall wheat was winter killed; but from all other parts of the Northwest present indications are of a yield much greater than was hoped for at the close of seeding. If the weather continues favorable, the Northwest farmers stand to reap a large crop, and to obtain good prices. The United States crop report, issued recently, was expected to be a very favorable one, and it was regarded on the Stock Exchange as something of a disappointment. It placed the winter wheat condition at 82.4 per cent., which compares with 80.7 a month ago and 80.6 a year ago. The spring wheat condition is placed at 92.7, which compares with 80.7 a month ago and 89.4 a year ago. The combined winter and spring wheat condition is shown at 86.5. The corn condition on July 1 is reported as 89.3 per cent. A year ago the corn crop condition was 82.8, in 1907, was 80.2 and in 1906 was 97.5. The United States Government estimates that only 15,062,000 bushels of wheat remained in the farmers' hands on July 1, as compared with 33,797,000 bushels on July 1, a year ago. Foreign reports go to show that the conditions, with the exception of Russia, are not favorable. Harvesting is going on in Roumania and Hungary, where the crop is said to be below the average. In Bulgaria the outlook is excellent. A general survey of the situation would lead to the conclusion that higher prices are likely to prevail than in the past. This year's crop may mean much for Canadian prosperity.

PROBATION FOR JUVENILE OFFENDERS

The most important element in the system of dealing with juvenile offenders in children's courts under the Juvenile Delinquent Act is probation. The duties of a probation officer are three-fold: before trial, at trial and after trial. As soon as a child is arrested a probation officer is at once notified. The first duty of the officer is to see the child as a friend get its confidence, and to hear its story. The school, home or place of employment is then visited, and any other place where information about the child's habits and history may be obtained. An effort is made to locate the cause of the wrong-doing. The home surroundings, the condition and disposition of the parents are ascertained, and placed at the disposal of the judge. In the court the probation officer appears as the friend but not the accuser of the child. What will be best for the child is represented to the judge. In the majority of cases the child will be released on probation in charge of the officer. The juge takes advantage of the occasion to make the strong an impression on the mind of the child as possible, and this is followed up by supplementary advice from the probation officer.

Then comes the most important range of duties of the probation officer, who seeks by personal influence to form the child into what it should be. The home is visited and occasionally a reform is wrought in the whole family as well as in the child. The school or place of employment is visited, and the co-operation of the teacher or employer secured. All this is done in kindness, but with the firm hand of the law behind it. The child and the parents know that, on the report of the officer, the child may be sent to the reform school, which adds greatly to the influence exerted. If all care fails the child is brought before the judge for commitment to an institution. If the home is so bad that reform is hopeless, commission to an institution is recommended.

Under the present system a judge or a magistrate before whom a child is convicted of an infraction of the criminal law has practically only two courses open to him, either to release on suspended sentence or to commit to an industrial school or similar institution. Probation, under a juvenile court supplies a third alternative, and one which appears to be vastly more effective than either of the others. Probation has been in voluntary operation in Ottawa since the 1st of August, 1906, and in Montreal since the 1st of January, 1908, and in both places has worked wonders. In Ottawa in the first year of probation, out of 240 delinquent children dealt with, only three had to be sent to industrial schools, and some remarkable cases are reported of the reform through the agency of the probation officer of even older boys who had already proceeded some length on the road to a criminal career. The system has proved of inveterate truancy, and almost invariable prelude to more serious delinquency. So much has this been the case that many of the Ottawa school principals says that it has solved the truancy problem. In Germany, Great Britain and several of the United States probation has

The Grand Trunk in London, England

The crowning importance of the Grand Trunk Railway System, the expansion and extension of business, has necessitated the building of a new Grand Trunk building in London Eng. The need of more room has been made all the more apparent since the Grand Trunk Pacific was projected. The Company has been fortunate enough to secure a site at No. 11-19 Cockspur Street, S. W., from the London County Council. Upon this site they have erected a splendid building. The Canadian Government Emigration offices are at Charing Cross, but a stone's throw from the Grand Trunk building. It is at the very hub of London. It is within five minutes of half a dozen leading Hotels and near the intake to the tube at Trafalgar Square Station. Motor buses pass the door every few seconds to all parts of London, North, South, East and West.

The inside furnishings of the new building are luxuriously complete: mail is picked up every hour of the day.

A noticeable feature of the building is the range of circular fronted balconies on the fifth floor in front of deeply recessed windows which are surmounted by a very effective heavy moulded and medallioned main cornice.

The carving on the front will, which includes the Coat of Arms of the Canadian provinces traversed by the Grand Trunk System, was executed by Mr. W. S. Frith. The graceful figures over the principal entrance, emblematic of travel by land and sea, are the work of Mr. Albert Drury, A. R. A.

The public offices entered from Cockspur Street, through the great central doorway, is a fine room forty feet long and eighteen feet high. The floor is marble, the walls are panelled in teak, with inlays of ebony and holly. In this room there is a magnificent freize, by Mr. Frank Brangwyn, A. R. A., which pictures Canada in the wild, hunting scenes: indian life; the meeting of the pathfinder— the engineer—with the indian chief, and finally the civilizing influence of the railway and the white man upon the red man's country.

The new Offices were opened on Dominion Day, and hereafter the European Traffic Department of the Grand Trunk Railway System and the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway will occupy these new premises, which have already become one of the sights to be seen in London.

Fairly Warned.

The meek and lowly drug clerk had just proposed to the fair soubrette who presided over the soda fountain.

"Fade away," murmured the fair fizz water dispenser. "No wedding bells for you and the understand."

"You love another?" he queried.

"S'pose I do," she retorted. "What's it to you, little boy?"

"Oh, nothing," he said. "But you are making the mistake of your life in turning me down and allowing them to fool you with 'something just as good.'"

BOOMING NOVA SCOTIA.

Eastern Province is Taking Steps to Secure Immigrants.

The Land of Evangeline, immortalised by Longfellow, or "New Scotland," with its remarkable agricultural and pastoral resources, is, figuratively speaking, to be brought much nearer to the Mother Country. For many years the great tide of immigration has been flowing past the Acadian shores, but now a portion of that stream is happily being diverted into Nova Scotian channels.

The Government of Nova Scotia desires to attract settlers for her lands because of the opportunities that lie within her bounds for all who are willing to work. A province rich in natural resources, fruitful in agricultural yield, healthful in climate, possessing good markets, and unsurpassed in scenic attractions Nova Scotians do not hesitate to proclaim her advantages. Railways radiate in nearly every direction, and all the accessories of modern civilization are readily to hand. Nova Scotians are on the pathway of the world's commerce, and inhabit the nearest of the Canadian provinces to Great Britain.

With the object of enlightening the people of the rural districts of the British Isles on the attractions and resources of the country, the Nova Scotia Government have despatched to London the Rev. Maclean Goldie, who is at present arranging a comprehensive series of illustrated lectures on the all-important subject of immigration. Mr. Goldie, it may be stated, has recently carried out a successful organization on behalf of the Church of England in Canada, and has had a large experience in dealing with immigrants. Outstanding features of his work have been the establishment of a system of tracing all the Church people to their destinations, thus keeping them in continuous touch with the Church; the creation of a labor bureau, which has enabled him successfully to place hundreds of young men as well as married men with families in suitable and satisfactory situations, and the perfecting at the port of Halifax of a system which tabulates all the lands available for settlement in Canada, which has proved of great advantage to those landing in Nova Scotia, with a view of acquiring homesteads.

Sir Hugh and the Epidemic.

Years ago the energy and courage of Sir Hugh Graham, proprietor of The Montreal Star, played a leading part in saving Montreal from the greatest disaster that ever threatened her. This was in 1885, when smallpox seemed to hold the city hopelessly in its grasp.

The city authorities were paralyzed and helpless. There was no adequate place in which to isolate the victims, many people refused to be vaccinated, and, in many cases, frightened relatives refused to let their sick be taken from their homes.

Sir Hugh promptly organized a demonstration at the City Hall. A civic health committee, consisting of himself and six associates, was formed, and an army of vaccinators and isolators was at once set to work.

But a suitable place for isolation on a large scale was still lacking, and Sir Hugh, perceiving that the Exhibition buildings were the only available structures, secured a requisition to call out the troops, and marched at their head to the Exhibition grounds.

The gates were locked and barred against them; but Sir Hugh himself climbed the high fence, wrenched the fastenings from the gates, and admitted the troops.

Within twenty-four hours the great building had become an isolation hospital, with a corps of nursing nuns in charge, and a procession of smallpox patients being carried into it.

MELVILLE

A New Star Rising In The Last West

If you know the story of this Coming City, it's wonderful growth and great future, you are aware of the exceptionally large profit to be made by investing NOW in a few business and residential lots.

A third Branch Line is now being surveyed—from Melville to Prince Albert. This means three Branch Lines of the Grand Trunk Pacific with headquarters at Melville, the three of which will be well under way before next winter. The Saskatchewan Government's guarantee of Bonds for these Lines is an assurance that they will be completed as soon as money can do it.

Besides being the Chief Divisional Point and Operating Pivot of the Prairie Division, Melville is the headquarters for the most important of the Western proposed Branches, via:

1st—To Hudson Bay.
2nd—To Regina and the American Boundary through the coal district, with air lines to Moose Jaw and Brandon.
3rd—To Prince Albert and the lumber district of the North eventually to be extended beyond to the new lands yet unexplored.

The Canadian Northern Railway will eventually run a Line through Melville, from North Portal to their Prince Albert Line. James J. Hill's Great Northern Railway will reach Melville over the G. T. P. American Line, and will also likely have its own Line into Melville in the near future.

Can you realize all the future of Melville?

DR. PELKEY

Consumption Cured

And all Other Lung and Kidney Troubles

By the Wonderful Discovery made by a Canadian Doctor

Dr. Pelkey, a Canadian Physician, holding medical certificates in France, United States and Mexico, has made a discovery that promises to be the greatest boon yet given to humanity.

His great Consumption Cure is applied by means of an inhaler, the ingredients for which are contained in a tank, and the very first use made of it by the patient brings immediate relief, followed quickly by permanent cure. These inhalers are not sold to the people, but are placed in the home until they are not further needed, and then taken away.

Dr. Pelkey is exhibiting the invention, which is called the Pelkey Inhaler, throughout the country. The inhaler is first a platinum tank, divided into 26 compartments, into which various chemicals and drugs are placed. Outside these compartments cold water is placed. The action of the cold water causes a vaporous gas to rise into an eight-part evaporator at the top, where it is purified and forced through tubes for inhalation. The gas forms pure oxygen, tasteless, and odorless, and the patient inhales this. So healing is its effect that it will almost immediately stop a tuberculosis cough.

Most wonderful of all is the fact that Dr. Pelkey offers to treat his patients with the inhaler free of charge. The only thing for which he charges is a blood-purifier and building-up tonic, which he insists upon the patient's taking. He will even allow the person undergoing the treatment to take home the tank with him and be treated there.

Dr. Pelky has been for 17 years in Mexico and Central and South America. He has Government certificates from Mexico, Brazil, New Mexico and Canada and many Latin-American republics, testifying to cures wrought by him with the inhaler. One certificate states that nearly half a troop of Mexican soldiers and American soldiers and Government officials of Montreal were cured under his treatment. Another is signed by President Diaz, of Mexico, himself, whom Dr. Pelkey cured. Dr. Pelkey can show hundreds of other testimonials of permanent people of Ottawa, who were cured of lung troubles and kidney troubles after suffering for five years.

Write letters, fully describing your trouble to The Great Specific Co., or to Ottawa, Ont.

THE FISHER AT HOME

HABITS OF PENNANT'S MARTEN IN ALGONQUIN PARK.

Ranger Mark Robinson Describes Animal Which Preys Upon Porcupines, Fish, and Small Game—He Is a Keen Hunter and Keeps the Food Supply Scarce—How He Got His Name Is a Mystery.

The fisher, Pekan, or Pennant's marten, is among the largest of American marten, says Forest Ranger Mark Robinson of Algonquin Park in Toronto Saturday Night. The general color is brown or black, varying greatly according to age and season. The fur is darker below than above, which is contrary to rule in other animals. Its average length is from 24 to 30 inches, the animal weighing from 12 to 20 pounds. A distinguishing feature of the fisher is its tail which, tapering from a bushy appearance at the body to a pointed end, is from twelve to twenty inches in length.

In general appearance the fisher is stouter and more powerful than most animals of this genus (the exception being the wolverine). The ears are low and broad at the base. Their limbs are powerful, their feet being large and covered with thick coat of fur and armed with strong curved claws. The fur is coarser and longer than in other martens, consequently not so valuable. The fisher is a great traveler and rapid in his movements, and is a puzzle to a person who undertakes to follow his trail. Traveling for perhaps a mile on the ground, he will suddenly take to the trees, passing from one to another for a considerable distance, then coming to the ground again. If there is snow of sufficient depth he may burrow underneath for several feet to suddenly appear beside an old log or tree which perhaps he may again climb.

Fishers are very active climbers, and are credited with being able to capture most of the smaller animals such as squirrels and pine marten, etc., on the trees. They are very destructive to fawns, young beaver, muskrats, rabbits, partridge, and birds and their nests. They appear to have a special liking for porcupines. These they kill with ease during the winter months by routing porky from his den or capturing him when out feeding. When overtaken, porky curls himself up, quills all set, in his usual mode of defence. The fisher simply burrows into the snow, seizing porky from underneath. All is over in a couple of minutes except the feast.

Many are at a loss to understand how the fisher escapes the effects of porcupine quills. A close examination of the pelt of an old fisher during the skinning process will show that he is possessed of a second skin, through which the quills will not penetrate, their points breaking off and doing the fisher no harm.

Passing a small lake one day last December, I saw an unusually large porcupine traveling across the ice at a greater speed than I believed it possible for one of these animals to travel. Being curious to learn the cause, I started to investigate, and found the track of an ordinary-sized fisher in pursuit. Seeing me, he had evidently departed in haste. I followed the footprints and found he had driven porky out of his rocky den after what appeared (from the footprints) to have been a very exciting time.

The fisher is very fond of fish, and is said to catch a few suckers in the spring in much the same manner as the bear. Yet he is not a water animal, as his name implies. The many bushmen and trappers with whom I have discussed the habits of the fisher all declare he is a land animal in every respect, and that he got his name from his cunning and ability to plunder the trappers' trap pens when baited with fish. He is said to be second only to his cousin, the wolverine, in destruction on a trapper's line of traps, and is very keen-scented, which enables him to find the many feeding places of the otter, where he goes occasionally to pick up any scraps of fish that should chance to be left on the ice or shore.

Should wolves kill a deer within a mile or two of the section fishers frequent, Mr. Fisher will be there to dispute with the foxes over the spoil left by the wolves. There is no danger of any species of the smaller kinds of game becoming overcrowded in sections where the fisher is plentiful.

I have noticed on several occasions blue jays scolding furiously. On investigation I found nothing but fresh tracks of a fisher to show for their noise. Evidently they have a just quarrel with him.

I am under the impression that the fisher prefers hunting at night. However, all I have to show for this theory on my part is the amount of fresh tracks a person will see in the early morning where none were to be seen the day previous at evening. I have found that the fisher prefers dry, swampy, heavily-timbered land, with occasional hardwood ridges running through it. In sections of this kind in the park they are very plentiful.

Wagon Loads of Wounded.

Red cross wagons dashing madly across Niagara Common and up the main street of the town a few days ago, set a thousand tongues a-wagging.

"Guess somebody's hurt," said one.

"Must be half a dozen men. Perhaps one of the guns exploded," opined another.

"Poor fellows, sun struck," was still another guess.

Pretty soon, however, the ambulance wagons came back—each laden down to the springs with a very lively bunch of patients, all in summery frocks and pretty dresses. They were bound for Gen. Cotton's reception in the Headquarters' lawn.

"Nice to ride in an ambulance when you're not sick, isn't it?" remarked one fair receptionite.

Contentment.

Who lives for power must trample joy.
Who lives for fame stakes all for toy.

And sleep the sleep of Unnatural History.

A hare and a rabbit appear much the same—
They are, both of them, timid, yet both of them game—
But a hare may be English and full of affright,
While a rabbit is Welsh and is eaten at night.

One on the Policeman.

Among the deeply interested people who crowded about St. Andrew's Church, Toronto, on the day of the wedding of Rev. T. Crawford Brown and Miss Melvin-Jones, was a stout, short, good-natured Scotch woman.

The good lady referred to made several attempts to get close enough to the church door to have a good view of what was going on. She tried to get through the crowd at different points, and at last she made a quiet, but determined attempt to scale the church steps. The old lady's purpose might have been achieved had it not been for a policeman who had watched her attempts to get near the narrow space reserved for the bridal procession from the church to the curb. The "Bobby" pushed her back with the rest of the crowd. Plainly she was disgusted, and, with a look of utmost scorn, she at once excused her own action and called down the blue-coat by saying:

"Weel, mon, were ye never wed yersel'?"

The Troubles of a Hostess.

Which is the greater affliction to a hostess—the raw, blundering servant, or the unsophisticated guest?

A Montreal lady who had invited guests for a rather large luncheon, had the misfortune to lose an experienced maid, and was compelled to break in a substitute on very short notice to wait on the party. She coached the new arrival assiduously and hoped for the best. The luncheon had just begun when the hostess called the new girl to her and quietly remarked: "Mary, you've forgotten the bread." Mary went out of the room and returned with a loaf in one hand and a knife extended in the other, calling out: "Who's for bread?"

The Man in the Rain.

"Men," said a fashionable tailor, "are much more particular about their clothes than women, though few people realize this fact. Take a man in a light gray suit caught in a shower. Does he go blithely on, heedless of the elements? No. He seeks the nearest shelter and remains there till the downpour has stopped absolutely. But it is his straw hat that a man takes most care to preserve. I have seen men in pouring torrents hurrying along bareheaded, their straw hats carefully concealed beneath their coats. Did you ever see a woman go to those lengths? Often a man caught in a shower carries his hat sort of casually at arm's length at his side, as if he was doing it unconsciously, don't you know. And how often do we see them holding newspapers over their hats. Ever see a woman do that? No. Somehow women seem to be able to go through a shower without making conspicuous figures of themselves. They are always serene, never troubled, and they never seem to get as wet as men do."—London Answers.

Nothing in the way of a cough is quite so annoying as a tickling, teasing, wheezing, bronchial Cough. The quickest relief comes perhaps from a prescription known to Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And besides, it is so thoroughly harmless that mothers give it with perfect safety even to the youngest babies. The tender leaves of a simple mountain shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its remarkable curative effect. It is truly a most certain and trustworthy prescription. Sold by all dealers.

A WONDERFUL BRIDGE.

First Train Run Over Huge Viaduct at Lethbridge.

Recently a great delegation of prominent business men of Winnipeg toured the entire Canadian west promoting interest in the proposed Canadian Exposition to be held in that city in 1912, as a celebration of the centennial anniversary of the arrival of the first contingent of Selkirk settlers upon the banks of the Red River, who thus became the real pioneers of western settlement and development which astonished the world in later years. During the visit of the delegation to the thriving young city of Lethbridge, the capital of sunny southern Alberta, the program of the reception planned by the citizens contained the unique feature of a trip over the great viaduct which the C P R is building across the Belly River at that point. Through the courtesy of the company the special train in which the delegation traveled was run out on the bridge, and they thus had the distinction of being the first passengers on this wonderful triumph of engineering, locally designated the "eighth wonder of the world."

This immense bridge was necessitated by the determination of the C P R to construct a air line from Lethbridge to Macleod and thence to the coal fields of the Crow's Nest, and as a link in their second great transcontinental which will ultimately parallel the boundary. The old line which this cut-off will replace was very circuitous, and crossed between twenty and thirty trestles—a constant source of danger to traffic, and also a constant expense—in the comparatively short distance between Lethbridge and Macleod.

The new bridge is not yet ready for actual traffic, but the permanent tracks will be laid over it early in August, after two years' work by the engineers and an army of men. The last of the 65 big steel towers upon which the bridge rests is now completed, and the great goblin of the foothills will then have assumed its definite shape. Twenty-four million pounds of steel have been consumed in its ribs and girders, every one of which, so far as possible, has been manufactured in Canada; and before the last bolt is riveted this vast structure, 5,327 feet in length, will have cost the railway nearly two million dollars. In spit of the immensity of the work and the omnipresent dangers, only one of the steel workers, those intrepid cowboys of the skies, lost his life in its erection. This fatality occurred a few weeks ago, when one of them slipped while working near the top of a tower and went crashing down hundreds of feet to the valley below. Although he caught a cable on his descent and swung momentarily there, he lost his hold, crashed to the earth, and when his mangled body was picked up every bone in it was broken.

A Canadian Actress.

It was in a log-hut in Canada that Miss Lena Ashwell, the London actress, cherished her first aspirations for the stage. Many years later she found herself in London, and tried to find the opening she coveted. For a whole year she tramped about from stage door to stage door before she eventually succeeded in discovering a manager who was willing to give her a chance, and when at length she did obtain a part her memory was not unduly taxed in learning it. The piece was called the "The Pharisee," it was performed at the Grand Theatre, Islington, her role was that of a young servant, and she had precisely four words to say—namely, "Did you ring, sir?"

"FROM INKLETS"

Some time ago we heard a number of expert uses of INK discussing the relative merits of the various Brands of WRITING INKS, especially for Commercial and Mercantile use, and the unanimous conclusion was that there was not a better INK for this purpose than KEARNS'. We suppose the KEARNS INK COMPANY could sell two or three times its present output; provided they would permit the amount of their sales to take precedence over the quality of their INK, which they guard with the most zealous care. QUAINT LITTLE METIS.

Romance and Fascination Clings to Quebec Fishing Village.

The little village of Metis, near Rimouski, Quebec, has a quiet fascination of its own, says a writer in The Toronto Globe. In the back concessions dwell French-Canadians, but in the vicinity of the sea they are Scotch Methodists, a pious, steady and industrious population. It is too far for excursions or for brief visits; those who come settle down for a time. It is an ideal spot for children, as the level beach is perfectly safe, and there is no village near to render it uncleanly. Many of the cottages are occupied by college professors from Montreal and points further west. When it is fine and warm nothing more perfect than the atmosphere can be imagined. To lie on the summit of a great rock that has been heated in the sun, to listen to the ripple of the waves and breathe the aroma of the sea, is something to dream of on cheerless winter days.

The gulf at Metis is 40 miles wide; the stately ships passing up and down afford an interesting variety. The enchanting mirage is often visible, it is not unusual to perceive trees, fields and rocks from the opposite shore outlined in the sky appear close at hand. There are delightful walks and drives; the Falls at Grand Metis, 12 miles distant, afford an ideal spot for picnics, and the Murray Falls, though smaller, are also lovely.

These peaceful shores are haunted by grim memories. All visitors climb Mount Misery, from whose summits one can look far out to sea, the place has gained its name from the number of boats which have been wrecked at the foot of the hill. The writer was once puzzled by the name of a rocky, precipitous cove called by the inhabitants "Lancy Murts," until told that this was a corruption of l'Anse des Morts (Cove of the Dead), because the bodies of so many shipwrecked mariners had drifted in there. In the early forties a large emigrant ship was dashed to pieces on the rocks, and but few of its weight of human souls were saved. A young Scotchman came out to make a home in the new world; his betrothed, detained by the illness of her mother, was to join him later. She was on board the wrecked vessel; in trying to save her he was drowned. The fishermen claim that during violent tempests the faithful lovers can still be seen battling with the cruel waves.

A Metis fishing boat once came across a large octopus which had drifted from far-away southern seas. Fastening its tentacles on to the boat, it seemed to be steadily drawing the craft down. Fortunately one of her crew was provided with an axe, with which he hacked off as many of the clutching arms as he could reach. The body was recovered and was placed in a museum, but a belief still lingers that the devil in person once visited respectable Metis.

Jap Ships at Vancouver.

On Monday, May 10, the Japanese gunboats Soya and Aso dropped anchor in Vancouver harbor. Both ships were originally built and owned by the Russian Government. They are armored cruisers of the second class, and at the breaking out of the Russo-Japan war were in the harbor of Chemulpo, Korea. On the day war was declared a number of Japanese war vessels appeared off the harbor, and the Russian commander received a formal communication from the Japanese commander to surrender immediately. Instead of yielding to this demand, the ships were prepared for action, and, steaming out of the harbor, engaged in the first naval battle of the war. Their defeat was not in question from the first, and it took but half an hour to put them out of fighting order. They retreated in a battered condition to the harbor, and sank at their anchorage. Under the Russian flag these ships were known as the Korietz and Varyag. Before the completion of the war the vessels were raised, refitted and helped fight under the banner of the Rising Sun.

May Become Premier.

One of the best posted men on political affairs in Canada, Alex. Smith, former Liberal organizer, states that there is a great future ahead of W. L. Mackenzie King, and that it was with this view that Sir Wilfrid Laurier has made him a member of his Government. Successful as Mr King has been up to the present, Mr Smith states it is doubtful if he would at this early stage of his Parliamentary career, and at the age of thirty-four, be a member of the Cabinet unless the future of which Mr King gives high promise held strong sway on the mind and judgment of Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

"There is no doubt," said Mr Smith, "that in making his choice of Minister of Labor, Sir Wilfrid had in view his own career, and particularly that portion of it at the time Alexander Mackenzie invited him to a seat in his Cabinet at the age of thirty-five. By choosing young Laurier, Alexander Mackenzie enhanced and enriched the Liberal party, and with similar hopes Sir Wilfrid has now chosen Mr Mackenzie King."

Opening Up Northern Ontario.

Mr. Frank Moberly, the railway engineer, is a firm believer in the future of Far Northern Ontario, writes our Toronto correspondent. For three years he has successfully conducted agricultural experiments on a clearing in the woods 500 miles north of Toronto. Wheat, oats, barley, and twenty-three different kinds of vegetables were successfully grown, and Mr Moberly is confident that the great Northern "clay belt" penetrated by the Ontario Government Railway and the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway possesses immense agricultural possibilities. The clay belt contains some 16,000,000 acres, and is made up of wooded country similar to that cleared by the early settlers of older Ontario fifty years ago.

Exit the Coal Bin.

As the municipal natural gas system supplies the entire city of Medicine Hat, Alberta, neither the residential nor manufacturing parts are longer use coal in any form.

Staterooms and Portholes.

An experienced traveler warns the uninitiated against paying from $5 to $10 extra for an outside stateroom on ocean liners. The inside rooms she has found to be perfectly comfortable and perfectly ventilated, and the portholes in the outside ones she considers a doubtful advantage. "They are kept locked," she says, "most of the time unless the weather is very pleasant, and even in calm weather they sometimes ship a deluge of salt water. Dirty water, too, swept from a deck above by the cleaners, may pour into a porthole of a room below, and the noise from the deck is annoying." Why, then should one pay extra for a porthole?"

THE BELL MEMORIAL.

Toronto Sculpter's Work Surpassed All That Was Shown.

The successful design for the Bell Memorial at Brantford is particularly interesting, not only as being the the work of a Toronto artist, but also on account of its radical departure from the conventional type of such monuments. As has already been announced, Mr. Walter S. Allward, of Toronto, bore away the palm from such men as Hill, Hebert, and Hamilton McCarthy, of Montreal, Partridge, of New York, and Pausch, of Buffalo. But the accounts so far published give but scanty information as to the nature and meaning of the design, whose superiority was so marked as to lead Partridge, one of the contestants, to state that it was the only one for the purpose, and that there was hardly any use of his leaving his model at all.

The design consists of a central panel carved in low relief and two figures heroic in size, which stand at the extreme ends of the monument, thus suggesting wide distances. And this in fact is the key-note of the whole design, this suggestion of great intervals across which man sends his voice. One of the large figures is speaking and the other listens, and this with the intimation of distance gives the strikingly simple and dignified motive of the design. It is carried out with a little fuller detail in the carvings on the panel. There a half recumbent figure representing Man sends forth a troop of various messages across a rounded surface, which again conveys the idea of great distance. These messages are represented by shadowy figures depicting the various messages of joy and sorrow and anger and love. Over the recumbent figure of Man hovers a cloudlike, dimly descried form, whose hand touches his with a suggestion of a wire, and which reaches forward in a gesture of boundless power. Thus is evidently the spirit of Electricity which enables Man to send forth his messages over the rounded earth.

Mr. Allward, the author of this excellent design, is still a young man, being only thirty-three years of age, but he has already done some very fine work, among which might be mentioned the Simcoe and Mowat monuments in Toronto, and the Nicholas Flood Davin memorial in Ottawa. Some of his later achievements are the design for the South African monument, the Macdonald statue to be erected in Queen's Park, Toronto, and the Baldyin Lafontaine monument to be placed before the House of Parliament, Ottawa. This last is an especially fine design, and shows the manner in which his work has gone on broadening in scope and gaining in simplicity and dignity. There is every reason to look for big things from this young Toronto artist, who, though almost entirely self-taught, has already such a fine record of accomplishment behind him.

Trouble Over a Veil.

"I have decided to forswear all kinds and conditions of floating fluttering veils henceforth and forever more," announced an attractive young Toronto matron recently.

"Why?" gasped her feminine audience. "They are as fashionable as ever."

"Not for me," responded the Y.T. M., "since my experience of the other day. I was on a Yonge street car, and there was a strong north wind which kept blowing the ends of my veil over my shoulder. Time after time I put it back, on each occasion getting a little more exasperated. When it came over for about the hundredth time, giving me a stinging swipe in the eye, I grabbed it angrily and drawing it down firmly, stuffed the end under my arm. At this juncture there came a squeal from the seat behind me, and a vinegary feminine voice said, 'Madam, what are you trying to do with my veil?'

"I turned hastily to meet the malevolent gaze of a majestic individual whose hat was perched rakishly on the extreme limit of her back hair, while with speechless mortification I realised that the veil depending from it was still clutched in my guilty hand."

Judge McKeown and Judge Barry.

The recent appointments to the supreme court bench of New Brunswick represent the orange and the green. Judge McKeown is prominent among those who walk on the Twelfth, and Judge Barry is the first English-speaking Catholic who has been a supreme court judge, although the province is one-third Catholic. New Brunswick has a divorce court, and Judge McKeown will preside over it.

Both the new judges are relatively young men, Judge Barry being just over fifty, and his confrere several years on the sunny side of it. Both are amiable men, of rather more than average legal ability, and the worst that can be said of Judge McKeown is that he has been in politics, while Judge Barry is free even from that reproach.

Young Man's Town.

Perhaps the secret of Haileybury's aggressiveness is the fact that it is a young man's town. No town in the country can boast of so many young men engaged in active business for themselves as this silver city. The municipal officers, bank managers, proprietors of the large stores, Government officials, mine owners, officers and directors of the navigation companies, and a long list of others too numerous to mention, are, with a few exceptions, all young men whose ages range from 19 to 35 years. Haileybury has more enterprise and energy behind it than any other town of its size in the great Dominion, according to many visitors, and that it takes precedence over a large number of towns that boast a greater population.

Railway Amalgamation.

An application is being made to the Dominion Railway Commissioners for the amalgamation of the Alberta Midland Railway with the C.N.R. This line will be built to establish communications between Calgary and Edmonton, and between Calgary, Lethbridge, and Macleod, and will be approximately 500 miles long.

Nothing in the way of a cough is quite so annoying as a tickling, teasing, wheezing, bronchial Cough. The quickest relief comes perhaps from a prescription known to Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And besides, it is so thoroughly harmless that mothers give it with perfect safety even to the youngest babies. The tender leaves of a simple mountain shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its remarkable curative effect. It is truly a most certain and trustworthy prescription. Sold by all dealers.

Battle of Stony Creek.

This incident in the war of 1512-14 is about to be commemorated by the erection of a monument. A few weeks ago the Countess Grey turned the first sod for this memorial.

The battle itself was fought in 1813. Towards the end of May the American fleet again ascended the lake, this time with intent to capture Fort George. The British general, Vincent, despairing of holding out against a combined assault by sea and land, blew up the works (May 27, 1813) and retreated; first to Queenston Heights and, then, to Burlington Heights. He was pursued by a large body of troops under Generals Chandler and Winder, who, on the night of June 5, pitched camp on the east side of Stoney Creek, a few miles from Vincent's position. Here Adjutant-General Harvey made a night attack upon them. In the confused melee that followed both the American generals were captured. Next morning the American army retreated. In a short time the British and Canadian forces reoccupied all the frontier forts.

Minor and Crescendo.

Persons of "some class" in the military camp are the bandsmen. For dignity and authority some of these musical gentlemen have even the officers of the Musical Protective Association beaten to a glorious finish.

The other evening at Niagara camp a couple of red coats tarried long in the town, and were overtaken by the picquet. It was long past the hour of 10.15, at which time all good soldiers are presumed to be within tents. The lieutenant of the picquet firmly ordered the two stragglers to make their way home.

"Not on your life," said one of them.

"Do you know who I am?" said the lieutenant.

"Nope," was the nonchalant reply. "Who are you?"

"I'm the lieutenant of the picquet."

"Is that all?" said the other, with quite a superior air. "I'm a bandsman of the 29th Regiment."

And it took some argument before they wheeled about and grumbling started towards the camp.

ANOTHER BIG STRIKE.

New York Central Faces Dangerous Strike.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 15.—Orders given by the New York Central officials to move the headquarters of the Pittsburg & Lake Erie Railroad train-running workmen from McKee's Rocks to Newel, Pa., a distance of 15 miles, will on Monday next result in a complete tie-up of the Pittsburg end of the New York Central, according to an ultimatum handed up by the engineers and firemen to the officials. The officials are seriously considering the advisability of countermanding the order, and it was at the special request of the Pittsburg & Lake Erie officials that the strike was not declared for today.

The engineers and firemen started the trouble. The McKees Rocks headquarters for trainmen is just outside Pittsburg on the main line, and has been there since the road was first built, and many of the 2000 workmen own their own homes there. They claim that they will lose a great deal of money should they be forced to move their place of residence.

Should the strike be declared, the workmen claim there will be uncovered a scandal by them that certain railroad officials have planned for the past five years to make a landkilling at Newell, Pa., buying up property at that time for a song and now holding out homes to their men at exorbitant rates.

Glorious Fourth Death Increase.

Chicago, Ill., July 15.—Five more deaths, due to tetanus, as a result of the Fourth of July celebration, were reported throughout the country yesterday. This brings the total deaths due to the observance of Independence Day, from all causes, up to 114.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

They Want Ralph Connor.

A private communication received in Montreal the other day states that it is extremely probable that the Rev. C. W. Gordon, better known as Ralph Connor, will leave Canada shortly to take a pastorate in New York city, at a salary of $12,000 per annum.

The famous Canadian divine and author has already been approached by the representatives of the St. Nicholas Collegiate Church, of New York, and a formal call to Dr. Gordon to take over the pastorate of that church will be extended in the course of a few days. St. Nicholas Church is situated on Fifth Avenue, New York, and is one of four collegiate churches, the others being the Marble Collegiate, the Madison Avenue and the church in Harlem. The corporation behind these churches possesses some of the most valuable real estate in New York, and the amounts of money at its disposal are enormous. It is estimated that the St. Nicholas Church property alone is worth a million and a half of dollars.

Prominent Presbyterians, both in Montreal and in Winnipeg, believe that Dr. Gordon's association with the Canadian Northwest and the Canadian church is too strong for anything to tempt him away to the United States. On the other hand there is no doubt that apart altogether from the large salary that is offered, the pastorate of this fashionable New York church is a most attractive one, and one that greatly appeals to a man of ambition, as it offers one of the highest positions in the Presbyterian church in the world.

Found Beast's Lair.

A wild animal hunt, a la Roosevelt, was participated in recently by a score of sturdy farmers from the vicinity of Sweadburg, Ont., who made a determined though unsuccessful attempt to locate a strange animal that has been making its home in a big swamp in the district for several weeks. The farmers gathered in a body and descended upon the swamp armed with rifles and shot guns and accompanied by dogs. They divided into squads and thoroughly and systematically searched every foot of the swamp, but the animal was not located. They, however, found his lair, which was a hole carefully secluded under some thick bushes and large enough to contain comfortably several men, and was surrounded by the bones of smaller animals he had killed.

The swamp was found to be full of tracks made by the wandering visitor, which are described by members of the party as being about as large as a man's hand. The hunters were a little diffident over going about singly, not knowing the nature of the beast they might meet at any minute.

One farmer, who saw the animal, describes it as being fully six feet in length and proportionately built. He believes it is either a lynx or a panther.

Soreness of the muscles, whether induced by violent exercise or injury is quickly relieved by the free application of Chamberlain's Liniment. This liniment is equally valuable for muscular rheumatism, and always affords quick relief.

Mr. Reuben Wood of Almeda, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Bell this week.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

Western Canada Wood Pulp & Paper Co. Ltd.

HEAD OFFICE, 638 VIEW ST. VICTORIA, B. C.

Plant Now Under Course of Erection at Quatsina Sound, Vancouver Island.

Asset.

The company have acquired 25,600 acres of Pulp Land on Quatsino Sound, Vancouver Island.

Water Power

In addition to the vast Pulp Limits acquired, the company have also secured a 20,000 inch water record on Marble Creek, at Quatsino Sound, capable of developing from 10,000 to 15,000 h.p. This creek derives its source from three lakes 20 miles in length and is thus permanent the year round.

Capacity of Plant

The plant when fully complete will have a capacity of 600 tons of news and wrapping per week. we are rushing the work along and feel confident that we will have the pulp plant with a weekly capacity of 100 tons in operation by December 1st of this year.

Cost of Manufacture

With our tremendous pulp limits, which enable us to secure our pulp wood at a nominal figure, and splendid water power, the cost of manufacture of news and wrapping paper should not exceed $3,000 per ton. At present news is selling in British Columbia at $60.00 per ton. The freight rate in carload lots from Ontario and Quebec being $17.00 per ton.

Local Markets

The local market of the company extends east a thousand miles to Moose Jaw and tributary region. Within the above territory the annual consumption of paper is estimated at a thousand tons exclusive of that used by printers and newspapers. The five daily papers at Victoria and Vancouver alone consume over 400 carloads of paper per year.

Foreign Markets

The foreign markets of the company consist of China, Japan, New Zealand, Australia, Hawaii and the Philippines. In 1908 the above countries imported over $30,000,000 worth of wood pulp and paper, principally from Norway, Sweden ,Germany ,Eastern United States and Eastern Canada.

Freight Rates to Orient

A freight rate of from $3.00 to $5.00 per ton can be secured from British Columbia to China, Japan, New Zealand and Australia ,on wood pulp and paper as against a rate of $7.00 to $15.00 per ton on the same commodities from Eastern Canada and Europe. Being from 2,000 to 5,000 miles nearer the Oriental market than Eastern Canada or European mills we are not only able to secure a much lower freight rate, but also a lower insurance rate.

Natural Advantages of British Columbia

News and wrapping paper are manufactured principally from Spruce, Hemlock, Balsam and Larch wood, one ton of chemical wood pulp requires approximately two cords of four foot wood. At present Spruce and Hemlock wood is worth from $5.00 to $9.00 per cord, in Eastern Canada; our facilities enable us to secure it at less than $3.00 per cord. In 1908 the American mills were obliged to pay from $9.00 to $12.00 per cord.

Progress of Work

We are proceeding as fast as possible with the work. The erection of the plant has been placed under the exclusive supervision of Mr. Charles B. Pride, of Appleton, Wis., one of the most distinguished authorities on the erection of pulp and paper mills in the United States,having built more than fifty of the leading mills of the country and he is confident at being able to have the pulp mill in operation by December 1st of this year.

of Stock

In offering the preferred stock of this corporation, we do so with a feeling that it is the best industrial stock ever offered for subscription in Western Canada. At present it is impossible to buy stock in the majority of the operating mills of Canada and there is no question but that inside of 18 months the stock of this corporation will be selling at a handsome premium; remember the time to buy stock in any corporation is six months before a wheel has been turned, not after it is in operation.

Profits in Pulp and Paper Manufacture

No industry, not even mining itself, has yielded so large and permanent dividends as the manufacture of Wood Pulp and Paper, and there is no reason why the mill which we are now erecting should not pay at least 25 per cent. annual dividends. Under much less favorable conditions, the Eastern Canadian and English mills are paying from 10 to 25 per cent. With our natural advantages, we should be able to make a profit of approximately $15.00 per ton on news paper, $30.00 per ton on Wrapping paper, and $45.00 per ton on box board and pulp board. The Pacific Coast mills of the United States are now making a net profit, after deducting depreciation, operating expenses, bonds, & etc., of approximately $25.00 per ton on wrapping and $45.00 per ton on box and pulp boards, and this after paying from $6.00 to $8.00 per cord for wood. In 1908 the Laurentide Paper Co. showed a profit of $251,465. The Keller-Partington Pulp and Paper Co. showed a gross profit last year of $1,282,395. The official United States Government Report, issued at Washington, D. C., July 25th, 1907, Bulletin 80, showed that the mills of the State of Oregon made a profit of 20 2-3 per cent, of the value of goods over all expenses, of 19 per cent. The gross profits of the International PaPer Co., for the year ending June 30th, 1908, amounted to $1,435,916.

Under date of February 16th, 1908, Mr. Herman Ridder, President of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, filed charges against the Paper Trust of the United States, and in his disposition to Hon. Chas. J. Bonaparte, Attorney-General of the United States, said:

"News print paper mills that are not entirely modern are now making paper at figures that show a profit of more than $20.00 per ton on the paper prices just announced by the International Paper Co., $32.00 per ton. In other words, for paper delivered, say, in New York, up-to-date mills are making a profit of more than 60 per cent. on the cost of manufacture, delivery and storage, and they are making a profit of more than 40 per cent. upon a reasonable allowance for the capital required for a modern plant."

With our close proximity to the Oriental market, there is no reason why we should not make, conservatively, 10 per cent. more dividends than the Eastern Canadian or American Mills. In 1908, Australia imported over 60,000 tons of News principally from Eastern Canada and Europe. Why should we let this great volume of paper go to Eastern Canada, Eastern United States, and Europe, when we are in a position to control it ourselves? Every dollar of paper used in the Orient should be furnished from Western Canada. With sufficient mills to produce the goods, what country is in a better position to control the trade of the Orient than British Columbia. Not only are we able to manufacture News and Wrapping Paper from $2.00 to $3.00 per ton lower than Eastern Canada and American mills, but we are from 2,000 to 3,000 miles nearer the great Oriental markets. The demand for News and Wrapping Paper is gradually increasing, and, within ten years, China, Japan, Australia and New Zealand will be absolutely dependent upon this Providence for its supply of pulp and paper. We know the big dividends that the paper mills of the world are paying, and with our immense timber limits, covering 25 square miles, which assures a permanent supply of wood at a nominal cost, there is no reason why we should not pay even larger dividends than the present operating mills.

The preferred stock is entitled to a cumulative dividend of 7 per cent., payable before any dividend is paid on the ordinary stock. After 7 per cent. has been paid upon both the preferred and ordinary shares, both stocks thereafter participate equally.

CLEAN Up INSIDE

In spite of all your careful baths it is safe to say that in the spring you feel poorly—have a throbbing sensation in the head—skin a sallow or yellow, with dark rings under the eyes. If not absolutely billious the system is so full of bile that you feel heavy and tired all day long.

Clean up, work off the winter's accumulation of waste, purify your blood. Do this and you'll feel fresh as a prize-fighter. "For ten years, says W. B Singster of Concord, "I suffered greatly from impure blood which made me feel debilitated and unfit for work I had no appetite, suffered from indigestion and gas, had some pains in the back, caused by poor kidney action. Spring was the hardest time of all, and many a time I felt despondent and languid enough to throw up the sponge. I was impressed by the marvellous work done by Dr. Hamilton's Pills and tried them. They suited me exactly. In one week I felt like new. I was braced up, got rid of blood weakness, gained in flesh, got back my old time appearance and spirits. Dr. Hamilton's Pills will clean all the sickness out of a man in short order and I urge young and old to use this grand tonic medicine."

TYPE OF FOREIGN WORKMEN IN STEEL TRUST MILLS.

Steel Trust Organized a Decade Ago Has Ruled Pittsburg for Ten Years Without Mercy---A Sordid, Soulless, Degrading Rule with the Working People Ground Down and Made to Live Cheerless Lives

The steel trust and steel trust millionaires made Pittsburg moneymad. Here are a few of the results of money madness in this great American community:

Pittsburg parks lack footpaths for those who must walk; they have drives for autos and carriages and paths for horseback riders; they are only for rich.

The big libraries Carnegie built are out of reach of the working masses, and are little used by them.

The treatment of the rich as contrasted with the poor litigant in the aldermen's courts would be a scandal in any other city.

City council and other public bodies are most considerate of the wealthy and brutally inconsiderate or forgetful of the great mass of the people.

Pittsburg is a wide open town for the rich man who indulges in orgies. Of course, the police and police courts take care of others who go beyond the limits.

By J. V. Knight.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 17.—If the billion-dollar steel trust annihilates the tin workers remnant of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers this summer, as seems likely, it will have carried out a program of demoralization comparatively small to what it has done to the city of Pittsburg in the 10 years since J. Pierpont Morgan breathed life into the United States Steel corporation.

This great American city has been at the mercy of this, the world's greatest trust, for a decade. It has been a soulless, sordid rule; a rule without morals, degrading to a community of nearly a million souls.

Today no communitay in the world shows such a picture of poverty and squalor beside wealth and luxury as does Pittsburg.

Social ruin has been wrought on the people here by long working hours, poor wages and unsanitary surroundings.

Economic ruin through corruption, popular ignorance, the steel tariff, the suppression of labor unions, misgovernment with official forgetfulness of public welfare.

For all this the people have the trust to thank. In 1907 the trust's gross profits were $192,847,990, while its wage account was but $109,-822. For every dollar the wage earners in the big trust mills here made for themselves, they made more than a dollar for the trust.

Social neglect is perhaps the most noticeable thing the trust is to blame for in keeping the people miserable. The 12 hour day is another.

If you want to see how the trust treats its men, Homestead, seven miles up the Monongahela river from Pittsburg proper, with the biggest steel mill in the world, will show you.

A strange people these are. Walking down the narrow street which divides the mills from the little houses, you see half a dozen nations represented in the grimy ranks.

Of the 7000-odd trust workers in Homestead, more than half came from Russia, Roumania and Austria. Two thousand are native white persons and the rest a mixture of other European races.

Of course, the steel trust, when it took charge of the mammoth mill 10 years ago, began to cut down expenses. The taxation item was a big one. But the trust got around that easily enough. It hit on a plan to make its workers pay its taxes. Here's the way the trust bosses went about it:

They drew an imaginary line between the mill property and the people's homes.

"On this side of the line," the trust said, "we own our property. We'll call it a separate town and name it Munhall.

"On the other side of the line the men own their homes, so we'll call that town Homestead."

Munhall levies taxes on the mill property to suit the trust. Homestead levies taxes on the homes of the people—also to suit the trust.

In Munhall the tax rate is 8½ mills the trust pays $40,000 taxes.

In Homestead the rate is FIFTEEN MILLS and the trust pays only $7000 taxes there.

TRUST VOTES ITS EMPLOYES.

But the trust doesn't stop its exploitation of the men in mills and

CAN YOU IMAGINE HOW THESE PEOPLE LIVE?

A Shocking Crowded Tenement Case Near a Steel Trust Mill.

This two-story tenement is in Braddock, which is a part of Greater Pittsburg. Thirteen families live in this place, all using the little court in the rear as a wash yard. The octagonal outbuilding is for the use of 13 families. In this same court is the well from which all get their drinking water.

Morning Times Great Contest the Talk of the Town—Running Marathon Race—One Hustling Contestant Says She Has Much More Than Done This

Time is flying. What is more, he is urging the ambitious candidates to strike as rapid a pace as himself. "Step lively, step lively," he is calling to all who are gathering subscriptions for the Bonus Offer this week. "If you want to come in on time you must step lively." Nothing will help you as much as subscriptions secured at this period. Bring in all that you have secured to the Contest Department as soon as possible. You need not cast the votes until such time as you wish, but bring in the subscriptions promptly so that we may serve the paper to your friends and issue the votes to you. It is a lot of comfort to have a good bunch of these certificates in your possession. Just to look at them puts one in good heart, and this week they are bigger and mean more to you than they ever will again.

YOU HAVE ANOTHER GUESS COMING.

This big contest is causing a great deal of talk now, and everyone is taking an interest in the candidates. This is the time to tell them how much their subscriptions would help you if given promptly.

Up to Saturday evening is the most interesting period of the contest, with the possible exception of the last day, which will decide the winners of the 20 prizes.

The excitement of the last day will be caused by that sort of breathless eagerness with which we watch the close of a hard and well run race, but the last day has really less to do with the final result than the days of this week, when every subscription counts on your Bonus Offer.

VOTE EARLY AND OFTEN.

Remember that no better offer will be made again during the Contest. The best chance for getting subscriptions that count high is during this time. If you work hard this week it will not be difficult to place your name in a conspicuous place on the list, so that your friends may see that you have been doing good work, and when you have secured a good place on the list you may begin to save for the final rush. It is a good plan to have that big bunch of reserves for you will want to keep in the lead at the end.

A MARATHON RACE.

"Talk about the Marathon Race being the supreme test of endurance," laughed a diligent candidate to us yesterday, "why, I have been running five weeks already and I expect to Run the Rest of the Time without a single letup. All I ask for is the glory of coming out well in the end." And if she keeps her word and sticks to her work she will have her wish, and so can you.

If there is anything in the world that will incite you to put forth your very best efforts, the prizes which we are giving away certainly should do this. There is not one of them that is not worth the time and trouble it will take to win it, and it is the most surprising thing in the world that you are not working harder than you are in an endeavor to win whichever prize you may fancy.

We have been telling you all along that it is not too late to enter your name in the list of contestants, and we repeat it. If you would look over the list you can see for yourself what an altogether wonderful opportunity this is.

BALL GAMES.

In City League This Afternoon Will Be Fast.

The latest rumors in City League doings is to the effect that there will be some big surprises offered by the teams in their games today at the Oval. At a recent meeting the executive handed out three extra certificates to each team, as it was necessary on account of many of the players leaving the city on holidays. There are several ball tossers of Midland League calibre, who have been residing in the city all summer, but their presence here has just lately been found out by the managers. These players have been signed and according to reports have showed good form in practice.

The Straths and T.A.S. hook up at two, with the West Ends and P. A. C. at 3.30. The Oval is in great shape at the present time and conditions are more favorable for ball games than in any other place in the city.

Ministerial Association and Rev. Father McColl Met the Council

After several months the Committee of the Whole Council met last night for the purpose of discussing the proposition submitted to them early in the year by Father McColl, which had as its object the looking after of the poor of the city in a systematic way. It will be remembered that Father McColl stated that the Roman Catholic interests proposed to erect a new House of Providence at a cost of at least $30,000. Before starting, however he desired to get an agreement with the city to pay to the House of Providence $1.50 per week per inmate for maintenance. This agreement to extend over several years.

The new building would enable them to look after a great many more cases than the present building will allow them to handle. Then they would never shut their doors upon any Protestant poor desiring admission, but of course their own people would have to be looked after first.

Rev. Father McColl was present last night along with Rev. Mr. Keith, chairman of the Ministerial Association, Rev. Canon Davidson and Rev. J. G. Potter. Addresses were given by the first three and it transpired that all were agreeable to and anxious to work along the same lines viz., that the Catholics look after their poor and the Ministerial Association would look after the Protestant poor and both get the same amount of assistance per head.

The Ministerial Association, however were not quite prepared to make a definite proposition but will prepare one for the next meeting of the committee.

THE ADDRESS.

Rev. Mr. Keith stated that he would like to emphasize his appreciation of the proposition that had been made by Rev. Father McColl, and he was here tostrengthen his hands. Mr. Keith said that first the council should decide whether the city was to have a house of refuge than the city could not think of paying for or assisting in paying for the keep of those who went to any other house in the city. If the city was not to have a house of refuge he would like tohavesomething to say. He represented the Minis-

Aldermen Again Discuss Power Question with Mr. McLaughlin

Another discussion on the Burleigh Falls power question resulted last night from the visit to the city by Mr. R. J. McLaughlin, K.C., and Mr. J. A. Culverwell. The two gentlemen who represent the Central Ontario Power Company met the council to talk over the two offers the Power Committee has made to the company, viz., that the company develop the power and deliver it to the city at $7.00 per h.p., and the $50,000 offer made a few days ago. Bothof these were considered humorous by the company. Nevertheless the council is making progress towards getting information and are getting into better shape.

Mr. McLaughlin made a splendid address before the committee and placed the matter carefully and impartially before the aldermen. He pointed out the advantages of municipal ownership of electric power and also the disadvantages if the city loses the power and a power monopoly is created.

The claim of some of the aldermen is that the price is too high. However, the Power Committee will meet again shortly and endeavor to adopt a policy that will be satisfactory to both parties.

Messrs. R. J. McLaughlin and J. A. Culverwell were present and upon invitation addressed the Committee of the Whole.

Mr. McLaughlin referred to the fact that it is nearly two months since he addressed the council last, but he hoped that the city had made some progress in the subject in which they both are interested. He thanked the council for the offers that had been made as it showed that they were both interested in the subject. But he considered that there must be some humorous individual on the council. A private company cannot develop the power at the same rate that the city can by 50 per cent. without any profit whatever. He also thought that the $50,000 offer was a joke, as they could have had that price some years ago. He said that he fixed the figure of $125,000 at a lower price than any of the powers. He also said that he did not want to have any argument about the price. The main question for the city was whether the city really wanted a municipal power or not. If they do a few thousand dollars is not going to stop them buying it. He pointed out the advantage of municipal power over privately developed power.

He referred to what other cities and towns in Western Ontario are doing. He submitted a copy of the contract which Guelph has signed for 2500 h.p. at $24 per h.p. andistributed for a long term of years. This city by purchasing Burleigh Falls will have a great deal more power for very much less money, in fact about one-third the cost.

So far as the offer the company made it was the very lowest which he had been authorized to make. The main thing now was to save time. Get the deal put through and start the development this summer and the power house could be completed before winter.

Ald. Turner in a business-like address, said that he concurred in much that Mr. McLaughlin had said. First, he agreed that the city must have an asset which would enable us to compete most favorably with any other city. The price of $125,000 is a little high, but whether that can be brought down or not this is an asset the city cannot afford to turn down. He wanted to strengthen the Power Committee's hands by saying that he would support them in arriving at a solution and in fixing upon a price that will be acceptable to all. Cheap power would attract factories even where bonuses would not, and bonuses were bad.

After considerable discussion Ald. Buller moved that the whole matter be left in the hands of the Power Committee. This was seconded by Ald. Duffus.

Alderman Buller said he would never vote for the city paying $125,000 for Burleigh Falls. It was too much money.

Ald. McIntyre said that unless the Central Ontario Power Company were to reduce their price he did not think he would call the Power Committee togRther to consider it.

Eminent Toronto Physicians

FAILED TO CURE RHEUMATISM.

Miss Flora Chapman Vividly Describes Her Suffering and Ultimate Cure With "Nerviline."

After being an enthusiastic user of Nerviline for years, I feel it my duty to tell you personally what your wonderful preparation has done for me.

I suffered torture from rheumatism and heart trouble, tried scores of so-called remedies, consulted for weeks and months, with Toronto's most eminent physicians, but derived only slight benefit.

A friend insisted on my using Nerviline, and to my surprise a vigorous rubbing of this powerful liniment eased the pains and reduced the soreness in my joints. I continued to use Nerviline and was permanently cured. I am now perfectly well, and for three years have had no rheumatism at all. I know CURED many families where no other medicine but Nerviline is kept—it is so useful in minor ailments like earache, toothache, neuralgia, coughs, colds, lumbago and sciatica. I call Nerviline my "Life Guard," and urge all to try its merit."

SATURDAY, JULY 17, 1909.

ONTARIO'S WEALTH.

This is a province of wonderful natural richness. Prodigally, as we are governed, our receipts from the natural sources of wealth pay a considerable part of the expenses of the public management. With careful husbanding and under economical administration we should be soon in a position to endow the Provincial future so as to make any call for taxation, general or special, in Ontario out of the question. Unfortunately however, says the Hamilton Times, the Whitney Government has in the last five years almost doubled the cost of managing the affairs of the Province, and is not only raising huge sums by pledging the credit of the Province, but is diligently inventing new taxes to be imposed wherever money can be extorted.

Recent official returns give some idea of the natural wealth poured into the coffers of the Whitney Government last year. The silver output was 19,401,021 ounces, valued at $9,116,006. This was an average of 793 ounces of silver to the ton of Cobalt ore. The revenue derived from that was very large.

Of nickel, 10,175 tons were produced, valued at $1,866,059.

The copper output of Ontario's mines was $1,071,140. And the Province's copper deposits are scarcely yet scratched.

The iron mines of Ontario yielded 216.77 tons of ore, valued at $574,839 and our blast furnaces turned out 271,656 tons of pig iron worth $4,390,839. We used much imported ore, required to produce by mixture the best iron. Science may yet enable us to dispense with that and utilize ore now regarded as refractory, or requiring admixture. Electric smelting promises to do much for Ontario.

Ontario's timber is a valuable asset, yielding the Provincial treasury last year $1,618,242. Unfortunately this great asset suffers much from fire. This is a difficult problem to deal with, but year by year advances are being made in methods of fire control.

Progress in two ways is to be desired; conservation of our natural resources and economy in utilizing the proceeds thereof. It is for the people of Ontario to insist that such a policy be carried out by whatever Government may be in control of Provincial affairs.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co. Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally indoses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. VERY EXCELLENT JUDICIAL APPOINTMENT.

It would be well if all judicial selections made by the Dominion Government were as wise and proper as the appointment of Mr. E. C. S. Huycke E.C., of Cobourg, to the County Judgeship of Peterboro as successor to the late Judge Weller. If complaint were permissable in this connection it would be that Mr. Huycke is worthy on merit as a prominent and exceptionally successful lawyer and from efficient service to the Liberal party of a better office than even a County Judge. His Honor Judge Huycke has ten of any superiors among the members of the Bar in these Counties and as a citizen is of the very best type. He has for many years been active in church and Sabbath School work, being at present superintendant the Methodist Sunday School in Cobourg. At the last Bay of Quinte conference he delivered a very helpful and instructive address on the Laymen's Missionary Movement for which he was heartily thanked. He is a gentleman of many parts, having filled many positions of trust and responsibility by the expressed confidence of his fellow citizens. Cobourg has never had a more capable and popular Chief Magistrate a position he held for some years. So that this promotion is popular not only from his highly successful and brilliant career as a lawyer and especially as a pleader at the Bar but also as a good citizen and a Christian gentleman. We join his thousand of friends in this Province in sincerest congratulations on the Federal Government's recognition of his merits as a worthy member of his profession and worthy member of his profession and express the wish that he will long be spared to honor the important office to which he has been appointed. — Bowmanville States man.

World's Mightiest Trust

mill towns alone. It mixes in state politics, and its crowning act was the power it gave Senator Boies Penrose, its best friend, in Pennsylvania.

For decades Allegheny co and Pittsburg were without a real political boss, though in a boss ridden state. Quay, in his day of rule, couldn't absolutely control Pittsburg. Neither could Chris Magee nor Win Flynn nor other big politicians.

Yet with the direct aid of the steel trust Penrose today is political proprietor of Pittsburg.

During the 1908 campaign there were candidates for the legislature who were going to vote Penrose in or Penrose out of the United States senate. The Penrose candidates in the mill territory were opposed to local option, which was the issue in Homestead. The majority of the mill men wanted to control and minimize the saloon evil.

It's a long way from the senate in Washington to the steel trust workers' little homes you see in Homestead, but it was not too long for the trust to grab.

When Penrose saw trouble ahead the trust did, too.

"Help!" said Penrose in Washington.

"Sure, we heard you," said the trust down on Wall-st.

The Homestead general superintendent got a hurry call, and two days later the order was passed to the steel workers to sacrifice their opinions about the saloon evil. They were told to vote for the Penrose saloon candidates or give up their jobs.

It was hard to break their pledges to wives and fellow temperance believers, but you will remember that 1908 was a panic year. So the saloon followers were elected against the people's will, and Penrose is still in the senate.

The eight-hour day in the steel mills practically is dead. Only the few men on the Bessemer converter crews work eight hours a day.

The Bessemer converter looks like two giant thimbles joined at the open ends. The men pour white-hot iron and coke into the converter and seal it. Then air, as hot as fire can make it, is blown through this converter to get rid of the impurities in the "heat", as each converter full of molten steel is called. Only the strongest man can live around this converter, and that is why they have an eight-hour day. If they worked longer the heat would kill them.

The trust knows this, of course, and is putting the Bessemer machines out of business as fast as possible, and installing the open-hearth system of steel making. Then everybody can work 12 hours a day.

Only one man in 100 has an eight-hour day in the trust mills. Most of the rest have a 12 hour day. Molders and machinists have what is called a 10-hour day, but they work longer. Repairs keep them busy, as each machine crew must do its own repairing.

1 24 HOUR WORKDAY.

The operating day from the mill standpoint is 24 hours long. The men work in two 12-hour shifts. Every two weeks the day and night shifts change, this being accomplished by the day shift working Saturday through the night ,24 hours, sleeping all day Sunday and resuming work Sunday night for two weeks of night work. At the end of the next two weeks they are idle from Saturday morning until Sunday morning, while the other men shift as they did.

The foreman in these Homestead steel mills is called the "pusher". Driver would be a better word.

March and October are called record months, and are sacred to breaking records for output, the men being driven to the limit of human endurance to make new showings.

A split-up of trust cash is made after each competition to the BOSSES who succeed in getting the most work out of their men. The MEN receive nothing in cash, but get instead a new and harder standard of toil for the following six months.

This split-up the trust calls a bonus system. It solely is men induce-ment to the pushers to drive the men under them.

Hardly less evil in its influence on the workers is the trust's spy system. Let any worker voice a complaint and he has to hunt a job some where else.

Having done so much to Pittsburg as a city and to the men as workers and voters, it would seem the tariff-fed steel trust would stay out of the homes themselves. But it doesn't. It OWNS them in many instances, and the records of the health department here show that the steel trust in these 10 years has been one of the worst landlords in the world.

SHOCKING LIVING CONDITIONS

People live in row after row of tenements almost unbelievable for their uncleanliness and inconvenience. When rents are within reason wages are not. Houses stand back-to-back, with no alleyways between. Families of four and five and even more in one room. Some of the inconveniences are unmentionable and even shocking.

This room will at various times of the day serve as nursery, bed-room, dining room, kitchen, parlor, laundry, and also is the sick room.

Drinking water is obtained from reeking wells, sometimes located close to outbuildings.

Ten years of the greatest trust in the world in a great American city has not been without its opposition. At every turn the unions and other organizations of working men have stood for better homes, and better morals and better wages.

If the trust is now about to make good the threat of its creator, J. Pierpont Morgan, and drive unionism out of the steel business, it will sweep on to—what next?

AFTER TREATMENT

He was surprised at how the sores healed—"I took your New Method Treatment for a serious blood disease with which I had been inflicted for twelve years. I had consulted scores of physicians, taken all kinds of blood medicine, visited Hot Springs and other mineral water resorts, but only got temporary relief. They would help me for a time, but after discontinuing the medicines the symptoms would break out again—pimples, sores, blotches, rheumatic pains, dizziness, loss of the hair, swellings of the glands, palms of the hands scaling, itchiness of the skin, dyspeptic stomach, etc. I had given up in despair when a friend advised me to consult you, as you had cured him of a similar disease 8 years ago. I had no hope, but took his advice. In three weeks time the sores commenced to heal up and I became encouraged. I continued the New Method Treatment for four months and at the end of that time every symptom had disappeared. I was cured 7 years ago and no sign of any disease since. My boy, three years old is sound and healthy. I certainly can recommend your treatment with all my heart. You can refer any person to me privately, but you can use this testimonial as you wish."

A New Star Rising In The Last West

If you know the story of this Coming City, it's wonderful growth and great future, you are aware of the exceptionally large profit to be made by investing NOW in a few business and residential lots.

A third Branch Line is now being surveyed—from Melville to Prince Albert. This means three Branch Lines of the Grand Trunk Pacific with headquarters at Melville, the three of which will be well under way before next winter. The Saskatchewan Government's guarantee of Bonds for these Lines is an assurance that they will be completed as soon as money can do it.

Besides being the Chief Divisional Point and Operating Pivot of the Prairie Division, Melville is the headquarters for the most important of the Western proposed Branches, viz:

1st—To Hudson Bay.

2nd—To Regina and the American Boundary through the coal district, with air lines to Moose Jaw and Brandon.

3rd—To Prince Albert and the lumber district of the North eventually to be extended beyond to the new lands yet unexplored.

The Canadian Northern Railway will eventually run a Line through Melville, from North Portal to their Prince Albert Line. James J. Hill's Great Northern Railway will reach Melville over the G. T. P. American Line, and will also likely have its own Line into Melville in the near future.

DR. PELKEY

Consumption Cured

And all Other Lung and Kidney Troubles

By the Wonderful Discovery made by a Canadian Doctor

Dr. Pelkey, a Canadian Physician, holding medical certificates in France, United States and Mexico, has made a discovery that promises to be the greatest boon yet given to humanity.

His great Consumption Cure is applied by means of an inhaler, the ingredients for which are contained in a tank, and the very first use made of it by the patient brings immediate relief, followed quickly by permanent cure. These inhalers are not sold to the people, but are placed in the home until they are not further needed, and then taken away.

Dr. Pelkey is exhibiting the invention, which is called the Peltier Inhaler, throughout the country. The inhaler is first a platinum tank, divided into 38 compartments, into which various chemicals and drugs are placed. Outside these compartments cold water is placed. The action of the cold water causes a vaporous gas to rise into an eight-part evaporator at the top, where it is purified and forced through tubes for inhalation. The gas forms pure oxygen, tasteless, and odorless, and the patient inhales this. So healing is its effect that it will almost immediately stop a tubercolosis cough.

Most wonderful of all is the fact that Dr. Pelkey offers to treat his patients with the inhaler free of charge. The only thing for which he charges is a blood-purifier and building-up tonic, which he insists upon the patient's taking. He will even allow the person undergoing the treatment to take home the tank with him and be treated there.

Dr. Pelky has been for 17 years in Mexico and Central and South America. He has Government certificates from Mexico, Brazil, New Mexico and Canada and many Latin-American republics, testifying to cures wrought by him with the inhaler. One certificate states that nearly half a troop of Mexican soldiers and American soldiers and Government officials of Montreal were cured under his treatment. Another is signed by President Diaz, of Mexico, himself, whom Dr. Pelkey cured. Dr. Pelkey can show hundreds of other testimonials of permanent people of Ottawa, who were cured of lung troubles and kidney troubles after suffering for five years.

Write letters, fully describing your trouble to The Great Specific Co., or to Ottawa, Ont.

Western Canada Wood Pulp & Paper Co. Ltd.

HEAD OFFICE, 638 VIEW ST. VICTORIA, B. C.

Plant Now Under Course of Erection at Quatsina Sound, Vancouver Island.

Asset.

The company have acquired 56,000 acres of Pulp Land on Quatsino Sound, Vancouver Island.

Water Power

In addition to the vast Pulp Limits acquired, the company have also secured a 30,000 h.p. water record on Marble Creek, at Quatsino Sound, capable of developing from 10,000 to 15,000 h.p. This creek derives its source from three lakes 20 miles in length and is thus permanent the year round.

Capacity of Plant

The plant when fully complete will have a capacity of 600 tons of news and wrapping per week, we are rushing the work along and feel confident that we will have the pulp plant with a weekly capacity of 100 tons in operation by December 1st of this year.

Cost of Manufacture

With our tremendous pulp limits, which enable us to secure our pulp wood at a nominal figure, and splendid water power, the cost of manufacture above and wrapping paper should not exceed $9.00 per ton. At present news is selling in British Columbia at $50.00 per ton. The freight rate in carload lots from Ontario and Quebec being $17.00 per ton.

Local Markets

The local market of the company extends east a thousand miles to Moose Jaw and tributary region. Within the above territory the annual consumption of paper is estimated at a thousand tons exclusive of that used by printers and newspapers. The five daily papers at Victoria and Vancouver alone consume over 400 carloads of paper per year.

Foreign Markets

The foreign markets of the company consist of China, Japan, New Zealand, Australia, Hawaii and the Philippines. In 1906 the above countries imported over $30,000,000 worth of wood pulp and paper, principally from Norway, Sweden ,Germany ,Eastern United States and Eastern Canada.

Freight Rates to Orient

A freight rate of from $9.00 to $9.50 per ton can be secured from British Columbia to China, Japan, New Zealand and Australia ,on wood pulp and paper as against a rate of $7.00 to $15.00 per ton on the same commodities from Eastern Canada and Europe. Being from 3,000 to 5,000 miles nearer the Oriental market than Eastern Canada or European mills we are not only able to secure a much lower freight rate, but also a lower insurance rate.

Natural Advantages of British Columbia

News and wrapping paper are manufactured principally from Spruce, Hemlock, Balsam and Larch wood, one ton of chemical wood pulp requires approximately two cords of four foot wood. At present Spruce and Hemlock wood is worth from $5.00 to $6.00 per cord, in Eastern Canada; our facilities enable us to secure it at less than $3.00 per cord. In 1906 the American mills were obliged to pay from $8.00 to $10.00 per cord.

Progress of Work

We are proceeding as fast as possible with the work. The erection of the plant has been placed under the exclusive supervision of Mr. Charles B. Pride, of Appleton, Wis., one of the most distinguished authorities on the erection of pulp and paper mills in the United States,having built more than fifty of the leading mills of the country and he is confident of being able to have the pulp mill in operation by December 1st of this year.

Stock

In offering the preferred stock of this corporation, we do so with a feeling that it is the best industrial stock ever offered for subscription in Western Canada. At present it is impossible to buy stock in the majority of the operating mills of Canada and there is no question but that inside of 18 months the stock of this corporation will be selling at a handsome premium; remember the time to buy stock in any corporation is six months before it when has been turned, not after it is in operation.

Profits in Pulp and Paper Manufacture

No industry, not even mining itself, has yielded as large and permanent dividends as the manufacture of Wood Pulp and Paper, and there is no reason why the mill which we are now erecting should not pay at least 25 per cent. annual dividends. Under much less favorable conditions, the Eastern Canadian and English mills are paying from 10 to 25 per cent. With our natural advantages, we should be able to make a profit of approximately $20.00 per ton on news paper, $30.00 per ton on Wrapping paper, and $35.00 per ton on best board and pulp board. The Pacific Coast mills of the United States are now making a net profit, after deducting depreciation, operating expenses, bonds, & etc., of approximately $35.00 per ton on wrapping and $35.00 per ton on best and pulp boards, and this after paying from $6.00 to $8.00 per cord for wood. In 1906 the Lauzon Pulp Co. showed a profit of $351,000. The Kellner-Partington Pulp and Paper Co. showed a gross profit last year of $1,342,326. The official United States Government Report, issued at Washington, D. C., July 25th, 1907, Bulletin 63, showed that the mills of the State of Oregon made a profit of 29 3-8 per cent, of the value of goods over all expenses, of 19 per cent. The gross profits of the International PaPer Co., for the year ending June 30th, 1906, amounted to $5,655,326.

Under date of February 16th, 1906, Mr. Herman Ridder, President of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, filed charges against the Paper Trust of the United States, and in his disposition to Hon. Chas. J. Bonaparte, Attorney-General of the United States, said:

"News print paper mills that are not entirely modern are now making paper at figures that show a profit of more than $20.00 per ton on the paper prices just announced by the International Paper Co., $32.50 per ton. In other words, for paper cut-sized, say, in New York, up-to-date mills are making a profit of more than 60 per cent, on the cost of manufacture, delivery and storage, and they are making a profit of more than 40 per cent, upon a reasonable allowance for the capital required for a modern plant."

With our close proximity to the Oriental market, there is no reason why we should not make, conservatively, 50 per cent, more dividends than the Eastern Canadian or American Mills. In 1906, Australia imported over 60,000 tons of News principally from Eastern Canada and Europe. Why should we let this great volume of paper go to Eastern Canada, Eastern United States, and Europe, when we are in a position to control it ourselves? Every dollar of paper used in the Orient should be furnished from Western Canada. With unlimited mills to produce the goods, what country is in a better position to control the trade of the Orient than British Columbia. Not only are we able to manufacture News and Wrapping Paper from $2.00 to $3.00 per ton lower than Eastern Canada and American mills, but we are from 2,000 to 3,000 miles nearer the great Oriental markets. The demand for News and Wrapping Paper is gradually increasing, and, within ten years, China, Japan, Australia and New Zealand will be absolutely dependent upon this Providence for its supply of pulp and paper. It is know the big dividends that the paper mills of the world are paying, and with our immense timber limits, covering 56 square miles, which means a permanent supply of wood at a nominal cost, there is no reason why we should not pay even larger dividends than the present operating mills.

The preferred stock is entitled to a cumulative dividend of 7 per cent., payable before any dividend is paid on the ordinary stock. After 7 per cent. has been paid upon both the preferred and ordinary shares, both stocks thereafter participate equally.

Metropolitan Life Insurance Company

JOHN R. HEGEMAN, President.

(INDUSTRIAL DEPARTMENT.)

In January, 1907, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company largely increased the benefits in its Industrial policies by reason of a heavy Reduction in expenses and improvement in mortality experience.

During the past three years the company has steadily reduced its expenses, so that it is enabled to make a further increase in the benefits. Industrial insurance policies have a unit of weekly premium—three cents, five cents and multiples thereof - and the amount of insurance varies with the age.

All Industrial Life policies (premiums cease after age 74), Endowment policies at 80 and Adult Twenty-year Endowment

Policies issued since Jan. 1, 1907, will be increased in benefits about 10 PER CENT

according to a new table of benefits adopted for policies issued after July 1, 1909. In other words, not only does the Company issue a new table for policies hereafter issued, but it makes the increase retroactive since the present form of Limited Payment and Endowment at age 80 policies were adopted.

Upon the OLD INDUSTRIAL POLICIES the Company is paying out TWO AND A HALF MILLIONS OF DOLLARS IN BONUSES THIS YEAR, bringing up the total Bonuses and Concessions upon Industrial policies to EIGHTEEN MILLIONS OF DOLLARS IN SIXTEEN YEARS. This is OVER AND ABOVE ANY AND ALL OBLIGATIONS expressed or implied in the policies.

The Metropolitan in its Industrial Department has the lowest Ratio of Expense of all the Industrial Insurance Companies in the world which pay immediate benefits. In FIVE YEARS its Ratio of

Expense to Premium Income has been Reduced

8 per cent representing an Annual

Saving of Three and a Half Millions of Dollars

The new Convertible policy issued by the Company is a novel form of insurance which becomes fully paid-up life insurance in a few years and is then automatically converted into endowment insurance, the maturity of which is periodically shortened as payment of premiums continues.

The Company is abreast of the public demand for combination of term insurance and annuities, and serves the public better than any other agency.

INDUSTRIAL POLICIES IN FORCE: NEARLY 9,500,000, INSURANCE NEARLY $1,500,000,000.

"ORDINARY DEPARTMENT"

The Company has reduced expenses six per cent. in this Department in the last FIVE years—representing an ANNUAL SAVING ING OF OVER A MILLION AND A QUARTER OF DOLLARS IN THE ORDINARY DEPARTMENT.

The Company issues policies in the Ordinary Department in amounts from $500 to $1,000,000 upon all approved plans at the lowest rates. IN 1906 IT WROTE MORE PAID-FOR BUSINESS IN ITS ORDINARY OLD LINE INSURANCE (exclusive of Industrial,) in the United States and Canada, THAN ANY OTHER COMPANY.

All of its policies in the Ordinary as well as the Industrial Department are written on the non-participating plan. The Metropolitan pays its dividends at the start—that is to say, it cuts down the premiums. It believes the plain, common-sense man who sends up bank of money-back-darn luck for a plain business contract. By plain business contracts we mean those which tell their whole story upon their face; which leave nothing to the imagination, borrow nothing from hope, require definite conditions and make definite promises in dollars and cents.

In both Departments combined the Company has, in each of the past fifteen years, written more paid-for insurance than any other company in the world."

The Company upon its Total Business Has in the Last Ten Years Reduced its Ratio of Expenses FIFTEEN PER CENT.

SOME STATISTICS.

Startling Facts About the Growth of the Dominion.

Statistics are often dry reading, writes an Ottawa correspondent, but a special grain report just issued by the Department of Trade and Commerce is so illustrative of the growth of the golden West, that a few minutes may well be spared to give thought to the figures which it contains.

Take the great item of wheat, for instance. In 1900, the total wheat production in all Canada was 47,867,917 bushels, of which only 17,000,000 was grown west of the Great Lakes. Last year, Canada's production of wheat reached a total of 126,795,137 bushels, of which 105,613,454 were grown in the western provinces. The acreage under crop in 1900 was 1,870,260, but in 1908 it had risen to 6,813,020. The greatest development has taken place in Saskatchewan. There in 1905 the crop acreage under wheat was only 1,130,084; last year it was 3,703,563 acres.

Saskatchewan is rapidly beating Manitoba as the granary of the West. Three years ago Manitoba produced 55,761,416 bushels of wheat as against 26,107,286 in Saskatchewan; but last year Saskatchewan produced 50,654,629 bushels as compared with 49,654,629 by Manitoba.

And while "wheat is king," the development of the West is shown by the figures that, whereas in 1900 the total production of oats in all Canada was 108,015,481 bushels, last year the West alone grew 106,940,978 bushels, while the total for all Canada was 254,615,670 bushels. In barley, also, the West is rapidly outstripping the East. In 1900 all Canada produced 20,722,666 bushels of barley, last year the West alone produced 21,636,546 bushels out of a total of 47,242,130 bushels.

Another significant illustration of the development of the West is the fact that while in 1900 there were 521 elevators with a capacity of 18,879 bushels, last year there were 1,354, with a capacity of 58,535,700 bushels.

One more striking fact, and this attempt to make a batch of figures interesting will be done. This is that the growth of the grain fields of the West has also meant an increase in Canadian shipping. In 1906 the amount brought east by Canadian vessels from Port Arthur and Fort William was 34,634,671 bushels; last year it was 48,309,104. In the same period the increase carried by United States vessels amounted only to a little over two million bushels.

The Mining Man and His Wad.

These practical mining men have some curious experiences at times during their jaunts about the north country. Mr. G. W. Raynor, of the Macdonald-Raynor mines, was coming down the Montreal river recently, north of Gowganda, in a canoe with one companion, when they ran on a submerged tree and upset. The bow man could not swim but managed to get hold of the overturned canoe and climbed on top. Raynor got hold of one end, and, swimming on his back, succeeded in towing the whole outfit to the bank. The axe and frying pan and several other valuable articles were lost, however, including a roll of bills, secured with an elastic band, which floated away during his squirming in the water.

They spread out the blankets to dry in the sun, and, having wrung the water out of their outer garments, were running up and down the landscape to dry the rest of them. Raynor was 100 yards down the stream, keeping an eye out for anything which might have floated, when he espied his roll of bills clinging by a slender hold to a branch of cedar a few yards out from the shore.

Mr. Raynor was in the city for a few days while the races were on; he remarks philosophically that not every fifty dollars lost in these parts during the last two weeks were so easily regained Westerners Buy Autos.

More than 300 automobiles, representing approximately $450,000, have been sold and delivered by local garages this season in the prairie provinces—the most phenomenal spring trade growth that the motor-propelled vehicle has met with in Western Canada. Cars of all makes, powers, and varieties are flooding the market. It has been the most prosperous season in the history of the trade, and agents are not meeting half as much difficulty in selling cars as they are in securing an adequate supply from the various factories. That the proverbial animosity toward the motor of those who engage in agricultural pursuits is a dead letter is evidenced by the fact that this spring more than twenty-five cars have been shipped out of Winnipeg to various Manitoba and Saskatchewan farmers.

Lady Grey's Adventure.

An amusing occurrence in connection with Countess Grey's trip to these parts last week has just come to light.

The countess was traveling to Grimsby in an automobile, and saw some wild flowers on the side of the road. She requested her chauffeur to dig up a root, and as he was doing so the owner of the property came out and began to abuse her excellency.

Mrs. J. S. Hendrie, who was accompanying the countess, wanted to explain matters, but she would not permit her. The property owner insisted that the flowers be put back, on pain of arrest for trespassing and stealing. The farmer accused the countess of being a Yankee tourist.

An Elderly High Wire Artist.

Colchon East correspondent of Bolton Enterprise: An old man apparently over 70 years of age struck this town last Saturday evening and gave an exhibition of his skill on the slack wire. His appearance on his arrival was rather against him, as he was a perfect guy. His beard, which reached down to his middle, was like "Joseph's coat" of many colors. On each side of his face hung down long, bushy locks of hair. However, his performance on the wire was creditable to one of his years, and he was rewarded by the crowd with many nickels and dimes.

WANTS NEW CARDINALS.

Rome, Italy, July 15.—A high official in the Vatican declares that Cardinal Merry del Val, the papal secretary, favors a consistory in November, and the creation of many cardinals, including one or two in America. The Pope opposes a consistory for reasons of economy, saying that the church needs money, especially after the difficulty with the French government, and that the proposal would involve a considerable outlay. The secretary, however, is firm in his opinion, claiming that many new cardinals are necessary for political as well as other reasons.

BOOZY HUSBANDS.

Create a Disturbance in Their Own Homes.

A case of a drunk who abused his wife and child, who quarrelled with her and who broke things around the house, was heard in the police court recently by Magistrate Dumble. The two were told to go home and try to live peacefully together.

A similar case was reported to this office of a drunken husband who quit work, spent all his money, terrorized his wife, so that she had to leave, stole all the money in the house and from the children, and created a disturbance for several days.

The liquor being sold must have had a little more fight in it than usual. Maybe it is the warm weather which makes the soaks more vicious. Which ever it is the women have to suffer, and maybe their ill-temper and disagreeable natures were what started the whole trouble Such cases have been known, and it is only the strong will of the men that many other outbreaks do not happen.

BOY DEAD FROM STONE BLOW.

Halifax Lad Refused to Give Names of His Assailants.

St. John, N.-B., 15.—Roy Walter Johnston, aged ten years, died last night in the General Hospital of a fracture of the skull. The boy was taken to the institution Sunday, and it was said he had been struck with a stone while playing with other lads. No sign of the fracture was found, but instead the boy was said to have typhoid fever. On Monday symptoms developed which led to a minute examination, and a depressed fracture of the skull was found in front of the top of the ear. The lad refused to give the names of his companions, or any details as to how his injury was received Coroner Berryman has the matter in hand.

Newspaper Printed in the Sky.

Dayton, O., has taken the lead of the world in things aerial through the exploits of the Wright brothers, abd it is only natural that the city shouls strive to maintain its position. Now added to the Wright records is one by the Dayton Journal, which has won the distinction of being the first newspaper in the world to publish an edition in the air. The Journal sent five of its staff into the clouds the other day armed with a hand press, a font of type and some paper, and told them to drop the results of their labors on the towns over which they passed. It was only a very small newspaper that was printed a thousand feet or more above the earth, but it was a newspaper done in the sky, a novel idea successfully carried out.

WAHSATCH MINING COMPANY

Capital Stock 300,000 Shares; Par $5; 20,000 10 per cent. Cumulative Preferred; 280,000 Common Stock.

Property at Bingham City, Utah, on the main line of the Oregon Short Line Railroad.

This property is the result of twenty years of labor and the expenditure of $150,000 by its President, B. C. Baker, director of the Commercial National Bank of Ogden. It is opened in fourteen places; there is a complete equipment and full line of supplies on hand. The preferred stock, which has been up to this time in the treasury, is being sold to provide for the working capital which O. A. Palmer, Engineer of the Ontario Silver Company, with a record of $15,000,000 in dividends, says is necessary to make a dividend payer. Enough stock has been placed to assure the running of the property. President Baker reports that within three months from the date of starting the mill the mine can net $11,000 a month. This means 10 per cent. on the preferred and 7 per cent. on the common.

Wahsatch will be listed at once on the Boston Curb Market and later application will be made to the Boston Stock Exchange. After listing on the Boston Curb, all offers will be withdrawn. Not a share of the preferred will be sold for less than par and not a share of common for less than $1.00. Further, I stand ready to take any or all offers of stock at these prices.

Now you can buy this stock before listing and sell within two months at an advance. Your preferred stock will positively sell at $7.00 and the common at par within a short while. Furthermore, to each purchaser of a round lot I will agree to transport him or his representative to the mine. I have hold of a winner and shall use it as a clientele increaser.

O. A. Palmer, M.E., says, "To insure proper development and to get the best results in the shortest time, there should be a reserve fund created to draw on of at least $25,000 or $40,000 for the purpose, and from my examination of this particular section and long familiarity and experience with the mining districts and the largest producers of ore in the Wahsatch Range, there is no doubt that the Gold Bell Group of mines will, with this expenditure, be placed on a paying basis.

Don'ts For Swimmers

—BY—

T. W. SHEFFIELD

Hon. Member Royal Life Saping Society.

The many drowning fatalities recorded by the press during the summer seasons call for more care being taken by the average swimmer and beginners generally, and it is earnestly desired that the following don'ts for swimmers and pointers for non-swimmers be posted up in a conspicuous place at the bathing place or summer resort the reader visits, thus helping to minimize any risk being taken by followers of the sport:

Don't bathe shortly after dining; wait at last two hours.

Don't sit in a boat or stand about undressed after being in the water.

Don't bathe in unfrequented or secluded parts.

Don't bathe alone if subject to giddiness or faintness.

Don't dive into the water without first ascertaining the depth.

Don't take fright if you fall into the water with your clothes on; remember, clothes float, and assist you to float. Make for the shore, swimming with the tide or stream.

Don't swim too far out in the sea or lake unattended by a boat or an expert swimmer.

Donjt take fright if seized with cramp; keep cool; turn on the back and endeavor to rub the place affected. If the leg is drawn up with pain, swim slowly with the arms only. All swimmers should practise this.

Don't swim without some recognized signal to give your fellow-swimmers, if subject to cramps, such as lifting one arm or shouting for help. Don't abuse this; leave the water as soon as possible.

Don't dive out of or try to get into a boat from the side; dive from the stern and get in from the stern, but only then from a boat with a broad beam.

Don't swim near dams, waterfalls, or where reeds are growing

Don't swim away from the shore, always along the shore.

Don't swim without company if you have a weak heart, and only then after consulting a doctor.

Don't swim against the stream if you come across weeds.

Don't swim without protecting your ears if subject to ear trouble.

SOME DON'TS AND POINTERS TO BEGINNERS AND NON-SWIMMERS.

Don't go beyond the depth of your hips if you can't swim.

Don't plunge or struggle when you find yourself in deep water

Don't throw the hands or arms out of the water.

Don't grasp any person who approaches you; do what he tells you.

Don't attempot to get into a boat coming to your rescue; catch hold of the stern until assisted to get in.

Tread water by keeping the legs moving up and down, as in walking up-stairs. Hold an oar or canoe paddle, plank or branch of a tree in the middle when thrown to you; an oar or paddle with the blade flat on the water will keep you up if you don't struggle. Take in long breaths through the mouth and exhale slowly through the nostrils; this makes the body more buoyant and keeps you warm.

If you follow out these directions when in distress in the water you will help yourself and others coming to your assistance. When canoeing take a life belt if you are not an expert.

THROUGH YELLOWHEAD.

Hot Race for Passage Through the Mountains Now On.

The announcement recently made by the Grand Trunk Pacific management of that company's intention to build a line down through British Columbia to Vancouver at the earliest possible moment, is but a phase in an exciting race for supremacy in which the engineers of three great transcontinental railroads are seeking to outwit each other. This race is between the Grand Trunk Pacific, the Canadian Pacific, and the Canadian Northern systems, each of which is trying to capture the most favorable route down from the Yellowhead Pass to Kamloops, via the North Thompson river. This route is said to represent by far the easiest by which railway communication can be established for the first time between the northern and southern portions of British Columbia. It is one of primary importance to both the Grand Trunk Pacific and the Canadian Northern in gaining an entrance to Vancouver and both these companies have surveyors in the field engaged in a hot race.

They have now discovered that the Canadian Pacific Railway is taking a conspicuous part in the game, and does not intend to sit quietly by and see its two great rivals extending their lines into its stronghold in Southern British Columbia and Vancouver. Those familiar with the history of the C.P.R. will remember that when the original line was being constructed through that province, a right of way was cut along the North Thompson river's east bank as far as Little Fort, and was afterwards abandoned, even although telegraph wires had been strung for the greater part of the distance. This same survey extended through the Yellowhead Pass.

The charter for building this line is still in existence, and C.P.R. engineers are now engaged in checking off the old line along the east side of the river, with a view to building up from Kamloops to the Yellowhead Pass, and thence east to Edmonton. It is said that the C.P.R. intends to commence construction within two months under the charter in its possession.

Canadian Engineers for Canada.

Our contemporary, The Canadian Engineer, sounds a note with which engineers throughout the Empire must be in full sympathy. It deplores the tendency on the part of the Government, the railways, the municipalities, and the authorities to go abroad, and more particularly to the United States, for engineering advice in connection with practically all big Canadian engineering schemes. While the three most important of recent engineering works in Canada, the G.T.P. Railway, the Quebec Bridge, and the Ontario hydro-electric power scheme, were purely Canadian in inception and in financial support, foreign professional advice and to a large extent foreign executive methods have been responsible for the carrying out of these projects. It is ridiculous to suggest that at the present day there are not sufficient engineering brains in Canada to carry out this and practically any other engineering work that is required in the country. And in view of the appalling blunders of U.S. engineers in carrying out work in the Dominion, it is high time that Canada began to look at home for the professional engineering commodity. Even the work now going on under the Board of Engineers appointed to deal with the Quebec Bridge problem, which was brought about by the muddling policy of U.S. engineers, is being carried out by men from Chicago with imported machinery. And in one department of the G.T.P. Railway alone, which employs a staff of 56 engineers, no fewer than 40 are foreigners. We confess that we should like to see Canada more self-reliant with regard to engineering advice and application, especially in view of the fact that many Canadian engineers of extreme ability in very many lines are quite capable of undertaking this work.—Standard of Empire.

Memorial to Sir S. L. Tilley.

The city of St. John, N.B., is to erect a statue of Sir Samuel Leonard Tilley, formerly Lieutenant-Governor of that province and one of the fathers of Confederation. He was for a long period Finance Minister of Canada in Sir John Macdonald's Cabinet. Louis Philippe Hebert, the famous French-Canadian sculptor, is to do the bronze, and the memorial will stand in King square. Hebert has the French ribbon of the Legion of Honor, and a C.M.G. as well. His statues of Joseph Howe, Laval and Maisonneuve are famous in Canada. The Tilley statue will stand near that of Champlain, which is in preparation. Lady Tilley is to-day living in St. John, a leader in all good works.

The University Railway.

Strathcona, the city in which the new University of Alberta is to be located, owes its success very largely to the Canadian Pacific Railway, which retained it as terminal for the Calgary and Edmonton branch. Edmonton is just on the other side of the river, and the forthcoming erection of a high-level bridge by the C.P.R. next September will make the two cities practically one. Both the bridge and the University are estimated to cost the same amount, namely, $1,500,000 each, to build, and it is difficult to tell which will do more for the material prosperity of the district. The other new university, for the Province of Saskatchewan, is to be located at Saskatoon, another Canadian Pacific town.

The Need for Woman Servants.

Mr. Arnold Haultain of Toronto urges the emigration authorities of Great Britain and the immigration agencies in Canada to work together with a view to furnishing Canadian, and especially Ontario, homes with an adequate supply of domestic servants. The lack of female help in the home is a serious problem in Toronto and other Canadian cities. Chinamen do not fill the bill. There are good openings for hundreds of capable domestics.

Woman's Way.

Blobbs—Have you ever noticed that the average woman gets off a trolley car backward? Slobbs—That's the way he gets off a joke too.

Family Ties.

Old Gentleman—Have you any family ties? Willie—Oh, yes, sir. Father makes me wear all his old ones.

BREAD AND CAKE MAKING.

Well Tested Recipes That Are Not Difficult to Carry Out.

To make cream biscuits mix one quart of flour, five ounces of butter, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and a little salt lightly together. Add one quart of sweet cream and work very well for several minutes. Roll out as thick as a silver dollar, cook in a hot oven and serve hot with honey or preserves.

Johnnycake.—One quart of meal, one pint of warm water and one teaspoonful of salt. Sift meal in a pan and add water and salt. Stir it until it is light, then place on a new clean board and place nearly upright before the fire. When brown cut in squares, butter nicely and serve hot.

Hanover Rolls.—Sift twice two quarts of flour. Add four tablespoonfuls of yeast, one tablespoonful of lard or butter, one tablespoonful of sugar, one dessertspoonful of salt and a pinch of soda. Use enough lukewarm water to make the mass soft enough to knead well and put where it will rise. When light, grease the hands and make into rolls. Let them rise again and bake in hot oven.

Wheat Muffins.—Two cupfuls of flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one teaspoonful of salt, two tablespoonfuls of melted butter, two tablespoonfuls of sugar, one cup of milk, one well beaten egg. Bake in muffin tins and serve hot.

Allegheny Tea Cake.—One pound of butter, one pound of sugar, eight eggs and one and one-quarter pounds of flour. Rub butter and sugar together and add by degrees the well beaten eggs and the flour. Flavor to taste. Drop with a spoon on well greased tins and bake.

Rusk or Sweet Bread.—One pint of flour, one pint of white sugar, one teacupful of melted lard, one and one-half pints of water and two kitchen spoonfuls of yeast. Make into a batter at night and set in a warm place to rise. The next morning work into this sponge two beaten eggs and three pints of flour. Set in a warm place to rise again. When light make into pretty shapes, let it rise again and when light bake in quick oven. Spread on the rolls when warm the white of an egg and sifted cinnamon. The dough should be as soft as you can make it to work well.

Reformed Spelling.

OME GRONE UNE 6 A POTT.

To upholders of the new orthography this should be interesting. It refers to home grown honey and its price.—London News.

Extremely So.

"But why did you eat the cake she baked?"

"I wanted to make myself sick."

"Did you succeed?"

"I should say so. I felt like a ton of lead."

QUEEN VICTORIA MEMORIAL.

Canada May Well Feel Proud, Says Canadian Gazette of London.

The Canadian Gazette, of London, says:

Canada has good reason to be proud of her share in the Queen Victoria Memorial in front of Buckingham Palace, from which the boarding has just been removed. The statue of the late Queen has yet to be placed in position, and Mr. Thomas Brock, R.A., the sculptor, will take another eighteen months to complete the marble masonry, but the lower portion of the memorial has been opened to the public, embracing the marble fountain and basins, retaining walls, bronze and marble sculptured reliefs, granite paving, steps and plateau. An idea of the size of the actual memorial may be gathered from the fact that in this portion alone 1,000 tons of marble and 800 tons of granite have been used. With the other Overseas Dominions Canada contributed handsomely to the memorial. Her donation is embodied in the beautiful gates through which entrance is made to St. James' Park and the Memorial from the adjoining Green Park. These gates are a source of much admiration and pride on the part of Londoners, and the Dominion is worthily represented. The gates were made by the Bromsgrove Guild, Bromsgrove, Worcestershire, English labor being exclusively utilized. On the centre gates the complete arms of Canada are designed. On the gates on either side the arms of Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick are represented, while on the pedestrian gates appear those of Manitoba and Prince Edward Island. Where, by the way, are Alberta and Saskatchewan? The two outer stone piers carry two large symbolical groups which were designed by Mr. Henry Pegram, A.R.A., and the whole is artistically completed in double fine gold gilding. When finished the Queen Victoria memorial will be one of the sights of England.

MURPHY NO "EASY MARK."

Secretary of State Will Take Vacation Like the Rest of 'Em.

Every now and again good stories creep out of the Privy Council Chamber at Ottawa, despite the official rule that everything which transpires behind the sacred portals is a state secret. One of the best of these stories was told by an Ottawan, who came to Toronto the other day, and has reference to Hon. Charles Murphy, the genial and talented Irishman who is now Secretary of State. The Ministers were discussing their plans for the summer, and those who were going to Europe or to the extremities of Canada were suggesting who should act for them during their absence. There seemed to be a general desire among the latter to load their functions upon the Secretary of State, and Sir Richard Cartwright is reported to have said:

"Oh, it's all right. Charlie Murphy will be here all summer!"

Quick as a flash the Secretary of State replied:

"Oh, no. Charlie Murphy will not be here all summer! Charlie Murphy is going out into the country. He's no R. W. Scott!"

The point of which was that in previous years whenever a Minister went away during the recess his duties were performed by Hon. R. W. Scott, then Secretary of State, until that venerable gentleman at times became a veritable Pooh-Bah and combined in his person all the offices of the Cabinet. But Mr. Murphy believes that it is just as much a Cabinet Minister's duty to go out among the people and get into touch with them as it is to sit in an office and become a mere signing machine, so he will start out for the Pacific Coast looking after public interests, party interests and the interests of his own people.

Didn't Know He Was In Town.

Hon. G. P. Graham, Minister of Railways and Canals, never forgets that he was once a newspaper man, indeed, there are times when he would fain be a newspaper man again just to feel what it would be like to have a big "scoop" to hand in to the city editor. One of these occasions developed the other day when he was down in New York in connection with the preparation of the plans for the new Quebec Bridge. Here was a case where a Canadian Cabinet Minister went to Gotham to consult with three of the most eminent engineers in the world regarding the construction of the greatest engineering project of its kind in the world. And yet not a single newspaper man in New York "got next" to their presence and not a line concerning their deliberations got into the press until the Minister returned to Ottawa. And "G.P.G." when telling some of the Ottawa "boys" about it, narrated how he rubbed it in to some American friends in the train so soon as they crossed the Canadian frontier.

"If it had been a case of abducting the affection of somebody's wife, we would have got a three column head," was the way he put it. "But because we went down to consult about a gigantic engineering problem, we didn't even get a personal!"

On a Homeseekers' Excursion.

Here is an incident of a Homeseekers' excursion which left Toronto recently, as related by a man on the train:

"We were passing through North Ontario, where in many places the trees are stripped clean of foliage and bark by fire and weather. There was a young married man on the train, who had a great idea of his own importance and knowledge. As we were standing in the vestibule of the car, he noted these quaint, bare trees, and said to a man near him:

"'Say, what do they do with this hemlock bark anyway?'

"The man replied: 'They use it for tan bark. It is shipped in great quantities. Why?'

"'Those Indians must be great climbers,' replied the young man, 'but it beats me how the deuce they can strip the bark off those trees, clean to the top.'

"And then he wondered why everybody laughed."

To Run to Hudson Bay.

While the C.P.R. and Grand Trunk Pacific Companies are still engaged in spying out the land in the Peace River Valley, and while the Hudson Bay Railway seems to be hanging fire, the Department of Railways and Canals has just had laid before it in Ottawa locations and plans for a railway through Canada's Northland which will rank with any of the big Canadian railways in importance. These plans have been filed by a company known as the Hudson Bay & Pacific Railway Co., backed by powerful financial interests in Great Britain.

This company represents one of the strongest aggregations of capital that has ever applied for a railway charter in Canada. Its capital is $5,000,000, all of which, it is claimed, is subscribed, while a lot of it has been paid up. The company has had two surveys made of their two proposed lines—one to go to Prince Albert from Hudson Bay across the country just to the south of Lake Athabasca, and thence through the wonderful Peace River region to Port Simpson, on the Pacific Coast, via the Yellowhead Pass.

The company's representatives have laid before the Department plans and soundings of the harbor at Fort Churchill, which is to be the Hudson Bay terminus, and have exhibited contracts already made by which the White Star steamship line will start an up-to-date service between Fort Churchill and Europe as soon as the railway is in operation to Fort Churchill.

TOO OSTENTATIOUS.

Gratitude of Immigrant Woman Had Its Unpleasant Features.

One of the branches of the public service at Ottawa which does its work quietly and without any of the glare of the limelight which attaches to the political departments, is that section of the Department of Justice which looks after the exercise of the power of pardon by the Governor-General. It may not be generally known that since Mr. Aylesworth has been Minister of Justice he has insisted upon personally reading over the file in every case in which executive clemency is asked, whether it be pardon for a well-behaved or a sick convict or the more serious matter of deciding what action shall be taken in regard to death sentences. All such petitions are, however, first considered by Mr. Augustus Power, who probably has a greater store of stories of the schemes to which convicts or their friends will resort in order to procure a pardon, than any other man in Canada.

It is not a pleasant task this of deciding the fate of your fellow men and women, but sometimes it has its humorous side. One of these comical incidents took place not long ago. A young immigrant woman with two small children, one of them a baby in arms, arrived in Ottawa by train from Montreal to plead for pardon for her husband, who had fallen foul of the law. She was herself not a walking illustration of the advantages of the daily use of soap and water; but the children were even dirtier than the mother. Doubtless it was not their fault, poor things; they had had a dusty journey on the train and probably were not much used to washing anyway. They were introduced into "Gus" Power's office, and the mother told her story and presented her petition to the official. He went over the file and after due consideration decided that it was a case where he could advise the Minister to recommend the exercise of clemency. And he told the woman so. But he was sorry immediately, for with tears of gratitude rolling down her cheeks the mother pushed forward the dirty baby in her arms, saying:

"Kiss the good, kind gentleman, baby!"

They do say that Mr. Power's face was a study, and that there and then he registered a vow never again to inform a petitioner for pardon of his recommendation except at the safe range of through the letter-post, especially when she was accompanied by her family!

A Canadian Actress.

It was in a log-hut in Canada that Miss Lena Ashwell, the London actress, cherished her first aspirations for the stage. Many years later she found herself in London, and tried to find the opening she coveted. For a whole year she tramped about from stage door to stage door before she eventually succeeded in discovering a manager who was willing to give her a chance; and when at length she did obtain a part her memory was not unduly taxed in learning it. The piece was called the "The Pharisee," it was performed at the Grand Theatre, Islington; her role was that of a young servant and she had precisely four words to say—namely, "Did you ring, sir?"

Nothing in the way of a cough is quite so annoying as a tickling, teasing, wheezing, bronchial Cough. The quickest relief comes perhaps from a prescription known to Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And besides, it is so thoroughly harmless that mothers give it with perfect safety even to the youngest babies. The tender leaves of a simple mountain shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its remarkable curative effect. It is truly a most certain and trustworthy prescription. Sold by all dealers.

PELEE ISLAND GRAPES.

Wine Industry Promises to Be a Big One on Lake Erie Shore.

One interesting portion of Ontario Province is Pelee Island, lying in the western part of Lake Erie, and owing to its southerly position, has a climate highly suitable for the growing of grapes. It is sometimes termed the vineyard of Canada, and since 1866 grapes have been grown and wine made in this favorably situated island. The Vin Villa Co., of Pelee Island, were the pioneers of the native wine industry in Canada, and their work is being continued by the Pelee Island Wine and Vineyard Co., whose yearly demands for grapes run from 75 to 100 tons. In other districts of Ontario Province, Sandwich, Niagara Falls, St. Catharines, etc., and also Quebec Province, wine making is carried on, and the volume of home consumption is by no means inconsiderable. In view, however, of the climatic conditions which prevail in Canada, and the circumscribed area in which grapes can be grown, it is questionable whether the native wine industry will ever attain to such dimensions as in Australia or even the Cape Colony, to say nothing of the vineyard state of California, U.S.A. There is a place for Canadian wines, of that there cannot be the slightest doubt, both at home and, as has already been pointed out, in the West Indies, but they should be sold as products of Canada, and not masquerade under the names of French, Spanish or Portuguese wines, with which they have no connection whatever. Canadian wines labelled as such will be judged upon their merits, but even consumers who do not rank as connoisseurs will hardly be deceived if they pretend to be something else. Care and systematic attention to all the processes of manufacture—that of fermentation in particular—will be necessary to an even greater extent than heretofore if the industry is to undergo any material expansion. There is no earthly reason why these desiderata should not be forthcoming. Standard of Empire.

DIFFERENCE IN CANADA.

English Paper Warns Delegates to Congress of the Hardships.

In connection with the number of English women going to Canada for the meetings in Toronto of the International Council of Women, one of the London ladies' papers had a timely, sensible and useful article recently on the little differences between England and Canada, which the visitor for the first time might find pitfalls. The writer, speaking in the highest terms of the ability, charm, and smartness in dress of the Canadians, reminded her readers that personal attention is something not only expensive in Canada, but hard to get at any price. She warned her readers not to ring bells constantly for a maid to perform various offices, and to remember that Canadian ladies generally cleaned their own shoes, did without early cups of tea in bed, and generally managed without much waiting on. All this seems odd to English women in a country where service is cheap and excellent. For a lady to clean her own shoes is unheard of. The writer of the article hastened to explain, however, that Canadians generally used a dressing in a bottle, which does not seem so dreadful as a brush and a box of blacking. She told the would-be travelers that the established custom of leaving boots at the door to be cleaned was not understood in Canada, and some of us have heard of the host creeping down late at night to polish the boots, himself, which have been left innocently outside the guest's door.

"FROM INKLETS"

Some time ago we heard a number of expert men of INK discussing the relative merits of the various Brands of WRITING INKS, especially for Commercial and Mercantile use, and the unanimous conclusion was that there was not a better INK for this purpose than KEARNS'. We suppose the KEARNS INK COMPANY could sell two or three times its present output; provided they would permit the amount of their sales to take precedence over the quality of their INK, which they guard with the most zealous care. AMUSING MISTAKES.

Haughty Librarian Gives Occasion For a Quiet Smile.

It is usually the ignorant or confused frequenters of a library who are responsible for amusing mistakes, but occasionally an overhaughty guardian of literature gives occasion for a quiet smile to those she serves, according to the Youth's Companion. To a request for "Prometheus Unbound" one such replied, with chilling decisiveness, "We have no unbound books."

More recently a schoolteacher, wishing to extend her rather scanty knowledge of the stories of Edgar Allan Poe, in view of the centenary of his birth, inquired at the delivery desk of a rural library for "The Gold Bug," adding: "I can't seem to find it in the catalogue, but I'm sure you have it. A friend of mine had it out last week."

The librarian glanced at the card catalogue drawer over which the teacher had been poring and smiled a superior smile.

"No wonder, Miss Jones," she explained with patient gentleness; "you are looking under 'Fiction.' Turn to 'Entomology' and you won't have any trouble."

Smiling in her turn, a different and more genial smile, the teacher turned to "Entomology" and there indeed, duly classified with learned works on lepidoptera and coleoptera, she found the unscientific but fascinating insect invented by that master of mystery tales, who did not even know that a beetle is not a bug.

It was almost too good a joke to spoil. But instruction and correction become second nature to a teacher, and, besides, there was her duty to the public. When she departed with "The Gold Bug" under her arm she left an enlightened but crestfallen librarian.

Oddly enough, a mate to this anecdote comes at almost the same time from the other side of the continent. The president of a western woman's club, also brushing up her knowledge of Poe before writing a paper on his life, sought at the local library for that weird tale of horror, "The Pit and the Pendulum."

She was referred to the card catalogue and advised to look under "Mechanics" or "Horology."

THE TELEPHONE FIEND.

We All Know Her, the Inconsiderate Person.

"Hello! That you? Yes, I just thought I'd call you up. It's warm out. Oh, I should say it is. No; it's real warm. Whatcheidoin? You are? 'Where am I?' At the bank."

So were several other women at the bank. They had stepped in to make deposits or send drafts and had gone into the women's room to wait for friends or use the telephone. One woman was waiting to telephone home that she couldn't get out in time for lunch. Another wanted to make an appointment with a dressmaker. A third wanted to telephone out to Bridget that it looked like rain and would she please shut the bedroom windows and also give the children a cooky apiece when they came home from school and not to let them play outside the yard, all of which was business, too, from some points of view. They were all brief, care relieving, time saving messages, the very sort of messages for which those phones were supplied. But there sat that creature "ugh huhing and mmhming" while a half dozen women waited for that one minute at the telephone that would make the rest of the day go smoothly.

And, by the way, the young person at the phone had walked in at the front door and made her way straight to that room. When at length she had used the telephones and the mirrors as long as she wished she retraced her steps, found her way back to the front door as fast as her feet could carry her, and in all probability she had never seen the sign on the receiving window.

Still she was in no way deterred from using the special privileges which the bank had provided for its patrons.

Perhaps this is too fine a point of honor to be grasped by the feminine mind.

Princess a Toothpick Queen.

The crown princess of Roumania, who before her marriage was Princess Marie of Edinburgh, expects to manufacture 25,000,000 toothpicks this year. She is the owner and active manager of a toothpick factory near Bucharest. The workers are tenants on the estate of her husband and she takes a personal interest in all of them. She established the factory four years ago, and it is one of the largest and most profitable in Europe. Toothpicks from the crown princess' factory go into all European countries and are to be found in New York hotels in individual paper wrappers. The crown princess is planning to manufacture quill pens, many of which are used in Germany and Russia. It is said it is becoming the fashion for society women all over Europe to use quills for writing, and it is expected American women will not be slow in taking up the fad. This movement is in line with the general revival of the fashions of our grandmothers, and the crown princess, with her usual business acumen, sees a chance for profit in putting quill pens on the market.

The Grind That Dulls.

If the scissors grinder kept his blade in the whetstone unceasingly the scissors would soon be useless. The grind that dulls women is not daily household duties, but never letting up on those duties. The housewife who is knowing keeps herself sharpened with frequent change and recreation.

Staterooms and Portholes.

An experienced traveler warns the uninitiated against paying from $5 to $20 extra for an outside stateroom on ocean liners. The inside rooms she has found to be perfectly comfortable and perfectly ventilated, and the portholes in the outside ones she considers a doubtful advantage. "They are kept locked," she says, "most of the time unless the weather is very pleasant, and even in calm weather they sometimes ship a deluge of salt water. Dirty water, too, swept from a deck above by the cleaners, may pour into a porthole of a room below, and the noise from the deck is annoying." Why, then should one pay extra for a porthole?"

A Very Personal Question.

If you were your real self, what sort of person would you be?

Probably you think you are your real self. But pause a moment and think what convention is doing for you.

Society has such a way of expecting certain things of us that to escape friction we give society what it wants.

But strip away the veneer of civilization, let the real woman in you stand forth, and what sort of person would you be?

Did you ever stop to think about it? Sometimes it is worth while.

Some of us may be bolstering ourselves up with conventionalities and artificialities in order to slip pleasantly through the world.

How much do you owe to convention, how much to your real self for the person you present to the world?

For instance, in the matter of dress, does it express yourself, or does it express the latest fashion plate?

Does your home express your real self, or is it furnished and managed as is the fashion in such things?

Are your charities a matter of the heart or a church formula?

It doesn't do a bit of harm once in a while to put the probe into such things.

It helps us to discover when it is worth while to assert our individuality and to help overthrow the sham and artificial things of life. It tells us wherein we are weak and need the common brotherhood of man to help us upbuild to better things.

If we feel that the real self that would step forth would be the cave man were every convention abolished and we needed neither to regard our fellow man, the present nor the future, then we need to let the rigid regulations of society build up our character.

If we realise we are leaning on the conventions of the world, that its artificialities are creeping into our blood and consuming its strength and individuality, we want to discard them.

Consider the real self that is in you, whether it is lovable, kind, strong, generous, or whether it is weak, unresisting, going the way of the world because that is the easiest.

What would you be, what would you do if you were the only woman in the world and could mold yourself and its future absolutely to your liking?

Tea a la Mode.

The latest way of serving tea is up to date hotels and first class restaurants is to place before the guest a small, thin envelope containing the tea leaves of his favorite brand. The waiter brings a pot of hot water, and the tea is brewed before the eyes of the guest, which insures its freshness.

The idea of putting portions of tea up in envelopes, says the Boston Cooking School Magazine, is not by any means new. The custom has been in use in some establishments, both in this country and Europe, for a good many years, the idea being to control the number of orders from a given quantity, to avoid waste and carelessness and to insure uniformity in making. The improvement in the new service is that the envelopes, made of course, especially dainty in appearance, go to the guest untouched instead of being emptied into the pot in the pantry. After filling the envelopes are creased and turned over at the top and corners. They are not gummed.

Nothing in the way of a cough is quite so annoying as a tickling, teasing, wheezing, bronchial Cough. The quickest relief comes perhaps from a prescription known to Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. No "Rooms for Rent."

"In London the good woman who has furnished lodgings to let never puts out that sign, 'Room for Rent,' so familiar in the cities of Canada," said a traveler. "Instead she displays the single word 'Residence.' That sounds queer to us, and until the Canadian visitor becomes wise as to its meaning he wonders what its purpose might be. Any native will tell him that such a legend means the occupant of the house will rent a part thereof to one who is seeking a place to reside in. So if you are in England and wish to rent a furnished apartment or room wherever you see the word 'Residence' go boldly in and state your mission."

Crape on the Door.

The custom of placing crape on the door of a house where there has been a recent death had its origin in the ancient English heraldic customs and dates back to the year 1100 A.D. At that period hatchments, or armorial ensigns, were placed in front of houses when the nobility or gentry died. The hatchments were of diamond shape and contained the family arms quartered and covered with sable.

Locating the Trouble.

One day Mary came to her mother and said, "Mother, my ear aches!"

"Does it ache very bad, Mary?" asked her mother.

"No."

"Well, run out and play. Then you will forget about it."

Mary went out, but pretty soon she came back and said: "Mother, my ear does ache. It is not the hole, but the ruffle around it."

Know the Ropes.

"What do you say to a young lady at a dance?" quoted the youth who was about to attend his first ball.

"Oh," replied the society man, "talk to her about her beauty."

"But suppose she hasn't any?" said the youth.

"In that case," rejoined the society man, "talk to her about the ugliness of the other girls present."—London Tatler.

AN INVESTIGATION.

Hamilton Presbytery Acts on Request of Church at Drummond Hill.

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 16.—An investigation was conducted today by a committee of the Hamilton Presbytery at Drummond Hill Presbyterian Church, following reports which have been in circulation detrimental to the pastor, Rev F. C. Harper, Grand Chaplain of the Masonic Grand Lodge of Canada. The findings of the committee will not be made public, but will be reported direct to the presbytery. For some time gossip has connected the name of the pastor with that of a prominent society woman whose husband is in Manitoba, and a congregational meeting, at which Mr. Harper presided on June 28th, passed the following resolution:—"Inasmuch as certain conditions exist in the congregation at present seriously affecting the welfare of the cause of Christ, this meeting hereby requests the session to request the Presbytery of Hamilton to send a committee to investigate the aforesaid conditions and advice some course of action."

The investigating committee was composed of Sir Thomas Taylor, Hamilton; the Rev. John Young, Hamilton, the Rev. Dr. George H. Smith, St. Catharines; the Rev. J. D. Cunningham, Welland, and J. K. Black, St. Catharines.

Allegations are made by the dissatisfied members of the church that Mr. Harper's calls upon the woman in the case have been altogether too frequent, while he declares that they were actuated by a feeling of friendship alone. He says that the lady has been very kind to him and that her interest in the church affairs alone necessitated frequent visits from him When seen today he said that he hoped for the fullest investigation, knowing that his true position could only be made known by a complete delving into the facts and tge exposing of the scandalous statements as such. He said that he had been advised to resign by his physician on account of ill-health, but would not do so until the present matter was cleared up and the woman whose name is linked with his vindicated. He said that he felt deeply the position in which he was placed, through no fault of his or of the woman.

A failing tiny nerve—no larger than the finest silken thread—takes from the Heart its impulse, its power, its regularity. The stomach also has its hidden or inside nerve. It was Dr Shoop who first told us it was wrong ta drug a weak or failing Stomach, Heart or ffidneye. His tive—is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even for a few days soon become fully convinced of its wonderful merit. Anyway, don't drug the organ. Treating the cause of sickness is the only sensible and successful way. Sold by all dealers.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

BLOODHOUNDS ON TRAIL.

Dogs Help Police in Pursuit of Miss Brooks' Murderer.

Poughkepsie, N.Y., July 16.—The knife with which Miss Emma Brooks was slain in her lonely home near Highland, was put to the noses of several bloodhounds today and the dogs started west along the Central New England Railway tracks on the supposed train of the murderer. The animals were taken to the scene of the crime by Deputy Sheriff Cleveland, of this city. The knife was found on the front steps of the house, Rhere the murderer evidently dropped it in his flight.

Early today a man who gave his name as Dennis Gallagher, was arrested at Maybrook, where he got off a Central New England freight train His appearance is that of a tramp.

Miss Brooks was 72 years old. Her body was found in the house yesterday afternoon by Remy Bragg, a farmhand employed to look after her fruit farm. The throat was cut down from ear to ear, and $300 had been taken from the pocket of her dress. A wandering berry picker had been driven from the farm earlier in the afternoon. The police theory is that or murder.

AYLESWORTH TO QUIT OFFICE.

Coming Absence in England Revives Rumor of Retirement.

Ottawa, July 16.—It is announced that Hon. A. B. Aylesworth has been appointed by the Imperial Government to prepare the British case, respecting the North American fisheries for submission to The Hague Tribunal. He has already been placed in charge or the case for Canada and Newfoundland. His duties in this matter may detain him abroad for several months, anh this fact has revived the old rumor of his retirement from public life, and the candidacy of Dr. Coulter, Deputy Postmaster-General, for the vacancy in North York.

Additional gossip has it that Mr. Lemieux will become Minister of Justice, and that Dr. Coulter will succeed him as Postmaster General, provided of course that he carries North York.

WHITE PLAGUE SPREADING.

One Million School Children in the States Have Disease.

New York, July 17.—On the basis of recent investigations, the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis declared in a statement that the United States is paying annually $7,500,000 for the education of children who will die from tuberculosis before they reach the age of 18. There are nearly 1,000,000 school children in the country today who will die of this disease before they are of age, the statement continued. To offset this yearly waste, the children are being educated about the dangers of tuberculosis and the methods to be taken for its prevention, and during the school year just closed over 3,500,000 of the 17,000,000 school children in the United States, the society states have received such training.

MAY CUT DOWN LIMIT TO ONE.

Game Commissioners Alarmed at Number of Deer Killed.

The Ontario Game and Fisheries Department is alarmed at the destruction of deer, and the permit to kill two is likely to be changed to only one.

The number of carcasses of deer carried by express companies during the open season of 1906 was 4,387 as against 3,886 in 1907, and increase of 501. This number, large as it is, is not one-third of the total actually killed, when taken into consideration that 11,353 deer hunters' and settlers' permits were issued, the holders of each being entitled to kill two deer. In addition to the above, Indians and settlers in unorganized territory were allowed to kill two each without licenses or permits, for their own use, but not for sale or barter.

"In view of the large increase of hunters and the number of deer killed," says the superintendent, Mr. Tinsley, "it may be necessary in the near future to limit the number to one that may be legally killed on each license. It seems incredible that our northern district should continue to supply these immense numbers year after year with no apparent diminution, except in older settled portions of the Province.

Get Well First

Don't risk even a penny—until health first returns.

And I mean just exactly that. "I am the one physician who says to the sick 'I will out of my own pocket, pay for your medicine if it fails to bring you help!'" And for 20 years Dr. Shoop's medicines have been used and recommended in every city and hamlet in America. They are positively standard in every community—and everywhere. Then why pay the cash, and at your risk, for other unwarranted and unproven medicines? Thousands upon thousands have in the past successfully used Dr. Shoop's Restorative. When the stomach nerves, or the Heart or Kidney nerves fail, these sick ones know how quickly Dr. Shoop's Restorative will bring them back to health again. But best of all, they positively take no money risk whatever. They know that when health fails to return, Dr. Shoop will gladly pay the bill for that test a full 30 day treatment is freely awarded. But write me first for an order. This will save delay and disappointment. All druggists sell Dr. Shoop's Restorative and Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy, but all are not authorized to give the 30 day test. So drop me a line—for I have appointed an honest and responsible druggist in every community to supply you. Remember, every where, no home may be without these medicines in the future, no matter what book you read. The book below will surely open up new and helpful ideas to those who are not well. Besides you are perfectly free to consult me just as you would your home physician. My advice and the book below are yours—and without cost.

Then Pay For

Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some serious ailments. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescription or personal advice plan. My best efforts to surely worth your simple request, do write me now while you have it fresh in mind, for tomorrow never comes. Dr. Shoop, Box 33, Racine, Wis.

DRUNKEN DEBAUCH.

Aged Woman Found Dead in Lippincott Street Cottage.

Toronto, July 16.—As the result of a debauch lasting two days, Mrs. Catherine Bruce was found dead yesyesterday, afternoon at the home of Mrs. Mary Rocks, 366 Lippincott Street. Her body was taken be held by Coroner Cotton. The dead woman lived at 218 Albany Avenue, and Mrs Rocks, as well as her husband, are under arrest on a charge of drunkenness, but principaly to be held as witnesses.

It appears that the three were drinking for some time, and that they went to the cottage on Lippincott street yesterday. They apparently all went to sleep in a drunken stupor, and when Mrs. Rocks awoke she tried to rouse the other woman, but could not. The police then came in, and the two people were placed under arrest. The doctor's examination revealed the fact that death was due to alcoholic poisoning.

TOOK AMERICAN CITIZEN.

And the Ship and Crew Were Annihilated By British Ship.

Washington, July 17.—The annihilation of the pirate ship together with its crew, which was reported to have captured an American citizen, in the waters of British North Borneo, was reported to the State Department today by the British Ambassador. The destruction was the work of the British ship Merlin.

This information reached the Ambassador through the Governor of British North Borneo, but no mention was made of the fate of the American held by the pirates.

FIRE STARTED FROM A SPARK.

Consumed the Saw Mills and Dwelling of Mr. Stewart Murphy.

Four thousand dollars is the estimated loss occasioned by a spark, which falling unobserved from the smoke-stack into some dry material and igniting, caused a fire last Thursday morning which destroyed the saw and shingle mill and dwelling on the 7th line of Dummer owned by Mr. Stewart Murphy.

The exceedingly dry weather which prevailed for such a long period previous to the fire made everything as dry as tinder, and when once underway it was impossible to stay the progress of the flames. The smoke of the fire could be seen quite plainly in Norwood.

The sawmill was completely destroyed as was also the adjoining shingle mill. It was impossible to save Mr. Murphy's home, and his residence, furniture and all, was swept away. Forty thousand feet of lumber and a large quantity of shingles were also burned.

The employees of the mill formed a bucket brigade and worked hard to save the mills and house, but their efforts were of little avail, and when it was seen that everything was going to be burned, their efforts were turned to try and prevent the fire reaching the woods in the vicinity from which the timber cut in the saw mill is obtained.

The loss is estimated at $4,000, with no assurance.—Norwood Register.

PERSONAL

Rev. Canon Davidson yesterday evening entertained at tea the committee who had charge of the building of St. John's church new rectory.

Mrs. M. D. Rouse, wife of Dr. Rouse, and grandson, Master Douglas Lee Nilos of Buffalo, are the guests of Mrs. H. R. Campbell, of Stewart street.

Miss Myrtle Howland and Master Harold of Peterborough, are spending the holidays with their aunt, Mrs. Thomas Buck, Hastings road. —Norwood Register.

A party of young ladies, milliners and dressmakers at local departmental stores have left for Jubilee Point, where they will spend a two weeks vacation at the cottage there.

Mr. Eugene Abbs of Erie, Penn., formerly of this city, was in Peterborough yesterday on his way to Campbellford.

Mrs. Waddington and daughter, of Memphis, Tenn., are the guests of the Misses Nicholls, 210 McDonell street. Miss Miller of Beatrice, Nebraska, is also a guest. After spending a few days in the city they will summer at Stony Lake.

Rev. W. J. Creighton, who has been incumbent of St. John's church for the past few years has been appoint to the Bloor street Anglican church, Toronto, and will leave here about August 1st. Mr. Creighton's many friends here will regret his departure.—Lakefield News.

From the facts known Mr. R. C. Braund is the only grocer in Peterbough who has given his clerks a Thursday half holiday this year, He not only allowed them a half holiday this week, but also invited them to spend theafternoon with his family, who are camping several miles down the Otonabee. Whether he intends to continue this is not known, but it is not probable as it is understood that all the other grocers remain open.

Mr. E. Hackett, B.A., is visiting with his brother-in-law, Mr. F. C. Moore of Messrs. T. Kinnear & Co., wholesale grocers of this city. Mr. Hackett is a graduate of the Royal University of Ireland, and come to Canada last August. He has since taken a course in Toronto University ,where he received a first-class certificate, and has been appointed to a position on the teaching staff of the Galt Collegiate Institute. Mr. Hackett is to be congratulated on the progress he has made since coming here, and his friends wish him every success in the future.

The Collegiate.

For the first time for many years there will be no crowding at the Peterbough Collegiate Institute next term, when there will be the usual influx of new students who have just passed the ehtrance examinations. The new building is commodious enough to hold all the students with comfort for several years to come.

MANY AUTO OWNERS.

Have No Respect for the Speed Limit in the City.

It is only a matter of a short time when some of the numerous amateur chafleurs will get a bump which will make their summer sport come pretty high. All regard for the speed limit is cast aside by a good many, and the more inexperienced they are the more reckless they appear to be. The new autos sail through the city and twist around the corners at a speed not even permitted by the steam or electric railways. That accidents galore have not happened indue entirely to the watchfulness and alertness of the pedestrians. Recently one of the proprietoes of a new car was making time on a residential street, and when he arrived at his own home he turned into the lane at such a speed that the auto struck the corner of the house and the man's head went through the front window. Considerable glass was broken, the man bled a little and the car had to be repaired somewhat. To see people rushing and dodging across the street while the auto owners wear a silly grin is quite a common sight.

The more experienced chauffeurs can easily be picked out from the crowd. Their speed is within the limit, and their car does not take up the whole road. It is to be hoped that a little more reason will be used in motoring about the city as no one wishes to have an accident happen, nor is it desireable to have any of the respectable citizens in police court.

Met the Council

terial Association and the directors of the Protestant Home.

REV. FATHER McCOLL.

Rev. Father McColl said that the Catholics had always taken care of their own poor. But some years ago the government placed the full responsibility for the care of the poor of the city upon the municipality. The Catholics already have large sums of money invested in buildings for the poor of the city. They have never refused a man irrespective of color or creed or financial circumstances. They have continually taken into their House of Providence and hospital, poor Protestants who could not possibly pay a doctor's bill.

Yet in time if they build this building, and then the city erects a building for the poor the Catholics would be taxed for their building which would be unjust. All they ask for is justice. They have for the past 12 or 15 years maintained their own House of Providence. Now they ask the city to paythem $1.50 per week for the maintenance of the inmates. The Catholics will look after the poor of the city for that sum for all time to come. The city cannot keepthe poor for anything like $1.50 per week, and therefore the city was being made a very good bargain.

The Catholics only want what is fair and just. Whether the city gives them a cent or not they will beable to look after their own poor for the next 2000 years the same as they have for the past 2000 years.

He said that they did not ask for anything that they would not be gladto see granted to every denomination. If the Protestants want to erect a house of providence let them do so and give them the same consideration.

Whatever this council decides upon the council may rest assured that the Catholic poor will be looked after.

REV. MR. KEITH.

Rev. Mr. Keith said that he wished again to express his appreciation of Father McColl's movement. He was not here to attempt to block any movement but to strengthen his hands. All he wanted to see decided first was the council's policy. If a house of refuge was to be erected that would be quite different, and if not he would like to see the Catholics get the same treatment as the Protestants.

CANON DAVIDSON.

Rev. Canon Davidson said that the question of charity was one in which all were interested and like Mr.Keith he would like to see the council decide upon the pliey to be adopted. All want to know wether or not they shall have a house of refuge. That should be decided at once.

Continuing Rev. Canon Davidson said that the city should not make it easy for a family or a community to, either directly or indirectly, throw their poor upon the euty to take care of. Then when the city does decide what it intends to do, be asked that all interested be notified so that they can conduct themselves accordingly. Z

Rev. Canon Davidson pointed out that at the present time there were very few poor people in the city and even in the worst seasons a great dealis done for the poor through the people do need assistance that they be not allowed to lose their self-respect. In Great Britain if there is one mistake that has been made, it is their policy of poor relief. It has caused a great many to lose all self respect and are not willing any longer to assist themselves.

COUNCIL DISCUSSES.

Ald. Hicks asked Rev. Canon Davidson and Rev. Mr. Keith as representatives of the Ministerial Association, if they had any policy or recommendation to submit to the council.

Rev. Mr Keith said that if there was to be a house of refuge they would have to continue in the future as at present. But if not they would prefer the policy of Rev. Father McColl, viz , that the Protestants look after their own poor and the Catholics look after their own poor.

Ald Hicks said that he would like the Ministerial Association to submit such a proposition as that they will provide a building for the Protestant poor if the city gives them a certain amount of assistance. Then the two religious bodies will be working along the same lines and it would be comparatively easy for the city.

Ald. Buller agreed with Ald. Hick's suggestion, and he said that as far as he could see the Ministerial Association and Rev. Father McColl appeared to agree on the one point, he therefore Moved that the Committe oof the Whole Council go into this matter and endeavor to settle upon a sum to pay per week for the maintenance of the inmates. Ald. Hicks seconded this motion.

Ald. Turner agreed with the proposition made by Rev. Father McColl

Ald. Hicks said that if the two religious bodies could agree upon the terms and plans that the council could go to the legislature and ask for special legislation and in this way overcome the possibility of the erection of a house of refuge in the future.

Ald.Buller's motion was carried.

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

Directors Met at President's House Last Night.

A meeting of the Agricultural Society was held at President Leary's home last night, when arrangements were made for the printing and advertising for this year's show, which will be held on September 16, 17 and 18. Arrangements are being made for several outside excursions to be run here those days and one is already closed with Picton.

MAYOR STAYS HOME.

Will Not Go to Medicine Hat to Represent the City.

His Worship Mayor Rush will not attend the annual meeting of the Municipal Association at Medicine Hat this year. The aldermen offered to send him, but owing to the city's finances, his worship declined to accept.

Ald. Phelan informed the committee of the Whole Council that while in Toronto recently he met Mayor Stevely of London, who asked that the City of Peterborough send a representative to the Municipal Convention in Medicine Hat. Ald. Phelan thought that the mayor should go and he moved that the council send the mayor.

MayorRush said that in the face of the present finances of the city he could not see his way clear togo. It would cost $150, and he did not think that it would be prudent to take that amount of money from the city's treasury. He appreciated the council's offer, however.

The convention will be held on July 26th.

Mr. Webber Turner Lost His Belongings

Mr. Webber Turner, of J. J. Turner & Sons, had an experience at Allison last Tuesday, which was unpleasant, inconvenient and expensive. He was in the town looking after the men who were putting up the decorations. On Tuesday morning he left his room to get the men started and when he came back all his belongings had disappeared including all his clothes, the railway tickets for the party and everything else of value. Mr. Turner had to purchase a new suit of clothes and buy more tickets. As yet the thief has not been located. The Allistin Herald has the following to say.

A COOL THIEF.

On Tuesday morning a bold thief entered a room in the Morrow House occupied by Mr. Turner of Peterborough, and donned a complete suit of clothing belonging to that gentleman, leaving behind a rather shabby costume. The thief had disappeared before the discovery of the robbery. He left however a good clue to his identity, and Constable Williams, who was at once placed in charge of the case, hopes tocapture him in a few days.

Prof. Gliddon called to mind how that about eight years ago Mr. Hughes came to the band in response to an advt. for a solo cornet player and whatever the part put before him, he had played it in really artistic style. Sergt. Hughes has endeared himself to every member of the band by his gentlemanly conduct and genial disposition and everyone is very sorry to see him go.

As a slight token of the esteem in which he is held Mr. E. Cronk, on behalf od the band presented Sergt. Hughes with a case of pipes.

Sergt. Hughes replied in a few feeling words, saying how loath he was to leave Peterborough and all the associations of eight years residence here.

He is assured of a hearty welcome should he ever desire to make Peterborough his home again.

Pe-ru-na Promptly Relieves Severe Cold and La Grippe.

Mr. T. Barnecott, West Aylmer, Ontario, Can., writes:

"Last winter I was ill with pneumonia after having la grippe. I took Peruna for two months, when I became quite well, and I can say that any one can be cured by it in a reasonable time and at little expense. Every time I take a cold, I take some Peruna, which makes me well again.

"I also induced a young lady, who was all rundown and confined to the house, to take Peruna, and after taking Peruna for three months she is able to follow her trade of tailoring.

"I can recommend Peruna for all such who are ill and require a tonic"

MR. T. BARNECOTT.

EVERY year, during the inclement weather of winter, there is an epidemic of la grippe. The disease is really catarrhal in nature, but from the form it assumes, has been commonly termed the "grip."

Splendid Remedy for La Grippe.

Mr. Frank H. Fielder, 213 Pleasant Ave., Montgomery, Ala., formerly principal of Haynesville High School, writes:

"I can truthfully say that Peruna is a splendid remedy for la grippe and a good tonic for building up the system."

La grippe is very tenacious when it once gets a firm hold upon the system, and in addition to a thorough, systemic catarrh remedy, a great deal of patience and persistence in the treatment are required to eradicate the disease.

Peruna, an internal catarrh remedy, is one of the best medicines ever devised to meet the exigencies of these cases. The large number of commendatory letters received by Dr. Hartman, the inventor of Peruna, in behalf of his remedy is proof sufficient of its value as a reliable medicine for the "grip."

Prompt Relief.

Mr. Frank Bauer, Minneiska, Minn., writes: "I suffered with la grippe. My lungs felt as if knives were sticking in them. I took Peruna and in four days I was able to go out."

Tree Fell on a Bus and Injured the Occupants and Tore Off the Top

One Man's Leg Broken---Horses Ran Away and Fell in the Sewer on Roger Street---Chief Howard Engineered the Rescue ---Horses were not Hurt

A party of the Brinton Carpet Manufacturing Company employes had an experience on Saturday night which they will not soon forget. That there were not several killed, and that the team of horses were not killed is a miracle. Two bus loads left the city Saturday afternoon for Lakefield. The party were composed of men only and they went out for a little picnic. The two teams belonged to R. Gibbs. Everything went fine and a very pleasant afternoon and evening was spent. The party started for home, coming down the east bank of the river.

About half way down and while all were singing and enjoying the fine evening, a tree suddenly fell across the road catching the front of the rig, the driver being unclouded. As the tree struck the rig the horses made a bound forward and the top of the bus with the driver and every occupant were cleared out in an instant and the horses continued on a mad run for home.

Several of the men were injured, more or less seriously. Herbert Bourne, suffered a serious compound fracture of the left leg above the knee. The bone pierced the flesh and he lost considrabe blood. The men who were not badly hurt, did all they possibly could for the unfortunate ones until assistance could be secured. This was about 11 o'clock at night and very dark which made things more difficult.

In the meantime the team continued their race until they struck Bourn street. They ran along Bourn to Rowe where the road is torn up for a sewer. The head of the street was protected by a guard, but the team took the lot side and circled round the corner. They did not straight on but struck enough however and about 400 feet from the corner the off horse dropped down into the sewer and struck on his back with his feet in the air and his head under his shoulder. The other horse was pulled in on top of him and the front wheel of the bus on top of the second horse. The sewer is about ten feet deep at that point and it was a very black outlook for the team.

It just happened that Chief Howard was coming along on his way to fix fire alarm box at the corner of Hesslip and Concession streets. He saw the accident and another man who was on the street hurried with him to the scene of the wreck. The two men raised an alarm and got a number of the neighbors out. Mr. Gibbs was telephoned for and the corporation tool box was broken into and tools and ropes secured. Chief Howard superintended the rescue party and did his duties remarkably successfully. Those who gathered around worked well. Ropes were placed about the horses, the harness was cut and then the animals were pulled out one at a time. For a long time it did not seem possible that the horses had any chance of life. However, when they were pulled up, the dirt and sweat rubbed off it was found that they had not suffered any other injury other than result from their run.

Mr. Gibbs at once got some new pieces of harness, hooked the team to the bus and went back after the men who had been left on the road side.

Bourne was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital where Dr. MacPherson at tended him. The others were taken home.

Mr. Gibbs is more than delighted with the way Chief Howard engineered the rescue of the horses as he thought himself they would be dead long before they could be got out.

50 Year-Old Law Makes Use of Cigarets a Crime

(Special Correspondence)

Des Moines, Ia., July 18.—You can't smoke a cigaret in Iowa any more unless you want to go a jail, be arrested or at least pay a fine.

GEO. CLOSSON.

Every policeman in the state is walking his beat, nosing for the unmistakable fumes which show that there is a cigaret-smoker loose in the land.

Neither can you have the "making it a rule to arrest all cigaret smokers on sight after the Fourth of July. It was Independence day for the anti-cigaret people.

Cigar dealers who pay an excise of $300 a year hired lawyers to fight the rule, but the 50 year old law stumped them.

So now many cigaret smokers are going about for the first time in their lives with cigars or pipes in their mouths.

Students at Drake, Iowa State, and other institutions will be paralyzed when they return next year and find the rule in force.

Cigars in your pockets even if you don't smoke. This drastic rule isn't the result of any freak bill. It's due to the work of Geo. Closson, special assistant in the office of Atty. Gen. H. W. Byers.

Closson, former state senator, dug up a law 50 years old that made cigaret smoking a crime here. It was passed before the Turkish or Egyptian, or Arabian kind were ever sold in Iowa, and the people had forgot ten all about it.

Strathconas Won Close Game from the T.A.S.

Park Street Ran Away from the West Ends ---Big Crowd Saw the Games at Nicholls Oval

There were surprises in the City League games on Saturday afternoon. The T.A.S. nine who were looked upon as the sure champions went down to defeat for the first time this season at the hands of the Strathconas, and the Straths are today the happiest bunch of players in the city. They have trimmed the T.A.S., a feat that they have endeavored to accomplish all season. The game was a close affair from start to finish and it was only a clever work in the ninth that won the game. Quinlan pitched a splendid game for the Abstainers and he got splendid support, there being only five errors. At the end of the eighth the score was two all, and both teams were playing good, fast, snappy ball. The Strathconas went into bat, Shaw was the first man up and got down to first on McFadden's error, and Weatherston got down safe. Then they pulled off a double steal, Shaw going to third and Weatherson to second. Kendry dropped a hit between first and second and was thrown out at first, but Shaw scored on the play. Andrews then went to bat and hunted down the third base line and Callaghan threw to the plate to catch Weather-ton, but McFadden lost the ball. This made two runs for the innings and cinched the game. Andrews stole second and third and Heaslip struck out. Then Andrews was caught trying to steal home.

The T.A.S. went into bat but they could not get onto Gerrie's twisters and were retired without a run.

The result was 4 to 2, and it was a hard tough for the T.A.S., who had played good steady ball up to the fatal ninth.

The Strathconas owe a great deal to three-fingered Gerrie, their pitcher. It is his first year in box and he certainly was a to the many admirers of the Strathconas all agreed that ball, only three errors being charged against him.

SECOND GAME.

The second game between the Park Street Athletics and the West Ends was a runaway for the first team. Whatever got into the West Ends was certainly poor days. They were all to the bad and have to answer for their discredit, five of which belong to Menzies. The Park street boys were on their metal and put up pretty fast article of ball. They had only three errors and they hit the ball freely, scoring 14 runs on 7 hits. The West Ends got 1 run on 1 hit.

The attendance at the Oval was the largest of the season, and the teams' receipts from the collection was most encouraging. The Oval diamond is a smooth level field and the players take to it better than one at Riverside, and the probability is the league will be finished at the Oval.

Dances in the Pavilion Enjoyed at Chemong

(Special to The Times.)

Chemong Park, July 19.—The Chemong Yacht Club had a most enjoyable smoker in their club house on Friday night. The reasonity of the members who are in the city came out in force and so automobiles. An excellent program was rendered and "tonic was the order of the evening. Refreshments served and the jolly party broke up about midnight.

The first dance of the season was given in the pavilion on Friday evening when about 25 [illegible] and [illegible] were present. The music was furnished by the Chemong Yacht Club orchestra and was excellent. Quinlan played a splendid game for the Abstainers and he got splendid support, there being only five errors. The Strathconas went into bat, Shaw was the first man up and got down to first on McFadden's error, and Weatherston got down safe. SIX MILES THE LIMIT!

Reckless Auto Driving on George Street to Be Stopped.

Magistrate Dumble has sounded a warning to speed crazed autoists if there are any in the city. He called attention to Chief Rossel Saturday morning that some of the chauffeurs were driving recklessly and apparently faster than the law allows. The law states that no machine shall be driven at a greater speed than ten miles an hour in the city and gives permission to the magistrate to become the sound a particular case these. It is therefore pointed out to automobilists that the limited speed on George street between South street and the C.P.R. station shall be six miles an hour. There are other like other thoroughfares which may be placed under this limit.

Offenders will be prosecuted according to the statute. It is claimed that on the main street many carnage seen along at a thoughtless rate of speed which may easily result in a serious accident would be avoided by slower speed. The city limits are easily measured by a police officer, and it would not be a difficult matter to get an auto's speed as it passes a particular point.

Cool Comfort in Hot Weather

One can feel cool and well fed, yet full of energy and "go" when the hot weather diet is selected with reason.

Flesh foods and fatty substances generate bodily heat.

When one is, so to speak, "between two fires," the one inside—combustion (digestion) of food—and the other a blazing sun outside, it's small wonder humanity is uncomfortable and unhappy.

In hot weather some attention should be given to food.

THE CALL TO ARMS

Last Week of Morning Times Great Contest Get Your Votes Registered and Then Get Out Among Your Friends and Secure More Subscriptions

Candidates, this is the 19th of July. It should be to you as the call to arms. This is the last week. Have your subscriptions ready, all paid subscribers, tell them that this is your last week. There is more to you than at any other time, and now is the moment for renewals and subscriptions before next Saturday night.

Look around you and see what others are doing, in every city there are candidates who are accomplishing results. Say to yourself this week and work as you never worked before, and you will get there. Don't lay off in the least coin. It's up to me to do the rest and now that I am entered in the race I will make every endeavor to win.

The present ratio of votes and the Rogers cups will remain the same as last week until Wednesday night. We decided to do this as many of the candidates need us to do it for them, so that were unable to carry out all their promises, and so we felt that it would be a great help to you all.

DON'T FORGET EXTENSIONS.

Remember that the best rates of votes that you can get this week is on extensions of subscriptions issued during the Extra Vote Offer. These, whether originally issued in your favor or for some other candidate will count you at the rate of the time on which they were written, and you will get the full benefit of the subscription for the whole length of the time to which it is extended, minus the votes that have already been issued on it.

MANY NOT ASKED.

Many persons say that no candidate has asked them a subscription. It is surprising how many people you can find to give you a subscription if you make the effort. Right in your own neighborhood there are many people who have not helped any candidate yet, simply because no one has asked them for their help.

HOW MANY VOTES WITH WIN.

The great question that is agitating the candidates is: "How many votes will be needed to win the Touring Car?"

Many are the surmises, and the estimates given by the public vary by a wide margin. Of course no one knows, and no one can know until the last vote is cast. The published vote is no guide, as many of the candidates have large reserves. At the last hour, when they see others turning in their reserves they are apt to rush off and get a few more subscriptions at the cost of an effort.

BATTER DO IT NOW.

It will show more wisdom if you get those necessary votes now instead of waiting until the last day and having heart failure when you see the bunch of votes that your rival has accumulated.

Fractious Horses Cause Excitement at Church

A team belonging to Wr. William Brown of Otonabee, behaved most disgracefully yesterday morning at Mark street church. Mr. Brown drove into church with his wife and family. He put the team into the shed and after service when starting away from the shed one of the horses got extremely anxious to get home but as the other was of a more quite disposition it began to rear and jump on its hind legs, and went right back into Mr. Brown's arms. Fortunately Mr. Brown did not get excited but caught hold of the animal's head and held it until assistance arrived. No one was hurt although the harness and rig was damaged and had to be patched up in order to get the people home.

A Grand Mother at 33

(Special correspondence)

Cleveland, O., July 19.—Here's a young woman who's a grand mother at 33, and doesn't care who know it.

Mrs. Albert Blamey married at 15, and became a mother on her seventeenth birthday. Her daughter, now Mrs. Wm. Rutger, married at 15, too. Baby Rutger, another William, is 3 months old. He rules over a mother and father, two grandmothers and grantfathers and two grant mother and grant father.

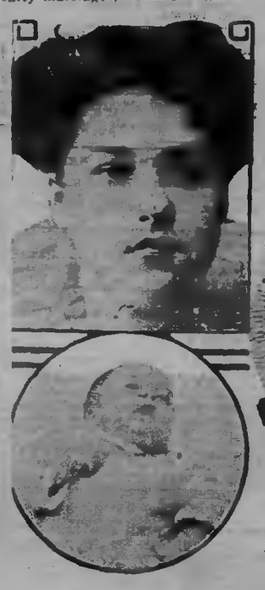
Both mother and grandmother are unusually happy in their home life. They look much alike, and are often mistaken for sisters.

"Being a grandmother doesn't make one a day older. I am in favor of early marriages," said young Grandma Blamey. "Both my daughter and myself married our first beau. There were never any quarrels about previous sweethearts which so often make trouble.

"We grow alike in tastes and ambitions when we marry young. And especially when there are children as there ought to be—the family sort of grows together.

"I taught my daughter housework so that she could make her husband's home happy and peaceful."

"And my husband likes my pie and bread," spoke up 16-year-old mother Rutger. "He won't have the baker's stuff in the house." There was a little emphasis on the "my husband" and Mrs. Rutger still blushes just a little when she says the words."



Mrs. Albert Blamey, Her Daughter, Mrs. Wm Rutger, 16, and Grandson, 3 months old.

Bobcaygeon Man to Be Appointed.

The Provincial Agricultural Department having extended the field crop competitions has found it necessary to select a few competent persons to act as judges, as the regular staff of departmental officials has now more than it can accomplish in the limited time. Verulam Agricultural society has the honor of supplying one of these judges. Mr. Wm. Kickson having been selected to judge the field crop competition in North and South Lanark. Mr. Hickson was at Guelph this week attending a meeting of the judges, the object being to discuss the work with Prof. Zavitz, and arrange as near as possible for a uniformity of scoring. Mr. Hickson is thoroughly competent for this position, and the department is to be congratulated on making the selection.—Independent.

COMMITTED SUICIDE.

Vienna, July 17.—Baron Oskar Rothschild, the youngest son of Albert Rothschild, head of the American branch of the Rothchild house, died suddenly in this city last night. It is reported this morning that committed suicide because of an unfortunate love affair.

Oskar was 21 years of age. He returned to Vienna two days ago after eight months spent in travel, during which he visited the United States.

Whw Americans Move to Europe

London, July 17.—The Daily Mail this morning prints an article from an annonymous "American millionaire" in which he professes to give the reasons why cause so many wealthy Americans to settle in England.

"One of the real reasons," he says "so many of us are escaping from America is the desire to be left alone. In London people are accustomed to mind their own business. Private gossip and scandal are at a minimum here not only in houses, but in clubs, and your newspapers do not print it. There is in fact no curiosity with regard to rich people in England.

"The absence of class feeling in England is another reason. The rich and poor are not divided into hostile factions. There is not the rush, envy, malice, of New York society with its continual struggle of Western and Pittsburg people to get into that curious circle the four hundred.

"New York city is not what it was in my early days. When old Mr. Astor reigned supreme society in New York was not at all unlike society in London. There was no ostentatation and any persons of birth, brains, or breeding were freely admitted. Today it is merely a question of money, and such charming salons as exist in London, where rank, money and brains occupy about the same position, are now impossible in most American cities and certainly in New York.

THE BRITISH SEA POWER.

The obstanding feature of the British naval manoeuvres this year is the number of ships engaged in the mimic war and the enormous increase over other recent assemblages of the Imperial navy. The increase is to be noted in all classes of ships, and most of all in the important fighting classes and in the fleet as a whole it amounts to considerably more than 100 per cent. over the showing of the two great reviews of 1897 and 1902.

Thus, of big battleships there were in Queen Victoria's diamond jubilee review, in 1897, only 21, and in King Edward's coronation review, in 1902, the same number, while in the present manoeuvres there are no fewer than 30. Of those powerful armored cruisers 9Rh mored cruisers which are practically battleships there were in 1897 only 9 and in 1902 only 6, while now there are 27. Of those destroyers which Mr. Kipking has celebrated as the deadliest of all craft, "the shooters of the slain," there were 30 in 1897 and 32 in 1902, and now there are 117. Torpedo boats have increased from 20 in 1897 and 56 in 1902, to 79, while submarines, which were non-existent in the two reviews now number 26. The totals are 165 in 1897, 125 in 1902 and 350 in 1909.

In connection with this tremendous showing it may be remembered that while in 1897 and 1902 about half of the battleships were more than ten years old, and some were more than 20 years old, of the 40 this year all but 8 are less than ten years old, and practically all the armored cruisers, destroyers, torpedo boats and submarines are within that limit age. That is to say, within ten years Great Britain has put into commission 32 battleships, 20 armored cruisers, scores of destroyers and torpedo boats and more than two dozen submarines.

The present fleet is, therefore, not only the greatest in numbers that has ever been assembled, but also the newest and the most up-to-date and most efficient. In the face of such a showing Britania may certainly have some degree of confidence that she will continue to rule the waves.

Handing Them a Lemon

The editor sat in his office whence all but him had fled, and he wished that every last dead-beat was in his grave—stone dead. His mind then wandered far away to the time when he should die, and his royal editorial soul go scooting to the sky; when he'd roam the fields of paradise and sail o'er Jasper seas, and all things glorious would combine his every sense to please. He thought how then he'd look across the great gulf dark and drear, that'll yawn between his happy soul and those who swindled here, and when for water they would call, and in agony they'd caper, he'd shout to them: "Just quench your thirst with the due that's on your paper."—

AFTER BOMB THROWERS.

Labor Unions Pitted Against Chicago Police.

Chicago, July 16.—The holding of Vincent A. Altman, assistant business agent of the Carpenters' Union, for the grand jury today on the charge of placing the bomb that was exploded in the down-town district the night of June 27 presages a bitter contest between labor union and the police.

Altman's friends had predicted that his arrest was a mere "bluff," and that he would be released by the court. Instead of this, Judge McSurely held him for the grand jury under bond of $20,000. The members of Altman's union have a volunteer detective force at work and charges have been made that the police are afraid to arrest the real bomb thrower, who, they say, is in possession of information that the police have protected gambling in this city for years.

SHAKESPEARE'S LAW.

Citations to Show That He Was In the Fashion of His Time.

No ordinary reader of Shakespeare's works can fail to be struck by the copious and ever-recurring legal phraseology with which they are filled. Not only are law terms frequently employed with an almost professional correctness to give color and intensity to his sentences, but whole scenes are taken up with allusions to or discussions on purely legal matters, as in "The Merchant of Venice," "Henry V." and the grave scene in "Hamlet," not to mention other plays. So profound indeed is the knowledge displayed all through that no less an authority on the subject than Lord Campbell has told us that "to Shakespeare's law, lavishly as he propounds it, there can neither be demurrer nor bill of exceptions nor writ of error." To this marked feature of the works more than to any other one might perhaps with justice attribute the very origin of the whole Baconian theory. The point is naturally of extreme importance in the eyes of those whose only knowledge of the literature of the period is confined to Shakespeare's writings. But that importance shrinks rapidly to insignificance after a course of reading through the general dramatic literature of the time, in which, as a matter of fact, legal similes and allusions are found to occur with about the same frequency as in Shakespeare's works. So strong indeed is the legal coloring of all stage writing at the time that one is forced to believe that law talk must have been more common among laymen in those days and especially among laymen of a play-going disposition than it has ever been during any period since. There are indications besides that some critics were getting tired of all this legal jargon. Dekker, for instance, who writes:

"There is another ordinary at which your Londen usurer, your stale bachelor and your thrifty attorney do resort—the price, threepence; the room as full of company as a jail. If they chance to discourse it is of nothing but statutes, bonds, recognisances, fines, recoveries, audits, rents, subsidies, sureties, inclosures liveries indictments, outlawries, feoffments, judgments, commissions, bankrupts, amercements and of such horrible matter."—Gull's Horn Book, 1609.

Sale of the Holbein.

The correspondent of The London Daily Chronicle at Milan says:

The outburst of public feeling in England over the sale of Holbein's "Duchess of Milan," and its threatened loss to the British nation has attracted a good deal of interest here. It is remarked that The Daily Chronicle, while calling prominent attention to the law which it has been found necessary to enact in Italy for the safeguarding of the national art treasures, has seemingly overlooked an important new fact bearing very materially on the present situation as regards Italy and Great Britain alike. That fact is the recent revision of tariffs in the United States, which altogether sweeps away the crushing duties on objects of art entering North America.

One of the far-reaching effects of this change is that not only divers American magnates are making arrangements to remove across the Atlantic previous collections, which, to avoid the tax-collector's rapacity, they had hitherto kept stored in Europe, but through their agents dealers are now more eager than ever to pillage countries like Italy of their masterpieces in every branch of art. In Italian cities especially their churches have already been sacked to a far greater extent than is generally known, so that hundreds of art works pointed out to travelers are but clever fakes of originals which have long disappeared, and for the manufacture of which a flourishing school of artists exists in Florence and elsewhere.

BARS RUSSIAN SPIES.

Foreign Police Will Be Permitted on French Territory No Longer.

Paris, July 19.—The remarkable series of revelations regarding the methods of the Russian police in keeping track of Russian students and refugees in France, which followed Bourtzeff's exposure of General Harting's complicity in the plot against Alexander III, has led Premier Clemenceau to announce in the Chamber of Deputies that the government has decided to forbid the maintenance hereafter of foreign police in French territory.

JUDGE NOT TEMPTED.

Thrashes Man Who Thrusts Money Into His Hand.

Coudersport, Penn., July 19.—"Get out, you scoundrel, and take that," said Judge John Ormered, of Potter County, last evening, as he flung back a roll of money that had been thrust into his hand by John S. Eckert, an applicant for a license transfer. He accompanied the movement and exclamation with two sound blows, delivered squarely in Exkert's face, before the latter had time to gather his scattered banknotes and run.

The incident occurred almost in front of the Crittenden Hotel, a prominent point, where Judge Ormered had stopped at a fruit stand on his way home. Eckert, after gathering up the bills, ran around the corner of the hotel and has not since been seen.

Mr. — was surprised at how the sores healed—"I took your New Method Treatment for a serious blood disease with which I had been inflicted for twelve years. I had consulted a score of physicians, taken all kinds of blood medicine, visited Hot Springs and other mineral water resorts, but only got temporary relief. They would help me for a time, but after discontinuing the medicines the symptoms would break out again—running sores, blotches, rheumatic pains, looseness of the hair, swellings of the glands, pains of the hands scaling, itchiness of the skin, dyspeptic stomach, etc. I had given up in despair when a friend advised me to consult you, as you had cured him of a similar disease 8 years ago. I had no hope, but took his advice In three weeks' time the sores commenced to heal up and I became encouraged. I continued the New Method Treatment for four months and at the end of that time every symptom had disappeared. I was cured 7 years ago and no signs of any disease since. The Canadian Northern Railway will eventually run a Line through Melville, from North Portal to their Prince Albert Line. James J. Hill's Great Northern Railway will reach Melville over the G. T. P. American Line, and will also likely have its own Line into Melville in the near future.

DR. PELKEY

Consumption Cured

And all Other Lung and Kidney Troubles

By the Wonderful Discovery made by a Canadian Doctor

Dr. Pelkey, a Canadian Physician, holding medical certificates in France, United States and Mexico, has made a discovery that promises to be the greatest boon yet given to humanity.

His great Consumption Cure is applied by means of an inhaler, the ingredients for which are contained in a tank, and the very first use made of it by the patient brings immediate relief, followed quickly by permanent cure. These inhalers are not sold to the people, but are placed in the home until they are not further needed, and then taken away.

Dr. Pelkey is exhibiting the invention, which is called the Pelkey Inhaler, throughout the country. The inhaler is first a platinum tank, divided into 28 compartments, into which various chemicals and drugs are placed. Outside these compartments cold water is placed. The action of the cold water causes a vaporous gas to rise into an eight-part evaporator at the top, where it is purified and forced through tubes for inhalation. The gas forms pure oxygen, tasteless, and odorless, and the patient inhales this. So healing is its effect that it will almost immediately stop a tuberculosis cough.

Most wonderful of all is the fact that Dr. Pelkey offers to treat his patients with the inhaler free of charge. The only thing for which he charges is a blood-purifier and building-up tonic, which he insists upon the patient's taking. He will even allow the person undergoing the treatment to take home the tank with him and be treated there.

Dr. Pelky has been for 17 years in Mexico and Central and South America. He has Government certificates from Mexico, Brazil, New Mexico and Canada and many Latin-American republics, testifying to cures wrought by him with the inhaler. One certificate states that nearly half a troop of Mexican soldiers and American soldiers and Government officials of Montreal were cured under his treatment. Another is signed by President Diaz, of Mexico, himself, whom Dr. Pelkey cured. Dr. Pelkey can show hundreds of other testimonials of permanent people of Ottawa, who were cured of lung troubles and kidney troubles after suffering for five years.

Write letters, fully describing your trouble to The Great Specific Co., or to Ottawa, Ont.

Violent End Feared by Banker Shot Dead

Hidden Letters Expected to Throw Light on Killing of J. B. Sayler.

Mob Rule is Still Threat

Iroquois County Authorities Plan Speedy Action to Bring the Doctor to Trial.

Watseka, Ill., July 16.—A packet of private papers which is believed to be locked up in a safety deposit box, is expected by the authorities of Iroquois County to shed much light upon the circumstances under which John Byron Sayler, the Crescent City banker, was shot to death in his own home Sunday night by Dr William R. Miller.

According to W. R. Nightingale, cashier of the bank of which the slain man was vice president, Sayler for two years past had lived in fear that his domestic troubles would come to some tragic culmination. Whenever he left Crescent City he placed in the hands of the cashier a bundle of sealed papers with instructions that they were to be opened in case he came to harm. After a safe return from a trip Sayler's custom was to destroy the papers, but on his last practice, and the packet is supposed to lie intact in his private box in the bank's vault.

The box will be opened by the coroner tomorrow afternoon after the funeral, and in case the papers are found the expectation of the officials is that they will contain information that will at least indicate what weight should be attached to the theory that the shooting of the banker was premeditated.

MOB RULE STILL FEARED

Iroquois County from one end to the other tonight is still in a high state of excitement over the killing of the leading citizen of Crescent City. Last night there was strong talk of lynching Miller, but cooler counsel prevailed, and although the fear of mob rule is still prevalent, the authorities look for no attempts at violence at the jail doors. Nevertheless Sheriff Heikes has placed an extra force of armed guards on watch tonight.

Miller is in the jail, held on a coroner's warrant, charging him with the murder of Sayler. Mrs. Lucy Sayler, widow of the slain man, whose relations with Miller caused the trouble, John C. Grunden, her father, and Ira Grunden, her brother, also are prisoners, charged with being accessories to the crime. All are held without bail for the action of the next grand jury, which will not be impaneled until the November term of court.

The fact that the next grand jury will not sit for over three months led State's Attorney J. P. Pallisaid to declare tonight that a special grand jury will be summoned in order that there may be no delay, in the investigation of the circumstances under which Sayler came to his end.

PROMPT ACTION DEMANDAD.

Feeling against Miller and his three fellow prisoners is increasing in intensity, and the authorities believe that prompt action in the courts may prove the only means of averting an overthrow of law and order and a demonstration of violence, in case the packet of private papers show that the officials expect them to show—that Sayler for two years lived in mortal fear of Dr. Miller and that his continual apprehension was that he might come to violent injury or death as a result of his domestic infelicities.

Dr. Miller was in the practice of carrying a magazine revolver. Banker Sayler was aware of the fact, and is said never to have owned a weapon himself. This is advanced as a partial reason for the belief that Sayler would not have provoked a conflict.

Miller asserts that he was shot through the wrist with his own weapon during the struggle with Sayler. In a wall outside the Sayler home today a bullet was found imbedded. On the lawn was an empty shell. After the shooting Dr. Miller was alone with the body for a considerable time This series of facts leads the police to the belief that Miller's wound was self-inflicted.

Mrs. Sayler asserts that her husband came in unarmed and attacked the physician with a hatchet which he pulled from under a lounge. John Grunden, her father, says that the banker brought it into the house with him after refusing to play cards Aside from this discrepancy Edward E. Meyer, president of the village board of Crescent City, Dietrich H. Myer, a retired merchant, and Edward Blantin, a laborer, assert that they were summoned to the Sayler home immediately after the shooting that they examined the room carefully, but saw no hatchet. The three men then went to Miller's home, leaving Mrs. Sayler and her brother Ira alone with the body. Two or three hours later, when the three men returned, they saw the hatchet in the room.

Some days prior to the shooting Miller sent his family away on a visit, and Mrs. Sayler sent away her daughter Golda also. During the shooting neither Mrs. Sayler, her brother, nor her father made any attempt to interfere.

MILLER ALONE WITH BODY

When the shooting began Mrs. Sayler ran out to the barn. The elder Grunden says he endeavored to seperate the two men, but could not. After the banker sank dead on the parlor floor, Miller was alone with the body for some time while the others ran for assistance, and when they arrived he was on the porch complaining of his wounded wrist. Mrs. Sayler is said to have betrayed little concern over the disposition of her husband's body, which lay on the floor where it fell for an hour or two but to have expressed great solicitude for the doctor's wound in the wrist, offering to dress it, insisting that a physician be called and later making coffee for Miller.

At the county jail here Dr. Miller and Mrs. Sayler are in cells as widely separated as possible, and the sheriff believes that communication between them is impossible. Miller is held on a charge of murder. Mrs. Sayler, her father and brother being in custody as alleged accessories.

Residents of a Block in Philadelphia Submit to Operation.

Philadelphia, July 17.—While a detail of two hundred policemen kept close guard, physicians today vaccinated nearly two thousand persons in the city block bounded by 26th, 27th York and Dauphin streets, following the discovery of a case of small-pox in the home of Charles Krimmle, No. 2637 Gordon street, where the seven-year-old son of Krimmle is ill.

Chief Medical Inspector A. A. Cairns, of the Health Bureau, and his staff of forty physicians went through the entire Twenty-eight Ward and vaccinated all persons who desired to take the precaution against the spread of the disease. Several dwellers within the quarantine escaped before the ropes were stretched, and the police are watching for their return when they will be quarantined until vaccinated.

"FROM INKLETS"

Some time ago we heard a number of expert users of INK discussing the relative merits of the various Brands of WRITING INKS, especially for Commercial and Mercantile use, and the unanimous conclusion was that there was not a better INK for this purpose than KEARNS'. We suppose the KEARNS INK COMPANY could sell two or three times its present output; provided they would permit the amount of their sales to take precedence over the quality of their INK, which they guard with the most zealous care. New Westminster Not Satisfied

WITH ONLY EASTERN TRUSTEES, WANT A MAN APPOINTED FROM THEIR NEIGHBORHOOD

Montreal, July 16.—There is a new idea in lacrosse, which may extend itself to hockey. New Westminster has refused to give the Calgary, Alberta, club, dates for games for the Minto Cup, pending a decision from Ottawa as to the appointment of a western trustee, upon which it is insisting. Premier McBride is New Westminster's choice for this office.

How to keep our national game clean seems to be a lively topic, but does it ever occur to the lacrosse fan of today that the baggy stick has a lot to do with unecessary roughness ans slashing players indulge in order to dislodge the ball in an opponent's stick?

Some of the old-time followers of the game will remember (said an official of the Shamrocks to The Star) when our old friend Henry McLaughlin who was then hon. secretary of our club, used to announce through a large 10 x 4 poster that the Toronto men were coming.

Well, we would all talk about it and on the appointed day hike up to see what the Torontos were really going to do.

When the referee would gather the players about him one would notice that the captains would respect the lacrosse sticks of their opponents, and if any of the players had a baggy stick, the referee's attention would be drawn to it and another stick would have to be substituted.

I claim that if the baggy stick was done away with, the game would be cleaner and fairer.

Picture a player with a baggy stick He gets possession of the ball. Say, for instance, he is on the attack. The ball lodges in the bag; he advances towards the defence player, he checks his stick, the ball does not budge, again and again he tries, but to no purpose, he loses his head or he has to try the up-check, and to success fully check up he has to be very fast.

What is the result? The followers of each team urge the men on to take chances. The defence man checks hard and fast to see if he cannot knock the ball off his opponents stick with the result as you'll remember in a game played this present summer, the stick was actually knocked out of a home player's hands, and the defender had to go and keep company with the timers for five minutes.

Now, I would suggest: let the officials who handle our games see that the running strings are tightened a little at least, and you will find that the game will be cleaner and faster.

DOG RESCUES MAN.

Great Dane Grabs His Arm in His Mouth and Swims Ashore.

New York, July 17.—Swett, a Great Dane owned by the proprietor of Ward's Rest Inn, Centreport, Long Island, saved from drowning yesterday Leonard Tower, of Centreport, after Tower had gone down for the last time. Swett will be presented with a collar having a silver plate suitably engraved with a record of his deed, by the summer colonists.

Tower went swimming in Huntingdon Harbor, off Centreport. Swett spends much of his time in the water and he was near by when Tower was seized with cramps and sank. Tower yelled for help, and the dog, the only living object in sight, swam to the drowning man. As Tower was sinking for the third time in sixteen feet of water the dog grasped his right arm in his teeth and swam ashore. Tower was revived after half an hour's hard work, and now he's as well as ever. He has promised to provide for the dog for the rest of its life.

OCEAN TELEGRAPHY

In the latest instalment of his interesting Anglo-American memories, which are appearing in the Sunday issues of the New York Tribune, Mr. G. W. Smalley writes of journalism and the use of the cable in the 'sixties. To newspaper men these chroniclings by the brilliant veteran in the service to which they belong are doubly interesting at the present moment, when the question of making the cable of larger utility in the diffusion of news is engaging the attention of the press and Governments of the British Empire. It seems hard, as Mr. Smalley says, to believe that in 1866 the first news of the Austro-Prussian War came to New York by ship. Upon the arrival of the news that thus crept across the Atlantic the managing editor of the Tribune, who at that time was Mr. John Russell Young, walked into a desire that the latter should take the first steamer to Europe. Mr. Smalley lost no time in acting upon the commission. He deals briefly with the situation between the belligerent powers, and remarks that the hostilities made no great impression on American opinion To masses of Americans the Austro-Prussian conflict, momentous though it was for the making of the German Empire, was not of livelier interest, he says, than the Peloponnesian War

THE CABLE AND THE PRESS

As a matter of fact, says Mr. Smalley, mail news from aboard never did present itself with the suddenness and authority of cable news. "It came by mail in masses. It came by cable with the peremptory brevity which arrested attention." He reminds us that it was the cable which first taught us to condense. To use his own words again. "A despatch from London was not in the beginning much more than a flash of lightning; and went into print as it came, without being written up, and was ten times the more effective." Mr. Smalley thinks that a message sent by him from Berlin to the New York Tribune, containing advice of a break in the peace negotiations, was the first news despatch that went by cable. It was one hundred words long, and it cost almost $100. Not only was the service costly almost to the point of prohibition, but also the management of it was found by Mr. Smalley to be vexatious almost to the same degree. Improvement, however, was not long delayed, and though the cheapening process has not gone on as rapidly, or as far as newspaper publishers wished, there has been in every way a tremendous change for the better since Mr. Smalley's first trans-Atlantic despatch was filed. The English postal telegraph service is described by Mr. Smalley as wonderfully good—far better than any telegraph service in America—but he says that he would never file a press message in a postal office if within reach of a cable office.

PROMOTED INTERCOURSE AND PEACE

In the interval of forty-three years since the first news of the Austro-Prussian War came by vessel to this side of the Atlantic truly marvelous have been the developments in the means of news transmission. No doubt the success of the submarine telegraph line laid by that monster of its day, the Great Eastern, impressed men in 1866 as scarcely less than a supernatural manifestation. It would produce wonder probably no less general and profound than did the success in our day of the early experiments in trans-Atlantic radio-telegraphy. Proof of the efficiency of the wireless seemed not more amazing to us than did proof of the efficiency of the submarine wire at the outset. The immense progress of telegraphy has been fruitful of real revolutions in various departments of human affairs. To some of these Lord Blyth referred in a recent letter to the London Times.

A BOND OF EMPIRE.

It is impossible to say how much the British Empire owes to ocean telegraphy as a force making for political cohesion The Little Englanders did not long survive the spread of this great agency of intelligence When communications between States separated by oceans had to pass through the medium of slow-moving vessels, there was time for misunderstanding to develop and for the work of the mischief-maker to be done Ocean telegraphy has thus added to the securities of peace, as well as promoted intimacy of relations among constituent States of a widely scattered Empire. As Lord Blyth remarks, if ocean telegraphy had been in use in the latter part of the eighteenth century, the difference between the Mother Country and her North American colonies might have been settled amicably. There have been other domestic differences since that time which might have likewise ended in rupture had not the instrumentality of the cable enabled the parties to adjust matters before there was time for rankling. Lord Blyth considers that the great value of ocean telegraphy as a means of Imperial integration is sufficiently self-evident to warrant the adoption by the British Government of a policy to facilitate the use of ocean telegraphy throughout the Empire at least.

MR. ASQUITH'S VIEW

The same point was emphasized by Hon. Harry Lawson as spokesman of the deputation that waited upon the British Prime Minister to lay before him the resolution of the Imperial Press Conference on this question. He urged that facilities of electric communication are essential for the organization of the Empire, as they are a means of promoting harmonious relations. In his reply, Mr. Asquith conceded that the importance of cheapening electric communication among the communities of the Empire could not be exaggerated. He deemed it of particular importance that accurate and trustworthy news should circulate under the British flag, and that such news should not suffer by excessive condensation. In conclusion, he expressed the opinion that the steps taken by the conference opened the way for accelerating the development of "what we all agree to be one of the first requisites of an Empire such as ours—a cheap, a certain, a constant, a convenient, and a universally accessible system of electric communication."

James Ross on Scene of the Strike

Glace Bay, July 15.—Rumors of negotiations to bring about a settlement of the big coal strike were circulated freely here today. The sudden arrival of James Ross, president of the Dominion Coal Co. by special train, and his immediate departure from the Globe House, the headquarters of the Roman Catholic priests, where Bishop Cameron is staying, gave foundation for the reports.

When The Star asked for an interview with Bishop Cameron shortly after noon, he was informed by the priest at the door that the president of the big coal company and the Bishop were too busy to be interviewed.

It is expected that the conference between Mr. Ross and the Bishop may lead to an adjustment of the present trouble. The appearance of Mr. Ross is associated with a report to the effect that harmony has ceased to prevail among the officials of the coal company, and it is stated that General Manager Duggan is inclined to blame Supt. Mackenzie for the present situation at the collieries and Mr. Mackenzie is just as desirous of placing the blame upon the general manager.

The officials assured President Ross and the board of directors that in the event of a strike fully 5,000 men would remain at work. They had relied upon the promises of Secretary Moffatt to supply that numbes of men from the P. W. A., but when the strike was called he could only place five hundred men in the company's service.

Interesting developments are expecting at any time.

WHITBY MAN A BIGAMIST.

Woman from New York Lodges a Serious Charge.

Whitby, Ont., July 15.—A sensational bigamy charge culminated today in the arrest by Chief Jamieson of Henry B. Willing, a prominent business man, at the instance of a woman, whom it is alleged he married in New York last May while having a wife and three children in Whitby. The complainant is a young English girl, Gertrude Lomax, who says she has known Willing from childhood in England, where his father is a leading cotton spinner in Manchester.

Willing left here last May to go to New York, where he said he was to meet a brother. In letters to the second wife, it is stated that he had previous marriage, to abandon his wife and family here and go West.

THE LAW OF THE AIR.

Although aviation has thus far not progressed beyond the tentative and preliminary stage, legal problems are already arising in connection with it.

A [illegible] is in view between Russia and Germany to frame suitable regulations governing airships from one country which may alight in the territory of the other. In England a balloonist was compelled the other day to pay the cost of repairing some telephone wires which his anchor had damaged. Manifestly, if flying through the air is ever to become a comparatively common practice, the public must be protected from injuries which might be inflicted by even little missiles thrown or falling from great heights.

There is also the question of protecting aeronauts themselves from the wicked and barbarous behavior of certain individuals of the type who in this country have repeatedly fired upon them with rifles—an act so utterly senseless and inhuman that it is hard to find words strong enough to characterize it fully. Finally, there is the question of the invasion of privacy which might be expected if "dirigibles" or aeroplanes should become numerous.

Most of the prophecies about these contrivances have concerned themselves with their use as auxiliaries in warfare. Since warfare luckily is not the common lot of mankind, and since when it does occur it is usually confined to a relatively small area of the earth's surface, it is plain the use and abuse of the airship—it shall be successfully developed along either or both lines followed by Zeppelin and the Wright brothers — is likely to affect us chiefly in our civilian doings. It is not impossible that within the next few years most civilized countries will find it necessary to frame codes of new laws of the air.

AFTER TEN YEARS.

Miss Brooks Returned from China for Year's Holiday.

Toronto, July 16.—Miss C. A. Brooks, who for the past ten years has been doing missionary work in the Province of Sz Chuan, China, returned to Toronto last evening, and registered at the Walker House. This morning Miss Brooks will leave for Peterborough, near which place she formerly lived. Miss Brooks represented the Canadian Methodist Church in the Province of Sz Chuan, West China, of which the City of Chentu is the capital. She was for two years in the province engaged in missionary work, and after a short visit to Canada, returned there ten years ago, since when she has not been out of China. She has been doing pioner work, and was very glad to return to civilization once again. She will remain in Canada for a little over a year, and will return to China a year from this Autumn.

RETURNED HOME.

Knights of Pythias Had a Great Time At St. Thomas.

Messrs. C. M. Blewett and S. H. Baker, delegates from Marathon Lodge, No. 39, have returned from St. Thomas, where they attended the annual convention of the Grand Lodge of the Knights of Phythias, which next year will meet in Peterborough. They report having an enjoyable time in St. Thomas, the Pythians of that city proving themselves ideal entertainers and there were no dull moments. The entertainment of the visitors cost the home lodge $700, but they seemed to regard it as money well spent.

The visitors were the guests of Rathbone Lodge of St. Thomas, on Tuesday being treated to a ride around the city and to Pinafore Park on street cars. Returning the party entrained on three special Southwestern Traction cars, and left for Port Stanley, where they were treated to a delightful sail in the steamer Glenerie. Baseball, boating, bathing, and other pastimes were indulged in and the Knights had a most enjoyable afternoon.

Dinner was served at the Invernie Hotel, and afterwards an enjoyable toast list was listened to with pleasure. The 25th Regimental Band was present and enlivened the proceedings with delightful music. The convention was well attended and was most successful. About 200 delegates will come to Peterborough next year.

KILLED BY EXPLOSION.

Failed to Escape Before the Blasts Went Off.

Tweed, Ont., July.—Percy Harvey, aged 26, a miner, was killed last night at the result of an explosion in the mines at Sulphide, near here. Harvey was in one of the shafts, preparing to fire a round of nine shots. A helper, Frank Langevin, was standing in a drift at the top of the short shaft in which Harvey was working, and holding the ladder that Harvey was to use in getting out of the shaft, which was about 25 feet deep. To each charge was attached a four-foot piece of fuse. It takes about up, so that Harvey had to light the nine fuses and then get away to the top. An examination was made by Coroner Farrell today, and one shot was found still unexploded.

The explosion was so heavy that Langevin was knocked down and stunned. As soon as he recovered he hastened along the drift to another part of the mine, and notified three or four others. After much difficulty they got a ladder down to where Harvey was. His body was found in a horribly mangled condition, and was brought to the surface.

Tell Some Sick One

It Is Free If It Fails.

Will you do an act of Humanity?

Will you tell some sick friend of this, my remarkable offer?

Tell him or her, that you have learned of a medicine so certain that its maker dare say to the sick, "It is absolutely and unconditionally free if it fails."

And you, no doubt, already know of Dr. Shoop's Restorative and its popularity.

For 20 years it has been the standard remedy for Stomach, Kidney and Heart ailments every where in America.

When the "inside" or controlling nerves of these vital organs begin to fail, it is Dr. Shoop's Restorative that has quickly vitalized, and strengthened, and brought these nerves and organs back to health again.

I do not dose the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys—for that is all wrong.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes direct to the cause of these ailments—the failing, faltering, inside or controlling nerves. And herein lies the keynote to my success.

When these nerves are again made well and strong, then that is the certain end of all such ailments.

To me it is a great satisfaction that I can be the only physician able to say to the suffering sick, "Take my prescription for full 30 days, and if it fails to help you, the entire expense is mine—not yours."

Then why should the sick take any chance on any other medicine, when maker dare not back it just as I do by this remarkable offer?

I also have a Rheumatic Remedy—and that remedy is covered by the same liberal "no help, no pay" protective plan.

Besides, you are free to consult me just as you would your home physician. My advice and the book below are yours—and without cost.

Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some serious ailment. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescription or personal advice plan. My best effort is surely worth your simple request.

So let me send you an order at once. Take the necessary steps to secure it.

A postal will have it sent to you promptly.

I do not have an honest druggist in every city or town to whom you can conveniently go for the 30 day test.

But first, ask me for the order, for all druggists are not authorized to give the 30 day test.

So write me now and save all delays. Remember that tomorrow never comes. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 12, Racine, Wis.

OLD AGE KEPT OFF.

Experiments Prove Operations Can Prolong Life.

London, July 17.—As the result of investigations at St. Mary's Hospital, London, Dr. Distaso, of Paris, claims to have verified the theory of Prof. Metchnikoff that old age can be warded off. Prof. Metchnikoff, a few years ago, declared it to be his conviction that the large intestine was the breeding place of the majority of harmful germs in the human body, and that when this intestine was removed the majority of germs remaining in the body were beneficial, with the result that life was prolonged.

Dr. Distaso's investigations were directed to comparing the germs found in normal individuals and those whose large intestine had been fled himself by his studies of the removed by operation, and he satisfruth of Prof. Metchnikoff's theory. He unhesitatingly says that every childought to have its large intestine and appendix removed when two or three years old. He further affirms that almost every disease can be traced to testinal germs, among others heart disease, arterial sclerosis and most kinds of headaches. Everybody would get along better without the big intestine, but those who are not inclined to submit to its removal by operation ought, if they want to live long, to eat very little meat, once daily being plenty with green vegetables, and only vegetables at other meals. Water should be drunk abundantly throughout the day, but no tea, coffee or spirits, although a little diluted wine could be allowed with meals. Cigrs are dangerous poison. They decompose within the intestines exactly as they do outside and afford an excellent breeding place for maleficent germs.

Dr. Distaso is about to return to Paris, taking with him two residents of London whose large intestine has been removed, for further observation at the Pasteur Institute.

FLOOD LOSS, $7,000,000.

Half of Wheat Crop Destroyed in Missouri Valley.

St. Louis, July 17.—Estimates place the present flood loss in the Missouri Valley at $7,000,000. Half the wheat crop has been destroyed. The Mississippi River crest will reach here tomorrow, when it is estimated the high water mark will be 35.5 feet, ranking fifth in height in the last sixty-five years.

CUNNINGHAM—CAMPBELL.

Fraserville, July 16.—A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at 7.30, Wednesday evening, July 14th, between Miss Violet Campbell and Mr. Bert Cunningham The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Mackenzie of Centerville, at the home of the bride's father, Mr. Alex. Campbell. The bride was attended by Miss H. Kethcart of Springville, while the groom was assisted by Mr. Harry Wood of Peterborough.

The young couple will reside near Fraserville.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

AFTER SUNKEN TREASURE.

New Yorkers Lead Expedition on Lake Huron.

Detroit, July 19.—Lure of hidden treasure has led to one more attempt to recover the valuables in the wreck of the steamer Pewabic, which for forty-three years has lain 160 feet below the surface of Lake Huron off Thunder Bay Island.

A New York syndicate with a diving rig which, it is said, consumed eight years to perfect has chartered the little steamer Douglas of Detroit which is fitting out here. She will depart on Saturday on the expedition. William Petry, of New York, will be in charge.

Mr. Petry was not incline today to discuss the expedition. "Wait until we get to work and accomplish something, then we will talk," he said.

PLANTING TREES.

Two Million Per Year are Being Set Out.

Toronto, July 17.—Mr. R. H. Campbell, Dominion Superintendent of Forestry, Ottawa, passed through Toronto yesterday on his way to Western, where he will spend the remainder of the Summer inspecting the work of tree planting on the prairies and also the work of those in charge of the forest reserves. At present about thirteen million trees have been set out on the prairies by ranchers, under arrangement with the forestry branch of the Department of the Interior, the trees being supplied from the Government nursery at Indian Head. About two million trees per year are being set out under this arrangement, and the aspect of many districts is being rapidly changed for the better thereby.

While in Toronto Mr. Campbell called on Mr. James Lawler, secretary of the Canadian Forestry Association and talked over the details of the special meeting which the association is holding at Regina on Sept. 3 and 4, when Western forestry matters will be discussed by experts. The meeting promises to be largely attended and to be of a most important character.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co. Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally indoses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Weary, Worn Out, Tired

If You Feel Poorly this Spring this Article is worth Considering.

Nothing in life keeps people from advancement like poor health If the nerves are weak, if the stomach liver, bowels or kidneys, fail to work properly, healthy surely suffers. Spring is the busiest time on health—the season when the system calls for active cleansing medicine.

The best plan is to entrust your condition to a physician of reputation, like Dr. Hamilton, who has had years of experience in compounding tonics. For the ills and tired feeling of spring Dr. Hamilton says nothing is better than Mandrake and Butternut Pills, and this is well proven in the case of James Burton of Lewisown. "I had grip and it left me very weak. The disease settled in my back and side, which ached day and night. I had a nagging cough. My appetite was all gone. My nerves unstrung. I could not sleep well. I struggled against growing pale, thin and weak—but it was no good. Spring drought depressions, overpowering weakness and bad headaches. But my life was spared, simply because I learned of the wonderful merit in Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut The result was marvelous. I gained rapidly, became strong, ruddy, vigorous, perfectly well. I urge every man and woman to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly.

Burleigh Falls Power Question Has Been on the Fyle Long Enough

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Dear Sir,—According to the reports in the three local papers the Committee of the Whole Council told the Special Power Committee where to get off last Friday night. As a matter of fact that committee was told to get down to business and be serious about the purchase of Burleigh Falls Power. It was time some such action was taken, for certainly they have been wasting a lot of time. It is a business proposition and must be treated in a business way. There is no time and no necessity to fool around with the trifling details. What the people want is electric power at alow price. Now the part the Power Committee has to do is to find out if Burleigh Falls power will be cheap, and if there is the quantity available that the Central Ontario Power Company says there is. When that is done it will not be very difficult to settle upon a price. The Central Ontario Power Company dare not sell what they haven't got, and the council surely would not buy anything that the company could not give a clear title to. What's the use of worrying about titles now and wasting the solicitor's time as well as throwing away money and losing possibly the opportunity to purchase a good water power. There are some of the members of the committee, if not all of them, believe that Burleigh Falls is the power for Peterborough. They have also their own ideas about the price which they do not want to make public until an independent engineer makes his report to the city. The chairman of the committee should insist upon an engineer being engaged at once. It is his duty to do so as he has to bear the bulk of the responsibility and he needs expert information. The ideas of those who tell him that $10,000 is enough to pay are not worth considering, as there are several parties right in the city who would gladly take that water power at even $75,000 and they have got no engineers' reports either.

Lindsay is getting after Burleigh power, and although neither Mr. McLaughlin or Mr. Culverwell ever mentions that town there is something doing down there.

It is to be hoped that the chairman will get his committee together this week and earnestly and seriously get after Burleigh Falls power.

Yours truly,
CITIZEN.

HOME TESTING.

A Sure and Easy Test on Coffee.

To decide the all important question of coffee, whether or not it is really the hidden cause of physical ails and approaching fixed disease, one should make a test of 10 days by leaving off coffee entirely and using well-made Postum.

If relief follows you may know to a certainty that coffee has been your vicious enemy. Of course you can take it back to your heart again, if you like to keep sick.

A lady says' "I had suffered with stomach trouble, nervousness and terrible sick headaches ever since I was a little child, for my people were always great coffee drinkers and let us children have all we wanted. I got so I thought I could not live without coffee but I would not acknowledge that it caused my suffering.

"Then I read so many articles about Postum that I decided to give it a fair trial. I had not used it two weeks in place of coffee until I began to feel like a different person. The headaches and nervousness disappeared and whereas I used to be sick two or three days out of a week while drinking coffee I am now well and strong and sturdy seven days a week, thanks to Postum.

"I had been using Postum three months and had never been sick a day when I thought I would experiment and see if it really was coffee that caused the trouble, so I began to drink coffee again and inside of a week I had a sick spell. I was so ill I was soon convinced that coffee was the cause of all my misery and I went back to Postum with the result that I was soon well and strong again and determined to stick to Postum and leave coffee alone in the future."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

PAINTERS COMING.

Local Painters Preparing for the Convention.

The painters of the city are all working hard to make their convention next week a huge success. This week they are sending out the booklets advertising the city and with particulars of the convention and all the prospective delegates. The booklet is certainly a credit to those issuing it and also to the city. The annual convention of the International Painters will be held here on July 27, 28 and 29, and a big crowd of delegates will be present. His Worship Mayor Rush will read an address of welcome on behalf of the city.

TENT MEETINGS.

Evangelists Holding Forth Under Canvas next to Custom House.

A fair-sized congregation was gathered in the big evangelistic tent last night next to the Customs House. The tent was erected for the purpose of holding evangelistic meetings every night for the next two weeks. These are held under the auspices of the Methodist churches, and are conducted by Victoria College students. Last night Mr. Young delivered an address, and Mr. F. C. Moore acted as chairman. Loval vocalists led in the singing.

BOARD OF TRADE.

Illustrated Lecture on Reinforced Concrete Bridge Construction.

The meeting of the Board of Trade in the City Council Chambers to night will be of unusual interest. It is called for the purpose of discussing the Smith street bridge bylaw and the street extensions bylaw which will be passed upon by ratepayers on July 29th.

In connection with the Smith St., bridge bylaw, Prof. C. R. Young, instructor and lecturer in the School of Practical Science Engineering department University of Toronto, has been engaged to deliver an address on "Reinforced Concrete Bridge Construction." It will be illustrated by stereopticon views. Mr. H. O. Fiske has kindly loaned a machine for this purpose, and will operate it. Views of bridges in different parts of the world ,constructed of reinforced concrete will be shown, and the methods employed and their application to local conditions will be explained Prof. Young has made a special study of this class of work, and his address here will not only be interesting, but higly instructive.

The general public is invited to the meeting, which will commence at eight o'clock. In addition to Prof. Young's lecture there will be a full discussion of the two bylaws.

MANY ATTRACTIONS

Afforded the People of Peterborough for Very Little Money.

There should be no complaint of the city being quiet this week. There is something doing on nearly every corner in the central portion of the city every night. Two evangelists hold forth in a tent next to the Customs House, a speeler, who has anything at the circus beat for talk, keeps a crowd spell bound on the market square, the Salvation Army enlivens things on another corner, five-cent theaters draw the money spenders elsewhere, and last but not least, those who delight in destruction may walk up to Central Park, and watch the boys or young men throw the baseball through the flower beds, and break down big plants and knock leaves off others. Its a lively city and soon will be more so when the roller rink opens and the circus comes to town.

PECULIAR DROWNING.

Boy Supposed to Have Been Shoved Off Pier.

Rochester, N. Y., July 19.—William Reddell of Hemlock a hamlet near Livonia, Livingston county, went to Hemlock Pond last evening to go in swimming. He sat on a stone wall while undressing. He was seen to fall into the pond, and before aid could get to him was drowned. Coroner Trimmer of Livingston county, in investigating the rumor that Reddell's fall was due to some one pushing him from the wall.

Was Arrested for Not Kneeling at Church

Montreal, Que., July 19.—J. K. Lalonde, a commercial traveler, had an exciting experience in the Lachine Roman Catholic church yesterday, where he attended service.

A local officer, named Alfred Aubin, noticed that Lalonde did not kneel down at a certain stage of the service, which the officer considered essential on the part of an attendant, and ordered him to do so. Lalonde refused on the ground that it was not essential, whereupon, according to his statement he was yanked out of church and landed in the Lachine police cells. He was liberated after a few hours by the chief of police.

Lalonde has entered three actions as a result; one against Aubin for illegal arrest, and the others against the Fabrique of Lachine, and the town of Lachine for $5,000 each.

J.J. Cocks, Sr., Stricken with Heart Failure--Died When Walking Home

With shocking suddenness death claimed J. J. Cocks, Sr., yesterday afternoon about five o'clock while he was returning home from a walk. The deceased has been ill since last April, suffering from heart and stomach trouble, and was unable to do any work. Lately, however, he has been improving, and early yesterday afternoon he went to the doctor's office, and stated that he had not felt so well for a long time,and he expected to go to work the next day. From the doctor's office he walked over to Ashburnham to see some property, and felt fine, except that he was a little tired and sat down and rested. Then he started for his home at the corner of George and Dublin streets. Mr. James Gates walked with him, and they had reached about the center of Water and George on Dublin street, when Mr. Cocks dropped to the sidewalk dead. He had not a moment's warning, and he died instantly. Mr. Gates summoned assistance and the doctor and the Dan Spence ambulance were called. Nothing could be done for him, however., and he was removed home in the ambulance.

The late Mr. Cocks was about 61 years of age, and had lived in Peterborough for many years. He was a painter and was known in all parts of the city. Besides his wife he is survived by two sons, Fred of Toronto, and J. J. Cocks, Jr., who conducts the grocery at the corner of George and Dublin streets. Announcement of the funeral will be made later.

Miss Stewart is Ready to Go Back

Staney Brae, Muskoka, July 19.—Miss Mary Elizabeth Stewart, of Pittsburg, whose name is mentioned so prominently in connection with the investigation of Lieut. James N. Sutton's death at Annapolis Academy two years ago, stands ready to return to the United States from her seclusion here and face the ordeal of the special government commission.

"I cannot contradict too strongly the atrocious stories published in some of the American papers, that I am a runaway, and fear to tell all I know," Miss Stewart told a reporter yesterday afternoon. "I engaged my rooms here in April last, long before I ever heard of an investigating committee, and came to get back my health, which in the past year has been none too good. The notoriety which I have received is the most cruel experience I have ever gone through. I wish the authorities would end it as quickly as possible. If what I know of Lieutenant Suttonton is of any use in finding out the manner of his death, the commission is quite welcome to it. At present I am awaiting a letter from my father, whom I have written asking for his advice. Yesterday a letter from him told me to see nobody, and to make no statements regarding the case.' Indeed I have nothing whatever to tell, for my knowledge of the case is no more than I have gained from hearing others speak of it."

@ NOT SEEKING SECLUSION.

Miss Stewart denied emphatically that she was leaving Mrs. McKenzie' boarding house at Staney Brae to seek more complete seclusion deeper in the Muskoka district. A report to this effect published in some of the United States despatches, aroused her to anger.

@"They have reported me as trying my best to hide something," she said, "and have pictured me stammering and hesitating in my answers."

So severely has the constant mention of her name in connection with the Sutton mystery affected the young woman that on Thursday she suffered a relapse, and only recovered day to take any degree of exercise.

Her peculiar position has gained for her the sympathy of the guests at Staney Brae, who have formed a cordon about her as protection against strangers visiting the district.

PROTECTED BY GUESTS.

"The girl is not going to suffer from persecution by the United States Government or anyone else if we can protect her," said Mr. Allister McKenzie, the athletic son of the proprietor of Staney Brae. "She asked me a few days ago whether it would be safe to walk around the grounds, and I took care to assure her that she would be guarded from unwelcome attentions."

Regarding the reports from Washington, that Mrs. Sutton, mother of the young cadet, had given out parts of the correspondence between her and Miss Stewart, the latter had this explanation:

"A letter from Mrs. Sutton received by me a few days ago, informed me that any clue to the nature of our correspondence was obtained in an underhand way and were inaccurate. Mrs. Sutton and myself are on the best of terms, and always have been. She knows that I have nothing to tell about the death of her son, which she is so eager to have solved."

FAIR WEATHER.

Saturday was a fine, fair day—a day that filled the parks and the bathing beaches and made the heart of the picnicker glad within him. Yesterday was also St. Swithin's day, and if the prophecy holds true we are now going to have fine weather for forty consecutive days. The Scotch seer says:

St. Swithin's day, if thou be fair
For forty days 'twill rain nae mair

The government weather man has not confirmed the prediction.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

Girl Slashes Boy Victim with Razor

To Avenge Fancied Insult to Her Brother, 13 Year-Old Child Cuts Playmates Face Into Ribbons

New York, July 10.—A boy and girl walked down Pacific street, Brooklyn, past Policeman Donaldson and the throngs of persons sitting on the steps of the Church of Our Lady of Loretto till they came opposite the grocery store of Antony Romaine almost opposite the church.In front of the shop 13-year-old Tony Romaine was playing with his five-year-old brother, Angelo, and some other children.

The boy and girl crossed the street and called to Tony. He stepped into the middle of the street to meet them and the boy seized him. Like a flash the girl drew a razor from the folds of her dress and fairly crying with anger slashed again and again at Tony's head and face, while he was held helpless by the larger boy.

CHILDREN STUNNED

From up the street Donaldson saw the attack, Men, women, and children saw it, too, but all were too stunned to do anything for a moment. Then the policeman rushed down the street, shouting to frighten the little girl, who continued slashing her victim furiously.

Both she and the boy who held the now almost unconscious Tony saw Donaldson coming, but it was not until he was almost upon them that the policeman heard the boy say:

"Let him go, Lena. He's had enough now. Let's beat it."

The girl threw the razor from her and her companion dropped the boy, who sank senseless to the pavement. Both the assailants started to run, but they had waited too long. Donaldson grabbed the boy, and, fairly jerking him along, overtook the girl too.

BIG CROWD GATHERS.

By this time a crowd of several hundred persons had gathered, among them Mr. and Mrs. Romaine, whom their younger son had told of the attack on Tony. Mrs. Romaine was hysterical and tried to throw herself on the girl and boy prisoners Mr Romaine was just as excited and manage to protect his prisoners only by threats did the policeman while a fellow officer telephoned for an ambulance.

Doctors came from St. Mary's Hospital after Tony had been carried into his home. The doctors worked over him for an hour and a half. His left ear had been nearly severed and his nose had been so slashed that it hung almost in strips.

On the back of his head was a gash seven inches long. Other long gashes were on his face and neck, and there were two wounds in his back. He was weak from loss of blood and shock, but at last the doctors got him to the hospital, where it was said last night that his chance for life was about an even break.

TO AVENGE WRONG.

Donaldson meantime took his boy and girl prisoner to the police station. The girl said she was Lena Mielino, 13 years old. The boy said he was Philip Mazza, 17 years old. Neither would make any statement. The girl was sent to the Children's Society, charged with felonious assault. The boy was locked up as an accessory.

From persons in the neighborhood who had witnessed the attack the police learned, they say, that the attack was brought about by the desire of the girl to avenge a fancied wrong to her five year-old brother Frank. According to the story, Frank Mielino and Angelo Romaine quarreled yesterday afternoon and were in the thick of a fight when Tony rescued his small brother.

Frank ran home crying with the tale of Tony's interference, and presently little Lena left her home with Mazza without telling her parents where she was going.

Apparently they went directly to Tony's home.

Deaths Number 22 in New York Storm

In One Sloop 13 of 22 Occupants were Drowned—Several Boats Missing

New York, July 19.—New York hay today was the scene of a search for a score or more of bodies of persons drowned during the squall that capsized a number of small pleasure boats yesterday afternoon. Few Mondays have found so many persons awaiting at the coroner's office for news of friends and relatives supposed to be drowned. The total of deaths from this cause now stands at 22, but several small boats are missing, and the full toll of yesterday's storm will not be known until all are accounted for. The government tugs and police boats engaged in the search are devoting their chief efforts to the lower bay, where the sloop Roxane sank and lost 13 of its 22 occupants. Not one of the 13 bodies were reported as found last night. Of the survivors, Mrs. Lena Wnudson of Brooklyn, is in a critical state at a Staten Island hospital. Her two daughters are among the drowned.

Encouraging Crop Reports from the West

Crop reports from the Northwest are most encouraging. From Calgary the news comes that considerable of the fall wheat was winter killed; but from all other parts of the Northwest present Indications are of a yield much greater than was hoped for at the close of seeding. If the weather continues favorable, the Northwest farmers stand to reap a large crop, and to obtain good prices. The United States crop report, issued recently, was expected to be a very favorable one, and it was regarded on the Stock Exchange as something of a disappointment. It placed the winter wheat condition at 82.4 per cent., which compares with 80.7 a month ago and 89.6 a year ago. The spring wheat condition is placed at 92.7, which compares with 80.7 a month ago and 89.4 a year ago. The combined winter and spring wheat condition is shown at 86.5, The corn condition on July 1 is reported as 89.3 per cent. A year ago the corn crop condition was 82.8, in 1907, was 80.2 and in 1906 was 97.5. The United States Government estimates that only 15,062,000 bushels of wheat remained in the farmers' hands on July 1, as compared with 33,797,000 bushels on July 1, a year ago. Foreign reports go to show that the conditions, with the exception of Russia, are not favorable. Harvesting is going on in Roumania and Hungary, where the crop is said to be below the average, In Bulgaria the outlook is excellent. A general survey of the situation would lead to the conclusion that higher prices are likely to prevail than in the past. This year's crop may mean much for Canadian prosperity.

Peterborough Needs No Advertising Matter

Ald. Turner hit the right nail on the head last Friday night when he pointed out to the council its neglect to seize the opportunity to advertise the City of Peterborough. The alderman stated that the city had absolutely no advertising matter which could be handed out to the thousandsof visitors that come here every summer. Excursion after excursion comes and goes. They are formally met by the chairman of the Reception Committee, and that is the end of it. The people have nothing as a souvenir, nor yet have they anything which will serve as a guide.

There is no other place in Ontario the size of Peterborough, and it is safe to say few small towns which are not better supplied with advertising matter. Very few towns allow strangers in and out without presenting them with some little souvenir.

If Peterborough had what it should have the glories of the city would soon be spread broadcast. When Ald. Buller and Chief Howard go to the Fire Chiefs' convention a couple of hundred of Peterborough pamphlets distributed among the delegates would have a great effect. The same thing applies to all who go to conventions from here.

An ordinary cheap dirty job is no good. The finest little booklet that can be turbed out is the only thing worth the paper that it is printed on. But where is the money coming from? Well the question might be asked.

Nothing in the way of a Cough is quite so annoying as a tickling, teasing, wheezing, bronchial Cough. The quickest relief comes perhaps from a prescription known to Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And besides, it is so thoroughly harmless that mothers give it with perfect safety even to the youngest babes. The tender leaves of a simple mountain shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its remarkable curative effect. It is truly a most certain and trustworthy prescription. Sold by all dealers.

HOW TO TELL

If the Kidneys and Liver are Not Acting Well

Thousands die every year from aggravated kidney distress that could have been saved if they only knew.

Your back may ache, you think it's laziness or physical weakness.

You grow irritable and nervous—it's put down to loss of sleep.

Joints ache, muscles get sore, —that's all put down to bad weather.

Then digestion gets poor, appetite leaves away, color breaches, spirits droop.

Still you see it's all from your over-worked kidneys, which can't keep the body clear of poisons that are now surging through the whole system.

Cure your kidneys with Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

"When I was so stooped and back weary, so sore and sore with kidney and bladder trouble, I cured myself quickly with Dr Hamilton's Pills" writes C. C. Ferrier, a well known merchant in Plainsville. "Dr. Hamilton's Pills touched the spot at once, gave my back ease, lifted depression and weariness, made a new man of me. I can also say for a good spring medicine to clear and enrich the blood Dr. Hamilton's Pills have no equal."

The housewife whose aching back makes every little duty a burden, the working man who is tired all day and can't rest at night, whose back aches, and whose feet swell—these people have kidney trouble. Women whose kidneys are sick, suffer continually from blind and sick headaches, faint and dizzy spells, bearing down pains, sharp twinges when stooping, distressing urinary troubles, aching muscles, and joints lack of appetite, and loss of sleep teach the cause. Cure the kidneys Use Dr. Hamilton's Mandrake and Butternut Pills, which have cured thousands. 25c at all dealers.

SEE TRENT CANAL

ENGINEERS PAY A VISIT TO THE NEW WATERWAY.

Work So Far Advanced That Boats Can Now Sail 165 Miles From Lake Simcoe to Healy's Falls — Hope of Early Completion.

Toronto, July 18.—Englishmen are said to take their pleasures seriously, and it may have been the considerable leavening of that nationality in the Engineers' Club of Toronto that made their annual summer outing on Saturday so serene and decorous an affair. But a solid substratum of fellowship and cordiality left nothing lacking from the human point of view. The trip began at Bobcaygeon, where the party arrived the night before over the C.P.R.

The Government steamer Bessie Butler took them over the 68 miles of lake, river, and canal on the Trent Valley system from that point to Lake Simcoe, and over the lake to Beaverton and to Jackson's Point; from the latter they took the electric home.

On the boat the party were the guests of Mr. M. J. Butler, Deputy Minister of Railways and Canals, and in the hands of Mr. J. Harris McClellan, Superintendent Trent Valley Canal, who was not only an ideal host but a veritable cyclopedia of information as well.

The trip was really the second chapter of last year's outing, which was over the eastern end of the canal. The day was spent aboard, with internals for examining the engineering works along the route.

The expressions of approval were very general among the visitors at finding the work done along the whole route of so substantial and permanent a character. The new steel lift locks at Kirkfield naturally drew the closest attention, and the ease and precision with which these immense steel tanks lowered the boat from the level of Balsam Lake, the highest of the system, to the reach forty-eight feet below, as well as the massive and finely-finished character of the whole lockage work, was the subject of much favorable comment.

Boats can now travel on the canal from Lake Simcoe to Healy's Falls, a distance of 165 miles. Between Simcoe and the high level at Balsam the rise is 122 feet, this being overcome by six locks, one of eleven feet, three of fourteen feet each, one of twenty-two feet, and the Kirkfield lift of 48 feet. There will be eight feet and four inches of water over the still, and the locks will accommodate vessels 140 feet long by 34 feet beam. A barge this size will hold 25,000 bushels of grain. The total length from Lake Simcoe to Trenton will be 210 miles, or when the Severn works are completed from Georgian Bay to Trenton, it will be 272 miles. The supplementary canal from Cooke's Bay on Lake Simcoe to Newmarket is 17 1-2 miles in length. On the main canal there are great contributory lake and river waters, which are controlled by dams and weirs, while there is a drainage area of over one hundred square miles contributory to the Newmarket system, over which the water can easily be controlled, thus assuring abundance of water for operating at all times of the year and furnishing as well very large quantities of valuable water power.

Before parting, Mr. Rust, on behalf of the club, expressed to Mr. McClellan their appreciation of the most hospital entertainment provided. They were delighted to see the country and the work that was being done. In his reply Mr. McClellan spoke of the scope of the work and the good progress that was being made, especially since the Deputy Minister, Mr. Butler, had taken it in charge. He hoped to see it opened all the way from Midland to the Thousand Islands. In New Jersey alone, he said, there were $50,000,000 spent annually in the tourist trade, and the large and increasing tourist traffic in the waters served by this canal would soon make this alone a very important important source of revenue, in addition to the local and through commodity trade. The character of the work showed for itself, and he was delighted to have the Toronto engineers with him to inspect it.

Letters to The Editor

Peterborough, July 16th., 1909

The Times Printing Co.
City.

Gentlemen,—

Would you be so kind as to allow me some space in your paper to appeal to the general public on behalf of an unfortunate woman and three innocent babies. The parties I am speaking of are Mrs. Ball and children Coming here about three months ago from New York, after they got wrecked in business there, Mr. Ball decided to go to a place where he was not known and start a business on a small scale. Unfortunately he started here in Peterborough with $600.00 which Mrs. Ball managed by selling her household furniture and giving it to her husband to start with. They have bought their stock and fixtures almost all for cash and rented a store for one year at $50.00 per month. The business did not pay under this expense. The man seeing that he could not succeed and that he could not make it pay and having drawn all his money from the Bank, unfortunately was weak enough to go and leave the poor woman and children last Sunday by leaving a letter that said that he could not stand it any longer and intended to make an end to his life. It is needless to say the poor woman was overcome with grief and tried to do away with herself and children on Sunday night but she did not succeed. I was informed about 5 o'clock Monday morning what had happened and seeing that she is here stranger without any friends, I have made it my business to stand by her and help them as far as I can. I have tried everything possible to get some trace of him but did not succeed so we decided to publish it in the papers. In the mean time, I asked her if they have liabilities and she said she thought they must have about $50.00 or $100.00 as her husband did all the financeing, so on Tuesday I began to inquire and found that she had to pay $40.00 to a local merchant and they came to the poor woman, who was overcome with grief, and asked her for payment or assign the business to them. The woman, naturally, would not hear of any transaction of business, she only pleaded to try to find her husband for her. Instead of helping the poor woman in her grief, an attachment for $60.00 as was within then legal rights was laid against the whole stock, and being already upset by the loss of her husband, now seeing they were going to take away everything from her is it any wonder she tried to commit suicide? After being transferred to goal for trying to kill herself, I have succeeded in taking her to myself and I have tried to settle the claims with the creditors and I have found that there was an attachment for $180.00 I was about settled with him when I found that there is another claim for $150.00.

I am trying not to let the poor family be a public burden but how long will I be able to hold them without any assistance from other parties? I do not mean by assisting me to help me in giving them Charity. No. No. but help me only that these should not be relieved of what they have left.

Hoping that some parties will take an interest in it and thanking you for your space, I am, Yours truly,

B. LASTAR.

(In connection with the above, The Times believes this is a case which should appeal to the people of Peterborough, who are disposed to assist in works of charity. We understand that the woman is anxious to return to her husband's people in the old country and funds should be raised at once to defray her expenses.)

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Dear Sir,—Kindly allow me space in your paper to draw the attention of the council to the fact that a great many people are complaining about the assessors. One in particular is very independent, and in some cases that I know of he refused to give even a civil answer when asked about the assessment of those parties. This man may think that he has a divine right to his office, but surely all the members of the council are not afraid of him. A change would be a good thing apparently.

Yours truly,
TAXPAYER.

CUNNINGHAM—CAMPBELL.

A very pretty wedding took place on Wednesday evening, July 14th at 7.30, at Cherry Grove, the home of Mr. Alexander Campbell of Fraserville, when his only daughter, Violet was united in marriage to Mr. Herbert Cunningham.

The drawing room was prettily decorated for the occasion with evergreen and flowers.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. A. McKenzie of Centreville.

The bride who was given away by her father, wore a handsome gown of cream crepe de chine and entered the room to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, which was played by Miss Jean Cathcart of Springville.

The bride was attended by Miss Lulu Catheart of Springville, and Mr Harry Wood of Peterborough, supported the groom.

After congratulations the wedding party partook of a dainty dejeuner.

The groom's gift to the bride was a cheque, and to the bridesmaids a gold bracelet.

Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham will reside at Fraserville, and will carry with them the best wishes of a large circle of friends.

DR. PELKEY

Consumption Cured

And all Other Lung and Kidney Troubles

By the Wonderful Discovery made by a Canadian Doctor

Dr. Pelkey, a Canadian Physician, holding medical certificates in France, United States and Mexico, has made a discovery that promises to be the greatest boon yet given to humanity.

His great Consumption Cure is applied by means of an inhaler, the ingredients for which are contained in a tank, and the very first use made of it by the patient brings immediate relief, followed quickly by permanent cure. These inhalers are not sold to the people, but are placed in the home until they are not further needed, and then taken away.

Dr. Pelkey is exhibiting the invention, which is called the Pelkey Inhaler, throughout the country. The inhaler is first a platinum tank, divided into 26 compartments, into which various chemicals and drugs are placed. Outside these compartments cold water is placed. The action of the cold water causes a vaporous gas to rise into an eight-part evaporator at the top, where it is purified and forced through tubes for inhalation. The gas forms pure oxygen, tasteless, and odorless, and the patient inhales this. So healing is its effect that it will almost immediately stop a tubercolosis cough.

Most wonderful of all is the fact that Dr. Pelkey offers to treat his patients with the inhaler free of charge. The only thing for which he charges is a blood-purifier and building-up tonic, which he insists upon the patient's taking. He will even allow the person undergoing the treatment to take home the tank with him and be treated there.

Dr. Pelkey has been for 17 years in Mexico and Central and South America. He has Government certificates from Mexico, Brazil, New Mexico and Canada and many Latin-American republics, testifying to cures wrought by him with the inhaler. One certificate states that nearly half a troop of Mexican soldiers and American soldiers and Government officials of Montreal were cured under his treatment. Another is signed by President Diaz, of Mexico, himself, whom Dr. Pelkey cured. Dr. Pelkey can show hundreds of other testimonials of permanent people of Ottawa, who were cured of lung trouble and kidney trouble after suffering for five years.

PERSONATING A CENTAUR.

How Mythological Creature May Be Represented by Two Boys.

This is a diversion in which two boys personate a centaur, a creature of Greek mythology, half man and half horse, says Popular Mechanics. One of the players stands erect and the other behind him in a stooping position with his hands upon the first player's hips, as shown in Fig. 1.

The second player is covered over with a shawl or table cover which is pinned around the waist of the first player. A tail made of strips of cloth or paper is pinned to the rear end of the cover. The first player should hold a bow and arrow and have a cloak thrown loosely over his shoulder, as shown in Fig. 2. Imitation hoofs of pasteboard may be made and fastened over the shoes.

MEASURING RAINDROPS.

Simple Method by Which Size of a Drop May Be Determined.

You would think it impossible to measure the size of raindrops as they come streaking downward from the gray clouds and seem to disappear in minute flashes of silver on the pavement. Yet science has devised a plan by means of which the volume of each drop can be accurately determined.

A broad metal tray is filled with loose flour to the depth of about two inches. Then, carefully covered, it is carried out into the shower the size of whose drops it is desired to measure. The cover is suddenly removed, the surface of the flour is exposed for about four seconds, then is again sheltered and carried indoors, where an examination can be made at leisure.

What happens is that the drops which fall upon the loose flour, although they spatter a little, retain for the most part their spherical shape. Within a few minutes they have absorbed enough of the soft flour to make them semi-solid, and within two hours they have hardened into pellets of a size that can be handled and measured.

Use of this simple and clever device has established beyond question the old theory that the farther a drop falls the larger it is.—Chicago News.

A Few Timely Don'ts.

Don't go out in the woods to fly a kite. Only birds fly there.
Don't climb trees after strawberries.
Don't try swimming in a muddy creek.
Don't smile at a strange bull.
Don't try to catch a whale with a bent pin.
Don't cry like a goose if a goose cries at you.
Don't get angry after going to bed after the chickens to be awakened by the rooster.
Don't use the barn roof for a toboggan slide. You may find the shingles rough.
Don't eat up your picnic lunch before you start out.
Don't sit under the tree and wait for the weatherrock to crow.
Don't expect to find straws in a dish of strawberries.
Don't try to pick geese from the gooseberry bush.

The Pup Didn't Mind.

Uncle Caleb—Have you named your dog yet, Clarence?

Little Clarence—Yes, sir; I called him after you.

Uncle Caleb—That isn't complimentary.

Little Clarence—Oh, well, he hasn't got sense enough to care.

A Riddle.

What is that which will go up a pipe down, but will not go down a pipe up, or will go down a pipe down, but not up a pipe up, and yet when it has gone up a pipe or down a pipe will go up or down? Answer—An umbrella.

A Birdseye View.

Birdie, birdie, on the tree,
Singing sweetly as can be,
What have you to make you so
Happy? I should like to know.

Says birdie, "I've a roomy nest,
With all the dear ones I love best,
And of the lovely landscape, too,
I find I have a 'birdseye view.'"

"And about how much bread will you want each day?"

"Well, I don't know exactly. You see, there are only two of us." Then doubtfully, "Would five loaves a day be enough, do you think?"—Judge.

Shoe That Hurt.

Women with narrow heels frequently have trouble with ready made footwear. The shoe rides up at the heel, and a painful blister occurs, which effectively cripples one for the time being. This is especially true of low shoes. To prevent it with your next pair cut a few inches from a piece of old velvet or get a bit of velvet ribbon to fit between the heel and the shoe. It can be either tacked into place or pasted. This renders the heel comfortable without lessening the size of the shoe, which is the disadvantage of the felt sole.

STILL ANOTHER EMPIRE

BRITISH EAST AFRICA IS SETTLER'S LAND OF PROMISE.

Col. Owen Thomas Writes of Britain's Little Known Possession on the East Coast of the Dark Continent —Slaver and Missionary Has Opened Up the Land, But Traveling Is Difficult.

An Oriental proverb has it that seekers after Heaven not infrequently miss Paradise, says Col. Owen Thomas in The Standard of Empire. Whether the statement be sound theology or no I will not examine, but at least the sentiment seems appropriate when white settlement in Africa is the subject under discussion, for in that great continent many goals have lured the Englishman, many El Dorados have shown for him a fleeting panorama. South Africa, North Africa, and the possessions West, the mysterious Central districts—attractive by the very uncertainty in which distance and silence have alike wrapped their wealth—each in its turn has called across the seas to the British pioneer, and has reaped its harvest in conquered nature, extended Empire, and narrow graves.

No man who regards Overseas Settlement as I regard it regrets the lives laid down by those earthly Heaven seekers; it was, and is, and will be part of the history-making of our people, but I do marvel sometimes that so few have marked our little Paradise away to the east, where the Indian Ocean laps a wide new land of infinite promise.

And now to lift very lightly and quickly a corner of the curtain that veils the real British East Africa from the comprehension of the Britons of the Empire! At the outset of European visitation the whole East Coast of Africa seems to have been mainly regarded as means to an end. The first Portuguese governor of Mombasa was appointed in 1593, and the era of Portuguese control may be said to have continued till 1729. Considering the duration of this occupation, the tangible results were remarkably few. Moslem rule followed, and lasted with various ups and downs into the lifetime of the present generation, when the exploration of Central Africa and the activities of Christian missionaries on the one hand and slave dealers on the other began to direct attention to this great country lying between the Indian Ocean and the big lakes. The partition of East Africa and the opening of the whole area dates from the grant of a charter of incorporation to a German company in 1885. Three years later the Imperial British East Africa Company was likewise established by Royal Charter, and history began in the Empire sense. The first rail of the so-called Uganda Railway (of which not one yard is in Uganda) was laid in 1896, the Protectorate having meanwhile been established, and its 584 miles reached completion at the end of 1901. Already receipts far outweigh expenditure, though it must be some, perhaps many, years before the capital expenditure is written off.

These few words about the railway may suggest a country of modern convenience in travel, but that is still, and will long be, an unrealized dream. The main line runs from Mombasa to Lake Victoria Nyanza, traversing in its course each successive belt of the Protectorate, but immediately the traveler or settler gets away from that one iron road he falls back upon safari as in days of yore. "Safari," let it be understood, is the Swahili expression for the traveling camp life amid primeval forests and along untrodden stretches of pathless wilds peopled only by the whispering memories of primitive man. For British East Africa is still the Paradise of the big game tracker, and on safari, away from ordinary routes, lions and leopards, elephants and rhinoceros, buffalo and wilderbeast, hippopotamus and crocodile, giraffe and zebra, and a host of other animals haunt the stranger's wanderings.

It would be impossible for any writer to convey to the homelander, the smoke of whose neighbor's chimney is rarely out of sight, a convincing impression of that weird experience, the first safari. Presently, however, the wanderer, whatever his particular idiosyncrasy, must happen on what appears to him to be the pick of the earth: to one man, perhaps, the wonderful sweep of the enormous grazing areas in the Highlands, to another the ravines of the great Rift Valley, the wonderful agricultural districts of the Highland settlements, the big game areas of Ukamba, or the extraordinary rich flats and valleys of the tropical coast belt. Somewhere the settler with an eye for land can hardly fail to mark the man-hungry country which cries to him, individually, for settlement. For the predominant feature of British East Africa is its remarkable variety and the scope it affords every kind of land settler. There are, of course unhealthy districts for whites, and there are considerable areas where it would not be wise to take a young family, even though a healthy man could with reasonable precautions do well enough. On the other hand the slopes of the Shimba Hills could provide the planter of tropical products with a home for wife and children within reach of his work on the coastland, while away in the Highlands, where the bulk of British settlement has taken place, the children are as rosy, strong, and full of spirits as their English cousins.

British East Africa is not as yet the country for the man with no capital beyond his manhood—great as that asset is when the possessor has the good fortune to be British. The difficulty for the man without capital of reaching his market practically excludes him for the present.

FINDS IN EGYPT.

Ancient Palace Discovered by British Archaeologist.

Prof Flinders Petrie recently gave an account of the work of the British School of Archaeology during the past season at Thebes and Memphis. The great result of this year at Memphis has been the discovery of the palace of King Apries—the Pharaoh Hophra of the Bible—who was contemporary with Jeremiah. Hitherto no palace has been known in Egypt beyond the tower at Medinet Habu and some portions of rather earlier date. The palace now discovered is of impressive scale, about 400 feet long, and half as wide. The Middle Court is well over a hundred feet square, and the painted stone columns in it were more than 40 feet high. The stone-lined halls, of which seven remain, were over 40 feet long and half as wide. The brick walls were nearly as large and the walls were about 15 feet thick. A still larger court extended on the north side, in which lie capitals of columns which must have been about 50 feet high. The approach to the palace led up through a large mass of buildings to a platform at a height of about 60 feet above the plain. In the ruins scare armour, hitherto rarely found in Egypt, was discovered. Good bronze figures of gods were also found. What Prof. Petrie described as the one supreme piece was the fitting of a palanquin of solid silver, a pound in weight, decorated with a bust of Hathor with a gold face of the finest workmanship of the time of Apries. The great gateway and the immense walls descending deep into the mound indicated that there lay there the ruins of successive palaces built one over the other, and Prof. Petrie proposed that in six or eight years, if the school received sufficient financial support, they might dig down to the earliest records of the Egyptian Kingdom. The temple of Merenptah occupied a large part of the work, some of the columns and bases showing that Pharaoh was appropriating older work. The temple of Ptah and the desert village or region were also explored during the season.

Princess Christian, Clubwoman.

Her Royal Highness takes a very prominent part in public and charitable works. She is the moving spirit of the Royal School of Art Needlework in South Kensington, which provides work for numbers of poor gentlewomen.

In accordance with her desire to live, as far as possible, the life of a private person, Princess Christian recently joined a ladies' club in the West End of London. On one occasion she went there, attended as usual by a gentleman-in-waiting.

Now, one of the rules of this particular club is that no "mere man" are allowed on the premises. Another member who happened to see the potentate going upstairs with her escort at once complained to the manager that "a member had broken the rules by bringing a gentleman friend with her."

A Man of His Word.

Sir Peter Nicol Russell, a wealthy Australian, who died in England, received knighthood in recognition of his munificent gifts to the University of Sydney, and his will has been under discussion in the Sydney courts. A curious fact was mentioned in evidence. Sir Peter was the proprietor of extensive ironworks in Sydney. His men threatened to strike over some subject in dispute. Sir Peter told them that if they did he would shut down the works and never open them again. The men laughed, and said that was all "bluff." They struck, and Sir Peter was as good as his word. The gates were closed, and never again was the clang of steel heard there. Sir Peter left Sydney forever, and spent the rest of his life in England. That strike cost the workers of Sydney many hundreds of thousands of pounds.

"Budge."

It is probable that if that popular actress Miss Ruth Vincent, who is appearing with such success in "A Persian Princess" at the Queen's Theatre, Shaftesbury avenue, London, could be induced to mention whom she considered to be the greatest admirer of her singing, she would reply, "Budge," by which name her little son is known to his intimates. "Budge" is now about four years of age and is a charming little fellow. "He always sits in the drawing-room when I am practicing my songs," says Miss Vincent, "and imitates my notes wonderfully in his little staccato voice. Is he to become an actor? No, I shall not let him go on the stage."—London Tit-Bits.

The Origin of John Bull.

In March, 1712, there was published in London a satirical brochure dealing with the events of the previous year and bringing prominently into light the doings of Spain, Louis XIV., Holland and England—the last-named country being represented by "John Bull." The original of the character was John Bollingbroke, Minister of Queen Anne—who in the first edition was spoken of as "Lord Bullingbrook" and "John Bullingbrook" alternately—the title of the brochure subsequently becoming abbreviated to plain "John Bull." It was the production of a Scotch writer, Dr John Arbuthnot, and not Swift, as some have stated.

The Star Chamber.

The "star chamber" was so called from the place in which the court was held in one of the rooms of the King's palace in Westminster. Upon the ceilings were stars, hence the camera stellata or chamber of stars. It was of very ancient origin and had excessive powers, but could not pronounce the death penalty. It was abolished by act of Parliament in 1641 during the reign of Charles I., but this unfortunate monarch was sentenced to be beheaded from this same "star chamber."—London Queen.

Reformed Spelling.

OME GRONE UNE 6 A POTT.

To upholders of the new orthography this should be interesting. It refers to home grown honey and its price.—London News.

Extremely So.

"I wanted to make myself solid."

"Did you succeed?"

"I should say so. I felt like a ton of lead."

THE SLY FOX.

Dead In the Dairy, But Lively When He Got Outside.

Several years ago at an old-fashioned farmhouse called Tittle Hall, in Boxted, a small village lying between Sudbury and Bury St Edmunds, Suffolk, England, there lived a farmer and his wife who thought much of their cows and dairy, but they were rather pestered with foxes, as the squire of Boxted Hall, an ancient mansion, being lord of the manor, did not allow them to be molested, as they were reserved for sporting, and so it happened that the farmer's wife on going into her dairy one morning was horrified to see a fox of an enormous size lying dead, as she supposed, on the floor. The dairies at that time were large and airy, with large lattice windows and floors paved with clinker bricks, which were often scrubbed down with a birch broom and much water. A brick was left out of the wall level with the floor for a sink hole, where all the refuse was washed out. The fox in his nightly prowls around the house appears to have scented the cream through the windows or sink hole and, as he would like to taste it, squeezed himself through the hole into the dairy and made his way to the cream pot, and as it was so very nice he ate it all up. He swelled himself up to such a size that he could by no means get back through the hole again, and, hearing footsteps coming, he lay down on the floor and feigned to be dead. The lady, suspecting what he had been doing, looked into her cream pot, and, finding it all gone, she was so exasperated that she took him up in a rage, thinking he was dead, and with an ugly word threw him out into the backyard, but, to her great consternation and dismay, as soon as reynard found he was at large and once more free to use his legs he bounded off at full speed, leaving the lady to grieve over the escape of the audacious and crafty thief.

Municipal Ownership.

Municipal ownership of the city gas plant has proved to be not only a profitable undertaking for Manchester, Eng., but economical for the consumer as well.

The city's profits since the works were taken over 25 years ago have been $6,750,307, while the price of gas in the Manchester district at present is only 55 cents per thousand cubic feet, according to a report to the bureau of manufactures.

In addition to furnishing gas cheaply, the Manchester corporation has provided free of charge gas stoves to all householders making requests for the same. A movement is on foot to reduce the price of gas to 49 cents for sundry manufacturing purposes and a graduated reduction for ordinary uses.

To illustrate the growth of the business, it is stated that the producing capacity of the works is 26,000,000 cubic feet per 24 hours, against 13,000,000 in 1883. An investment of $13,369,875 capital is represented.

Manchester has a population of about 600,000.

How Sir Thomas Dewar Won Success.

"Grasp opportunity and put it in your pocket," is the favorite motto of Sir Thos. Dewar, who early in life, long before he became connected with the famous whisky which bears his name, started in business at home as a rat-killer. A penny for each tail produced as evidence of his skill was the rate of payment allowed, and Sir Thomas has since confessed that he earned a good deal of pocket-money at the business. Not only as a commercial king, however, but also as a keen and enthusiastic sportsman, has Sir Thomas won admiration. Once he came near winning the Derby, with Forfarshire, in the year the race was won by Diamond Jubilee. On the course, Sir Thomas heard an anxious Scotsman, who had half a sovereign on, tremulously inquire of his neighbor, "Where's Forfarshire?" And the withering reply was, "A county in the north of Scotland."

Appropriate.

It was at a concert held in the village schoolhouse. In the chair was a local merchant who, though a good business man, was not much of a scholar. He intimated that the next song would be "Ora Pro Nobis."

The singer made a terrible mess of it, and consequently it was a great relief to the audience when she had finished the last verse. The chairman did not know the meaning of "Ora Pro Nobis," so he applied to the man sitting next to him. He also did not know that it meant "pray for us." But, not wishing to admit such a thing, he said:

"Oh, it means 'we thank you.'"

There was a great burst of laughter from the audience when the chairman, as the lady was leaving the platform, rose to his feet and said:

"Miss Smith, 'ora pro nobis.'"—London Answers.

His Hobby Is Work.

There is a good story told regarding General Sir Beauchamp Duff, whose name is mentioned as successor to General Sir O'Moore Creagh as Secretary at the India Office. Not long ago a reporter tried to find out Gen Duff's recreation. "Do you play bridge much?" he asked. "Not much," answered the general. "Billiards, maybe?" "Nothing to speak of." "Chess?" "Badly." "Any outdoor sports?" "At long intervals." "Then what on earth do you do?" "The rarest thing possible in the British Army," said Gen Duff, "I work."

A Clergyman's Sacrifice.

From time to time taunts have been levelled at the clergy in regard to their efforts to obtain "fat" livings. Here is a case, however, which proves that they are not always influenced in their choice by monetary considerations. Rev. F. Swainson, vicar of St. Barnabas, Holloway, has just rejected the offer of a living worth approximately $8,000, although his present income is under $1,500; and simply because he is so deeply attached to the working people of his parish that he will not leave them.

A failing tiny nerve—no larger than the finest silken thread—takes from the Heart, its impulse, its power, its regularity. The stomach also has its hidden or inside nerve. It was Dr. Shoop who first told us it was wrong to drug a weak or failing Stomach, Heart or Kidneys. His drugless treatment is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even for a few days soon become fully convinced of its wonderful merit. Anyway, don't drug the organ. Treating the cause of sickness is the only sensible and successful way. Sold by all dealers.

A GREAT DETECTIVE.

Scotland Yard Sleuth Has Had an Exciting Career.

Detective Inspector Arrow, who was concerned with the arrest of the alleged instigator of the notorious "D S Windell" frauds, now being unfolded in the criminal courts, has effected many a dramatic capture in his time, but perhaps none more so than the famous raid of a gambling den, kept by an Italian, in a street off the Tottenham Court Road a few years ago. Plans for the raid were carefully made. Mr. Arrow was to approach the club with a couple of assistants, manoeuvre for an entrance, and thus pave the way for a force of constables who were to be in hiding. The detective expected a long wait, but the unexpected happened. Just as the three officers were approaching the club the doors were suddenly thrown open and an undesirable member was bundled out by the burly proprietor. Seizing this excellent opportunity Mr Arrow dashed inside. Suspecting that the three were detectives, the proprietor slammed the door, and the inspector and his companions found themselves trapped in a room with a hundred or so evil-looking foreigners. Nothing daunted, Mr Arrow proceeded to the gambling-room for all the world as though he had all the forces of Scotland Yard at his back. He seized the cards, the bank, and other evidences of gambling, and coolly informed the men that they were his prisoners. It was not until the inmates saw the constables pouring into the club by means of a ladder that they realized how thoroughly they had been outwitted by the intrepidity of one man.

It was chance, pure and simple, that was the means of turning Inspector Arrow's thoughts in the direction of detective work. He began his life as a schoolmaster, and while in the act of performing his duties one day, thieves broke into the schoolhouse and decamped with some clothing. The alarm was raised, and both master and pupils went in pursuit. The chase was continued for several hours, until the culprit fell in a ploughed field from sheer exhaustion. Armed with nothing more formidable than a pair of brawny fists, Mr Arrow kept guard over the offender until help arrived. The thief proved to be an old offender, and the young schoolmaster was complimented and rewarded by the chief of police for the district. It was this incident that determined his career.

ROCKEFELLER'S BIG GIFT.

Oil King Transfers Much of His Cleveland Property to Son.

Cleveland, July 19.—Deeds filed with the Cuyahoga County recorder here today transfer practically all of John D. Rockefeller's holdings in this city, except his homes, to John D. Rockfeller, Jr., his son.

The property involved is valued at $3,000,000, and includes the sixteen-story Rockefeller Building, the old Weddell House, the Harriett and Johnson properties in lower Superior avenue, and five lots in East Cleveland. The consideration named is the conventional $1. The deeds were executed in New York City Tuesday.

These transfers follow those of other Rockefeller properties here to the younger Rockefeller and indicate to Mr. Rockefeller's friends that he is preparing to retire from all business and to leave his property in such shape that his death would not interfere with its management.

Thaw is Not Dismayed

New York, July 18.—Not in the least dismayed by his wife's testimony that he had threatened her life, Harry K. Thaw rose early yesterday and plunged into new plans for his clearance of the charge of insanity. The investigation has been postponed until a week from Monday, and the whole of next week will be spent by Thaw and his counsel preparing for the mental examination which Thaw will undergo on the stand this time instead of in a private room.

The day before Deputy Attorney General Clark said, in opposing this action: "It is well known that a paranoiac can be drilled to conceal his symptoms, and the relator seems to be well-drilled." Now that he knows he will be examined in open court, Thaw is confident of his release, and at the present time is not in the least excited by the ordeal which he will have to undergo.

"I made no statement to Mrs. Thaw at Matteawan or elsewhere," Thaw said yesterday in the White Plains jail, "that I had missed Stanford White by two minutes on the day before the shooting. I am equally emphatic in saying that I never threatened to kill her if I got out of Matteawan. That story is utterly absurd.

"I bear no malice against her for her testimony, and she had no need to fear that I would. She has simply weakly yielded to persons who wanted her to give such testimony. Letters which she identified yesterday will show that since the visit in which she said that I threatened her she has acknowledge that I had been sending her money right along and that she was in no fear of me.

PEAT BOGS IN ONTARIO.

Government Ready to Supply Information to Those Interested.

Ottawa, July 16.—The importance of the peat fuel industry to the central portion of Canada, where coal fuel is non-existent and its importation so comparatively costly, requires no demonstration.

The Mines Branch of the Department of Mines, Ottawa, issued a year ago a report on "Peat and Lignite, their manufacture and uses in Europe," with the object of giving to Canadians as complete a review as possible of this industry in those countries in which it has been carried out most successfully.

This report is now followed by a bulletin entitled, "The Investigation of the Peat Bogs and Peat Industry of Canada during the season of 1908-09, by Erik Eystrom, M.E., Peat Expert. This bulletin comprises 25 pages of text, and includes 6 large scale maps of the following peat bogs:

1. Mer Bleue, near Ottawa.
2. The Alfred Peat Bog, about 40 miles from Ottawa.
3. The Welland Peat Bog, about 6 miles north of Welland.
4. The Newington Peat Bog, on New York and Ottawa Railway, and about 40 miles from Ottawa.
5. The Perth Bog, a mile and a half from Perth.
6. The Victoria Road Bog, about a mile from Victoria Station, on the Midland division of the Grand Trunk Railway.

The bulletin contains a descriptive report of each bog, showing the location, area and structure, and giving an estimate of the available supply of peat fuel with records of analyses, calorific values, etc., and should be of particular interest to those engaged in, or connected with with the development of Canadian peat resources.

A fuel testing plant is now being erected at Ottawa, in which the value of peat for the production of power gas will be demonstrated, and the department propose to carry on a very thorough investigation of this subject.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co. Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally indoses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Nothing in the way of a Cough is quite so annoying as a tickling, teasing, wheezing, bronchial Cough. The quickest relief comes perhaps from a prescription known to Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And besides, it is so thoroughly harmless that mothers give it with perfect safety even to the youngest babes. The tender leaves of a simple mountain shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its remarkable curative effect. It is truly a most certain and trustworthy prescription. Sold by all dealers.

HEAVY WEED CROP.

Front of Armories is a Disgrace to the City.

The Dominion Government has a splendid crop of noxious weeds in front of the new armories. The weed are thick in body, high of stature and remarkably numerouns. It is doubtful, however, if they are much good for horse feed, although there may be some patent preparation which will enable the soldiers' department to press, pack, and make platable, what is otherwise a —— nuisance and a disgrace to the city. The new lawn in front of the Collegiate Institute can produce as many weeds but the Board of Education keeps them cut short. The government, however makes no pretence at decency.

The regular mid-week prayer meeting service will be held in St. Paul's church on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock.

MEDICAL HEALTH.

Officer Fell Into Roger Street Sewer on Saturday Night.

Dr. A. W. MacPherson met with a nasty accident on Saturday night by falling into the sewer on Roger St. He had not intended inspecting any sewers at the hour of midnight and it is fortunate for him that the sewage had not been started through yet or he might have been forced to breed the various forms of bacteria in order to free himself of that odoriferousness so common to sewers. The doctor had been called to attend the unfortunate fellow whose leg was broken in the accident on the way from Lakefield. He had just retired to bed and the short time it took him to dress and get on his wheel was not sufficient to enable him to get his eyes fully opened and when he struck the sewer he kept right on going until he dropped head long into the trench. As a result his knee was badly cut and his trousers were torn, otherwise he was not seriously injured. The jolt, however caused him to forget for several hours that there was such a thing as sleep.

The Times' Big Contest Closes on Saturday Night at Nine O'Clock---Get Your Subscriptions in on Time

KEEP ON PLUGGING

If You Want a Prize in The Times' Contest---Closes at 9 P. M. Saturday ---There is no Advantage in Delay so Bring in Your Subscriptions Now

THE COMMITTEE TO AWARD PRIZES

Mayor Henry Rush, of Peterborough.
Warden N. E. Scott, of the County of Peterborough.
Ald. Harry Phelan, of the city of Peterborough.
F. G. Hazzard, Y. M. C. A. Secretary.
E. Wasson, of Sanderson Jewellery Co.
S. H. Armstrong, Clerk of Peterborough.
A. W. Cressman, Cressman's Departmental Store, Peterborough.

If you expect to win a prize in The Times Great Prize Contest, it lies entirely with you whether you will be successful or not. Put your whole heart into your effort. No half hearted act was ever yet a success.

On the other hand, those who are animated by enthusiasm and confidence do not fail to reach their goal. Many a person has "arrived" after passing obstacles that at first sight appeared insurmountable. The joy of victory was theirs.

NOTHING SUCCEEDS LIKE SUCCESS

Success attracts every one's attention and sympathy. All the world has a welcome for the person of pluck. Many a hand is stretched out to him who has climbed almost to the summit. No one wants to see such a person fall back. They stretch out their hands, give a little support and there you are—right on top. The nearer you are to leading the more hands will be stretched out to help you. There is no place for the faint hearted except in the rear ranks.

ABOUT YOUR RESERVE.

Have you been thrifty and laid aside a big bunch of votes for your reserve fund? This fund can scarcely be too large. Some are no doubt congratulating themselves that they are fairly safe with what they have held back. Remember that this is a game played by more than one, and you cannot possibly tellwhat the reserve strength of your rivals may be. The safe plan is to let no opportunity of building up your vote escape you. Until Saturday evening you have a fine chance to make tremendous gains in votes for little effort.

Make the most of the time that is left you.

DO NOT FORGET.

Do not forget that there is no advantage in delay. Bring in your subscriptions as you get them, and then there will be no flurry and worry on the last day. Nothing will count on the contest that is brought to the Contest department after 9 o'clock Saturday night.

If you live out of town you must take particular pains to mail your votes or subscriptions in ample time, and to put sufficient postage on your package, for we cannot count anything that does not REACH US within the limits of the contest.

COMMITTEE TO COUNT VOTES.

Immediately upon the close of the contest at 9 p. m. the committee of prominent and disinterested citizens, whose names appear in this issue, will begin to count the votes which will decide the winners.

Knowing the keen anxiety as to the result that will prevail, we are trying to make every arrangement to give a speedy announcement of the awarding of the prizes in Monday's Times.

You who read this make up your minds now that your name shall be among the lucky twenty-two who will each win a valuable urize.

GO TO MONTREAL.

Deputation to Visit the New Isolation Hospital.

Chairman Ald. Bradburn of the Property Committee, in opening the meeting yesterday afternoon, stated that it was called for the purpose of discussing the plans for the isolation hospital. Dr. MacPherson had consulted with Architect Blackwell in reference to the changes in the plans he would like to have made. The doctor also thinks it would be advisable for the architect to go to Montreal, and see the hospital there.

Ald. Duncan and McIntyre both took part in the discussion as they had been in Toronto with Dr. MacPherson last week, and got a good idea of what was wanted. They suggested that as little wood work be used as possible on the interior for the sake of cleanliness.

Ald. Morgan moved that Mr. Blackwell, Dr. MacPherson and Ald. Bradburn go down to Montreal and see the hospital. In the event of the chairman not being able to get away he has authority to send one other member of the committee. Ald McIntyre seconded the motion and it carried.

The idea of the new hospital is to have everything about the building as plain as possible, but to have it up-to-date in every respect so far as equipment and arrangement is concerned. It will be made attractive for patients.

Hotels and Restaurants in Trouble At Cobalt

Toronto, Culy 21.—Of the six samples of beer seized in temperance hotels and restaurants at Cobalt recently and sent to Toronto for analysis, each has been found to have considerably over the legal percentage of alcohol. The samples have been returned and the inspector advised to prosecute the proprietors of the various places.

Gold in Welland County.

Welland, Ohio, Ont., July 20.—Welland County is excited over the announcement of the discovery of gold and silver in the mountain of North Pelham. J. Ira Swayze, who owns a farm six miles south of St. Catharines, has had samples of the ores sent to Cobalt, Toronto and Buffalo, and in each case a most favorable analysis was given. The work of ascertaining the possibilities of the mine will be commenced at once, and if this proves satisfactory development will be undertaken. The farm is crossed diagonally by the survey of the new Welland Canal.

WINS HER HEART.

Food That Helps Baby and the Family Pleases Mother.

Show a mother how to feed her baby so that it will be healthy, rosy and plump and grow up strong and sturdy and the mother's gratitude is everlasting.

A mother says: "Five weeks ago I weaned baby but could not get her to take any kind of food until I tried Grape-Nuts which she relished from the first, and on it she has plumped up and blossomed into a fat chubby little girl.

"I feed Grape-Nuts to her regularly — use three packages a week for baby and my three-year-old boy alone and I find that it regulates and keeps them nourished, strong and in good health all the time.

"Since feeding my children on Grape-Nuts I have used absolutely no medicine for either of them. Such food as this that does such wonders wins its way to a mother's heart. Please accept our thanks for the good your food has done in our family where we all eat it."

Children will grow up strong and healthy or weak and puny according to the food they get.

Grape-Nuts is a complete and perfect food for adults and children, is made on scientific lines and this is easily proved by trial.

Mrs. Mary Maxwell's Gift To Missions Recognized

The Rev. J. G. Potter, pastor of St. Andrew's church, Peterborough, has handed in the following interesting letter from the clerk of the Presbytery of Honan, China, to Mrs. Mary A. Maxwell of this city. In giving it to the public there is only the two fold object in view (1) The letter is an evidence of the fact that committeess of the church entrusted with missionary funds are faithful in the discharge of their trust and that the whole amount donated finds its way to its destination. (2) That there may be other friends who will find it in their hearts to assist in the very needy work of China or India, where so much depends upon what the Christian church does now.

Weihweifu, June 4, 1909.

Mrs. Mary A. Maxwell,
Peterborough,
Canada.

Dear Madame,—I have been instructed by the Presbytery to send to you the following minute extracted from the Minutes of Honan Presbytery.—

"It was resolved that the Presbytery of Honan feels deeply grateful to Almighty God for the way in which our urgent needs for fuller educational equipment have been met At a time when China is changing so rapidly and moving on into unknown paths a grave responsibility is laid upon the Church to guide the young in their pursuit of knowledge, to provide them with an enlightened Christian education and to train them for efficient service for Jesus Christ among their fellowmen. Mrs. Maxwell's generous gift of $5000 for the high and Normal schools at Weihweifu is most opportune, making possible the erection of commodious and substantial buildings, and greatnly assisted the development of our educational policy. The very sincere thanks of Presbytery are thereforetendered to Mrs. Maxwell."

It gives me great pleasure personally to convey to you the thanks of Presbytery, and I can assure you that this gift will be the source of untold blessing to many. The young men attending the High and Normal school at present are a splendid lot of young fellows; the Chinese premises at present used for the school are very inadequate and unsuitable. Now, however, owing to your generosity we can look forward to better things.

Faithfully yours,
W. HARVEY GRANT
Presbytery Clerk.

A SAD ENDING.

A Runaway Marriage Ends Sadly.

Edward McDermott called at room at No. 199 Third avenue but until last night. McDermott left there with his bride of two weeks, Celina, a frail girl of fourteen years, whom he had married spite of the opposition of both their families. Yesterday when he returned home from work he found Celia lying very still on the bed and a gas tube hanging suspended from the wall, with the gas pouring forth. She was dead.

Before the marriage the girl was Celia Talburg, of No. 1167 Fox St The Bronx. She was a Roman Catholic; he a Protestant. Unable to live in New Jersey two weeks ago and went to live on Third avenue. The two families would not forgive their marriage and would not visit them.

Both husband and mother refused to believe yesterday that the girl had committed suicide.

Smallpox Test.

The epidemic that necessitated the providing of a tent at the north end of the city is reported by Dr. McPherson, M.H.O. to be at an end, and all the patients have been released and are at their homes, and it is hoped that no more cases will be met with. Those who were at the tent have been carefully attended to and there is no possibility of new cases appearing as a result of the tent being vacated.

Bicycle Lost.

A bicycle was taken from the front of the Wm. English Canoe Company factory last night. The wheel was a Regi make with a 24-inch frame, black enamel, Morrow coaster brake and reversable handle bars. Any one knowing anything of the whereabouts of the wheel are asked to communicate with Chief Roszel.

THE GYPSIES AGAIN.

A despatch from Ottawa states the gypsies who were encamped here are involved in a legal case in Ottawa, resulting from the alleged kidnapping of the young girl who was said to have been betrothed, or married here. It was stated at the time that the girl was married to a man named Stoke. 6The information was obtained from Dr. Pelky, who was in the city at the time of the affair, and who acted as interpreter when the gypsies were arraigned here after being arrested by the county authorities.

Re-Inforced Concrete is Proper Material for Smith St. Bridge

Prof. Young Gave an Exceptionally Interesting Illustrated Address on Re-Inforced Conrete Bridge Construction— Others Talk of the By-laws

A reinforced concrete bridge is the proper thing for crossing the Otonabee river at Smith street. Anyone who was not already satisfied with that fact before last night's meeting of the Board of Trade, certainly are convinced since hearing Prof. Young of the School of Practical Science, Toronto. Reinforced concrete is the leading material used for bridge building as well as for the construction of many other structures where strength, permanency, economy and beauty are desired.

Prof. Young's lecture was interesting in the extreme. The meeting was not very largely attended which is decidedly discreditable to the citizens who have on many occasions thus proved their lack of interest in municipal matters. Those who stayed away lost the opportunity to gain a great deal of valuable and interesting information.

President Ald. Gillespie occupied the chair and conducted the meeting.

President Ald. Gillespie opened the meeting by stating that it was called for the purpose of discussing the reinforced concrete bridge building.

Prof. Young stated that he understood that Peterborough was on the verge of voting on a by law for Smith Street bridge. The bridge to be of reinforced concrete. Concrete has very many advantages over wood and steel. It is not a new material as it has been used for centuries. Reinforced concrete, however, is a rather new material. It is the concrete strengthened by steel. It was first used by a French gardener. It was in 1889 that the first concrete bridge was built in San Francisco. Since then thousands of concrete bridges have been built in the United States and Great Britain. In Canada it has also become popular and especially for floors and abutments for bridges. The Ontario Government is planing all its bridges for concrete floors. The speaker then showed several slides of the larger bridges. The first was in Philadelphia, which has an arch of 212 feet. Another bridge had a span of 233 feet. The third was the Rocky river bridge with a single span of 280 feet. The fourth was Hudson memorial arch in New York which has a span of 704 feet.

Prof. Young then took up some of the properties of concrete. It is remarked for its tenacity and strength although to be of the greatest value and strength, it must be used in conjunction with steel. The tenacity of reinforced concrete was much greater than that of masonry, and concrete grows stronger with age which no other material does. The effect of the elements upon concrete is ptactically nil. The life of a timber bridge is ten years, a steel bridge is about 40 years, a concrete bridge if well constructed, will last at least 100 years.

Speaking of the appearance of the concrete bridges Prof. Young said that it was much more pleasing than any other material. Too little attention has been paid to the appearance of bridges, and it was now time that this was remedied.

The professor then showed a large number of slides of some of the most beautiful reinforced concrete bridges and how to treat them.

As to the relative cost of bridges he said a concrete bridge up to 50 feet and a steel bridge with a concrete floor are about the same price. Over 50 feet the concrete costs a little more. Then in connection with the cost must be reckoned the maintenance. The estimated price of the Smith street bridge is $32,500, while a steel bridge would cost $30,000. The steel bridge would cost $400 every two years for painting which would bring the total very much higher, and at the end of 40 years there would be no bridge while the concrete bridge would be as good as ever.

In the construction of concrete bridges there must be more care taken in selecting the foundations for the abutments. The majority of failures are due to bad foundations, or bad designs. It is utterly impossible for a layman to design a concrete arch, as they are all ten times harder to design than one of steel.

It requires the ability of an expert He paid a tribute to Mr. Hay's design and plans for the Smith St. bridge. He thought there was nothing for this city to do but to carry the bridge project through.

Mr. D. W. Dumble said that he could only express his pleasure at the splendid lecture, and the beautiful designs of bridges shown on the canvas. He thought an artistic concrete bridge was the proper one for Smith street. He moved a vote of thanks to Prof. Young.

Mr. Wm. Langford said that he would not oppose the Smith street bridge bylaw this time.

Ald. Phelan, chairman of the Board of Works was next called on, and he went into full details of the water front and street extension bylaws. He explained that $6,000 was for the water front of which $4,000 had already been paid. On the street extension bylaw $20,300 had already been spent. $6,000 had been received from debentures and several thousand dollars were received from the sale of lots, so that there is now $15,500 required for this work. He also took up the Smith street bridge bylaw and explained that to the meeting. All the information given out, however, has already been given in these columns. He closed by thanking the president for calling this meeting.

Ald. Turner seconded Mr. Dumble's vote of thanks to Prof. Young and also the one moved by Ald. Phelan. Ald. Turner criticised the people of the city for their negligence in regards to municipal matters, as the lecture given by Prof. Young was very valuable and beneficial.

The motions were then put to the meeting and carried unanimously.

The meeting then adjourned.

Aliens Fill Prisons and Ontario Asylums

That the prisons and asylums of Ontario are being filled to an alarming degree by the immigrants from Europe who have been in Canada for only a brief period, is the allegation contained in a report which will shortly be issued by the Asylums and Prisons Branch of the Provincial Secretary's department. For several months an official of the department has been engaged collecting statistics in all the institutions of the Province, and it is understood that these point in a very decided way to the presence on the government's list of dependants of hundreds of the class usually referred to as "undesirable citizens."

The report is intended to throw a radically new light on the Federal immigration policy, and to hint at the desirability of stricter conditions at points of entry.

"Can be depended upon" is an expression we all like to hear, and when it is used in connection with Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy it means that it never fails to cure diarrhoea, dysentery or bowel complaints. It is pleasant to take and equally valuable for children and adults.

THE WEATHER.

Fine, and a little warmer.

Gas Distended His Stomach

Caused Palpitation and Prevented Sleep. When Health Was Gone, Cure Followed Use of Nerviline.

"My last wish will be," writes Harry P. Pollard, a well-known boot and shoe traveller of Hartford, "that everyone with a bad stomach may learn as I did, before it's too late, that Nerviline is the one remedy to cure. Why, I was in mighty bad shape, my digestion was all wrong, and every night I would waker with a start and find my heart jumping like a threshing machine. This was caused by gas on my heart. When I started to use Nerviline I got better mighty fast. It is certainly a grand remedy for the travelling man, keeps your stomach in order, cures cramps, prevents lumbago or rheumatism, breaks up chest colds and sore throat—in fact there hasn't been an ache or pain inside or outside for the past two years that I haven't cured with Nerviline. Do you wonder I recommend it?"

TESTIMONIAL No. 4890

For general household use Nerviline has no equal; it will cure the aches and ailments of the entire family—refuse anything but Nerviline, 25 cts. per bottle, five for $1.00, all dealers or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont. 6

THE AMERICAN INVASION.

A calculation of the material benefit which Canada derives from the immigration of settlers from the United States is attempted by a Winnipeg correspondent of The London Daily Mail. There has been with certain Old Country papers a tendency to deplore the "American invasion" and the "Americanization" of the Canadian west. In point of fact the attraction of the western farmer of the United States has become a matter of fixed policy with the Canadian Government. The reasons are fairly obvious. These people have sold their holdings south of the line and come to Canada with substantial effects. They have been accustomed to breaking land in the States and need be told little or nothing when they reach their Canadian homesteads. Many of them are Canadians by birth anyway.

The Daily Mail correspondent says that a conservative estimate of the value of the stock and cash which the immigrants from the United States will bring with them this year places the amount at over $70,000,000, but the Commissioner of Immigration believes it may even run as high as $100,000,000. The actual wealth which the American settlers are bringing into Canada this year alone, says the correspondent, would build ten Dreadnoughts or pay the national expenses for over six months.

He vouches for a Winnipeg incident. An old Idaho farmer walked into the immigration offices at Winnipeg, and after declaring his purpose to buy land, remarked that he was a stranger, knowing nothing of Canadian banks or Canadian people. "I reckon, though," he added, "that a British Government is safe; so I wish you would take charge of my old wallet until I get my claim located." Thereupon he passed it over to the commissioner, who found a roll of $25,000 in greenbacks within the old worn pocketbook. It was deposited to the old man's credit in the government account which is kept open for such cases.

These Americans who have their money with them when they come, begin farming on an extensive scale and with the most modern equipment for instance, the writer in The Daily Mail says that one wholesale implement firm in Winnipeg has received orders for 600 steam plows to be delivered during the present season, nearly all of which are for American settlers. These plows will be used exclusively in breaking virgin prairie, and as the capacity of each is 1,500 acres for the season, it means that 900,000 acres will be prepared for cultivation this year through the plows purchased from one firm alone. In turn this signifies that there will be 15,000,000 bushels more wheat to market next year.

Among the heads of these families there is a large proportion of men who have already become or are preparing to become British subjects. They are already qualified for the practice of good citizenship. They take instinctive interest in matters of government, local and national, and of course, from the beginning are prepared to maintain a high educational standard. They are already beginning to find their way into Canadian public life.

This American invasion is one of the most notable things in the present phase of Canadian depelopment. It gives evidence of the possibility of great future benefit not only to the immigrants themselves but to the whole of Canada. And when we shall have thickly laced with the home stock the varied populations of the west, we shall see there one of the greatest and best peoples that civilization has produced.

WELL POSTED

"I represent the Anti-billboard League," announced the stranger. "We wish to beautify American landscape. Are there many people against billboards in this town?"

"Wal, I should say so," replied the postmater of Bacon Ridge. "Go over in the public square and you'll find a hunhred against them now. If it wasn't for the billboards the loafers wouldn't have any place to lean against when they are tired from doing nothing."—

IF SICK--WHY PAY

Unless Health First Returns.

Here is what should and can be done!
Now you would not willingly pay for food that was worthless—would you?
Then why pay for medicine until that medicine first proves to you its actual worth?
Positively knowing what Dr. Shoop's Restorative can do for the sick, I say to all "don't pay unless health first returns". And I back my Restorative with a signed and sealed 30 day "No Risk, No Pay" contract.
I gladly pledge to the sick everywhere that "Dr. Shoop's Restorative is absolutely free if it fails". Let others do the same or else scan their prescriptions by.
If you need more strength, more vitality, more vigor or more vim, then my Restorative is your chief need. Into the Restorative I put the full curative value of my 30 years' practice as a Physician specializing on the Heart, Nerves and Stomach.
When the Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys are wrong, then test Dr. Shoop's Restorative. You can feel the Stomach or Heart or Kidneys grow strong, for then is strength. Tear not a way that promises help in medicine. The books below will tell you how I can serve you.
Those books also tell of a few leaders "in this nerve," no larger than a fifteen thousand, which will keep that nerve, until it fails, entirely free to the Heart in its power. In turn, the nerves of the stomach or bowels.
Those fifteen will even up any and all ailments in those who are not well. They will feed the stomach, and if there's gas it leaves. Then the heart or nerves respond. Then will there be a feeling of strength or fulness where nerves. All of means keep up all why I am able to say, "It is free if it fails".
This is why I say "Take no chances on medicines whose maker dare not back it just as I do by this remarkable offer".
So write me today for the order.
I have specialized beneath and responsible obligations in nearly every community to issue my conditions to the sick.
Just write me first for the order.
All druggists sell Dr. Shoop's Restorative and are not authorized to give the 30 days' trial. So drop me a line first and get the order. Then if my Restorative fails to help you, you need not pay.
A postal will do.
Better write now, while you have in mind, for you may forget your health problem. By return mail the book I have and the order—without cost.
Perhaps a word or two from me will offset any amount of printed matter. I have helped many upon thousands by my private prescription of personal advice plan. My best effort is only a few days away. MELVILLE

A New Star Rising in The Last West

If you know the story of this Coming City, it's wonderful growth and great future, you are aware of the exceptionally large profit to be made by investing NOW in a few business and residential lots.

A third Branch Line is now being surveyed—from Melville to Prince Albert. This means three Branch Lines of the Grand Trunk Pacific with headquarters at Melville, the three of which will be well under way before next winter. The Saskatchewan Government's guarantee of Bonds for these Lines is an assurances that they will be completed as soon as money can do it.

Besides being the Chief Divisional Point and Operating Pivot of the Prairie Division, Melville is the headquarters for the most important of the Western proposed Branches, viz:

1st—To Hudson Bay.
2nd—To Regina and the American Boundary through the coal district, with air lines to Moose Jaw and Brandon.
3rd—To Prince Albert and the lumber district of the North eventually to be extended beyond to the new lands yet unexplored.

The Canadian Northern Railway will eventually run a Line through Melville, from North Portal to their Prince Albert Line. James J. Hill's Great Northern Railway will reach Melville over the G. T. P. American Line, and will also likely have its own Line into Melville in the near future.

Can you realize all the future of Melville?

Melville is destined, because of its railway situation, to become one of the most important distributing centres of Western Canada.

Do you want to share in such a great future? Why not?

DR. PELKEY

Consumption Cured

And all Other Lung and Kidney Troubles

By the Wonderful Discovery made by a Canadian Doctor

Dr. Pelkey, a Canadian Physician, holding medical certificates in France, United States and Mexico, has made a discovery that promises to be the greatest boon yet given to humanity.

His great Consumption Cure is applied by means of an inhaler, the ingredients for which are contained in a tank, and the very first use made of it by the patient brings immediate relief, followed quickly by permanent cure. These inhalers are not sold to the people, but are placed in the home until they are not further needed, and then taken away.

Dr. Pelkey is exhibiting the invention, which is called the Pelkey Inhaler, throughout the country. The inhaler is first a platinum tank, divided into 26 compartments, into which various chemicals and drugs are placed. Outside these compartments cold water is placed. The action of the cold water causes a vaporous gas to rise into an eight-part evaporator at the top, where it is purified and forced through tubes for inhalation. The gas forms pure oxygen, tasteless, and odorless, and the patient inhales this. So healing is its effect that it will almost immediately stop a tuberculosis cough.

Most wonderful of all is the fact that Dr. Pelkey offers to trust his patients with the inhaler free of charge. The only thing for which he charges is a blood-purifier and building-up tonic, which he insists upon the patient's taking. He will even allow the person undergoing the treatment to take home the tank with him and be treated there.

Dr. Pelkey has been for 17 years in Mexico and Central and South America. He has Government certificates from Mexico, Brazil, New Mexico and Canada and many Latin-American republics, testifying to cures wrought by him with the inhaler. One certificate states that nearly half a troop of Mexican soldiers and American soldiers and Government officials of Montreal were cured under his treatment. Another is signed by President Diaz, of Mexico, himself, whom Dr. Pelkey cured. Dr. Pelkey can show hundreds of other testimonials of permanent people of Ottawa, who were cured of lung troubles and kidney troubles after suffering for five years.

Write letters, fully describing your trouble to The Great Specific Co., or to Ottawa, Ont.

"FROM INKLETS"

Some time ago we heard a number of expert men of INK discussing the relative merits of the various Brands of WRITING INKS, especially for Commercial and Mercantile use, and the unanimous conclusion was that there was not a better INK for this purpose than KEARNS'. We suppose the KEARNS INK COMPANY could sell two or three times its present output; provided they would permit the amount of their sales to take precedence over the quality of their INK, which they guard with the most zealous care. Made upon Honor. Sold upon its Merits.
MADE FAMOUS BY PUBLIC FAVOR

MRS. MARY L. GILMAN.

She Heads a Society of One Hundred and Sixty-three Thousand Women.

It is not a small matter to safely conduct the affairs of a society of 163,000 women, scattered over nearly all the states and territories of the Union, yet the honor is coveted, and much friendly rivalry results. Mrs. Mary L. Gilman, national president of the Woman's Relief corps, was elected on the first ballot by a flattering majority. Conservative, yet broad minded, of fine executive ability and an accomplished parliamentarian, her administration is proving to be a notable one, says Hampton's Magazine.

The Woman's Relief corps is the only authorized auxiliary of the Grand Army of the Republic and the outcome of the above mentioned aid societies of the sixties. After the war the work of relief became more than ever important because of the permanent disability of thousands of soldiers, many of whom had families dependent upon them. After a few years of desultory effort by unattached societies it was deemed best to unite in one strong organization which should be the auxiliary to that of the veterans and prepared to systematically assist them in their philanthropic work. Representatives of many small societies met in Denver in the summer of 1883 and organized the corps, with a charter list of forty-five members.

During its twenty-six years of existence $3,500,000 has been expended for relief alone. Families of veterans have been provided with food and clothing, homes and employments have been found for soldiers' widows and orphans, the sick have been cared for and the dead buried. In several states homes are maintained where disabled veterans may be accompanied by their faithful wives and their declining days be spent together in comfort.

In addition to the work of relief, immense sums of money are expended in the observance of Memorial day, and this society was the pioneer in the promotion of patriotic teaching as a part of the public school curriculum. That was in 1883, and since then many thousands of flags and patriotic publications have been presented to schools in every part of the United States.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

A scald is one of the most painful injuries. One of the best healing remedies is made by beating castor oil and white of egg together until a cream is formed.

Talcum was never intended as a toilet article for whitening the face, but it soothes a burned skin. If, however, talcum is added to face powder the irritation that often follows the application of face powder will not be noticed. It makes a powder smooth.

For pimples take sarsaparilla or any blood tonic for two weeks and drink plenty of water and exercise the body daily. Hot baths, followed by shower baths, will assist in purifying the blood. One teaspoonful of carbolic acid in one pint of rosewater, well mixed, can be sparingly applied to pimples and will remove them. For moth patches mix rum and sulphur together and apply at night, using care not to get it into the eyes.

To keep the complexion looking as white and clear as one could desire there could be no more helpful ally than a black velvet band around the neck. Other effects, too, may be produced by the judicious use of this adjunct to the toilet. A narrow band around a long neck will make it appear somewhat shorter, and it will make the complexion dazzlingly white in contrast, while a wide black band will tend to lengthen the neck and will have the same desirable effect upon the complexion.

A skin whitening preparation that can be easily made at home is in the proportion of two tablespoonfuls of oatmeal, a half tablespoonful of powdered borax and a half pint of rose water. Let the mixture stand three days, strain and add a half ounce of alcohol. The addition of the alcohol prevents the souring which is the drawback to so many oatmeal preparations. If preferred, instead of using all oatmeal it can be mixed with half its bulk of almond meal. Either of these washes makes the skin feel soft and smooth if rubbed on the hands or face after washing.

King to Cycle.

Special correspondence of The Standard from London says: King Edward VII has been recommended by his medical advisers to resume cycling after an interval of two years, and the Messrs. Humber, Limited, have modernized one of his old machines for the purpose. The King first rode a Humber tricycle thirteen years ago, and during the eleven years which followed several machines embodying the latest improvements were built for him.

It was originally the King's intention to have a new machine, but as the delivery of a machine of the special make which he favors was impossible within the specified time one of the old tricycles was sent to Messrs. Humber to be overhauled and refitted, and was returned to Buckingham Palace.

The machine has been equipped with all the most modern improvements, so as to avoid all danger of tripping or a fall in mounting and dismounting. One of the features of the machine is the absence of all impediments. It possesses a direct central drive and thus it is easy to jump on or off.

World's Greatest Bridge-Builder.

Sir William Arrol, who has been denouncing the $50,000 which he estimates be spent every Saturday afternoon in England during the winter season by spectators at football matches as "a gross waste of money," is one of the most remarkable self-made and self-taught men who have hailed from North of the Tweed. He started life in a cotton-mill at eleven years of age, but the work in the mill did not suit him at all. "I wanted an easier life," he explained later. "So I went to work for a blacksmith in Paisley," and it was the noise of the anvil and the sight of the sparks which inspired him with that love of engineering which led him to become the world's greatest bridge-builder.

Farm Boy For Professor's Chair.

The career of Prof. Thomas Rees, who has just been appointed principal of Bala-Bangor Welsh Congregational College, is an extraordinary one. He started to earn his living at thirteen as a farm laborer, and at eighteen was working in a colliery. While working as a collier at Aberdare he attended the Ebenezer Chapel in that town, and soon attracted attention by his wonderful preaching powers. When he was twenty-one years of age money was found to enable him to study at Whitland Grammar School. From that time his success was meteoric. Soon he matriculated at the University of London and took his degree. At thirty he was a professor of theology, and at forty years is principal of one of the leading colleges in Wales.

THE BETH DIN.

Where Law Comes Cheaper to Jews of the London Ghetto.

In a small turning out of "Petticoat Lane," in the heart of the Jewish quarter of London, or "Ghetto," is situated the Beth Din. It may well be termed the "Poor Jew's Law Court," for not only can disputes of all kinds be settled here, but no charge whatever is made for the use of its services, the expenses of carrying it on being borne by the Jewish community. Its sittings are usually presided over by the Chief Rabbi.

Here resort Jews of all classes and nationalities to adjust differences, and obtain advice—the Russian refugee and the Roumanian outcast, the Polish fugitive and the Portuguese emigrant, old Jews with hooked noses and straggling beards, young Jewesses with glittering eyes and coal-black hair. Here sits an aged Israelite, his small skull-cap stuck far back upon his few remaining hairs. Two long curls, or "peaks," fall on either side of his face. These are regarded by orthodox Jews as evidence of piety and learning, and are never cut. His clawlike nose, his long, matted beard, his olive-tinted skin, complete the picture. You almost expect to hear him claim his "pound of flesh."

His claim is, however, of a less inhuman kind. His friend has called him a "Shabsel Tsirnick"—about the grossest insult one Jew can offer to another, implying he is a follower of the impostor Messiah of that name. The rabbi elicits the fact that the complainant only received this insult after himself calling his friend a "Terdeganev," or horse thief. Oil is poured on the troubled waters, apologies are exchanged, and both parties leave the court friends.

Then follows a claim by "Minyan" men for extra payment. According to Jewish custom, on the "Jahrseit," or anniversary of the death of a parent, a special prayer, called the "Kaddish," is offered up for the soul of the departed. At least thirteen male Jews over thirteen years of age must be present, thirteen being regarded by Jews as a lucky number. This is called the "Minyan." Certain of the poorer Jews attend these services to make up the full complement of thirteen, and are paid for their attendance. This dispute is about what amount is to be paid. After much argument, a compromise is arranged.

Now come cases of all kinds. A Jew unsuccessfully seeks damages from a fried-fish vendor, because, he alleges, the oil in which the fish he purchased was fried was not "kosher" i.e., prepared in accordance with the Jewish law. A servant sues her mistress for wages due. Various money-lending cases, disputes between landlord and tenant, etc., follow.

In the Beth Din no oath is taken. Each party is expected to tell the truth, and generally does. When, however, there is a very distinct and direct conflict of evidence, statements can be repeated on oath.

It must not be supposed that the sole function of the Beth Din is judicial. It also decides questions of ritual, appoints officers for the performance of Jewish rites and ceremonies, and examines converts to Judaism. Questions relating to the Jewish dietary laws are also decided here. There is still in existence a law, although it is obsolete by now, by which water left overnight should not be drunk, for fear lest there might be a serpent's sting in it.

A Cosmopolitan R.A.

"The son of American parents, born in Florence, trained in Paris, living in London, a citizen of the United States, speaking Italian, French, German, and Spanish almost as fluently as he speaks English." Thus has Mr. Sargent, R.A., whose pictures are again amongst the most notable at Burlington House, been described. Mr Sargeant also pleads guilty to a taste for hunting. There is a story told of a visit he once paid to Fairford, the residence of his compatriot and brother Academician, Edwin Abbey. They had had a long day's hunting, and his host was changing his clothes when he heard cries of "Horrible! Horrible!" proceeding from Sargent's bedroom. Alarmed, he rushed in, only to find his friend woefully surveying the ruins of a new top-hat. "My dear fellow," he cried, "what's the matter?" "You see that hat," said Sargent. "My horse put his foot through it to-day. I was thinking how terrible it would have been if my head had been inside it."

Flower Trade of the Scilly Isles.

The Scilly Isles, five in all, lie out in the Atlantic forty miles off the Cornish coast. The development of their flower trade has changed them from poverty stricken spots into islands of the blessed. Not many years ago the inhabitants eked out a precarious and scanty living by potato culture, but one day a man of more forethought named Trevelick came to the conclusion that flowers would bring a richer harvest. He could see them growing riotously in the little gardens, and he collected a few bulbs here and a few there until he had enough to start business with, and the first consignment he sent to Covent Gardens brought prices that are now spoken of with something like reverence. With the passing of the years flower culture has settled into a well organised trade, providing occupation for everybody who wants to work on the islands.

Lord Marcus Beresford's Advice.

At the time when Lord Marcus Beresford took over the King's horses His Majesty had only a very moderate lot of animals in training. "Well, what do you think of them, and what would you do with them if they were yours?" he asked Lord Marcus one morning as they were watching the royal string at work on Newmarket Heath. Beresford looked the horses over reflectively for a moment and then said bluntly, "Shoot most of them, I think." "Shoot them by all means, then," retorted the King.

AN AIRSHIP MYSTERY

WHAT IS THE STRANGE VESSEL HOVERING OVER E. ANGLIA?

Well Verified Reports Are Received From Eastern Counties of England of a Dirigible Balloon — May Be Exploring Ship of an Enemy or the Experiment of a British Inventor—All England Is Mystified.

The magnificent voyage of 850 miles just accomplished by Count Zeppelin's airship would seem to indicate that there may be more in the story of the mysterious ship of the clouds, which, it is said, has been seen floating over parts of the United Kingdom, than my be credited by most people. A correspondent writes to a London paper the following account of his investigations in East Anglia:

The mystery of the East Anglian skies has for too long defied solution, whatever the ultimate explanation may be. This is the opinion of the inhabitants of our Eastern Counties, among whom suspicion and a sense of intense uneasiness have been generated, from the Wash to the Thames. This is a new and unenviable state of mind which will quite conceivably grow with the progress of aerial navigation, and of which we are now getting our first foretaste. The skies above East Anglia have been invaded by some strange friend or potential foe, they know not which. And as the solution of this aerial enigma admits of either possibility people very reasonably claim a right to be satisfied. It is this which justifies every effort to probe the existing mystery.

I am writing this in the heart of the wide district over which the disturbing phantom has lately been haunting the glimpses of the moon. And, although it has denied me personally a revelation of itself, I have, nevertheless, been encountering ample and reliable evidence as to the appearance and extraordinary efficiency of this new denizen of the upper air. Thus, supplemented by my own knowledge of the country, especially of the Fens, their many fastnesses, and remote penetralia, has induced me to form what I think is a pretty good guess as to one direction in which one must look for the lair of this nocturnal rover, unless we adopt the theory which has been supported in several quarters, of a floating base off our coast.

By a comparison of times and direction of flight when the airship might naturally be making for home, I am induced to regard the Fens as its hiding-place. The Fen country, in which I have wandered for days together, still contains the most silent and sequestered solitudes in England. And their grim, uncompromising sameness, obstructed by numerous dyke-cuts, and penetrable only by the worst and most devious of tracks, would afford any amount of excellent cover.

Meantime, this almost nightly cruising apparition is startling old ladies, apprehensive of the final judgment, belated travelers, and policemen in the early watches of the morning, as well as causing many sober thinkers whom I have met some not unnatural or unfounded anxiety.

It was during one of the strange airship's recent swoops to the southwest that it was watched for something like fifteen minutes by my friend, Mr. J. A. Smith, a well-known authority on all that appertains to East Anglian agriculture. Standing in the grounds of his charming old Tudor house at Ipswich, whose ancient garden walls are loopholed for the bowmen of an age before airships, I heard him describe his first view of the aerial intruder.

"I was in the garden in front of the house," he explained, "when my daughter, who saw it first, called to me that a strange object was in the northwestern sky. It was not actually dark at the time, but late twilight and approaching dusk. There was a slight moon and a few fleeting clouds as the object of our interest rose higher into the heavens above that belt of trees bordering the railway line. It came steadily on towards our left front, well above the light clouds which occasionally blurred its outline. I got hold of my glasses just as the postman and a constable came up, and what we seemed to see were two distinct objects, the upper like a huge grub, while the other, much lower down, was distinguishable by an exceptionally bright gleam of the searchlight description. This was, no doubt, the position of the crew. Its course seemed to be a sweep round from the northeast to the southwest, and from the fact that it traversed so wide an extent of sky and passed out of sight in a quarter of an hour, its pace and engine-power must have been extraordinary, especially as the wind, at our level at any rate, was against it."

This problem of our eastern skies has now been seen by numbers of people between points as far north as Kings Lynn and as far south as the Shoeburyness Forts and Chatham. To one witness, a landowner in the direction of Cambridgeshire, I am indebted for a summary of the views which have been formed with regard to the phenomenon.

Since this correspondent wrote the above, fresh reports have come to hand of the mysterious airship having been seen over the North Sea by the captain of a Norwegian steamer and the skipper and the crew of a Lowestoft trawler, as well as by several other reputable witnesses. This suggests that the airship may have its base somewhere in the North Sea.

A Pro-Consul's Wife.

Lady Eldon Gorst, wife of Sir Eldon Gorst, the British Agent-General in Egypt, is doing in her way as valuable services for the country as is her husband, a distinguished pro-consul of the Empire. In every social function and in all charitable work she is ever the foremost, and in such a city as Cairo there are endless duties devolving upon her. The mode in fashionable dress is set by her ladyship, but she is known and loved by all classes for her ready and active sympathy with distress and suffering.

Improvement.

"Yes. She has become quite expert in her handling of the chafing dish."—Smart Set.

They heard him tearfully exclaim,

The same old raise in the game?"

LONG SERVICE.

Some Remarkable Records For Domestics In Great Britain.

It is sheer nonsense to say that the modern servant is an aimless worker, said Mr. William Sly, the secretary of the Domestic Servants' Benevolent Institution, of London, Eng. There are, of course, black sheep among them, as in every other occupation, but my experience has taught me that so long as they are well treated servants will seek few changes.

We have on our books the names of several hundred servants who have been with their present employers for fifty years or more. A few weeks ago the following advertisement was inserted in The Times by a mistress who evidently knew how to treat a servant properly:

Cook—On the 19th April, at 8, Hamilton House, Hall Road, Hannah (Jane) Cook, in her ninety-third year, for seventy-five years most faithful friend in the service of the late Mrs. John Abraham, of Clifton, and her daughter, Mrs. Carvalho.

Miss Cook entered the service of Mrs. Carvalho's mother, at Clifton, when she was seventeen years old, afterwards became Mrs. Carvalho's nurse, and subsequently, when her little charge grew up and married, came to London with her as parlormaid, and remained with her until she died. For many years she had been regarded almost as a member of the family rather than a servant, for her long and devoted service endeared her to those with whom she had lived for so many years.

Miss Cook's record, although one of the best, has been beaten by several others. Miss Caroline Chipp, who has just celebrated her 101st birthday, has been a domestic servant for over eighty years. She was awarded a pension by the institution a year or two ago, but she is probably the oldest domestic servant living.

But even this long term of service is not the record. Susan O'Hagan, of Lisburn, near Belfast, who died in January of this year, was 107 years old, and for ninety-seven years she was in the service of three generations of the Hall family at Lisburn.

Race Wagers In India.

The native of India wagers his money according to the colors worn by the jockeys and takes no heed of the merits of the horses, or he will back a horse ridden by his favorite jockey, no matter whether the animal is a rank outsider or not.

His ideas of gambling, in fact, are distinctly novel. Some of the more wealthy Indians, says Tit-Bits, form rings and back every horse in the race, thus gaining the satisfaction of getting a winner every time. It is really only of late years that the native of India has become an habitual gambler on the turf, and nowadays the bulk of the betting of the various racing centres in India is done by natives. Indeed, the authorities are becoming somewhat concerned about the growth of the betting which takes place among Indian natives, it being asserted that as many as thirty lacs of rupees (about $1,500,000) is lost and won in the course of a season.

The ignorant masses have not a great deal of actual money to wager, but so badly bitten are many of them with the craze for betting at race-meetings that they frequently wager what little property they possess on a horse, and if they lose they simply replace their loss by stealing a neighbor's goods. The consequence is that when the racing season comes around the police are kept very busy dealing with cases of petty larceny and other crimes involving loss of property.

"Go It, Ye Cripples."

Sir Robert Hart came much into contact with the ill-fated Gen. Gordon, in the days when the hero of Khartoum was attached to the Allied Army in China. On one occasion Sir Robert met Gorden at Quinsan, and the soldier held a review in his honor. "The march-past," says Juliet Bredon, "was unforgettable. Though the soldiers were commonplace enough, plain and business-like, the officers, of whom Gordon had about thirty of all ages, sizes, and tastes, usually designed their own uniforms, which were sometimes fantastic, to say the least. On this great occasion you may be sure none had neglected to appear in the fullest of full dress, with highly comical results. Indeed, their efforts amused Gordon so much that all the time they were advancing he kept repeating as he rubbed his hands gleefully together, 'Go it, ye cripples! Go it, ye cripples!'"

J. M. Barrie's Pipes.

A recently published interview with the famous novelist and dramatist contains the following paragraph, from which it would seem that Mr. Barrie is more attentive than ever to "My Lady Nicotine": "I spent exactly sixty-five minutes with the great dramatist. When I entered he was smoking a calabash pipe of generous proportions. He smoked it out in a purposeful way and laid it on the mantelpiece to cool. Then he felt in his right coat-pocket and produced a handsome briar. This he loaded and lit. When it was done he laid it on the shelf and took out a second briar from another pocket. He smoked it out, and then, assuring himself that the calabash was cool again, went back to it. He smoked three and a half pipes within the hour, and finished up with a cigarette."

King Canute's Church.

Canewdon is a small Essex village which once held an important place in the making of England. It was here that Canute and his Danes won that decisive victory over Edmund Ironsides which gave the English crown to the Danish pirate. The conqueror named its rising ground "Canute's Down" (Canewdon), and gave the five manors comprising the parish to his son Sweyn. Embracing Christianity, Canute founded a church at Canewdon, and to this day Canewdon gives its name to a rural deanery which includes Southend, eight miles to the south.—Westminster Gazette.

A failing tiny nerve—no larger than the finest silken thread—takes from the Heart its impulse, its power, its regularity. The stomach also has its hidden or inside nerve. It was Dr. Shoop who first told us it was wrong to drug a weak or failing Stomach, Heart or Midneys. His tive—is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even for a few days soon become fully convinced of its wonderful merit. Anyway, don't drug the organ. MANY MAN-EATERS

Messina Harbor Was Crowded with Sharks.

London, July 19.—How man-eating sharks added to the horrors of the Messina catastrophe is told in a scientific report which has just been published by the Italian Zoological Society. The report, which has been submitted by Profs. Condorelli and Perrando, of Catania, says that a few weeks after the great earthquake some fishermen off the Sicilian coast were catching a big porpoise when the animal was torn from their grasp by the biggest shark they had ever seen. After a severe struggle the monster was harpooned and dragged into Catania Harbor. It proved to be a so-called. Carcharodon carcharias, and the fishermen were horrified at finding in the creature's stomach a quantity of human remains. Prof. Perrando examined these remains, and found them to be those of a man about 50, a woman, and a child of about 6, judging by the size of the skeleton. The man's hobnailed shoes and woolen stockings, and pieces of the woman's dress showed that they belonged to the working class. The remains were past identification, but the authors of the report believe that it can safely be assumed that the victims were swept into the sea on the fateful day, and devoured alive by the monster. The Carcharodon carcharias, the report goes on, is rarely seen in the Mediterranean, and few museums have specimens of him, but Prof. Perrando recalls how at the Battle of Abokir, where Nelson defeated the French fleet, swarms of these creatures surrounded the ships, waiting for their prey. Prof. Perrando comments on the slowness of the process of assimilation in the case of the Carcharodon carcharias. A month after being swallowed the human organs still resisted dissolution by the action of the shark's digestive juices.

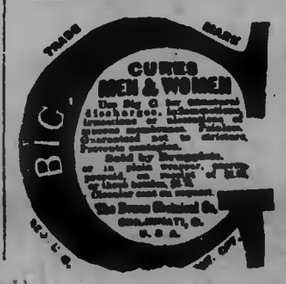
MORMONS PASS THROUGH

Members of Sect are Flocking to America in Great Numbers.

Seventy-five men and women and a few children passed through the city on Sunday en route for Salt Lakecity. They are from England and Sweden, and as they chatted of the new home where they expect to spend the balance of their days, they appeared to be in a happy frame of mind. Of the leaders chatted freely about the Mormon religion or the Church of the Latter Day Saints. He said that the religion is fast spreading throughout the civilized world; its missionaries will number thousands, and their converts millions in the next few years. The Mormons are he asserted, the most happy people on the face of the earth. Another large body of men and women of the same sect will arrive in Canada in about ten days.



DIVORCE COSTLY

Motion to Reduce Expense in House Of Lords.

London, July 20.—Lord Gorem, who resigned the presidency of the divorce division of the High Court in order to devote himself to securing chea er divorce facilities, it is stated at the King's earnest request has opened his campaign by introducing in the House of Lords a motion dealing with the subject. The lowest price at which a Londoner is now able to secure a divorce in an undefended case is about $300. The present system, however, not only makes divorce available only to the rich, but the fact that jurisdiction is confined to only one court in London increases the cost to litigants who dwell outside, owing to the expense of bringing witnesses, etc. The motion introduced by Lord Gorem urges that jurisdiction should be conferred on the County Courts, at which the poorer classes could have their cases heard.

Lord Corem, in introducing his motion, dwelt on the hardships undergone in this connection and gave instances in which poor people had saved up for twenty years before they were able to bring proceedings, which then were undefended. The impossibility of obtaining a remedy led many persons to commit bigamy or to live in open immorality. The opposition to the motion was led by the Archbishop of Canterbury, who feared that to grant wholesale facilities for divorce would encourage pressure, with the object of making divorces obtainable for other causes than those for which it was obtainable today. He said the case of America, where the number of divorces had so largely increased, was a lesson to England.

Viscount Halifax also pointed out the American system as an example to avoid. He declared that divorces were multiplying in America thrice as fast as was the population. Upon the Lord Chancellor undertaking to consider the appointment of a committee to enquire into the matter, Lord Gorem withdrew his motion.

REBUILDING SPAIN'S NAVY

English Firm Beginning Work at Ferrol and Cartagena.

Madrid, July 20.—The English firm of Vickers' Sons & Maxim, which obtained the contract for rebuilding the Spanish navy, is already taking possession of the arsenals at Ferrol and Cartagena, where the ships are to be built. In each case the industrial zone, where the English company is to be supreme, will be separated by a wall from the military zone. At Ferrol the stocks for two battleships are in course of erection, and great festivities are planned to celebrate the laying of the keel of the first Spanish Dreadnought. King Alfonso will be present.

Under the terms of the contract Great Britain retains an option on the ships until delivery, just as she does on all foreign warships built in English yards at home. While the Spanish fleet is building, therefore, it constitutes virtually an auxiliary British fleet in the Mediterranean should exigencies suddenly make it advisable for her to take over the vessels. The Spanish government, however, considered the scheme advantageous for Spain, as, even if the ships should eventually go to England, the building will have given employment to Spanish labor and helped to revive the ship-building industry.

A Big Fish.

On Monday night, a lady while fishing off Wolfe street wharf, was startled by a tremendous tug on her line and she knew she had something on the hook. For a few seconds there was great excitement, but after she cooled down she very cleverly manipulated the pole and line and succeeded in landing a fine 10-pound lunge.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co. Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. There is a fight on already between the sub-contractor on the public library and the property committee and Board of Works Committee. The foundations under the old building at the corner of Macdonnel and George streets, were removed by Mr. Bogue, and the stones were piled on the street. The Property Committee told the Board of Works Committee they could have them, but when the Board of Works teamwent after them Mr. Bogue drove them off. Mr. Bogue claims he is entitled to the stones, while the Property Committee claims that the contractor has no right to touch them as they were not in his way What the outcome will be remains to be seen.

ELOPERS DRIVEN OUT.

Deport American Man and Woman as Undesirable Citizens.

Plymouth, Mass., July 21.—A novel way of dealing with elopers was used in Canada in the case of Joseph Smyth, of this town, and Alice M. Aldrich, of Kingston, who fled to Quebec a short time ago. Smythe is said to have deserted a wife and child here, both he and the girls being under bond on statutory charges. Warrants were issued with extradition papers found them at Coaticook

They were arrested and taken to Montreal. There the officers were informed that the offence was not of an extraditable kind. Chief Davidson of Sherbrooke, suggested that the elopers be deported as undesirable citizens. Inquiry was made at the immigration bureau and the plan was approved. The necessary papers were made out, and Canadian officers took Smythe and Miss Aldrich by train toward the American line.

THE THAW CASE

Prisoner is Elated at Prospect of Testifying.

New York, July 20.—Harry K. Thaw, who will remain in the county jail at White Plaines until the hearding to determine his sanity is resumed on July 26 before Justice Mills, is apparently highly elated over the prospect of going on the witness stand and telling his story under fire of a rigid questioning by the state's attorneys and alienists. Thaw said today: "I will demonstrate easily that I am sane when I go on the stand. I am more than anxious for the ordeal. It is the chance I have prayed and hoped for. Now I feel that Judge Mills will be able to see that my contention that I am sane is valid."

Speaking of his wife's testimony against him, Thaw said he felt no animosity toward his wife, and had no idea of cutting off her allowance of $500 a month.

Nothing in the way of a cough is quite so annoying as a tickling, teasing, wheezing, bronchial Cough. The quickest relief comes perhaps from a prescription known to Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And besides, it is so thoroughly harmless that mothers give it with perfect safety even to the youngest babes. The tender leaves of a simple mountain shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its remarkable curative effect. It is truly a most certain and trustworthy prescription. Sold by all dealers.

LONDON'S NAVAL SHOW.

Enormous Crowds Flock to Visit Vessels in the Thames

London, July, 21.—London's naval pageant, in which 150 warships are taking part, was favored today by fine weather. It was pronounced a great success. It has been asserted that the reason such a large fleet never before was gathered in the Thames was the fear of the possibility of its being bottled in by an enemy. No such idea now seems to enter the head of the average Londoner, hundreds of thousands turning out today to see the warships. The inrush of visitors to the South End was so great that it caused a temporary famine.

Throughout the day the greatest rush was to see the original Dreadnough, but interest also centred in the half dozen submarines moored by the Embankment.

JEALOUS HUSBAND SLAYS TWO.

Kills Wife and Himself Because of Her Attentions to Salesman.

Vincennes, Ind., July 20.—Too arduous attention of his wife to a salesman is the alleged cause of a double tragedy near Oaklawn tonight when Andrew Huff killed his wife with a shotgun and himself with a revolver. The bodies lying across each other in the yard of their home were discovered by the couples' 10-year-old son Alfred.

A WEALTHY WOMAN

Is Indicated for Smuggling Gems into New York

New York, July 20.— An indictment for smuggling was handed down today by the federal grand jury against Mrs. Fremont.

B. Chesbrough, owner of the Chesbrough coastwise line of steamers running out of Boston. The case hands of the United States district attorney for the district of New Jersey following the discovery of a double bottom in one of the trunks which Mrs. Chesbrough brought to this country with her on the Kaiser Wilhelm II. last May Wearing apparel appraised at several thousand dollars was found in this hidden compartment together with bills and invoices indicating the purchase abroad of a pearl necklace valued at $21,000. The necklace was not found among Mrs. Chesbrough's effects, but was yesterday turned over to the customs officials by Mrs. Chesbrough's attorney. Mrs. Chesbrough is said to be prostrated over the incident and is confined in a sanitarium in Pennsylvania.

AN OLD HOME.

London Man Lived Ninety Years in One House.

London, July 20.—Our recent mention of Londoners who have lived for long periods in one house brings up an interesting letter from Mrs. Lipton, of Margate, whose grandfather may be said to have beaten these records.

Richard Kimpton by name, he lived for over ninety years in the house in Wardour street W., where he was born and where he died in 1885. He was well known to generations of medical students, for he carried on a large business as medical bookseller. In the eighteen century his father bought a ninety-nine years lease of the shop, but the son outlived this, and in his latter years had to pay rent.

Life in London must be healthy, of illness, and boated that he had never had headache or toothache. Indeed, he had not an unsound tooth in his head at the age of ninety and it may interest our readers that he attributed this to the use of a very cheap tooth-powder—just common salt.

FEWER RULERS NECESSARY.

Government by Commission strongly Advocated.

New York, July 20.—Richard S. Childs urges a drastic reduction in the number of elective officials in cities, counties and states, as a means of obtaining more direct government by the people.

The commission plan of government for cities, which places all municipal affairs in the hands of a few men, Mr. Childs indorses because "the importance and conspicuousness of the five commissionerships attract so fierce a limelight at election that no unworthy figure who ventures into that blazing circle can hope to conceal his unworthiness from the eyes of even the most careless voter."

Good government, according to the writer, is entirely a matter of getting the right man elected.

"It isnot superior intelligence in the British electorate," he says, "that enables it uniformly to elect the best men in town to the city councils, save in that the individual voter in the ward selects only a single officer at election, and can hardly fail to know just what he is doing."

A Note of Alarm in the Japanese Papers

Tokio, July 20.—The Kokumib, one of the most influential of the Japanese newspapers, and which is generally regarded as the mouthpiece of Marquis Katsura, the premier, in matters pertaining to the government's policy in an article today discusses the situation between Japan and China, and strikes a somewhat alarmist note.

It was expected says the article, with the withdrawal of the proposal to refer to the Hague arbitration tribunal the differences between China and Japan, preceded the adoption of what was hoped would be a conciliatory policy by China. But this expectation has not been realized. China now proposes wholly unacceptable terms and refuses reply to Japan's request for reconsideration.

The articles conclude; "The Japanese Government is showing all possible patience, but is not carry its endurance to the point of sentimentality. Unless China's mood changes before the conclusion of the present month, Japan will be obliged to assume a different attitude.

JUDGE ROGER RETURNS

After Two Months' Trip to England, Scotland and the Continent.

Judge Roger, who was recently appointed county judge of Durham and Northumberland counties, has returned to the city after an interesting two months' trip to Scotland, England and the continent. He was accompanied by his neice, Mrs. A. M. Smith of Chicago, and left Peterborough on May 22nd. He reached Montreal on Saturday on the Victorian, coming from there to Peterborough.

Judge Roger and his niece visited a great many places in England and Scotland. They did not stay very long at any one city, their longest visit to any one place being a two weeks' stay at London. During his absence Judge Roger met Professor Cameron of Edinburgh University, a brother of Mr. John Cameron of the local Customs House.

He talked interestingly to a reporter on the public movements that are agitating the motherland and said that the matter which was receiving the greatest public attention in England and Scotland at the present time was the question of land taxation on which the budget was based. It is causing the keenest conflict in political circles and is going to divide the public on somewhat new lines.

The landed interests feel that they have been attacked in the most vital point by the portion of the budget which provides for land taxation.

Heretofore there has been no very strict investigation of individual land holdings, and there have been no land registries or other means by which the public could investigate these matters closely. The fact that the new budget will involve a systematic investigation into the land holdings and the valuation of these holdings is the feature that the land owners so bitterly resent as being an interference with their private rights and an exposure to their personal rights which they content no government has a right to subject them to.

Judge Roger did not care to discuss his appointment to the bench, which was made after he had left the city, on his voyage to the Old Country. He has not accepted the appointment yet, but will leave for Cobourg shortly on business in connection with his new judicial office.

The 57th Regimental Band has prepared an especially attractive program for their concert tomorrow evening which promises to be the best of the season. A special feature will be a vocal solo by Mr. W. The band is having two special rehearsals this week, the second one tonight, and they will give a program that will delight the large audience. Mr. Jos. Halpany, whom the pressure of business has kept out of the band for some time has returned, bringing with him, his two sons, Carl and Frank, which will add strength to the band.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

Demonstration in Court Room when Ella Gingles was Acquitted

May Drive Out Ella Gingles—Authorities Consider This Step Despite Her Protests.

AN EXPENSIVE TRIAL

Though Only a case of Petty Larceny the Cost Amounted to at Least $10,000.

(Special to The Times.)

Chicago, July 21.—Ella Gingles, the young Irish lace maker, who was acquitted of stealing lace and who told a sensational story of torture and "white slavery," may be deported, steps to that end being now considered. Miss Gingles protests strongly against being sent back to her native country.

As the words "not guilty" left the clerk's lips when the verdict was announced he was interrupted by handclappings and exclamations of delight by the women who sat on the benches.

Judge Bretano pounded with his gavel.

"Stop that. Sit down. I will not permit any demonstration in this court," he thundered. "Mr. Clerk, let us hear the rest of the verdict."

The clerk finished reading it, while Miss Gingles turned artlessly and found herself in the arms of the women, who appeared to be frantic with exultation and obvious of the fact that the jury had gone out of its way to deny her vindication on the score of veracity in the story about which the sensation of the trial centered.

Judge Bretano formally excused the jurors and they filed to the clerk desk to get their pay vouchers. A member of a woman's club whispered to Ella, and the girl met the jurors one by one and demurely shook hands, saying "Thank you."

"We'd have done it anyway, little girl," said one gallant of the jury, while other and graver jurors admonished her.

JURORS ADMONISH GIRL.

"Be a good girl, Ella," they said "Don't get in any more trouble."

"Remember, now, and be good."

The women also shook hands with the jurors and thanked them. Then the bailiffs cleared the court and in the mixed crowd of court attendants Ella Gingles was swept from the courtroom and out into the street. The women were swirling around her and talking at such a rate of speed that it was difficult to get a word in edgeways while striving to keep from being overturned in the friendly melee.

They were calling for Attorney O'Donnell, and demanding to know his whereabouts. A group of women ran west to Clark street with Ella to meet him at the corner. In the meantime, Ella looked over her shoulder and repeatedly stated that she was "glad."

Persons who had been in nearby saloons were attracted by the noise. They wedged themselves among the women who were shaking hands and showering blessings upon O'Donnell, and offered maudlin advice to Ella. Desperate photographers waved tripods over their heads and struggled to escape from the crowd.

The happiest man of all was the watchman of the criminal court building, who said he felt like giving thanks because the case was over.

Business Men's Outing from West Toronto

Peterborough was beseiged by some 400 of the business men of West Toronto, Weston and Lambton, with their friends. A special train brought the crowd from West Toronto, leaving there at 7.45 o'clock, and arriving here at 10.15. The day was not an ideal one by anymeans, but the outing was a decided success in every respect. The visitors all had a good time and they received splendid impression of Peterborough. They were delighted with the oval, the trip over the lift lock and the city as a whole.

When the train pulled into the station street cars met the visitors and took them around the city and then up to the Nicholls Oval, where a long program of sports and games were pulled off. Dinner was served at the National Hotel, White House and Snowden House, and afterwards the sports were continued. At 5.30 a steamer took the crowd on board at the oval and brought them down over the lift lock to Wolfe street wharf. The special train pulled out for home at eight in the evenihg. Peterborough welcomes all excursions, and especially business men from other towns.

Masonic Grand Lodge Opened in London

Failure of 45 Lodges to Contribute to Semi-Centennial Fund is Condemned by the Grand Master

London, July 21.—The Masonic Grand Lodge opened here today with more than one thousand members present from all over Canada.

After an address of welcome by Mayor Stevely, Grand Master Freed of Hamilton, read his address, pointing out that the lessening of progress during the year was due to the decline of business and tightness of money throughout the world.

The grand lodge revenue for last year, he showen, was $38,754.80 and and $37,446.60 this year. Expenditure from ordinary revenue in 1908 were $21,956.30 and $24,362 in 1909. The benevolent grant from interest on the semi-centennial fund was $1,210 in 1908 and $2,010 in 1909, while to talbenevolent grants for the year just closed were $26,372. Receipts from losges for the semi-centennial fund were $7,657.61, and the amount at the credit of that fund on May 31, 1909, was $51,759.90. Since May 31 contributions have been received increasing it to $55,000.

Grand Master Freed said: "When we reflect that the expenditures of Grand Lodge exceeded its receipts by nearly $4,000 and that the excess of expenditure was largely due to increased benevolent grants, it will be seen that many brethren, who proclaim charity to be the chief of Masonic virtues, permit their dues to fall very far behind their professions.

"There are no less than forty-five lodges in the jurisdiction whose members have not contributed a penny, and only sixty lodges are on the honor roll of those who have paid the full amount which their representatives in the Grand Lodge in 1904 pledged them to pay. It is a sad fact that some lodges, which have contributed nothing continue to send in appeals for assistance. These appeals receive the same consideration as others do which are contributors. These lodges are apparently willing to remain in the position of doing nothing for Grand Lodge, but of being a burden to its charity fund.

Grand Master Freed appointed R. W. Bro. Cavell of Toronto, grand representative to the Grand Lodge of Rhode Island and R.W. Bro. Cooper of London, to the Grand Lodge of Belgium. He referred particularly to the money sent by Canadians Masons to help Italians who suffered in the earthquake, and read a warm letter of thanks from C. M. Fusari, grand master of Italian Masonry.

The offer of Most Worthy Bro. Jno Ross Robertson, of a full set of undress Masonic clothing for the use of all Grand Lodge officers was accepted.

Fashionable Women Can Give the Chinese Pointers in Gambling

St. Thomas, July 21.—At the Alma College summer school for four days the Epworth Leagues of the London Conference have been studying the problems involved in Canada's unprecedented immigration. Last night Rev. W. H. Barraclough, recently transferred from New Westminster to Sarnia, spoke on the problems of British Columbia.

His address called forth some bold and passionate words from Rev. Dr. Sutherland, missionary secretary of the Methodist Church. The venerable doctor declared that while the Oriental has his vices the white man can and does sin up to him. Chinatown may be bad, but no worse than some parts of the cities on the Pacific coast.

"The Chinese may be inveterate gamblers," said the doctor, "but so are lots of Canadians. They may be past masters at fan tan, but fashionable ladies who go to church and take communion can give them pointers in euchre and bridge. Much of the clamor that comes from the Pacific coast is stage thunder manufactured by demagogues to further their selfish interests. Orientals make just as good Christians as Occidentals. Canada's greatest menace comes not from Asia, but from Southeastern Europe. Certainly if the Chinese and Japanese are not worth saving in British Columbia they are not worth saving in the Orient. If we cannot get men to preach to the heathen on our own shores let us in all honor and consistency recall our missionaries from beyond the seas.

Burleigh Falls Power

Tonight it will be put up to the City Council to act upon the power question of the city. If there has been no power policy in the past and if there is none now, the city fathers will either have to adopt one or give up the idea at once. The directors of the Central Ontario Power Company, who are offering to the city Burleigh Falls power will meet the council to night and make their final offer.

Does Peterborough want to grow? Cheap electric power in quantities is the greatest factor in developing any town. If Peterborough buys Burleigh Falls the great essential will have been secured. If the city turns down the proposition and the water power passes into private hands then Peterborough can go away back and sit down. It will have to accept power in quantities and at a price specified by a company that is out to make money. The city will have no control whatever over it.

If the city buys the power then the price will be controlled and power will be available for many new factories and at a cost little more than one-third of present prices. Electric energy at from $7 to $12 per horse power will cause an influx of factories into the city that will be most gratifying. There is not a town or city in Ontario which can supply electric power as cheaply as can Peterborough from Burleigh Falls.

The duty of the council now is to give the people an opportunity to say whether they want Burleigh Falls power or not. The council's responsibility of the purchase ends the day the vote is taken. The people then assume full responsibility.

If Burleigh Falls is bought the wheels of industry in this city can be run by it within four months' a feature which cannot be overlooked.

Sprained Wrist and Ankle

After Being Laid Up With Great Pain for Ten Days, Relief Was Gained Instantly By Applying

NERVILINE.

One of the most soul-distressing accidents that can befall one is a bad ankle or wrist sprain. "If I had only known of "Nerviline" earlier, I could have saved myself an enormous amount of pain, and many agonizing nights of sleeplessness." Thus writes P. J. Quinn, a young farmer living near Brockville. "I tumbled from a hay loft to the barn floor and sprained my right ankle and left wrist. They swelled rapidly and caused excruciating pains. It was not convenient to go to the city and the liniment in the house was useless. When I got Nerviline relief came quickly. It took down the swelling, relieved the pain, and gave me wonderful comfort.

TESTIMONIAL No. 4266

"I can recommend Nerviline for strains, bruises, swellings, muscular pains, and sore back. I have proved it a sure cure in such cases."

Think what it might some day mean to you to have right in your home, ready for an accident or emergent sickness a bottle or two of Nerviline. Get it today, 25c., or five for $1.00, all dealers or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont. 7

NEARING THE END IN PERSIA.

The flight of the Shah to an alien asylum, followed by the proclaiming of the Crown Prince as his successor and the appointment of a regent presumably marks the beginning of the end of the Persian revolution. It is said that the Shah's act was considered to be tantamount to abdication, as well it might be. Indeed, we may say, in view of his shifty and untrustworthy conduct for the last year, that if he had not given so good a ground for it the revolutionists would have been justified on any ground in proclaiming his disposition. Moreover, he has himself to blame for his fall. Note that the revolutionists, even when they were marching on Teheran, did not demand his abdication. What they did demand was that the constitution be restored and maintainted, as the Shah himself had repeatedly sworn to do; that a new cabinet in sympathy with the constitution and the people should be appointed; that the Shah's irregular troops—mere brigands—should be disbanded and the regular forces should be placed under command of the minister of war, that all Russian troops should retire from Persia, and that provincial governors should be appointed by the local authorities. Had these demands been granted, the patriots would not have disturbed the Shah upon the throne. Nor could it be argued that the granting of them would be equivalent to abnication, for they really amounted to nothing more than enforcement of the constitution. Time until July 6 was given to the Shah to make answer. As he did not. The march was contindued and Teheran was occupied with the result now seen.

The attitude of the Russian government from the beginning has been admirable. It cooperated with the British Government in trying to persuade the Shah to keep faith with the nation and to restore and to maintain the constitution, and at the same time it tried to persuade the insurgent patriots to exercise moderation and to give the Shah time to mend his ways. But finding the revolutionists resolute, even in their determination to occupy the capital itself, it came to the conclusion and formally declared that "the principle of absolute non-interference in the internal affairs of Persia and in the conflict between the Shah and the Persian people must remain now as formerly, the basis of its policy in Persia. That was an excellent policy, well expressed and well maintained. The only suspicion of departure from it—and that undeserved—was caused by the extraordinary conduct of Colonel Liakhoff, the military governor of Teheran. That officer is a Russian who was practically loaned to the Persian government by Russia, but he has from the beginning acted contrary to the wishes and the policy of Russia, and in the last few days he has strangely violated the principles of neutrality. When the revolutionists entered the capital he raised the Russian flag over the buildings which he occupied, which, under certain circumstances, he had a right to do. But obviously, that there should have marked the buildings as strictly neutrality, and the neutrality thus marked would have been respected by the patriots. Instead, he began firing upon them from beneath the shelter of the Russian flag, and then complained because they in return fired upon the buildings which were sheltered by that flag.

To that extraordinary conduct of his most of the trouble in Teheran seems to have been due. But the Russian government was in no way responsible for it. Its own activities have been confined to the safeguarding of Russians and all other foreigners in that part of Persia and the maintenance of an avenue of communication and traffic between the frontier and the capital. Anything less would have been culpable neglect of duty. Anything more would have been unwarranted meddling. The Russian policy is to let the destiny of Persia be decided by the Persians. The people appear now to be surely winning their struggle for a constitution and a free representative government, and it would be deplorable if they should be balked by outside interference unless in the emergency, which is not at present probable, of their showing themselves unable to maintain a decent degree of order and permitting the country to fall into a state of intolerable chaos and lawlessness.

TARIFF RECONSTRUCTION.

Our American friends and neighbors are still struggling with the tariff problem. After three months of consideration, working early and late, the Senate last week concluded its work on the schedules, making 847 amendments to the bill as passed by the House of Representatives. On all really essential, matters the tendency of most of those amendments is upward. The House measure increased the general average of the existing law quite unreceptibly. And now the Senate goes the House one better.

Both bills were immediately referred to a conference committee of the two Houses, and it is expected that the conferees will finish their work and make a report to their respective bodies before the close of the present month.

A revenue measure has five stages in its making—its first passage by the House, its amendment by the Senate, its adjustment in conference, its final adoption by both Houses, and its approval by the President. The bill is now in its third and actually most important stage, with several hundred apparently irreconcilable differences to be harmonized. The high protectionists are largely in the majority in the conference committee, and if they could have their way in the matter it would not take many days to reach an agreement in favor of the Senate bill; but the fear of an increasing force of insurgents in the House and the denunciatory tone of the Republican party press to say oothing of the savage criticisms of the big independent metropolitan dailies, makes them timid and cautious, and progress, therefore, will be necessarily slow.

President Taft will have the last word, and it is the hope of all who favor revision downward that before the measure is ready to report to the two Houses he will make known to the conferees, in no uncertain language, what he believes the country has a right to expect of his uarty at this critical period in the country's affairs. @

COUNTRY LIFE.

The study of country life and the ascertaining of such of its needs as can be provided for by public action is well worthy the attention of statesmanship. A closer acquaintance with the conditions with which great numbers of the rural population have to cope ought to be acquired by the men who give direction to the making of the country's laws. Farmers elect the majority of the members of the House of Commons, and it cannot be denied that these representatives have a knowledge of the agricultural districts. But there is a disposition to regard what has long been put up with as the normal state of affairs, and there is some tendency on the part of those familiar with such affairs remedied. It is for that reason desirable that non-agriculturists of great influence in Parliament should take a warm interest in country life. They would be more responsive to impressions than members to whom the circumstances of rural existence are matters of intimate knowledge.

Pres dent Roosevelt appointed a commission to examine into conditions of rural life throughout the United States. Before he retired was presented to him. Prof. Bailey from office the commission's report of Cornell University, was chairman of that commission. At a meeting of the New York farmers, held at the Metropolitan Club in New York City Prof. Bailey gave an outline of the commission's work and recommendations. The business of the commission was to require, not into technical farming, but into the general social questions of the open country. Some of tge disabilities in country life which it is important the Godernment should know about were found to be of a kind not easily to be dealt with by State or national authority, but many things werf mentioned that legislation could ameliorate. One thing that Government can do for the American farmer is to safeguard and promote his interests by tariff laws framed upon an intelligent perception of his war ernment can give the farmer more the commission's opinion that Govhelp than at present it is going him in the way of finding a market for his products and in the way of so feeding his grain as to maintain the fertility of his land.

A Hard Job.

There is an old Irishman in Baltimore who for many years was prosperous as a grocer. Not long ago, however, the old fellow lost his all in a "side line," and was compelled to look for a job. Through the influence of a friend he was offered the position of crossing-tender at a small railroad station in Maryland.

The Celt looked dubious as the duties of the office were explained to him and the meaning of the various flags was stated.

"In case of danger, you wave the red flag," explained the man told off to instruct Mike.

"Wait a bit, wait a bit," interrupted Mike, with a doubtful shake of the head. "I'm afraid this job'd be too much for me. I could never trust mesilf to remimber to wave a red flag whin there was a green wan handy."—

AS FATAL AS LEOPROSY.

Mysterious Plague Has a Big Death Rate,

Chicago, July 22.—Pellagra, a mysterious plague, as fatal as leprosy and usually found only in the Southern States and in tropical countries, has been discovered among inmates of the insane wards at the Dunning Asylum. Three middle-aged women are now suffering with the dread malady and six other women have succumbed to the disease within the past year. At the time of their death Dunning physicians were mystified as to the nature of their ailments. A suspicion that Pellagra was the affliction of the woman was confirmed yesterday by Dr. C. H. Lavinder, a srgeon of the United States Public Health and Marine Hospital Service, who for the past two years has been making an exhaustive study of the baffling disease at a laboratory at Columbia, S. C.

"Pellagra is one of the most mysterious diseases known to science," said Dr. Lavinder. "Its cause is not entirely understood, and no certain cure has been found for it.

"Most authorities attribute the disease to the use as food of spoiled or damaged corn or its products. But no one is able to state that corn in a certain condition will cause the disease nor can any one guard against it.

"Pellagra eats out the body and mind, but is a chronic disease and not acute, and usually when insanity is caused the patient is depressed and moody rather than violent.

"The disease is not considered communicable, and no effort is made anywhere, either in Europe or in the United States, to quarantine the cases."

NOISY AFRICANS.

Laughter Seldom Heard in the Uproar of the Natives.

Among the African natives there can be nothing done without noise, according to a Pittsburg man who has traveled extensively in Africa.

"It is simply appalling, the rush, the roar, the chatter and the bustle, like Bedlam broke loose," the traveler said. "The principal object of conversation is said to be money, and the hubbub, bawling and uproar in all sorts of tones from shrill and screaming to gruff and growling, accompanied by all sorts of gesticulations, with tongue, head and feet, are beyond description.

"It is rather odd, but laughter is almost never heard in this uproar, and as for whistling it is a lost art. If there are any quarrels they are not to be heard in public, although when a company of natives gets to carry on an animated conversation it appears to the observer as if the next act would be a melee.

"In addition to these natural sounds there are others of an artificial character that are equally familiar to the traveler. Such is the noise of the drums called tomtoms, which are beaten on every occasion, and a kind of pipe about eighteen inches long, with holes like those of a flute and breathed through in a way that produces a variety of notes of a wild, discordant character. A frightful noise is made by the kaffa'men blowing on a big shell."

Called His Bluff.

A young woman of smart wit and striking beauty presided at one of the stalls at a Paris charity bazaar. Among the small crowd which pressed round the fair vender was a young man of much assurance, who gazed upon the girl with freedom and affected to admire the various fancy articles exposed for sale, but bought nothing.

"What will you please to buy?" asked mademoiselle, with an exquisite smile.

"Oh," replied the young dandy, with a languishing look, "what I most wish to buy is unhappily not for sale."

"Tell me what you wish?" she responded.

"Oh, no; I dare not declare my wishes."

"Nevertheless let me know what you wish to buy," persisted the fair saleswoman.

"Well, then, since you demand it, I should like a ringlet of your glossy black hair."

She manifested no embarrassment at the bold request, but with a pair of scissors immediately clipped off one of her beautiful locks and handed it to the astonished youth, remarking that the price was only 500 francs.

Her audacious admirer was thunderstruck with the demand, but dared not demur, as by this time a group had collected and were listening to the conversation. So he took the hair, paid over the money and left the hall.

Selling Water.

At St. Day, Cornwall, can be seen daily the strange spectacle of water being retailed in the public streets at a halfpenny per pitcher. The water is brought in barrels drawn by horses, though, if the inhabitants cared to pay for the cost of piping, it would save them a considerable outlay.

The First Kindergarten.

The first kindergarten was opened by Froebel in 1837 at Brandenburg, Germany, and fifteen years afterward he died. This short period was sufficient to establish a system of education that has made life different for little children. When the King of Prussia in 1851 forbade the establishment of kindergartens the old man died of a broken heart, not dreaming that his life work had been a noble success.

The Acorn.

Take a large acorn, suspend it by a thread so as to nearly touch the water in any glass vessel, set it upon your mantelshelf, bracket or table and let it stand there for about two months without in any way interfering with it excepting to supply fresh water. The acorn will burst, throw a root down into the water and a stem upward, sending out from the stem beautiful green leaves.

The Very One.

A young student, showing the museum at Oxford to a party, produced a rusty sword, which he assured them was the identical sword with which Balaam was about to kill his ass. One of the party observed that he thought Balaam had no sword, but only wished for one.

"You are right," said the student; "and this is the very sword he wished for." The fact.

T' Laureate Fra' Yorkshire.

From the county of broad acres and cricketers comes Mr. Alfred Austin, the Poet Laureate, who has just turned seventy-four years of age.

Mr. Austin's latest appearance in public was in connection with the celebration of Shakespeare's birthday last month. On this occasion, the Poet Laureate recited the verses he had written for the event. The Poet Laureate has a very large circle of friends, whom he dominates in a genial manner. "Are you in town, and is my room ready?" he is stated to have wired on many occasions to noted society hostesses.

The recipient of such a telegram is supposed to return at once to town, and in most cases does so. For Mr. Austin is a pleasant man to entertain, and while he is there, keeps the house far from dull.

Bernard Shaw's Joke.

Apparently the "one and only G B S" has been studying the art of public speaking. After addressing an Edinburgh meeting for ninety minutes, he remarked that the time was a quarter to ten and he had intended to finish at nine o'clock. "Go on!" was the shout on all sides when he prepared to sit down. "Do you really wish me to go on?" Mr. Shaw asked. Renewed cheering, and more shouts of "Go on!" Great was the disappointment, therefore, when he replied, "That is the exact point at which an experienced speaker sits down." And sat down he did.

READ ALOUD EVERY DAY.

A Strengthening Exercise For Women to Practice.

A famous doctor not long ago advised one of his women patients to read aloud an hour each day for the benefit of her lungs. An easy cure thought the woman. But to her surprise she not only found the exercise fatiguing, but learned that she read abominably.

Not one person in a hundred reads well. The voice is pitched so high that the throat suffers or is so low and mumbly that listeners are maddened in the effort to follow.

To read for hours without feeling it throw the voice well forward, so that vibrations strike the upper lip, and pitch it so that there is no strain either on the throat muscles or on the ear of the listener.

There are some persons who read as if in bonds to get through a given number of words in a stated time. Very fast reading is hard to follow and is particularly deplorable if one is reading to a convalescent. Equally bad is a dragging style that makes one long for a prod. Read quickly, but enunciate each syllable clearly and distinctly.

To read as if one were practicing elocution is extremely bad style, remarks a writer. Never aim at expressiveness. If you have a fine sense of the text unconsciously the voice takes on the correct modulation. Stilted or artificial reading is not to be tolerated.

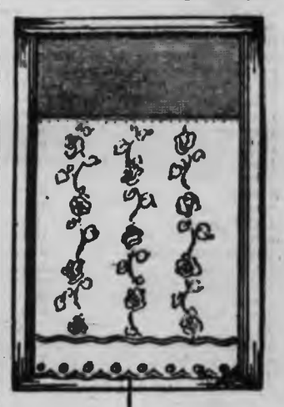
Learn to read naturally, in a pleasant voice, with special attention to enunciation. It is an art no woman can afford to be without. There are many times when one must read aloud, without voice, and a consciousness of being a poor reader does not make it easier.

Another advantage of reading aloud is the attention it calls to pronunciation. Words that one has read silently from youth we often find we have mispronounced only when they are first read in company. For this reason it is important that girls and boys be trained in reading aloud beyond what they get in school. It is well to keep a pencil and pad in hand to jot down any word of whose meaning and pronunciation one is not certain.

VENTILATING SHADE.

A Clever Contrivance For Admitting Air Without Annoyance.

Most of us nowadays know better than to sleep with closed windows and would as soon think of taking poisonous food as breathe vitiated air. The ancient prejudice against night air has gone the way of hobgoblins and other old wives' tales, so sometimes one is disturbed by the rustling and waving of shades which fill like sails or try to behave like flags. In consequence one sometimes feels obliged to open



THE SHADE DRAWN DOWN.

The real remedy is to have a ventilating blind, which is easily managed by detaching the existing shade from its roller and adding a width of coarse canvas or still more open material, so that when the shade is quite lowered it presents a very porous surface to the open top of the window, enough to check direct draft, but not enough to exclude free passage of air or to set up a noisy wind pressure. Of course when the shade is in normal use this part is invisible, but can soon be brought into use when needed.

Where and How to Keep Parasols.

The parasol is always a problem. It is usually too long to be kept in one's bureau drawer, and if hung in the closet the covering becomes soiled by an accumulation of dust or by rubbing against the dark fabric of gowns or coats.

Parasols may be beautifully disposed of to one's intense satisfaction in long slender bags hung in the closet.

Fine umbrellas may be cared for in the same way.

A parasol bag can be made of some long strip of lining, unbleached muslin or linen that would do for nothing else.

A Postal Tip.

"Most people don't know how to put a stamp on a letter," said a postoffice official. "They moisten the stamp, taking off a certain amount of the mucilage by the process and making it hard to stick. The proper way is to moisten the tip of the envelope where the stamp is to go, then press on the stamp. The paper should not be soaked, just moistened on the surface, however. That stamp will never drop off in the mail bag."

AMUSING MISTAKES.

Haughty Librarian Gives Occasion For a Quiet Smile.

It is usually the ignorant or confused frequenters of a library who are responsible for amusing mistakes, but occasionally an overhaughty guardian of literature gives occasion for a quiet smile to those she serves, according to the Youth's Companion. To a request for "Prometheus Unbound" one such replied, with chilling decisiveness, "We have no unbound books."

More recently a schoolteacher, wishing to extend her rather scanty knowledge of the stories of Edgar Allan Poe, in view of the centenary of his birth, inquired at the delivery desk of a rural library for "The Gold Bug," adding: "I can't seem to find it in the catalogue, but I'm sure you have it. A friend of mine had it out last week."

The librarian glanced at the card catalogue drawer over which the teacher had been poring and smiled a superior smile.

"No wonder, Miss Jones," she explained, with patient gentleness; "you are looking under 'Fiction.' Turn to 'Entomology' and you won't have any trouble."

Smiling in her turn, a different and more genial smile, the teacher turned to "Entomology" and there indeed, duly classified with learned works on lepidoptera and coleoptera, she found the unscientific but fascinating insect invented by that master of mystery tales, who did not even know that a beetle is not a bug.

It was almost too good a joke to spoil. But instruction and correction become second nature to a teacher, and, besides, there was her duty to the public. When she departed with "The Gold Bug" under her arm she left an enlightened but crestfallen librarian.

Oddly enough, a mate to this anecdote comes at almost the same time from the other side of the continent. The president of a western woman's club, also brushing up her knowledge of Poe before writing a paper on his life, sought at the local library for that weird tale of horror, "The Pit and the Pendulum."

She was referred to the card catalogue and advised to look under "Mechanics" or "Horology."

THE TELEPHONE FIEND.

We All Know Her, the Inconsiderate Person.

"Hello! That you? Yes. I just thought I'd call you up. It's warm out. Oh, I should say it is. No; it's real warm. Whatchdoin? You are? 'Where am I?' At the bank."

So were several other women at the bank. They had stepped in to make deposits or send drafts and had gone into the women's room to wait for friends or use the telephone. One woman was waiting to telephone home that she couldn't get out in time for lunch. Another wanted to make an appointment with a dressmaker. A third wanted to telephone out to Bridget that it looked like rain and would she please shut the bedroom windows and also give the children a cooky apiece when they came home from school and not to let them play outside the yard, all of which was business, too, from some points of view. They were all brief, care relieving, time saving messages, the very sort of messages for which those phones were supplied. But there sat that creature "ugh huhing and mmhming" while a half dozen women waited for that one minute at the telephone that would make the rest of the day go smoothly.

And, by the way, the young person at the phone had walked in at the front door and made her way straight to that room. When at length she had used the telephones and the mirrors as long as she wished she retraced her steps, found her way back to the front door as fast as her feet could carry her, and in all probability she had never seen the sign on the receiving window.

Still she was in no way deterred from using the special privileges which the bank had provided for its patrons.

Perhaps this is too fine a point of honor to be grasped by the feminine mind.

Princess a Toothpick Queen.

The crown princess of Roumania, who before her marriage was Princess Marie of Edinburgh, expects to manufacture 25,000,000 toothpicks this year. She is the owner and active manager of a toothpick factory near Bucharest. The workers are tenants on the estate of her husband, and she takes a personal interest in all of them. She established the factory four years ago, and it is one of the largest and most profitable in Europe. Toothpicks from the crown princess' factory go into all European countries and are to be found in New York hotels in individual paper wrappers. The crown princess is planning to manufacture quill pens, many of which are used in Germany and Russia. It is said it is becoming the fashion for society women all over Europe to use quills for writing, and it is expected American women will not be slow in taking up the fad. This movement is in line with the general revival of the fashions of our grandmothers, and the crown princess, with her usual business acumen, sees a chance for profit in putting quill pens on the market.

The Grind That Dulls.

If the scissors grinder kept his blade in the whetstone unceasingly the scissors would soon be useless. The grind that dulls women is not daily household duties, but never letting up on these duties. The housewife who is knowing keeps herself sharpened with frequent change and recreation.

Staterooms and Portholes.

An experienced traveler warns the uninitiated against paying from $5 to $30 extra for an outside stateroom on ocean liners. The inside rooms she has found to be perfectly comfortable and perfectly ventilated, and the portholes in the outside ones she considers a doubtful advantage. "They are kept locked," she says, "most of the time unless the weather is very pleasant, and even in calm weather they sometimes ship a deluge of salt water. Dirty water, too, swept from a deck above by the cleaners, may pour into a porthole of a room below, and the noise from the deck is annoying." Why, then should one pay extra for a porthole?"

DAMASCUS.

An Isolated Oasis in the Midst of a Vast Desert.

The situation of Damascus is remarkable—she stands isolated on an oasis of the vast desert which everywhere hems her in. You may see from Damascus the sunset touch with purple the low western hills twenty-five miles away. These hills mark the beginning of the great desert. Beyond them there is nothing but a rolling waste and the long roads to Palmyra and Bagdad. The permanence and prosperity of Damascus are due to the presence of two rivers, which have converted this spot of the dreary, desolate and uninhabited desert into a smiling and well watered plain. The Pharpar approaches only within seven miles of Damascus, but by means of canals and aqueducts sends its life giving waters to the gardens of the city. The Abana is the stream from which the city's main supply of water is obtained. Minerva like, it springs full born from the base of a perpendicular rock at Ain Fijib, in the heart of the Anti Lebanons, and runs a course of ten miles in a gorge, a large river twenty to thirty feet wide and four feet deep. Its waters always fresh and ice cold, casting out branches everywhere, permeating every nook and corner of the city, until, as one has said, "literally there is scarce a street, bazaar, khan, courtyard or dwelling house which has not its marble or stone fountain constantly filled with running water supplied directly by the Abana itself." Thus the Abana, not fruitlessly wasting her waters on that thirsty land, saves them in her narrow gorge till she can fling them well out on the desert and expends all her life at once in the creation of a single city.—Biblical World.

CHANGED HIS MIND.

A New York pastor received a call in his study one morning not long ago from a man with whom he had a pleasant but not intimate acquaintance. And the visitor told him without much ado that he had called on a peculiar errand.

"Some time ago," he said, "as you know, I lost my wife. I have no children, I have no kinsfolk, and I am very lonely in the world. Last week, by an unlucky speculation, I lost my whole fortune. I am therefore without companionship, without occupation, without money. I am too old to start again, and I have no joy in life as it is. I have deliberately decided, therefore, to commit suicide. And I called to tell you of my purpose and to ask the favor of you that when my body is found you will make such an explanation as your good judgment and kindly feeling toward me may suggest. I have come simply to ask this favor and not to argue the question, which I have settled for myself. If you do me this last service I shall be very grateful."

The preacher said little and was far too wise to undertake to dissuade him, but he permitted the man to say all that he had to say without interruption.

Then as he was going away the preacher called to him and said:

"I have not seen you on the golf links for some time. You use to enjoy the game."

"Yes," said the other.

"Well, go out and play one more game today before you carry out your purpose."

The man smiled for the first time and went to the golf course and he is living yet.

Old Time Gas Charges.

The price of gas in the early part of the last century is shown by a schedule of charges issued by the Liverpool Gaslight company, in the year 1817. Instead of so much per cubic foot being levied each individual burner was charged for, and the price varied according to the hour at which the light was to be extinguished. Thus for using one No. 1 Argand burner up till 8 p. m. £3 per annum had to be paid. For the right to keep it alight until 9 £3 18s was the figure, while those loitering blades who sat up till 10, 11 or 12 had to disburse £4 10s, £5 12s and £6 8s respectively. Imagine the gas bill at a house where ten or twelve burners are flaring away until the small hours if such a method of taxation were to force nowadays! Liverpool Post.

Insincerity.

"Our civilization demands a greater or less degree of mendacity," remarked the abstruse person. "We are constantly encountering some empty phrase, some conventional remark which is absolutely devoid of sincerity."

"That's right," answered the book agent. "That's perfectly true. I am reminded of it every time I walk up to the front step where there is a door mat with the word 'welcome' on it."

The Right Word.

"Why do you speak of him as a finished artist?"

"Because he told me he was utterly discouraged and was going to quit the profession if that doesn't show that he's finished I don't know what does."

The Plain Part of It.

"Did the young man they caught in fraudulent transactions peculate very much?"

"I donno about that, but he stole a lot."

Exercise and Eating.

There can be no exercise without eating. Neither can there be any eating without exercise.—Good Health.

A failing tiny nerve—no larger than the finest silken thread—takes from the Heart its impulse, its power, its regularity. The stomach also has its hidden or inside nerve. It was Dr. Shoop who first told us it was wrong to drug a weak or failing Stomach, Heart or Kidneys. His tive—is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even for a few days soon become fully convinced of its wonderful merit. Anyway, don't drug the organ. Treating the cause of sickness is the only sensible and successful way. Sold by all dealers.

YOUNG EXPRESS CLERK HANDLED MILLIONS.

Salary Was Only $65 a Month and Way to Quick Wealth Looked Easy.

Chicago, July 22.—Clayton T. Zimmerman, twenty years old, a clerk on a salary of $55 a month in the "outmoney" office of the Adams Express Company, was arrested today for the theft of a package of $10,000 in currency, which disappeared mysteriously last Tuesday, baffling a score of detectives. Zimmerman admitted taking the money.

Working eleven hours a day, 365 days in the year, on a small salary, and handling nearly $1,000,000 a day in the office of the express company, the young man's head was turned, and when he saw an opportunity to "hold out" a small fortune," he admitsi he secreted the $10,000 package and went on about his work.

When he was left alone in the express company's office at No. 108 West Monroe street last Monday night Zimmerman tore open the bundle, which he had cancealed earlier in the evening, and filled his pockets with the hundreds of new $5 and $10 bills which it contained. In one pocket he also placed the string and wrappings.

Leaving the office a few minutes later—it was just midnight, he says—he boarded a Madison street car and started for his home, No. 1384 West Monroe street. When a few blocks from his home he took the wrappings and rolling them into a wad threw them into a vacant lot. Upon his arrival home he extracted the new bills from his pockets and placing them in a bundle rolled it in a newspaper and hid the package in the bathroom in a hole concealed by a baseboard directly behind the bathtub. There the money was found by the detectives today after Zimmerman had led them to the hiding place. With the exception of one $10 bill the money was all there. The number of this bill, which the clerk refuses to account for, is 12,111,709.

The detectives had the number of every bill in the package, and declare they would have traced the theft by this if they had not apprehended Zimmerman.

Detectives of the Pinkerton agency were placed on the case, but after six days of work were unable to trace the money after it was delivered to the company's office in West Monroe street. Thereupon it was agreed that the money had not left the city. There are four clerks in the "outmoney" department of the express company, and all of them were shadowed by detectives. Three of these men are employes of long standing—veterans in the "outmoney" office.

The fourth was Zimmerman, a young man, who had been in the employ of the express campany only two years, and in the "out money" office only six weeks. By the process of elimination and deduction it was figured that Zimmerman was guilty. Then, by a dramatic visit to the man's home, taking him with them before much pressure had been brought to bear upon him to confess the detectives confronted him solidly and broke down his denials with the logic of their assertions.

"I'll tell all," finally said Zimmerman. The lighted cigar he was smoking had gone out, and, after lighting it, Zimmerman in an easy manner told the story of his theft in every detail. At the Harrison street police station to which he was taken later, he repeated his confession.

In part he said, "I made a mistak in the first place by making up my mind to steal it, but I made a second mistake a moment later in abstracting the waybill which followed the $10,000. I absentmindedly abstracted it for the bank at Monmouth, Ill. I was not excited in the least. It was simply carelessness.

"At 3 o'clock today, after I had been sweated a number of times, but without telling anything I knew, the detectives took me to my home. They talked to me some time, and when I saw that the jig was up I simply told them all I have toln you. I told them where the money was, and they got it.

"This was the third big mistake I made. I realize now I was a damned fool to tell where the money was. I shou,d have stood pat."

FATE OF THE WORLD.

Four Ways In Which Our Planet May Come to an End.

The earth and all its inhabitants are doomed inevitably to destruction, according to Professor Percival Lowell, who declared that one of four possible fates awaits this planet and everything on it. A tramp star might strike the earth, he said, and grind it and its people to powder or ride full tilt into the sun, when the earth's living creatures would be scorched to death. Tidal friction, by its gradually retarding force, might paralyse the earth's motion so that one side of the globe would be eternally baked by the sun and the other side forever frapped. This has already happened to Mercury and Venus.

By the loss of all water and air through depletion or absorption the earth might become a dry, desiccated mummy of a planet, wandering lifelessly through space. Mercury, again, is an example of this, and so is the moon. The most sure death of all, however, as depicted by Professor Lowell, is the decay and freezing of the sun, which is certain to occur some time. When the last flicker is extinct that gigantic ball, bereft of all radiance and warmth, and its retinue of inert, dark tramps, among them the earth, will drift about awaiting collision with some other planetary derelict, which would mean at once destruction and a new birth.—Boston Journal.

VIGOROUS OLD AGE.

Men Who Did Good Work In the Evening of Life.

Enrico Dandolo was not elected doge of Venice until he was eighty-two years old, and he still retained the fire and vigor of his youth. He assaulted and took the city of Constantinople when he was ninety-two years old, himself displaying the gonfalon of St. Mark and animating his followers to the charge. Villars, the French general, in his eighty-fourth year, when crippled with wounds and disease, led a cavalry charge with the same light hearted contempt for danger displayed by him in his youth. The men who won distinction in high command during the mutiny against the English in India in 1857-8 were all of them well advanced in years. Sir Colin Campbell, the commander in chief, was sixty-five; Havelock was sixty-two, Sir Hugh Rose fifty-seven and Sir James Outram fifty-four. They stood the fatigue of field service in a tropical climate, with the thermometer at from 110 degrees to 119 degrees in the shade, as well as younger men.—English Magazine.

By spring I was in bad shape—couldn't sleep like I used to—felt tired in the morning—ate very little—was terribly depressed, late and anxious looking. Twinges of rheumatism, frequent neuralgia attacks, over the temples, made matters worse. The doctor prescribed three times, but didn't help. CHILDREN AND DRINK.

The Working of the New Liquor Act in England.

A recent public holiday in England on which the masses in London are wont to disport themselves on Hampstead Heath, in Epping Forest and other open spaces within easy reach of the city, offered an opportunity to study the effect of the new Children's Act, especially that part which excludes children from drinking saloons and bars.

The day turned out wet and both the police and saloonkeepers had to be on the alert especially at night, when the crowds returned from their day's outing, weary and drenched and with stimulated appetites for drink. The spectacle of scores of little children left in groups on the pavement in charge of one parent while the other entered a gorgeously illuminated bar, furnished food for reflection.

Perhaps the most pathetic circumstance was the various devices by which loafers, both men and women, sought to earn pence by taking charge of the tired children while their parents sat in warmth and comparative comfort, regardless of the whimperings of the little ones outside. An eye-witness noticed during the afternoon a little girl waiting outside a saloon in the rain. Two hours later he passed the house again and saw the same child shivering in her thin dress.

"Why don't you go home?" he asked her.

"I don't know my way home without father," she said.

That the new profession which has sprung up of minding children outside saloons by loafers of the worst type is dangerous needs no argument. Some saloonkeepers now provide their own nurses in uniform who attend to the children of customers.

In the East End bands of boys have discovered a new source of income by "minding kids at a penny a head." On Easter Monday a cab driver on his route, eager not to miss an opportunity furnished by the downpour of rain accepted the offer of a party of holiday makers and turned his vehicle into a miniature creche while the parents passed a convivial hour in the nearest tavern.

In another case an hostler cleared out a water trough, line it with hay and use it as a cot for infants whose parents were away drinking.

The Prison of Sark.

Sark, the loveliest of the Channel Islands, possesses a quaint old prison of two cells more as a matter of form than of necessity, for serious crime is almost unknown in the island, which has no paid police, but simply elected constable. It is some years since the prison was called into requisition, and on the last occasion the bolt was found to be so rusty that it had to be broken before the door could be opened. The prisoner was then put in, left all night with the door open and made no attempt to escape.

On another occasion a young English servant who had stolen some clothes was sentenced to three days' imprisonment. The prospect so terrified her that the authorities took pity on her loneliness and considerately left the cell open. The little maid sat in the doorway and was consoled by kind-hearted Sark women, who came to keep her company. A still more curious incident is told of a man who was convicted for neglecting his wife and children. He was ordered to betake himself to the prison and there wait for the arrival of the constable. This he did, sitting outside until the door was opened.—Strand Magazine.

Kitchener as an Orchid Grower.

The Commander-in-Chief of the Indian forces has been described as one whose work is his hobby—a man with no recreation. This, however, is a mistake. For many years past Lord Kitchener has devoted his spare time to gardening, and takes special interest in orchid culture. There is no more enthusiastic amateur than his lordship, and it is said to be his intention, when he settles down in England after August, when he resigns his command, to purchase a small estate somewhere within easy reach of London, where there is space to collect orchids on a rather large scale. He will then devote his special attention to the cultivation of many rare Indian specimens but little known in the old country at the present time.

The Sneezewood Tree.

The remarkable sneezewood tree is a native of Natal and other parts of South Africa. Its funny name was given to it because one cannot saw it without sneezing violently. The dust of its wood has just the same effect as the strongest snuff and is so irritating to the nose that workmen are obliged to sneeze even when they are planting it. If a piece of the wood of this tree is put in the mouth it is found to have a very bitter taste, and no doubt it is this bitterness which prevents insects of any kind from attacking the timber of the sneezewood tree. The fact that insects find it so disagreeable makes its wood very valuable for work that is required to last a long time.

Clergymen in Church Pageant.

The allotment of parts in the church pageant in England has now practically been completed. An interesting scene is promised in "the coronation procession of King Edward VI.," in which the mayor of Fulham will represent the lord mayor of London of the period, Rev. P. S. G. Prepert will participate as the Earl of Rutland, Rev. E. H. Gallop will appear as the Bishop of Durham, and Rev. W. L. Marshall will represent Bishop Latimer.

Providing Against Emergencies.

"Is you de insurance gemman?" asked Erastus Pinkley.

"I am," answered the urbane agent.

He has lived in this part of the township nearly all his life, saw Otonabee when it was a wilderness and can tell you many a story of pioneer life. Mr. Hope has always cast his lot politically with the Conservative party, being able to vote at every election in recent years. His large circle of friends together with the Times join in wishing him many happy returns.

CHEMONG NOTES.

Doings at the Popular Summer Resort.

On Tuesday night a party of nine cadets from Toronto stopped at the Park Hotel for supper on their way through to Sturgeon Point, where they will camp for a couple of weeks.

Mrs. G. W. Hatton and the Misses Hatton of Peterborough, are registered at the hotel.

The weather was so cool yesterday that there was very little doing at the park. About the only thing that could be heard was the bleating barks of the myriads of dogs which are summering there this year.

A large number of cottagers and villagers took in the Foresters excursion to Bobcaygeon on Monday night. The steamer Otonabee landed at Kelly's wharf, and took on the human cargo. The sail proved a most delightful one and everyone thoroughly enjoyed it. They returned to the village at about one O'clock.

Miss Allen and Miss Wilson, nurses at the Nicholls hospital, called on friends here this week.

The three horse bus has been taxed to its utmost capacity the last few days as the auto bus is laid up for repairs. Every day a big crowd of city people come out, many go up the lakes on the steamer Manita, whileothers visit friends at the park.

OTONABEE VISITS LINDSAY.

Palatial Steamer Much Admired and Will Have Busy Week.

Lindsay, Post of Tuesday:

The palatial steamer "Otonabee" of Peterboro, pulled into the Lindsay docks this morning and for the rest of the week will be busy carrying excursions over these waters. The steamer is a magnificent one and is the largest ever seen in this dock. Her capacity is 440 people and is capable of going at a fast rate of speed. Lighted by electricity and with a twin screw propeller the boat is one of the most up-to-date on the waters. The crew consists of seven men, with Captain White in charge.

The Otonabee came up from Bobcaygeon this morning, leaving that village at 4 a. m., and arriving here about 6 o'clock. The rest of the week she will be kept busy with the following trips.—

On Tuesday night a moonlight goes to Fenelon Falls under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A.

On Wednesday an excursion is going from Fenelon Falls to Pigeon Lake under the auspices of the Fenelon Falls chdrches.

On Thursday St. Andrew's church, Lindsay, goes to Indian village on Pigeon Lake.

On Thursday night there is another moonlight to Bobcaygeon.

On Friday the Woodman of the World make the trip to Peterboro.

As will be seen, the crew will not get much time for sleep, but no doubt they are prepared for it.

EVELYN THAW IN MONTREAL.

Famous Woman is Now Sojourning in Canada.

(Special to The Times.)

Montreal, July 22.—Evelyn Nesbitt Thaw, wife of Henry K. Thaw, the woman who has been an actress in one of the most tragical crimes of the last years, was in Montreal this morning, en route for Metapedia, where she is going camping with some American friends.

She arrived in this city this morning and, as she stepped from the Grand Trunk coach at the Bonaventure station, she was immediately recognized by passenger and station officials.

Quite vexed at this "success de curiesite," Mrs. Thaw hurried to the main entrance and got into a cab which rapidly carried her away.

And Fruit on One Branch Brought to The Times.

Mr. J. S. Brooks of Smith township, has brought into this office a branch off one of his greeing apple trees which has a number of well developed apples and also a cluster of blossoms on it. It is most unusal to see in Ontario a tree in blossom at the same time the fruit is growing. Anyone desiring to see this curio may do so at The Times office.

Mr. Harold LaPlante has gone to visit friends in Rochester and New York.

BLOOD KILLS GERMS

Good Blood Made By Good Food

If one can surely turn food into good red blood it will combat and conquer disease more times than disease will win.

Any physician knows that good blood and plenty of it is the best germicide known and surely and safely cures disease when medicines fail.

One of the many illustrations is that of tuberculosis, which refuses to yield to medicine but must give way to good blood. A man from Philadelphia writes:

"I have been fighting tuberculosis for some years, and with a weak stomach was losing ground slowly every year. I had tried many kinds of medicine without relief, and finally got so that my stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels and lungs were affected.

My stomach would retain no food but peptonized milk and I was down to 90 lbs. in weight. The doctors said about two years ago that I had but a month or two to live.

About that time I was put on Grape-Nuts and cream. It agreed from the start and in a few days I began to feel increased strength, so I kept on, with the result that the healthy blood has driven the disease from every organ of my body except the lungs and is slowly driving it from them.

I have gained greatly in vitality and strength and added 20 lbs., to my weight. If I can keep on as I have been, it seems clear that I will get entirely well, thanks to old Dame Nature whose work was made possible by Grape-Nuts food which I could digest.'- "There's a Reason."
